The Late Cabul Massacre—The Lively Hill Tribes.

CAIRO, Dec. 84.—The most damaging evidence has been examined against Yahiya Khan, father-in-law of the ex-Ameer, in the discovery of a mounted copy of a large map of [illegible] bearing Major Cavagnari's seals, hidden in a box of clothing in Yahiya's house. It is believed that Ayoob Khan, who is reported to be [illegible] has but little real power, and is swayed by the desires of his unpaid mutinous soldiers, who are excited by reports brought by fugitives from Cabul. As these soldiers have not yet fought the British they believe they are able to retrieve the defeat of the Cabuleos.

A despatch from Viceroy Lytton has been received at the Foreign Office stating that General Macpherson had occupied Sarkh Kotal with his Brigade just in time to prevent a reception of the Kohistanis with the Ghuznees. The Kohistanis, who had occupied a strong position in force near Kotal, were attacked by General Macpherson, and after a sharp action, [illegible] finally flying from the ground and leaving six standards in the hands of the British. The commanders are somewhat discovered by the activity of the hill tribes, as the time for finally going into winter quarters is fully come and the passes are rapidly closing with snow. Military movements are confined as much as possible to reconnaissance.

THE IRISH CRISIS.

Trial of the Seditionists.

CASTLE OF ENNIS, Dec. 11.—The Connaught Assizes opened to-day. Several processions of Irishmen preceded all the approaches to the Court House, which was thronged. A large force of constabulary was stationed about the town. The police were posted in strong force inside the Court room and around the building. Mother Davitt or Daly attended. Their presence will not be required until Friday. The Justice, addressing the Grand Jury, referred to the cases of the Nationalist prisoners, defined the crime of sedition, and told the jury they were entitled to consider all the surrounding circumstances under which the speeches were delivered in order to judge of the intent. The Judge said Brennan's case was more serious, on account of the attempt of the latter to [illegible] the police from their duty. The Judge informed the jury that they were only bound to find a prima facie case, and the trial will take place in another Court.

The Grand Jury found True Bills.

Sporting Notes.

Yet Another Chance for a Cowardly Cur.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Edward Hanlan, this evening, after an interview with Mr. Blaikie, issued the following:—

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.

I, Edward Hanlan, am willing to row C. E. Courtney at any time within five weeks from this date on the Potomac river, near Washington, D. C., under the articles of agreement dated Nov 13, 1879, amended so as to include the said five weeks, on the following conditions:—

1st. Said Courtney to deposit his $500 referred to in the said articles on or before Monday, Dec. 22nd, 1879, with Mr. Wm. Blaikie, referee, my $500 to remain on deposit with the said referee until said December 22nd, 1879.

2nd. If only one of us two, said Courtney and myself, appears at the starting line on the appointed day and hour, and starts at the word 'go' when such word is given by the referee, then he so starting shall have the $2,000 and also the $500 deposited by his opponent.

3rd. But if both he and I start at the word 'go' at the said time and place, then the said $2,000 are to be paid over to whichever of us two the referee decides is winner of the race; said payment to be made within twenty-four hours after the race is rowed.

This is the last chance I will give Courtney to row me for the said purse of $2,000.

EDWARD HANLAN.

Copies of the above have been sent to Seale and Courtney.

HANLAN AND COSTELLO.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Hanlan said yesterday that Mr. Seale offered in Toronto to give him the $2,000 purse if he would make no offers to not to give any of the money to Courtney, as the latter had said Hanlan had promised him a share of the stakes, win or lose. Mr. Seale means this offer in case Mr. Blaikie is unable to get up a race.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Hanlan has returned to Toronto. He has been at the 5th Avenue hotel, where he was visited by a large number of his admirers. He intimates in broad language that if Courtney fails to accede to his proposal to row within five weeks and the money is not forthcoming then he shall consider the gentleman who offered it as a prize. He says:—"I have done all that I can to bring about a race and, now, why should I have the money if Courtney refuses to come to time." "I am very anxious," he continued, "to meet Courtney and race with him. If I imagine I should be beaten, I should not, perhaps, be so anxious to row."

QUEEN ELIZABETH'S BANQUET.

At this moment the shrill sound of a trumpet burst through the hall, and every other sound was hushed. One of the doors at the end of the room was then thrown open, and as a stately pace in walked two of the gentlemen-ushers of the court, one of them bearing a white wand, and the other carrying a table-cloth of the finest Dutch damask. As these two approached a massive carved oak table in the middle of the hall, they paused opposite three large side-boards placed in different positions, and which were each loaded with gold and silver plate, and large silver-gilt flagons enriched with precious stones, and [illegible] with an endless [illegible] of foreign wines. At each pause both the ushers went down upon their knees with great veneration, after which the one bearing the damask spread it upon the table, while the other with the wand stood by. They then both fell upon their knees again, and with their faces still turned toward the table, slowly retired backward through the entrance from which they came. In a few minutes the first usher with the wand reappeared, accompanied by another, who bore an enormous quaint silver-gilt salt-cellar, and a large embossed silver-dish, containing small manchets of the finest bread. With the same devout ceremonies of kneeling these approached the table, placed on it the articles in question, and in a similar mode retired. A pause now succeeded, and then two ladies entered, one of whom instantly riveted all eyes on her young and beautiful countenance. She was dressed entirely in white silk, but bore nothing in her hands, which hung crossed before her, while her eyes sought the ground, like one who enters some spot too sacred to be boldly scanned. An exquisite color, however, mounted into her cheek as she seemed to become conscious of the admiration she excited, for whispered praises [illegible] through the crowd at every step. This lady was an unmarried ward of the Queen, and a Countess in her own right. She was accompanied by the Marchioness of Winchester, a fine woman of more matronly aspect, some time widowed, and who bore in her hand the tasting knife, the handle of silk and one of curious silver filagree-work, and gilded. These ladies having prostrated themselves on their knees three times, with as much grace as the ungraceful act permits, while they approached the table, the younger one proceeded with an air of majesty almost amounting to awe, to rub with bread and salt each silver plate as it was placed upon the board by two more ushers who had followed them with similar genuflections. At last, when the table had been laid for 11 guests besides the Queen, these two ushers retired with the same ceremonies, and then slowly entered 26 more ushers, all of whom kneeled three separate times as they advanced; after which they brought near to their several places on the table, each one, and bended chair of state, and then the ushers exquisitely carved and velvated without chairs of the guests; yet none of these so near the table as to interfere with a free passage between the chairs and the cloth. Two of these ushers then withdrew themselves behind the chair of each guest, and six of them behind the chair of Majesty. Secondly was order them for restored, when four peers of the junior rank of the nobility, all of them being barons, entered two-and-two, adorned in the most superb court-dresses; and they also having kneeled three times as they advanced, took up their stations in a semi-circle immediately behind the Royal chair, and in front of six gentlemen-ushers. The chief usher now entered the hall again with his wand, followed at intervals by an apparently endless train of yeomen-of-the-guard, each one being bare-headed, attired in his full uniform of scarlet, and having a golden rose upon his back, while in his hands he bore an elaborately embossed dish of silver-gilt. Each of these dishes was received by the chief usher and placed swiftly upon the table; the usher then raised the cover; and Elizabethan Yeoman, with the [illegible] knife, cut off a small slice, which the usher gave to the yeoman-of-the-guard who brought the particular dish in question, and the yeoman, in his distinguished and public presence, cast the slice to [illegible] in proof of his confidence that the food he had so tasted was not poisoned.

CHARITY.—Is any man fallen into distress? Charity doth hold down its head, is absashed and out of countenance, partaking of his shame; is any man disappointed of his hopes or endeavors? charity exhorteth not also, as if it were itself defeated: is any man afflicted with pain or sickness? charity bestoweth nasty. It sigheth and groaneth, is disturbed and languisheth with him. Is any man pinched with hard want? charity, if it cannot succor, it will condole. Doth ill news arrive? charity doth bear it with an unwilling ear, and a sad heart, although not particularly concerned in it. The sight of a wreck at sea, or a field spread with carcasses, of a country desolated, of houses burnt and cities ruined, and of the like calamities incident to mankind, would touch the bowels of any man: but the very report of them would affect the heart of charity.—Dr. Barrow.

As Surely as Effect follows Cause.

As surely as effect follows cause, so surely will disease eventually fasten itself upon a system deficient in vital energy, if tonic medication is not resorted to in time. The necessary tendency of a weak discharge of the functions of the body is to disorder its organs. Invigoration, prompt and thorough, is the only safeguard. No remnant of depleted physical energy, no restorative of lost flesh, nerve power and cheerfulness, has more clearly demonstrated its efficacy than Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine in this preparation, associated with the watery medicines which forms its basis, is pure sherry wine and certain romantic constituents, which impart an agreeable taste to the article, and give additional emphasis to its effects. In cases of general debility and dyspepsia it is invaluable and the desired effect is, in the vast majority of cases, remarkably prompt as decisive. That good natural appetite, which gives a relish for the coarsest fare is insured by the use of Quinine Wine, which also soothes brain soothing and body refreshing sleep. Fever and ague and bilious remittent fever, are diseases to the eradication of which it is specially adapted; but it should be used only in the intervals between the paroxysms. The far-reaching effects of a good tonic, in all complaints involving loss of physical energy, are well understood by physicians, and the consequent influence for good of this preparation upon the system goes far to bear out the professional belief in the value of invigorants as opponents of disease. Be sure to ask for the "Quinine Wine" prepared by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto. Sold by all druggists.

Joy Among the Children.

COPELAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, equally suitable for children and adults. Endorsed by over 600 doctors in Canada.

The difficulty of administering nauseous medicines, and the desirability of having them pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copeland to undertake researches which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil, and while equally safe and harmless, yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea nor griping. Some children say it is honey; others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—'My children drink it like water;' another—'We had to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off;' another—'My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil and we never could get her to take it without a fight; yet another—'I wish you success of your Sweet Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—sure to take the place of all the common oil.'

The extraordinary demand for this improvement on a staple household medicine has brought fraudulent imitations into the market, but the public can guard themselves against substitutes (which unprincipled parties are attempting to sell on the reputation of this article) by seeing that the name of 'COPELAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL,' is on both wrapper and direction label.

The undersigned having purchased Messrs. T. Copland & Co.'s interest in the above properties, are now manufacturing it from the original recipe. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto

THE WEEKLY GLOBE

GREAT IMPROVEMENTS IN 1880.

THE BEST! THE LARGEST! THE CHEAPEST IN NORTH AMERICA.

NEW PREMIUM—NEW TYPE—INCREASED SPEED IN PUBLICATION.

On the 2nd of January, 1880, THE WEEKLY GLOBE will take another of those upward strides in the march of improvement that have established it for nearly forty years in its high position as

THE LEADING FAMILY NEWSPAPER OF BRITISH AMERICA.

The increasing necessity for great variety of reading matter in each week's issue, so as to include the news from all sections of the Dominion and not the varied tastes of its numerous readers, has rendered expedient the enlargement of THE WEEKLY GLOBE each week beyond even its present handsome dimensions. Commencing with the first week of the New Year, therefore, the form of the paper will be changed from that of an 8-column paper to that of a 56-column paper; and the length of each page will also be so extended as to give, in all, an increase of reading matter at each week's issue of nearly 33 columns beyond its present size.

This vast addition to the capacity of the paper will enable a bill of fare to be presented weekly probably more varied and interesting than was ever before accomplished in any weekly journal. The literary matter will be much increased; more space will be devoted to Household and Social affairs; and the Agricultural Department will be rendered more efficient than ever before.

Notwithstanding the great enlargements and improvements to be made, the annual subscription for THE WEEKLY GLOBE will remain as heretofore, only post paid to all parts of Canada and the United States, payable invariably in advance. The MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

TWO DOLLARS PER ANNUM,

TOWN COUNCIL.

The Conscript Fathers met in the Town Hall on Saturday evening, pursuant to the call of the Mayor. Present—Councillors Cahill, Taylor, Smith, Beller, Robertson, McBain, Yelland, Paterson, Douglas, Rutherford, Deane and Cluff.

Communications were received from Edg. Pearse, County Clerk, enclosing the reward of the arbitrators between the Town and County. The award this year is $788 less than formerly, being $4,592. From Geo. Chamberlain, asking for the refund of the half of taxes on two lots. From Mrs Westcott, asking for remission of taxes.

A Mr. Hall, from D. G. Heathorn, livery, $25.00; G. W. Ransey, auction, $16.00.

His Worship, the Mayor, explained to the Council that he had called the evening owing to the fact that the time for the return of the Roll by the Collector expired on Monday evening, and it was necessary, if the time was to be extended, that the Council should give the necessary authority. Unless something was done very great hardships would be inflicted upon many who were unavoidably unable to pay their taxes. There were also a number of cases of assessment pending disputed since the revision of the Council.

Mr. Chamberlain was heard in reference to his taxes. He stated that he was ready for taxes in any different sphere, and while he was willing to pay some on one, thought the Council ought to remove the taxes on others. Our property in which he was taxed he had not occupied since last fall, but owing to a dispute between the owners and the tenants was unoccupied, he was called on for the taxes. In the other case, the property was assessed to Mrs. Ewen, and Collector Cummings could not make it out of her, he was held responsible.

The Mayor explained that there was no other course open to the Collector but to seize upon the goods of Mr. Chamberlain.

Collector Cummings said that he stated that the case was just as stated by Mr. Chamberlain. He had taken legal advice in the matter, and had no other course. There were many such cases, and he wished definite instructions from the Council in regard to them.

Councillor McBain thought the Council should not be troubled with these applications. If there were hardships the Council did not make them.

Mr. Cummings—"Oh, I'd soon make the taxes if I was minded; but there'd be such a fuss as never was seen in Peterborough."

Mr. Dunford was heard in reference to the taxes on property purchased by him on Water Street. The property was greatly over-assessed, being taxed for $14,000, while he had only paid $8,500 for it. There had been nobody to occupy the property to have the matter rectified before the Court of Revision. He was willing to pay the taxes on a reasonable assessment, and asked the Council to do what was just in the circumstances.

Councillor Cahill moved that the matters complained of in regard to taxes be referred to the Finance Committee to enquire into and report to this Council; and that the Collector be requested not to put parties, where matters were in dispute, to expenses until the Council had time to act on the report of the Committee; and that the Collector should take the advice of the Town Solicitor in all cases of dispute.

Councillor McBain said there was too much of this sending matters from the lawyers, and it ought to be put a stop to.

Councillor Smith—It would be a good thing for the lawyers if they would soon have five or six [illegible] suits on hand."

Councillor McBain—"If there were less lawyers in the Council there'd be less law suits."

The motion was carried.

Councillor Smith was seconded by Councillor Rutherford, that the time for the return of the Roll by the Collector for Assessed Taxes be extended to January 1st, inclusive.

Councillor Deane wanted to be relieved from the responsibility that he would have had to make seizures upon people whose taxes were already paid.

Collector Cummings said in the case to which Mr. Deane refers, [illegible] found the name on the roll and he must bound to collect them. He believed the taxes had been paid to the Treasurer, but he was bound by what the Roll as was handed in to him.

Councillor Deane wanted to know if anything had been done in respect to arrears of interest due by License Commissioners.

The Clerk explained that the Commissioners had been written to, but no reply received.

The Mayor read an legal opinion which he had received from Scott & Edwards, advising that the clause of the Rates By law imposing the 5 per cent be repealed, without prejudice to the other portions of the By-law, and recommending that a memorandum of assent to the change be passed from the Collector and his sureties.

Councillor Deane urged that steps be taken to throw open to the public property along the river frontage to which the town had a claim.

Councillor Smith said the claim was disputed.

Councillor Rutherford asked that steps be taken to make some improvements on Stewart Street in front of Jury, &c., property, where [illegible] would cause if the street be left as it is. The expense would not be more than $10, and he thought the Council might be fairly asked to expend that amount.

Councillor Deane said it might be this amount, that man's going to cost much, and had cost $13,000.

Councillor Rutherford said Councillor Deane had better retract his insinuations about the canal.

Councillor Deane—"I won't retract anything."

Councillor Rutherford—"Then I can tell Mr. Deane that he is no gentleman."

His Worship here interfered, and peremptorily called both gentlemen to order.

A communication was here received from Mr. Dunford, respecting his application for reduction of taxes.

The Mayor said it would be referred to the Finance Committee with the other cases.

Councillor Deane wanted to know if the Corporation would have power to act in the case of the Widow Trotter. He understood that a petition in the matter had been in for some time and had not been attended to.

Councillor Cahill—"Are you sure she's a widow?"

Councillor Deane—"I know nothing about her."

Councillor Rutherford moved that $10 be expended on Stewart Street.

His Worship said this meeting was called for a special purpose, and the resolution was out of order.

Councillor McBain—"I'd like the Council to go and see the street for themselves. We hear a lot of blathering here that don't amount to a row of pins."

Mr. Yelland thought it strange that they had a Street and Bridge Committee and couldn't trust them with the expenditure of $10.

Councillor Douglass said it was a queer thing that it didn't seem to be in order to spend $10 on Stewart Street, when it had been in order to drain Mr. McBain's property, that was a "regular swamp, that you could sail a boat over every spring."

Councillor McBain said he had no interest in the property Mr. Douglass referred to. He wanted the Council to go and see Stewart Street as they would know what to do about it.

It was agreed that the property should be visited.

Councillor Smith would move that the Finance Committee have power to act in the case of Mrs. Trotter.

Mr. Sawers said the matter should go to the Charity Committee. Her property was under seizure for rent, and if the Council had to pay it that Committee should deal with it.

Mr. Yelland said if it was referred to the Charity Committee they wouldn't be likely to do much for Mrs. Trotter. "Mrs. Trotter's daughter was able to walk around the streets with as fine clothes as any lady in town, and if Mrs. Trotter would make good use of what was given her, and make them big boys of hers do something they'd get along better."

Mr. Sawers, from behind the bar, said he would put his hand in his pocket and give $5, and if Mr. Yelland and the other Councillors would do the same they could say Mrs. Trotter's rent without going to the Town funds.

Councillor McBain—"What Ward is Mrs. Trotter in?"

Mr. Sawers—"No. 4 Ward."

Councillor McBain—"That's the Ward you're running for, eh?" (Laughter.)

Councillor Smith—"What sort of a woman is this Mrs. Trotter, Mr. Sawers?"

Mr. Sawers—"I believe the old woman is a regular decent old woman. I don't know anything about the daughter. Perhaps Mr. McBain could tell you more about her. If you don't do something for her, I'd advise her to come on the Town with her family, and then you'd have to keep her."

On motion of Councillor Rutherford the matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

On motion of Councillor Smith the Council then adjourned.

"The Fly on the Wheel."

SIR JOHN MACDONALD ON HIS OWN FINAL "RED RIDER."

The following extract from a speech delivered by Sir John Macdonald at Halifax on the 13th of September, 1864, at a banquet, of course, shows who entertained himself as "a fly on the wheel". There may be objections, local difficulties may arise, disputes may occur, local jealousies may intervene, but in contrast not—the wheel is now revolving, and on revolving the fly on the wheel, we cannot delay it." The correspondent of the Halifax Chronicle who quarrelled this choice specimen remarks that it was this same "fly" who was Minister of Militia in 1862, and only heard of the Fenian invasion after it was over. This and many "fly" sound by on the wheel while Canadian rights were ignored or bartered away in the Washington Treaty. From 1867 to 1873 the same old "fly" sat on the wheel when our taxes doubled and our people emigrated. In 1873 the "fly" was under the wheel and now he is on it again, "humming" as busy as ever, "I did it," while the wheel keeps on revolving.

SOME COUNTY STATISTICS.

PETERBOROUGH'S PROGRESS.

WHAT THE COUNTY IS WORTH.

Some General Information about Property Real and Personal, Values of Land, Cattle, Sheep, Horses, Hogs, Hops, and other Productions.

It may not be uninteresting to our readers to consider a few figures gleaned from the last assessment rolls in reference to the extent to which the county has been cleared up, the value of improved lands, of real and personal property, amount of live stock, &c. in possession of the farmers of the county. The total value of the land is $7,004,615, and of personal property and income $596,872. The number of dogs reported is 792, but these being to only three townships, Otonabee having 423, North Monaghan 91, while Douro sports 249 curs. A SUNKEN VESSEL.—The steamboat Samson, owned by Captain Crandell, sunk just above this place about a week ago, and is still aground.

Stirling.

PERSONAL.—Mr. J. W. Rodgers, for the past eight years Head Master of the Stirling Public School, has been appointed to the position of Head Master of the Trenton Public School.

NEW STATION MASTER.—Mr. W. H. Batcher has been appointed station-master at Stirling, to fill the vacancy made by the death of Mr. Wm. Mills. He assumed the duties on Monday last.

Verulam.

SHEEP KILLED BY DOGS.—Last Saturday night Mr. John Duggan, of Verulam, had five sheep killed and four badly worried by dogs. A few nights afterwards a trap was set and a nearly full grown pup from the village captured; but his presence at the scene of the murder after it was committed does not prove that he was a party to it, though of course it will cause him to be regarded as a suspicious character.

Linden Valley.

NEW RESIDENCE.—Mr. Henry Rogin's new white brick residence is approaching completion. It is a handsome residence, situated on an eminence, one mile from Cumbray station.

GRAIN BUYERS.—Mr. W. Bateman continues to buy all kinds of grain at the station. A rush is expected shortly, as the farmers are busy threshing.

TEMPERANCE.—The temperance lodge in the Prince's Settlement is increasing in membership. An entertainment is talked of to raise money to purchase an organ for the use of the Lodge.

Port Hope.

COUNTY SEPARATION.—The Times says:—"We reiterate our assertion of the other day that it is both right and expedient that the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham should be divided into two separate and distinct municipalities at as early a date as possible. The vital interests of the County of Durham require the early accomplishment of this reform, and we hope the retrospect of the junior county will make this question the issue at the polls at the coming elections."

ESCAPE OF THE ARK.—We find this in the Port Hope Times in reference to Mr. Griffin, who lectured last evening on the rag baby question:—"The Peterborough Examiner says: 'The rag baby never was alive. It was only a bad case of ventriloquism on the part of Madame Walton.' The Examiner is wrong. The ark had a call to-day from Mr. Griffin, on the way to Norwood, who claims to be the father of the [illegible] and is certainly not wrong in saying that this [illegible] don't, as it is [illegible] and looks long it will be a goodly [illegible] and will go far the [illegible] with the [illegible] of an ass. Griffin, Esq., Rag[illegible] on the daddy of the Canadian republican baby; call and [illegible] to know how a Grit came to have a pair of that sort."

LAKEFIELD NEWS.

BUSINESS ENTERPRISE—WANTED, A DEBATING SOCIETY—PROSPECTIVE "WAPUS" HUNT—TRADE—REPAIRING FOR CHRISTMAS—A SAD SELL.

(From our own Correspondent.

The old adage "coals to Newcastle," is well illustrated by a business transaction of last week. For a number of years past all the pork barrels and butter firkins used in this village, were brought from Peterborough or Keene; now, not only are we supplied from Mr. Hall's cooperage, but he has received a large order for pork barrels from Keene. His mills are at present engaged in their manufacture, and the fine ice will be sent down this week, and again each in the demand for bean, chop and shorts from Peterborough this Mr. Hall intends to place an extra delivery team on the roads this winter, finding one cannot supply the demand, and he has had to refuse orders from Millbrook and Port Hope.

Quite a number of our young literate pupils in the Lakefield School took advantage of the good sleighing to pay a visit to Peterborough, and attend the meeting of the Teacher's Association held on Friday, and no doubt they have returned amply repaid by the hints and information received, which being the outside of practical examination from those engaged in teaching, will fail to prove of great advantage to those who intend to adopt teaching as a [illegible] or permanent profession. Such thoughts lead to the [illegible] why cannot we have a Mutual Improvement or Debating Society started in our village, which would help to while away our long winter evenings, and furnish information and amusement to members whose time hangs heavy on their hands? Let our talented local teacher make a start in this direction, and I am certain he will find plenty of aid and encouragement in his endeavors, not only from our citizens and the clergy, but from the Council Chamber or one of the school rooms can be had free, and a little exertion will make it a success. Many who intended to attend the Saturday excursion of the Association were prevented by the thaw and rain, which rendered travel almost impossible by team, and our rail accommodation at present prevents our visiting town, except for a brief two hours in the morning.

A challenge has been sent out to five of the famous "Cotton Brigade" by five of the butters around Selwyn, for a day's "Wapus" hunt, the losers to pay for an oyster supper. The team is to be under the charge of the "Captain," and I understand that the gallant "General" will be down from Burleigh to arrange the details of the campaign, while a prominent member of the "Brigade" from Port Hope expects to steer the sleigh one of the back woods sports.

Business during the past week, especially while the sleighing lasted, was very good, but the thaw and rain on Saturday made it a dull for our merchants. However quite a number from the country who started for the merries in town, found the roads so bad that they turned into the village, and farm produce could be obtained in plenty and at lower rates than is usual with us; butter especially, sold on Saturday for 18 cents, while we paid 20 to 22 all week for it.

The children of the Methodist Church Sunday School are hard at work getting up their pieces and practising for a grand entertainment on Xmas Eve, when they will also have a Xmas tree.

A laughable incident occurred here on Sunday. One of our Village Fathers who is fond of hunting when time will permit, was sitting at home enjoying his pipe and paper, and had just perused the item in the EXAMINER about the bears being out on a tramp, when he happened to glance through the window and observed a huge black brute slowly making his way across the railroad swamp. In a moment he was at the open door watching its approach, more than ever satisfied that "Bruin was out." As it slowly shambled up the track, he grasped his hat and a trusty revolver, his sporting instinct overcoming his moral scruples. He caught up to the animal near the mill stable, when, elevating a long, bushy tail, before hidden between its legs, it turned, disclosing a large Newfoundland dog. Our hero took one glance around to see if he had been observed, then wheeled for home muttering the one word "cold."

Omemee.

DEATH OF A CENTENARIAN.—By the death of Elder Robert Bamford on Friday last, Omemee lost one of its oldest inhabitants, at the ripe old age of 103 years. The deceased was born in Malsers, County Derry, Ireland, and removing to Canada in 1824, came to Omemee and took up 150 acres of land, now owned principally by the Midland Railway Co., and on which the station is erected. The first Orange sermon preached in Emily was delivered by him. Latterly his memory and sight began to fail, and on Friday evening he breathed his last.

Why a N. Y. Book-keeper Stole.

He had a wife.
His salary was $2,000 per annum.
But she complained.
She wanted a better home.
Better clothes.
Nothing at all to put on.
No country cottage.
Nor carriage.
Nor front pew.
Nor society.
She coveted a place on the rugged edge of the select 500.
She kept it up.
Night and day.
And moaned and Groaned and Growled and Wept.
He lacked style also.
As well as new clothes every six weeks, and various other things:
He knew not how his employer spoke several hundreds daily on the street.
A thousand or so would not be missed for a few hours.
So he took it, went upon the street, and won.
She got her wishing.
He took more and lost.
Means to get that back and lost.
More yet.
Defalcation discovered.
He wears the penitentiary shirt.
Otherwise gets tea.
Beware.
But if you win regularly, society won't be dared on you.
But if you lose continually, set down on you.
Beware.
Better be a modest wife, in two pair of black silks, than a wife in the Penitentiary.
And a plain woman [illegible] with [illegible] than a [illegible] with [illegible]

HOUSEKEEPERS' HALL.

On its rusty hinge the gate swung back as it went up the sodden, weed-grown walk, looking around him uneasily.

The country people called the place Hobgoblin Hall, and the name suited it well. In points it stood back from the road, proud reserve it stood back from the road, surrounded with Norway fir and Lombardy poplars, and a wilderness of garden greenery, which, for long lack of the pruning-knife, was now bristling into wild thickets. Every shutter was closed. The heavy door, with its escutcheon of knocker, looked as forbidding as the entrance to a tomb. Dead leaves covered the mildewed stone steps and whirled in the gusts that swirled and tore through the neglected garden like a troop of demons. It was an Autumn twilight, with a low, ominous sky darkening overhead, with raindrops pattering at intervals, with a shrieking, mournful, lamentable wind ahead. Lamps glimmered here and there along the river, but the big factory town beyond the bridges was blotted out in the darkness.

Lawrence Coleman kicked aside a small bundle of dead leaves from the door, lifted the knocker, and let it fall with a heavy clang.

A sooty cabin singing back from many a big, uncarpeted room, alone answered him. Was old Hannah dead or asleep? Finally, after repeated knocking, a shuffling step echoed along the bare floor within, the bolt was withdrawn, a key turned mentionly in the lock, and the person who kept the place appeared on the threshold with a candle in her hand.

A little, wrinkled, stooping old creature, with gray, wispy hair tucked under a cap, and a faded shawl crossed on her bosom. A sight of the man on the step, she uttered a shrill cry.

"Lord have mercy! it's Master Lawrence!"

"Yes, Hannah, it is I. Hush, woman; don't scream, and, above all, don't look as if you were afraid of me, or I shall be tempted to choke you. Are you living here alone?"

"Alone with me, sir—ha! You remember, Mickie? The old master told us to stay on here till you—you came. Oh, Lord! how you've changed, sir! how you've suffered—"

"Hush!" his checked her sternly, and stepping across the threshold into a long, dark, wainscoted hall, behind the door affording him and muttered Hannah to lead the way with the candle.

Into a library on the right of the passage the cabaret Lawrence Coleman. It was a big, black room, full of a year's damp and dust, and crossed to the ceiling with books in heavy, somber bindings. The furniture was antique, dark-footed mahogany; rugs of Canadian skins decorated the tiled hearth; a cabinet of curiosities, with a big stuffed pelican watching on the top, occupied one corner; in the centre of the lace polished floor stood a round table covered with writing materials.

"Here's the room, sir, just as your uncle left it," mumbled old Hannah. "He died at that table. Sit down, sir, and I'll make a fire. I suppose you've had no supper."

She rattled, and Lawrence Coleman flung his hat upon the table and sank into the nearest chair. As seen by the light of Hannah's candle, he was a tawny, well-made fellow, with closely cut dark hair and a handsome, regular face, wherein the eyes flashed like hate-fires or smouldered in bitter, moody thought. His mouth was full of passion and strength; he had the look and bearing of a born gentleman. He had managed to preserve that in spite of associations—in spite of everything; "My God!" he groaned, looking around the familiar room; "I feel like the ghost of myself!"

Back came Hannah, with her half-witted son at her heels, bearing the wood and coals for the fire.

"How are you, Mickie?" said Lawrence Coleman; but the imbecile only answered with a stare.

His mother gave him an angry push. "Don't you know Master Lawrence?" she cried; "our young master, that's come to his own to-night? God help—that is, God bless him!"

"Master Lawrence?" grinned the half-wit. "You dreadful man!" she flashed; "how dare you?"

Absurd words! A spurt of mingled excitement and weakness. He regarded her fixedly.

"So Thornton Sinner has told you my story?" he said.

"Yes. How dare you speak to me, or touch me? How dare you lay me under such obligations to you?"

"You fainted," replied Coleman, calmly, "and it was necessary to take you from the carriage. You are angry now, and, therefore, cynical. Will life be any the less valuable to you in the future because it was I, and not some worthier man, who had the joy of doing you this service?"

The grave, reproachful words were not without their effect. The quick tears gathered in her eyes.

"I do not know," she answered, resentfully; "at least, it is very hard——"

She finished the sentence for her.

"For you to feel in anywise indebted to one like me."

With a strange grey-whiteness on his face, he walked away a few steps, and then returned resolutely to her side.

"I thought I had hardened myself to bear anything—all things, and make no sign," he said, "but my strength is not sufficient for a trial like this. Thornton Sinner told you that I was a thief, did he not?—that two years ago I robbed my best friend—the person who loved and trusted me, and under whose roof I was then a guest? As God bless me! it was the blackest lie one man ever uttered against another! I know to whom I speak—I know that you are Sinner's betrothed wife, and yet I repeat it—when he told you that story, he lied wilfully."

She did not move or speak.

"I was tried for the crime, I was convicted, which was not strange, for one of the stolen bonds was found in my bedchamber; it had been planted there while I slept. The real thief was never suspected. The only witness to his crime—the only person who could have testified against him, was—myself! But my lips were sealed. I might have proved his guilt, but I would not. I preferred to bear it myself—to pay the penalty myself. Do you ask why? Only a few hours before that same man had saved my life at the peril of his own; then, too, the lifelong peace and happiness of a third party were involved—one whom I could not disgrace, for he had been to me always the best of friends. Whether I acted wisely or not, who can tell? Not I, surely. Sometimes I suspect that it was a terrible price which I thus paid for my life—but my name of honor was exaggerated, but let it pass. It is now too late to retrieve any error of judgment which I may have made two years ago."

A bitter look passed across bird art, hardened face. There was a pause, then he took one step nearer Alice Gordon.

"I tell you all this," he went on, "because I cannot bear that you should think of me as others think—because some irresistible impulse urges me to attempt to clear myself in your eyes, at least, Miss Gordon. I have tried to show you that there is no reason why I may not speak to you—you, and do you a service. Will you believe what I have said?"

She looked him full in his grave, dark eyes, then put out her hand.

"I believe what you have said!" she answered simply, decidedly.

He held the slim fingers with a force of which he was not aware.

"A thousand thanks! The time will come when you will have other proof beside my words. Even at the risk of provoking your anger, Miss Gordon, I must say one thing more to you—for your own sake. I am sorry that you are to marry Thornton Sinner! How shall I assist you into your carriage? Your guests are assisted, I think—you will not have to drive them home?"

The cheek bent; she was greatly agitated. He helped her into the phaeton.

"Shall I walk beside you as far as the bridge?" he asked. "The road is empty; you need fear no disturbance."

"If I believe you innocent!" she faulted, "and I have told you that I do, why should I care though the whole world saw you with me?"

He turned the ponies' heads and led them back to the bridge. Not another word was spoken.

He lifted his hat; she answered with a little nod, and the next moment Lawrence Coleman was walking away in the direction of Hobgoblin Hall, and Miss Gordon's ponies were clattering along the cobbling planks toward the town.

At dinner the judge's ward made no mention of her adventure to guardian or lover. She was dressed from head to foot in rich, immaculate black, with no ornament save a knot of heliotrope fastened in the lace at her throat. Thornton Sinner stared hard into her violet eyes, as he bent to kiss the grapes.

"Your beauty is of the supernatural order to-day" he whispered. "What makes you so pale, Alice, and so decidedly abstracted? Enough something on your mind, I feel certain."

"Even" she answered. "Come rest upon the fairy pillow, Thornton. I want to consult you."

"I have nothing else to do!" His answering sentence, I hope."

"It is something very serious."

His eyes met the hazel directly after. He took up his hat and followed her out of the room.

She walked slowly down a graveled path to an old sun-dial, standing in a corner of the lawn, half buried in Autumn leaves—a pleasant spot, beyond the reach of prying eyes and ears. Then she turned to Thornton Sinner, who had grown pale already with foreboding.

"Thornton," she said, quickly, "our engagement was all a mistake. I have tried to love you, but I cannot. It is useless to try any more. Take back your ring. I am sorry that I was ever for a moment induced to think of such a thing as marriage with you."

She slipped his diamond off her hand. He stared at her in a white, furious way.

"Alice?"

"Don't attempt to plead with me—you can effect nothing. I am quite determined. I do not care for you in the least; I have never cared for you—you know the cause."

"Good Heaven! Alice, what clear wrinkle have you got into your head? Who has been tattling to you, who has been trying to ruin me with you? Has that scoundrel Coleman——"

"Stop!" she interrupted, with flashing eyes; "I don't dare to mention that name to you. I decline to answer your questions. We will be friends if you like, Thornton, but nothing more."

"Friends!" He flung the ring to the ground and set his heel upon it.

"You are my father's ward, Alice, and you cannot marry for the next two years, at least, without his consent. I will not be friends with you, I will not give you up. You shall marry me yet."

She stood at him in scornful amaze.

"I will never marry you, Thornton—never!" and then, as if disdaining further words, she turned and swept, like an empress, up the walk, out of his sight.

The week that followed this day was the darkest and dreariest that Alice Gordon had ever known in all her gay, happy life. She was disgusted with herself and all the world. She was in deep disgrace with her guardian because of her broken engagement.

"What is matter with Thornton?" the judge said to her, with ill-concealed anger. "I consider him in all respects a desirable match for you—in fact, Alice, I have looked upon your marriage with him as a certainty. Now, how has he offended you?"

"Clearly, I do not love him, I have never loved him," answered Alice, with her golden head held high; "I will not marry a man I cannot love."

"Sentimental nonsense! He is young, agreeable, handsome. Think twice, my dear, before you bring your old guardian's heart, if you throw my poor boy over for a whim, I will never forgive you."

She did think twice—yes, and many times about the matter, but with no satisfactory result. She was out of spirits, she was unlike herself. Even Rob and the ponies gave her no more pleasure. On the seventh day the judge smiled her to his side, and said, kindly and reproachfully:

"My dear child, are you not growing tired of this? We are all unhappy—you, and I, and Thornton. For my sake, Alice, will you not make up your quarrel with him?"

"If making up means accepting him again as my lover, guardy, I can not; I will not!" she answered, coolly; and after that she put on her hat and cape, and went out for a little of the coolness that was in the twilight.

It was October, and the air was sharp and full of frost. Far in the east the disc of a full moon was already visible over the tree-tops. Judge Sinner's grounds stretched straight down to the river, and in and out of lonely paths, strewn now with dead leaves, Miss Gordon went on till she reached its bank. The arrowy moonlight was glancing along its current, the after-glow of sunset gleamed redly in the west. She paused by a little landing-place, where some boats were lying moored to a gigantic old gnarled willow that clung to the bank with roots like fangs, and cast showers of yellow foliage into the water. Miss Gordon leaned her lovely body against the trunk of the tree, and and looked off at that rising moon.

A sudden whirr over her her head, a fluttering of wings against her hair. She screamed involuntarily, then laughed, as a big gray owl, disturbed by her close proximity, flew with a great tumult out of the tree, and disappeared across the river.

"Perhaps the bird has a nest here." thought Miss Gordon, idly, and she threat an inquisitive hand into the willow. It was a yearning sentimentality of the tree was hollow. One moment her neglived fingers touched the rough, worm-eaten wood, the next they struck against some foreign substance, strange, cold, metallic, smooth.

Startled and surprised, she withdrew her hand.

"What can it be?" she wondered; "not young owls, certainly." But she had not the courage for further investigation at that hour, and after a little hesitation, she walked off down the bank.

The drip of oars fell on her ears. She looked up and saw a boat swiftly approaching the willow tree. In it was seated a single rower.

Her heart gave a quick leap, either of joy or fear, as the frail craft shot into the shadow of the bank, and its occupant cast a rope, and made it fast to the gnarled, abutting roots of the willow. The next moment he was standing before Alice Gordon in the October moonlight.

"Mr. Coleman!" she cried out, in unfeigned alarm, "what brings you here?"

His dark face looked strangely pale and haggard.

"I came to say good-bye to you," he answered. "I am going away."

"Going away," she echoed, blankly.

"Yes, I find life at the Hall intolerable. I am going abroad for a few years. Pardon me, you are the only being who has either trust or pity for me, and—it was impossible for me to leave this place without seeing you once more."

She was startled, but, strange to say, not angry. She moved instinctively into the shadow of a neighboring clump of evergreens, and he followed her.

"You go away for years," she said, in a low voice, "and leave your name unredeemed from the disgrace that covers it. How can you—how can you?"

He answered not a word.

"You have told me that you know the real criminal—why do you not denounce him to the world, and free yourself from every suspicion of guilt? Have you not suffered enough? Will you not make one effort to obtain justice—only one?"

He looked her full in her beautiful, agitated face.

"You do not know what you say! Were I left my prison, I had fully determined in my own mind what to do, but the sight of you changed all my plans. Don't tempt me to speak now—it is too late!" She laid her hand upon his arm. The moonlight fell in long, arrowy gleams on the river, the water murmured against its banks.

"Mr. Coleman," she said, in a low, resolute voice, "the person who committed the crime for which you suffered was THORTON SINNER."

"How do you know that?"

"I guessed it on the day you told me your story. Hark! Somebody is coming this way. Move farther into the shadow, please. You must not be seen here."

He obeyed the motion of her trembling hand, and drew back into the darkness of the evergreens, just as the figure of a man turned out of a neighboring walk and hurried down to the landing-place.

Both recognized at a glance Thornton Sinner.

He stopped as he reached the waterside, and looked around. No living thing was anywhere in sight. Sheltered in the deep shadow, Miss Gordon and her companion stood His station. Having convinced himself that he was alone, Thornton walked directly up to the willow and thrust his arm into its hollow trunk. He drew forth a small japanned box, and kneeling on the frosty earth at the foot of the tree opened it with nervous, hurried haste.

The two watchers, as soon, yet altogether unseen, heard the rustling of disguised papers, saw him draw forth a roll of what seemed to be bank-notes, and then make it on to close the box. At the same moment Lawrence Coleman took a stride forward, and stern, tall, terrible, grasped the shoulder of the kneeling man.

"Sinner!" he pronounced.

With a stifled cry the judge's son sprang to his feet. He tried to seize his treasure, but Lawrence Coleman, a stronger man, threw him determinedly back, and held him fast.

"Miss Gordon," he called, in a sharp, resonant voice, "will you come here?"

She was by his side in a moment. He glanced and looked down into the open box.

"Here are the bonds, and some of the money, perhaps, which were stolen from Judge Sinner's safe more than two years ago. God help you, Miss Gordon! Look at your lover!"

White as death—yes, with guilt written plainly on every feature of his face, Thornton Sinner confronted the two.

"What the devon are you doing here, in my father's grounds?" he blustered; "keeping tryst with Miss Gordon! Eloping upon my life, old fellow, this is hardly the fair thing, you know. Don't be too hard on your old friend."

"A precious friend you have been to me!" cried Coleman, sternly. "Traitor! perjurer! thief! It was just Heaven which led me to this place to-night. Because I owed my life to you, because of my long indebtedness to your father, I have borne shame, I suffered for your crime. But all that is past now. Expect no further mercy from me. To-morrow the whole world shall know the miserable secret which for two years I have kept locked in my own breast."

Then he spoke out as Alice Gordon

HE LEANS ON ME.

He leads us on
By paths we did not know,
Upward he leads us, though our way be slow,
Step by step he leads us, and we know full well
His guiding hand will lead us safe at last.
Sometimes o'er rocks and briers his road may lie,
Through storms and darkness oft obscure the sky,
Yet, when the clouds are gone,
We know he leads us on.

He leads us on
Through all the mingled years;
Past all our dreary fears,
Past all our weak complaints, and doubts and fears,
We follow on the appointed way.
Through all the tangled snare,
Of sin, of sorrow, and of woe,
We know he leads us on.

And He is at last,
After the weary earth,
After the sadness fever we call life—
After the conflicts, the sins, the pains—
After the wayward struggles which have proved in vain
The power of earth to charm—
He gives us rest at last.

THE DUEL.

In 1815 Armistead T. Mason, of London county, Va., entered the Senate of the United States—young, handsome, gifted, wealthy, with all his family prestige about him. He was also quick on the trigger and rather overbearing. When in the Senate I believe he was the youngest member of that body. His father had been a United States Senator before him, and was a nephew of the Illustrious George Mason (and not Stevens).

The McCarty's were related, remotely in blood and closely by marriage, to the Masons, the sister of this Armistead T. Mason having married William McCarty, afterward a member of the House of Representatives. In 1816, when Mason had been absent four years in the Senate, and when he was not much over 30 years old, there arose between him and John M. McCarty, the brother of William, some difficulty of a political nature, which became more and more embittered by the influence of injudicious friends, until the usual result of such "difficulties" in those days was reached.

Mason had a young and devoted wife with one child, a pretty little boy but a few months old. Their home was called Selma, in the county of London. John M. McCarty was a brilliant young lawyer of the same county, and he was soon to be married to the lovely Lucinda Lee. When about to start for the "field of honor" Mason pondered his unsuspecting wife to go on a visit to her mother, who lived at the old Mason homestead, Raspberry Plain, a few miles distant. All were in total ignorance of his intentions. He left with his physician a letter directed to my mother, stating her, in case of his death, to go to his wife and comfort her.

They fought at Bladensburg. Mason fell at the first fire, and never spoke again. The old physician and my mother hastened to his young widow and darling boy, and had the hard work of telling first the dreadful news, and transforming a world which had nothing but beauty and happiness for them into a dreary desert, more bitter than the grave. Weeks passed, of overwhelming woe her grief, before it became certain that she would regain her reason. Scarcely less heart-rending was the sorrow that bowed down the dead Senator's fond mother.

In the meantime McCarty had written to Miss Lee, relating what he had done, giving her a week for reflection, and asking her to tell him at the end of that time whether she could marry a man after what had happened. She refused to be, long afterward, the agony of that week—how she knelt in despair at her mother's feet and asked her to decide, how the old lady could only advise her to follow her own heart; how at last she sent a note to her lover inviting him to call.

Their meeting she did not describe, but it was said that, sitting at the instrument as he entered, she sang the words—

"Come rest in this bower, my own shining dear;
Though the hard has flown from thee, thy home is still here.
But hasten! not yet, if guilt's in that heart;
I but know that I love thee, whatever thou art!"

After their marriage they settled in Leesburg, near Selma.

The young widow of Mason at length called to go back to Selma, the scene of her short wedded life. Not anticipating what was to follow, her attendants carried her into the wide hall. There, raising her eyes, they fell upon the hat and coat, hanging just as he had left them, which her husband had on when she saw him last. She covered her face, and with a shriek begged to be taken to the rear rooms of the house. There she remained. For twenty years she did not enter the front part of the building. The rooms there, opening from the dreaded hall, were kept in perfect order, and guests occupied them as usual. But on the day when her boy—the lisping infant when his father fell—became 21 years of age, she invited all his blood relations to dinner. I was one of the number. We were all sitting in the library, toward the rear of the house, when the door was thrown open and the gray old butler bowed his announcement. Without any intimation of breaking the habit of twenty years, Mrs. Mason promptly arose—a frail, fair woman of 40—and, taking the arm of her son, walked directly into the front hall and thence to the dining-room, as the old. Our surprise was great, but no word indicating that this was unusual escaped her or any of the party. The spell was broken, and she shunned the hall no more.

From the date of the duel, even on her death-bed, she never mentioned the name of her dead husband. Her boy grew up with the knowledge and feeling that an unspeakable shadow rested on the house, concerning which, however heavily it might press upon their souls, he must forbear to question even his mother. I was the first to tell him after he had reached manhood all he wished to know concerning his father's death.

This son, Stevens Mason, was a true-hearted young man, with but little knowledge of the world. With a private tutor, with servants to anticipate every wish, with a stricken mother to idolize him, he missed till too late certain sense-any lessons in life which these could never give him. He could not refuse to endorse a note for a friend, and his mother could not refuse to join him in whatever he put his name to. For one moment the shadows on his pathway seemed to lift, but only to settle more heavily about his way. He married a young lady who seemed worthy of him, who was a belle and a beauty. He brought her to Selma, where, as they fondly hoped, brightness and happiness were to reign once more. But his mother, while outwardly fulfilling every obligation, did not receive her as a mother should, greeting her with but a formal offering of his hand instead of the expected embrace and kiss of welcome as she crossed the threshold. It was doubtless because her shattered life had made her own affection for him too selfish, and she did not wish him to marry any one. Following closely the first shock of disappointment to her young heart came a sudden fever, and in three months from her arrival poor Stevens laid his bride beside his murdered father.

Their fine estate, with all that pertained to it, already melting from their hand, was soon possessed by strangers. Mrs. Mason did not long survive the loss of Selma.

Although a wife had never loved her husband better, yet she not only refused to speak his name from the day of the duel, but requested that her own remains should not be buried at Leesburg, and that no mark should be placed above her grave whatever it might be. She lies in the Congressional Cemetery at Washington, with only the earth and grass above her. Then came the war with Mexico. Her son for a little time had the opportunity to forget his troubles under military excitement. He was mortally wounded by a common shot—I think it was at Monterey—and died a captain of rifles, in the arms of his kinsman, one of the Rhetts of South Carolina. It was an impressive day in London when the body of young Mason was received from Mexico and laid in the vaults of the old church beside his father and his bride. All the people assembled and made a public funeral for him. One of the arrangements was that only the blood relations should pass within a certain railing close about the family grave, and I well remember the pathos I thought a goodly company had followed him to dinner when he was twenty-one, where the same relationship was counted, and although he was but twenty-seven at his death, yet only three were there—love bonds myself—to enter the narrow inclosure. My family and factions parted away.

But not every hero found the effect of that pistol shot at Bladensburg. McCarty, the other principal in the duel, also had an only son, very promising, in whom he took great pride. Though living but a few miles from Selma he never renewed the acquaintance or spoke to a single person. There was a mutual confidence—silent, mute, but it did its work. Young McCarty was a frequent spectator, but in all his gambling was never known to lift his hand to the ruin of the Mason estate, whatever the hand. Yet on the other hand, however, in following the fight of games he exhibited a fairness and honor which commanded confidence. Many came to him to settle disputes, and he was appointed to act as referee in all the duels which occurred for years in the county. By the operation of the laws of the days—as I by my own recollection—he was enabled to purchase the whole estate of Selma, including the old mansion, for a mere trifle, and there he lived and died, a bachelor, in the midst of his own people, who loved him.

WHY IT PAYS TO READ.

One's physical frame—his body, his muscles, his feet, his hands—is only living machinery. It is the mind controlling and directing that machine, that gives it power and efficiency. The strength and skill of the body depends wholly upon the mind, and its ability to direct the will. If one uses his arm in a sling it becomes weak and finally powerless. Keep it in active exercise, and it acquires vigor and strength, and is disciplined to use this strength as ordered, just as one's mind, by active exercise in thinking, reasoning, planning, studying, observing, acquires vigor, strength, power of concentration, and direction.

Plainly, then, the man who exercises his mind in reading and thinking, gives it command power and efficiency, and greater ability to direct the efforts of his physical frame—his work—to better results than he can who merely or mainly uses his muscles. If a man reads a book or paper, even one he knows to be erroneous, it helps him by the effort to combat the errors.

Of all men, the farmer, the cultivator, needs to read more, to strengthen his reasoning powers, so that they may help and not hinder more effective, more profitable, his hard toil. There can be no doubt that the farmer who supplies himself with the most reading—the most of other men's thoughts and experiences—will in the end, if not at once, be the most successful.

A Copy of the great Mazzin Bible, printed by Gutenberg in 1455, being the first book ever printed, has been sold by auction at Paris for the sum of two thousand pounds. It was printed on vellum, but is only twelve pounds, two and a half shillings per page, measured in fair sheets by M. FIRMIN. At the celebrated Perkins sale in 1868, a copy of the same work realized the enormous sum of thirty-four hundred pounds.

VEGETINE.

A Home in the Celestial City.

HOUGHTONIA, MASS., Dec 31, 1877.

H. R. STEVENS, Boston:

About nine and a half years ago I had a fever; the doctor says my system poisoned with mercury, during the disease broke out my leg, and it broke out, and has been from two to ten rounding never ever since. I could not sleep one fourth of a night ever in six months, and a great many nights was compelled to get up and take opium—a piece as large as a pea—for relief on the pain. I have tried every thing I could hear of, at last, I have paid out hundreds of dollars, and found no relief until I commenced taking VEGETINE, and now I can go as bad as night without an opiate, and sleep much sooner of each via the morning, and my ankle cannot be taken from pain. I was used up, perhaps I could do nothing and frequently when I would get up would be weak, and have to put my head on something to keep from falling; but since I commenced taking VEGETINE it has all disappeared, and I feel about a new man. My ankle commences to close it will soon my leg entirely, from the present looks and feelings. I shall continue taking VEGETINE, and recommend it to all others I come across; and I know the time will come when VEGETINE will be known into the United States will have a home in the Celestial City.

Yours most sincerely,
W. S. LEACH.

Mr. Leach is a gentleman well known here and is the owner of the celebrated Pavilion Water Wheel.

Druggists Take Vegetine and Recommend it.

H. R. STEVENS, Boston:

I have been selling VEGETINE ever since it came to be celebrated, and have recommended it to my customers, and have never known it to fail to give entire satisfaction in every case. I consider it a great blood purifier and preventive of the system.

H. R. STEVENS, Boston:

I have been practicing medicine for 35 years, and am a regular M.D. for Life, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Weakness, and all diseases of the blood, I have never found its equal. I have sold VEGETINE for 7 years, and have never had one bottle returned. I would heartily recommend it to those in need of a blood purifier.

Goods Sold Direct to the People at Wholesale Price. The Only Business in Canada Conducted on the Same Principle. Over $200,000 worth of Boots & Shoes so Supplied Last Year.

The great loss annually sustained by selling to Dealers, first led to our establishing of Branch Stores, where we could supply direct to the people for Cash all the goods we could manufacture, thus giving to the people the goods less the dealer's profit, and saving to ourselves the annual loss. We were the more forcibly impressed into this step from the fact that cheap Eastern-made shoddy goods were being palmed off as our goods. We now sell our own goods, warrant what we sell, use no shoddy or inferior material of any kind, and can and do supply goods of the best quality 25 per cent. less than they can be bought elsewhere.

Everything Marked in Plain Figures. Only One Price.

CUSTOM DEPARTMENT.

Our arrangements are now complete in this department, and we can make to measure promptly either Ladies', Gentlemen's, or Children's Goods, in the Latest Styles, at little over half the price usually charged.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC'R 25, 1879.

CHRISTMAS GREETING.

The EXAMINER of this week (printed on Wednesday evening) bears date the 25th December—the Christmas Day of this expiring year—the one thousand eight hundred seventy-ninth anniversary of that blessed day when the Star of Bethlehem dawned upon a blighted world, to shed thenceforth upon all the human race the benignant light of Divine Love and Compassion, of Peace and Good will to All Men. Fitting it is that such a day, such an anniversary, should ever be welcomed wherever civilization, enlightenment and Christianity obtain, as a season of festivity and rejoicing—as a time when the heart-burnings and prejudices created by the sordid pursuits of life should melt away into a common feeling of charity and good-will—when all the little differences and jealousies and animosities of ordinary existence should give way to broader and more generous impulses,—when all ill-will and discord created by things of the earth earthy, should [shrink away in shame before the recollection of that Sacred Mystery — when the remembrance of the awful expiation of Divine Innocence for the sins of fallen humanity, should make all men realize and acknowledge their common brotherhood. In the spirit which the occasion suggests, recollecting that differences of opinion have existed, that errors of judgment may have been made, and that many shortcomings may have marked the discharge of our duties during the year, but assured that no malice or unworthy spirit has influenced our course, and that our errors have been of the judgment and not of the heart—we extend to every reader of the EXAMINER, and to all else beside, a cordial, hearty, and sincere greeting, in words which will be heard to-day in millions of joyful Christian households:—

"A MERRY CHRISTMAS."

To Irish friends—

"OULIG YOUR MATH DRUIT."

To our Scotch readers—

"ULICK BHA O GUIR."

To our German patrons—

"EIN LUSTIGE CHRISTFEST."

To our French acquaintance—

"UN NOEL, JOIEUX."

APPROACHING THE NEW YEAR.

The next issue of the EXAMINER will be dated Jan. 1st 1880. The year 1879 will have become a thing of the irretrievable past, and will take its place in history with its five thousand eight hundred and eighty two predecessors which mark the inexorable progress of Time towards Eternity. It might not be out of place at this time of the crowning festival season of a year in which "Plenty with her golden horn," has so bountifully blessed the industry of the people, if we venture to re, mind the readers of the EXAMINER that the occasion offers a singularly auspicious opportunity, for those of them who, from carelessness or want of time, or other causes, have not yet squared up subscription accounts with the publisher, to call at the EXAMINER Office and discharge the Compliments of the Season with him; or if the times are inconvenient for this, to forward their good wishes and the amounts due by subscription, by mail. For reasons give due consideration to the importance of the amount of their subscription, adding as it may appear, to the publisher, and the encouragement they would derive in getting all to do so by their business or labour, will show the small sum of their subscription to the paper, due at the beginning of the year, to remember, not only to the end of the year, but too often for long periods. A dollar and a half is a mere bagatelle to any of them, and being so, the duty of paying it is too often overlooked; yet it should be borne in mind that it is of these trifles that the means upon which the publisher has to depend to defray the expenses of publication are composed; and that in the aggregate they amount to a very serious consideration; and when we say to Mr. John Doe that the aggregate of these little sums now due to the EXAMINER amounts to several thousand dollars, —which if it were honestly and promptly paid in would enable the publisher to put new enterprize into the paper and to give still better value to the subscribers—we trust Mr. John Doe will at once say to his wife of his bosom, If he has one, "Why bless me, I never thought of that; I must go in at once and settle up, and pay my next year's subscription in advance." It should be borne in mind that the publisher has to pay cash for everything—cash for type and presses; cash for paper and ink; cash for printers and pressmen; cash for carriers and postage, and cash for rent and taxes—and it is almost superfluous to point out to the honest and intelligent subscriber, who receives the result of all this outlay regularly every week, what his duty is under the circumstances. Nothing more ought to be necessary to be said on the subject, and we shall be glad to welcome every subscriber of the EXAMINER in arrears, who wishes to relieve his conscience of this little reproach during the present festal season, and to wish him the Complimentis of the Season, and all that the same implies, with some substantial reason for heartiness.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

DR. Bergin, an N. P. M. P., has been unseated in Cornwall for bribery, and Mr. MacLennan is again a candidate in the Liberal interest. Mr. Bergins, defeat is assured.

THE Court of Appeal on Saturday last, quashed the conviction recently found against Sir Francis Hincks, in connection with the Consolidated Bank. There will be no new trial.

SHERIFF McConkey, of Barrie, has received the writ for a new election in the County of Dufferin, rendered necessary by the unseating of Mr. Barr, Conservative. The nomination will be held at Orangeville on the second of January next.

IN Stormont, where Mr. Kerr, Conservative, has been unseated from the Legislature, Mr. C. C. Farrar has again been named the Liberal candidate, and news from the county seems to give little reason to doubt his election.

MR. Barnard, M. P. for Yale, B. C., is a claimant against the Dominion Government for a sum of $237,000 on a contract with the Government. What else could be expected, then, but that he should support Sir John Macdonald? But is he entitled to a seat in the House?

IT is stated that Mr. MacDonell, barrister of Almonte, will be the Reform candidate for North Lanark, to fill the vacancy in the Commons created by the death of the late Mr. Galbraith, and that he will be opposed in the Conservative interest by his father-in-law, Mr. B. Rosamond, manufacturer.

THE Imperial Parliament will meet again on the 5th of February next. It appears likely, therefore, that Lord Beaconsfield will postpone the general elections till the next fall, by which time the Ballot Act will have lapsed, and if not renewed by the legislation of the coming session, necessitate a recurrence to the old system.

AN investigation has lately been going on into the affairs of the County of Lennox, owing to the suspicions of irregularities in the Treasurer's accounts, and it has been ascertained that the Treasurer's books show a deficiency of $25,000. This distinguished financier is no less a person than Mr. Wm. Hooper, M. P., who defeated Hon. Mr. Cartwright in September of last year. We wonder if any of that $25,000 figured in the election contest?

THE celebrated Tichborne case is to be revived again. A cable despatch of Thursday last from London says:—"The Attorney-General granted a fiat for a writ of error in the case of the 'Tichborne claimant,' on the ground that matters had been put before him justifying a discussion of the point whether the two sentences of seven years' penal servitude—one of which has just expired—should not have been concurrent instead of successive." If he should succeed in getting his liberty on this plea, Orton-Tichborne will be a candidate in the coming general elections for Stoke-on-Trent.

WE regret to learn of the death, which has been anticipated for some time back, of Mr. Galbraith, M. P. for North Lanark, at the age of 67 years. He was Reeve of Ramsay for many years, and held the office of Warden for the united counties of Lanark and Renfrew, and, after the division, of Lanark separately. At the time of his death he was also Vice-President of the Brockville & Ottawa Railway and President of the St. Andrew's of Almonte. From the general election of in 1867 till July, 1872, he sat for North Lanark in the Ontario Assembly. At the latter date he resigned and contested the seat in the Commons, was elected, and has twice been re-elected by acclamation. He was a staunch adherent of the Reform party, and one of the too few representative farmers in our House of Commons.

Trent Valley Canal Deputation.

The deputation to Ottawa in connection with the Trent Valley Canal project, had an interview with the Minister of Railways and Canals on Tuesday, but owing to the pressure of news and other matter in our columns this week, we are compelled to hold the full report over till next week. The delegation laid the scheme before the Ministers, after which Hon. Dr. Tupper said "the subject would be carefully considered by him, with a view of adopting the deputation's wishes at the earliest possible moment when the country demanded it." Sir John Macdonald also said: "Prima facie it was shown to be a valuable scheme, and if, after further investigation, it was shown that the work could be prosecuted for the present estimates, and if Parliament thought the resources of the country would enable the Government to undertake the work it would be done."

Rayen and Greenwood of Belleville, shipped about half a ton of turkeys to the Old Country. The birds will have eight to eighteen pounds apiece. They also have the same consignment May [illegible] of Belleville, all fairly packed.

THE LATE JAMES MILLER, ESQ.

In our issue of last week we referred briefly to the death of the late James Miller, Esq., of Otonabee, who was on Wednesday borne to his last resting place in Little Lake Cemetery, followed by a large concourse of sorrowing friends and relatives, whose numbers and respectability bore testimony that some one had passed away from amongst us, who would be more than ordinarily missed in the affairs of the community, and whose death was, in some sense, a public as well as a private affliction. The late James Miller, Reeve of Otonabee, and President of St. Andrew's Society, Peterborough, was born in Perthshire, Scotland, in the year 1818. At the early age of eleven years, he came to Canada, in the year 1829, with his brother Peter and three sisters, all of whom have passed away before him. His brother John, who survives, came to Canada in 1832. His eldest brother is still living in Scotland.

Mr. Miller was familiar with the trials and deprivations and discouraging struggles shared by all the early pioneers of settlement in this district, but against these he brought a persevering industry, careful economy, shrewd judgement and integrity, and he succeeded, while yet a young man, —as every man does in Canada who brings these qualities to bear upon his fortunes,—in achieving a competence, which, in after years, by the exercise of keen business qualities, he augmented to a considerable fortune, being considered at the time of his decease one of the wealthiest citizens of East Peterborough, where he resided continuously from the time of his arrival in the country till his removal by death. Possessing no inconsiderable share of public spirit, and being of an active and zealous disposition, he took an earnest part, during the greater portion of his lifetime, in municipal and public affairs, and was ever among the foremost in promoting all judicious projects looking to the improvement and progress of the township and county.

Though of a disposition which forbade his obtruding himself for municipal or public distinctions, an acumen in this direction were of such an order as were not likely to be allowed to remain idle by those who recognised his capacity and good qualities, and in 1866 he was sent to the County Council as Reeve of Otonabee, having for a number of years previously served in the council of the township as Deputy-Reeve, and the best proof of the zeal and discretion exercised by him in this office is, that he was retained in it by his fellow-citizens up to the time of his death. In the County Council where filled the Warden's chair in 1872, his judgment and experience gave him great weight, which he always used for the advancement and improvement of the county, while he was ever known as a zealous upholder of the interests of the township which he represented, and in that capacity his untimely removal will be a heavy loss.

In political, as well as municipal, affairs he always took a prominent part, being, during his whole career, an active, conscientious and consistent supporter of Reform principles. In 1867 he was solicited to accept the nomination of his party for the representation of the East Riding in the Local House, but declined the honor. In 1871 he was again solicited to be a candidate but declined, and again in 1872, for the Commons, and declined; but he always supported earnestly, and labored actively, for the nominee of his party, by whom, in the future, his good counsels and active work will be seriously missed. He was, however, always one of those with whom the bitterness of political strife passed away when the contest was ended, and who never carried the animosities of partisanship into his private relations.

He is more than human who is without his faults, and James Miller had faults; but now that he has passed away, even his enemies, if he left any such, will be content to forget those, in the recollection of his virtues, his unusual integrity and his public spirit, and will only remember him as one who, during a long public career, occupied positions of honor and responsibility, having given his ability and active labor to the promotion of public interests.

In his social and domestic relations, he was considerate and honorable—an affectionate parent, and a warm and unflinching friend. He lost his wife several years ago. He leaves a family of four sons and two daughters, occupying respectable positions in life. One daughter is married to Mr. W. Campbell, merchant of Keene, and the other is unmarried. One son is Dr. Miller, of Keene; two are engaged in agricultural pursuits in the township; and the youngest is attending school in Peterborough. To these we extend the sympathy which is shared by an extensive circle of friends and acquaintances, in the affliction which they have sustained.

Up to a short period previous to death, the late Mr. Miller had enjoyed the most robust health, but some months ago he contracted a severe cold, which aggravated into a serious bronchial affection, though no apprehensions were entertained of so early a termination of his life. He had not been able to attend the annual meeting of the St. Andrew's Society, of which he was President, a few weeks ago; but on the morning of his death, he had prepared himself to attend the meeting of the township council to be held on that day, and was with difficulty restrained from going by his family. He soon became alarmingly ill, and Dr. Miller was summoned from Keene and succeeded in affording temporary relief, but he sank rapidly, and breathed his last about four o'clock in the afternoon of the same day.

School Trustee Elections.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—The question of School Trustees calling annual meetings according to the new law, has been causing Trustees some uneasiness, as many of them are uncertain as to the proper date to hold them.

For rural sections, as I read the law, the annual meeting will be held on the LAST Wednesday of December of each year. In the statute of 1879, Chap. 34, known as an Act respecting Public, Separate and High Schools, Section 9, reads as follows:—"All the provisions of Public Schools Act respecting the election of Trustees and the annual meetings in Rural School Sections, shall continue to apply to Rural School Corporations. Except that the annual meeting and the nomination and the election of Trustees thereat, shall be held on the last Wednesday in the month of December in each year, or if such Wednesday be a holiday, then on the next following day." In villages and towns, the "method of proceedings is explained in Section 7, subsection [illegible] By publishing this now Trustees who are desirous of when they should do, will be enabled to understand when the law requires them to do.

Yours, &c.,
A TRUSTEE.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.

George Street Methodist Church.

SERMON BY THE REV. SAMUEL SUPPES OF TORONTO.

On Sunday last the anniversary services in connection with the George St. Methodist Church were held, and notwithstanding the extreme inclemency of the weather, there was a very large attendance at both morning and evening services. The anniversary sermons were preached on both occasions by the Rev. Samuel Hunter, of the Elm Street Church, Toronto, who delivered able and eloquent discourses suitable to the occasion.

At the evening service, the Rev. gentlemen took for his subject,—"Obedience, the basis of knowledge," his text being JOHN, VII, verse XVII.

"If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak from myself."

He went on to point out that Christ's position as a teacher was peculiarly unique, owing to His obscure birth and humble position, His menial occupation, and the limited extent of His intercourse as a man with books or learned men, and the shortness of His public career, which was compressed in the short space of three years. He had never written a book, and if the sayings written from His utterances by others in four short books, were freed from repetitions, their record would form but a few pages. Yet the thought of these few pages ruled the world to-day. The governing thought of the world adopted his teachings, and all the great nations of the earth adopted his name. His teachings live as those of his consemporaries—great writers on philosphy and morality—do not. He alluded to the characteristics of these teachings, pointing first to their authority. He never felt his way to a truth. When He opened His lips He assumed the authority of complete knowledge. Then their accuracy. No teacher has been so much criticised; yet no critic has ever been able to detect an error. Thirdly, there is completeness — what rule of conduct either for man, the family, or the nation, did he omit? He left a faultless teaching of essential things, which after 1800 years of trials is still the dominant teaching of the world. He proceeded: "What am I to do with these teachings concerning spiritual and heavenly things—shall I reject them? Nay I will follow Him and trust in Him. Do you say I follow Him just as and where I understand him? Stop a minute. You can verify Christ's earthly teachings—but have you nothing that answers to His spiritual teachings? Have you no intimations of and desire for the immortality which He brings to light? Have you no witness to the sin which He exposes? Have you no longing for the deliverance which He promises? When we preach him as the Saviour, as the bearer of our sins, the helper of our infirmities, the tried friend of all who cleave to Him, do you not feel that you need such a friend?" He went on to point out that the acceptance of His doctrines must be something more than the assent of the reason. They can only be known and understood by obedience to His will. Infidelity he asserted was the result of want of morality, and not of doubt begot of reason. A true creed and a bad life cannot hang long together. "Be not deceived," said St. Paul, "evil communications corrupt good manners." He referred to the moral truths of Christianity. No man objected to them; but some to say that they are too pure, and that some commandments were impossible to keep. Against such statements he would put facts, not arguments. He would point to men who had embodied these principles in their lives, who suffered cruelty without anger, and wrong without a murmur, up-borne by an humble dependence upon the grace of God. In conclusion the Rev. gentleman said: "Now you say go and apply the test to the experimental truths of Christianity. There is something in Christianity not only to be believed, but to be felt, to be realised in one's own consciousness. There are truths which are beyond the range of intellect—which come under a law higher than reason, even the law of experience. There is a peace which passeth understanding—there is a joy which is unspeakable—there is a love which passeth knowledge. It is not subject to the law of reason, but to the law of consciousness. Peace—love—joy—to know these you must feel them; to feel them is to know them. There is a vast difference between having an opinion about a thing and knowing it. You may read the evidences of Christianity and be so convinced by their arguments as to say: "Now I believe Christianity to be a divine system." Yes; but this is only an opinion—you do not know it to be true. But O, my brother, rise up from your books—feel God—realise His power within you—become conscious of His indwelling—do His will till Christ is found in you. Then you will know that Christianity is true. Every one that liveth is born of God and knoweth God. But there are men who will not accept the testimony of experience. They are like Hahash the Ammonite who came against the city of Jobesh Gilead and proposed to put out the right eye of all its inhabitants as a token of subjection. They would put out the right eye of Christian experience, and bring only the left eye of reason to judge upon religion. They say of a man who appeals to his experience—"all enthusiasm—fanaticism—I don't believe a word of it!" But who after all has the better of the argument? The one has all opinion; the other all knowledge—one measures, the other feels—one reasons, the other realizes. Take a man who has studied scientifically coal formations. He can tell you the component parts of coal, and where the coal-beds lie, the proportion of carbon, hydrogen, and oxygen, in the various kinds. But suppose that man in a pitiless winter storm—of what avail to him is his theory! What he wants is heat, and his theories cannot avail him. Look on the other hand at a weary son of toil as he seats himself beside his fire and feels its glow. He cannot tell what that is which warms him. But he feels the heat which sends life tingling through his system, and that is better. So, I say, with religion. Give me to feel the glow, the warmth, the life, of religion in my soul. That is worth a thousand theories. I thank God for this text. I may not be able to enter into the historical evidences of religion; but if I do God's will; I can say "I know Him that is true, and am in Him that is true, even in His son Jesus Christ."

The Soiree.

On Monday evening, a grand soiree was given in the basement of the church, when there was a large attendance of the members of the congregation and others. An abundant supply of dainties such as only the ladies of Peterborough know how to produce, was on hand, and was duly discussed and relished by an appreciative assembly. For the admirable arrangements for this part of the evening's entertainment credit is due to Mesdames Flavelle, Bradburn, Owen, King, J. B. Dixon, Robinson, Mason, Bird and one or two others, whose names our reporter could not obtain. This portion of the programme disposed of, Rev. Mr. Harper took the chair, and Rev. Mr. Hunter, of Toronto, delivered a most forcible address, showing himself so happy on the platform as eloquent in the pulpit. In the absence of Mr. Dumble, Mr. T. W. Watson read the financial statements which showed that the receipts of the year amounted to $2,043.25, being a considerable improvement upon that of last year. A number of admirable selections were given by the choir, under the leadership of Mr. Wm. Clarke, which contributed not a little to the evening's enjoyment. A solo by Miss Lizzie Hopkins was warmly applauded, as it richly deserved to be, and another by Mr. John A. Davis, was received with favor. Before the closing of the soiree, Dr. Kincaid in a few well chosen remarks, moved that the thanks of the meeting be tendered to Rev. Mr. Hunter for his eloquent and instructive address at the [illegible] which was seconded by Mr. J. D. Jones, M. P. and carried unanimously, after which the proceedings terminated, having passed a most pleasant and profitable evening.

THE CRISIS IN INDIA.

RELIEF OF BESIEGED BRITISH ARMIES.

A Gloomy prospect for the Afghan winter.

Monday's despatches from London state that fears have ferred upon the Government the conviction that the conquest of Afghanistan is by no means complete, and that the British troops now under General Roberts are by no means adequate to the work assigned them. The feeling among the people is akin to consternation. The general feeling of alarm is heightened by the provokingly meagre deep cloaked from Lord Lytton. It is evident he is endeavouring to put a plausible face on the situation, and to soothe the Home government with the idea that all will come right in the end, but, even adopting his rose-colored view, the prospect is gloomy enough. There can be no question that Gen. Roberts' force is in extreme peril. The news that Gen. Gough and his army on the march to the relief of Gen. Roberts have also been surrounded by overwhelming numbers and compelled to take refuge in a fort, which is only provisioned for six days, adds to the general gloom, and largely increases the horror of the situation. Reinforcements have at last been ordered forward and a detachment of infantry left Portsmouth on (Saturday) for the relief of the beleaguered forces. There are ominous rumours suggestive of widespread dissatisfaction generally throughout India, and a general revolt of all the native tribes is considered amongst the possibilities.

A cable special to the New York Tribune of Monday says:—"The Afghan disasters excite general alarm and Tory consternation. The Queen is reported greatly distressed, and publicly blames Lord Lytton for suppression and distorting information. The best authorities on Indian affairs say General Roberts was utterly ignorant of the enemy's preparations, and was obliged finally to fight his way round Cabul to the Shirpur cantonments, where he is completely surrounded. General Roberts' position is extremely critical, but he may hold out provided the state of things reported exists. It is doubtful if his supply of water is secure. Fuel is abundant, but forage is scarce. It is expected General Roberts will be compelled within a month to fight his way through the enemy. There is no possibility of reinforcements advancing before February, the transport service being deficient. The German staff decides the imbecility of the Indian Commissariat Department, and regards General Roberts' position as most critical. The Queen considers the mistake so grave that it is reported she is disposed to abandon the Ministry's Afghan policy.

The Russian press are very violent in their criticisms on affairs in Afghanistan. The Gazette de St. Petersburg says:—"We must candidly confess Russia would not break her heart in the probable event of General Roberts' columns sharing the fate of Major Cavagnari's embassy."

LAKEFIELD.

AN EXAMPLE FOR TAXPAYERS—CADGERS IN TROUBLE—LEFT FOR OTTAWA—DESTRUCTIVE FROST—THE DAM DIFFICULTY—SCHOOL CENSUS—CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL—SLEIGHING.

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

The taxes for the year 1879 are all in, and the Collector has returned his roll without a dollar's loss and no seizures, which not only speaks well for his energy but also for our citizens. What other Municipality can say the same?

Last Thursday two teams cadging for R. C. Strickland, Esq., got through the ice on Love Sick Lake, and one had a narrow escape from going under, but after some time and trouble they were got out in safety.

Last week we were shown a life-size lithograph of "Kate Claxton" taken from the stone got out at Pigeon Lake last summer. The lines are very fine and prove the excellence of the stone. Mr. Dillingham, the agent, writes to engage Mr. Richardson and the others who worked for him before, and states that now the company is organized, and have obtained their charter the work will be prosecuted with vigor next summer. The stone on Stony Lake will also be tested, and machines for sawing the stone will be up in place of dressing it as at present. We wish him every success.

Our delegates to Ottawa the Reeve and John Hall, Esq., left on Monday. No doubt ere you go to press you will learn by telegraph the result of the interview with the Minister of Public Works and our prospect of obtaining the Trent Valley Canal.

The severe frost of Saturday and Sunday nights proved too much for a number of our householders, who now lament destroyed flowers and plants, frozen vegetables, and broken jugs, &c. On Saturday morning at daylight the mercury had fallen to 21° below zero, about equal to the coldest snap last winter.

A great deal of doubt and dissatisfaction exists, not only in Lakefield but in the country north of us, in regard to the lowering of the dam in this village. Parties are afraid to get out wood or make contracts for fear the boats will not be able to run, and it will be left to their hands were the dam to be lowered. It would not only stop the boats but also our mills except in very high water; as it is, they are only able to run during the fall months by keeping 15 to 18 inch brackets on the dam and the stop logs in. A petition was sent to the Government some time since asking them to assume control of the dam, but no action was taken. It is only justice to the people of this section that some decision should be arrived at, and that at once, as it will have a great bearing on the amount of business transacted during the coming summer, and will enable parties to make their needful arrangements at once, with some certainty of being able to carry them out.

J. B. Galvin, Esq. is at present engaged in taking the school census in this section, and at the same time is taking the whole census of the village, and that part of the section in Douro. I will try and obtain the numbers when he has completed his task.

The sleighing has enabled a large number of our friends in the back country to come down and make their X'mas purchases, and as a result business is lively.

Skating, a turkey shooting match, hunting "cotton tails," and driving, if the snow holds on, will be the chief means offered to pass X'mas in this village. On X'mas eve the Methodist Church have an X'mas tree in Leonard's Hall for their Sunday school scholars. Mr. J. Karney has a ball at Young's Point, and one or two driving parties are spoken of, so I trust all will have "A Merry X'mas."

The school closed for the holidays on Tuesday. Miss McNaughton, who has resigned, was presented by her pupils with a handsome album in token of their regard for her both as a teacher and as a friend.

THE INVIGORATING, FATTENING AND NUTRITIVE properties of Bateman's Pharmaceutical Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lime-Phosphate of Lime are such as would indicate its efficiency to "sustain the body in the performance of its various functions," with the aid of but little solid food. Hence its superior remedial worth in the "Wasting Diseases of Childhood," —also "Wasting Away," in those of Consumptive tendency,"—in Consumption itself, as well as in General Debility, and all cases of Prostration and Emaciation. Prepared solely by J. S. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. 39-52m.

New York, March, 1878.

GILES & CO.—Gents: I have for more than one year prescribed your Liniment, with the very best results. I have found it as an application in Inflammation of the Lungs (Pneumonia), or in Pleurisy, one of the very best. It penetrates the tissues or parts rapidly. In cases of Inflammation of the bowels, Asiatic Cholera, or any nervous troubles, it acts promptly. I am pleased with the success attending the use of your Liniment and remedy for Colic in horses. In case of cramp, I do not know of its equal for the purpose. Yours truly, JAMES B. HOPPER, M. D. 137 West 42nd St.

A Correction.

To the Editor of the Peterborough EXAMINER.

SIR,—I find in your report of the late Teacher's Convention, the following paragraph:—

"Mr. Hallett, of Lindsay, next gave an illustration of his method of teaching Geography. His style is new and elicited considerable discussion."

The first portion of this excerpt is correct. Mr. Hallett did give an illustration of his method of teaching geography, but the last sentence of it is needlessly and incorrectly added. The style may be new but the method is not new, perhaps this is the meaning which your reporter wished to convey. The method of teaching referred to is as old as your correspondent, and has been in use in several forms, if not in all the Peterborough Public Schools for several years. Your reporter may not have known this, or knowing it, merely intended his report as a compliment to the stranger. But honor should be given to those to whom it is due.

I am yours truly,
Y.

Peterborough, Dec. 20, 1879.

On Thursday last in the U. S. Senate Senator White presented a memorial requesting the Senate to authorise the President to issue a proclamation inviting the Governments of all the nations on the continent to unite in confederation for mutual support, offensive and defensive. Each Government is to remain independent in the administration of its own affairs, but to be otherwise subordinate to the general Government of the Confederacy, which shall have exclusive right to declare war, proclaim peace, maintain armies and navies and regulate commerce. In order to organize the Confederacy, he suggests the assembling of a grand congress of delegates from each Government, who shall draw up a constitution, to be submitted for ratification to the nations represented, the ratification by two-thirds to be binding upon this whole number. The memorialist says Great Britain has made colonies on this continent, which are to-day in peaceful accord with the Mother Country, and desires no separation from her, but it is believed she will cheerfully relinquish her hold upon them if they wish to join such a confederacy.

Horse Training.—Parties who have vicious horses, or who wish to ensure the health of their horses during the winter season by clipping, are directed to the advertisement of Mitchell & McGregor, in another column.

Police Magistrate's Fees.—The decision in the case between the town of Peterborough and Mr. Hastins, P. M., will probably be given tomorrow at Toronto.

Beer on the Station.—Mr. Lindsay of Berlaigh, on Tuesday brought into town a load of ten deer, which which were sold on the market-realizing fair prices. It was the largest consignment of venison of the season from any one hunter.

The Greatest dramatic sensation of the 19th century, "Two Orphans," by the McDowall Shaughraun Co., Saturday night, Jan'y 3rd, at Bradburn's Opera House. Reserved seats at Wilson & Davis'. 52-2t

Lakefield Harness Depot.—W. Harper is now prepared to sell harness, horse clothing, trunks and valises at exceedingly low prices. If you want a sewing machine of the best manufacture—Wanzer F., Wilson A., Raymond or London—try him and see what money will do. 46-13 ins.

Man for Member.—We see by an Emerson paper that Mr. F. E. Burnham, formerly of this place, was a candidate in the Liberal interest for Emerson, in the late local elections in Manitoba. Mr. Burnham made a good run in a strongly Conservative constituency, being beaten by only 95 votes.

Lenten Citizen.—Mr. J. McBates, for some years teacher of the Separate School in this town, has accepted a similar position in connection with the Separate School at Prescott. Last Friday evening he was given a farewell supper by a number of friends at the Cheshe House. We wish him all success in his new sphere.

Presentation.—Mr. J. Wood, of Ashburnham, on the occasion of his retiring from the charge of the school in that village, was presented by the other teachers, Misses Clarke, Graham and Smith, with a very handsome inkstand, as a token of esteem. Miss Graham has also severed her connection with this school, to the regret of many friends.

Nearly an Accident.—Mr. Hugh Beaman, of Monaghan, had a narrow escape from a severe accident at the Midland Railway station on Friday last. The train for Lakefield was starting out as he was crossing the track, and came sharply into collision with his rig, upsetting the sleigh, but fortunately doing no damage. Had the train been going at full speed the results could not have failed to be serious.

Personal.—At the Ottawa Ladies' College, on the evening of the 19th inst., at a soirée musicale, Miss A. Edmison, daughter of Mr. E. Edmison, of this place, received applause and the thanks of the Principal for a brilliant performance of difficult piano solos ....The name of Mr. C. H. Clement, of this town, appears among those who matriculated in arts recently at Trinity College, Toronto .....Mr. Edg. Pearse, our respected County Clerk, paid a visit to Ottawa on Monday in company with the Trent Valley Canal delegates.

Another Warning.—On Monday morning, Coroner Kincaid was summoned to hold an inquest at the house of Cornelius Holland, Otonabee, upon the body of David James who had suddenly. It appeared from the evidence that James had been drinking very heavily for some time, and had been recently watched by friends to keep him from indulging his unfortunate habit. On Sunday evening he was left alone a short time, and upon next being seen was discovered dead. The Jury returned a verdict of death from excessive use of intoxicating liquors.

Another Matrimonial Event.—On Wednesday of last week a very auspicious event was celebrated at Harwood, being the marriage of Mr. Jas. White, the proprietor and captain of the steamer Somerville, to Miss Fannie W. Waite, second daughter of Mr. D. V. Waite, of that village. Mr. Robert Harston acted as "best man," and Miss Dora Waite as bridesmaid. The interesting ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. McWilliams, Presbyterian clergyman of the place, and the bride was given away by her father. A large number of friends were present at the ceremony, and all joined in wishing the newly-married couple a life-long honey moon.

"What Shall We Buy for Christmas Presents."—This is the question which is just now agitating the public mind. What can be more suitable for a Christmas present than a set of furs? or a fur garment of any description? Nothing can add more to the richness and elegance of a lady's toilet in the winter season than furs, whether worn as jackets, hats, boas, muffs, or even as trimmings, while at the same time nothing is more substantially useful or comfortable. Nature too, has provided the different grades and qualities, so that this comfort and elegance is within the reach of all and nobody who has a thoughtful friend to make them a Christmas present, need suffer from the cold blasts of the after winter. Those who want to get a first-class article in furs, both as to style and value, at the cheapest rates, should call and see the elegant stock at W. Loch's establishment, George Street. He has also a fine lot of ladies' and gentlemen's kid mitts and gloves received for the season. See advertisement. 39-4 ins.

The Curling Rink.—The "season" for the skaters and curlers of Peterborough was opened on Monday night last. The ice having, after many disappointments and false motions of the clerk of the weather, formed perfectly in the latter part of last week, and having been effectively settled by the extreme cold of Sunday. The weather on Monday evening had moderated sufficiently to make out-door exercise pleasant and agreeable, and there was a fair gathering of skaters at about 7 o'clock in the evening. Without any attempt at decoration, the rink was enlivened by a display of Chinese lanterns, and from the gallery the music of the Peterborough Band guided into uniformity the peculiarly rythmic and graceful motion of the skaters, and at the same time infused a degree of animation into the scene. The number of skaters, though considerable, was however not what might have been looked for on an occasion of the kind, while the number of curlers was exceedingly limited. The following were among the players who "opened the ball" for the season:—W. G. Ferguson, Adam Hall, Geo. Dunsford, T. Belcher, Peter Connel, W. Manzer, R. Mowat, A. Moffat, T. Furze, A. McNeil and S. Stapleton.

The "Hub" and no Mistake About It.—One of the most conspicuous objects, going down George street, is the splendid display of groceries in the store-windows of the enterprising firm of Rush & Elliott, wholesale and retail grocery and liquor merchants. And if you chance to step inside—as you will be pretty certain to do if you happen to require anything in the line of which such splendid samples are on view—you will find there the most unmistakable sign of the "hum" in business, but which we fancy is more due to the variety, and superior excellence of the stock which Rush & Elliott keep on hand than to any intervention of the N. P.—this with all due respect to Sir Samuel Tilley. The firm are enterprising buyers; they select stock with good judgment and discrimination; they use prudently that everything is of the first quality, and they make close bargains for cash, in their importations—hence they are always able to furnish a first-class article at a very reasonable price. They devote special attention to the liquor trade, and have always on hand the very finest brands of wines and liquors, suitable for family or hotel use. Those who want pure, wholesome, nourishing wines, for invalids or in case of emergency, may rely upon getting the genuine article for the same price as the common and poisonous adulterations are ordinarily sold for. They have procured and weighing attachments for their scales are certified by the Inspector of Weights and Measures, they give literally full-pound measure, and their delivery is prompt and reliable. In a word, they do business on business principles, and make a cardinal rule to give satisfaction to every customer without distinction; as to the extent of his purchases. We can safely recommend the firm to a liberal share of the public patronage.

Gents' Fancy Slippers a specialty at the Red Boot. An extra large stock to choose from.

The Markets.—There are no changes to note in the markets this week, and our readers may take last quotations.

New Year's Social.—The Catholic Literary and Benefidial Society are making arrangements to hold a social ball on New Year's eve in the Cheshe House.

Don't fail to see the largest and most complete dramatic organization in the Dominion, at Bradburn's Opera House, January 1st, 2nd and 3rd, in some of the greatest dramatic successes of the day. 52-2t

Peterborough Rangers.—We have been requested to announce that an entertainment under the auspices of Peterborough Rangers, will be held in their hall, on Monday evening next, when a menu than usually attractive programme will be rendered.

December Fair.—The December Fair was held on Tuesday, when there was a considerable attendance, but not nearly as large as might have been expected at this season of the year. However, trade was very brisk in the stores, and the grocery and dry goods merchants were "selling excitingly."

The Nominations.—The nominations for Mayor will be held at the Town Hall, at 10 o'clock on Monday next, when it is likely Mr. Leedy will be elected by acclamation. Nominations for Councillors will take place at 12 o'clock of the same day, and will be held in the different Wards.

Cored by a Cow.—As Mr. Crews, who lives in the village of Ashburnham, was in the act of tying up his cow, on Saturday night, the animal made a savage blow at him, with its horns, and succeeded in inflicting a severe wound on the face and head.

Broke His Leg.—On Tuesday evening as Mr. Michael Fawcett was going home, on George street, he and a companion undertook a walking-match, in the course of which Mr. Fawcett slipped on the sidewalk, nearly opposite Dr. Kincaid's, and had the misfortune to sustain a compound fracture of the left leg below the knee.

Warning.—A young man, name fortunately for him unknown, and who must have been either drunk or crazy, amused himself on Tuesday evening on the Union School Hill by chasing and annoying females. Residents of the locality are of the loudest for him, and will give him something to remember if he visits the locality again.

Missionary Meeting.—The Rev. Mr. McLaren, of Knox College, Toronto, will occupy the pulpit of St. Paul's Church, next Sunday, 28th inst. On Monday evening, 29th instant, the regular missionary meeting in connection with St. Paul's congregation will be held at half past seven o'clock. All are cordially invited.

Oyster Supper.—On Friday evening last a number of those interested in the progress of the school entertained Miss Minnie Braden, late teacher of School Section No. 16, Otonabee, on the occasion of her leaving for Lakefield, at Mrs. Matchett's, when a pleasant evening was spent. Miss Braden's excellent and successful management of the school under her charge, has made her deservedly popular.

New Livery Stable.—Messrs. Hopkins & Montgomery announce in another column that they have purchased the livery stables on Water street, lately occupied by B. Donnelly, and have added new horses, rigs, robes, etc., etc., with every facility for carrying on a first-class business. They devote special attention to commercial travellers and sleighing parties, and have elegant pleasure sleighs at moderate rates for afternoon pleasure driving.

The Robertson-Marsh-all Libel Case.—This case came up for trial on Tuesday morning, when the plaintiff Marshall was examined, testifying to the falsity of the statements made in the alleged libel. The effort of the plaintiff's attorney to prove the connection of Mr. Robertson with the publication of the libel failed, and the Police Magistrate, with whom was associated Mr. Edwards, J.P., dismissed the case.

R. C. Separate School Board.—The following are the members of the R. C. Separate School Board whose term of office expires this year:—Ward No. 1, John Corkery; No. 2, Dr. Fourgias; No. 3, C. McGrath; No. 4, John C. Sullivan. The several polling places, and the Returning Officers for the election of Separate School Trustees are as follows:—First Ward—At the Lake-street Separate School. A. Williams, Returning Officer. Second Ward—At C. McGrath's Shop. Aylmer Street, H. LeBrun, Returning Officer. Third Ward—At the Murray-street Separate School, Joseph Griffin, Returning Officer. Fourth Ward—At James O'Connell's Shop, James Hogan, Returning Officer.

Literary Entertainment.—There was a fair audience at the Opera House on Friday evening last on the occasion of the entertainment announced by the Collegiate Institute Literary Association, and all who went had good reason to be be satisfied with the result of their visit. If there was anything to complain of it was probably the great length of the programme. The songs and class by the ladies were very pleasing, and showed to good advantage the result of industrious practice. Mr. C. Clark's recitation was well received, but was not equal to that of Mr. Edmison, who showed more confidence and not a little talent for elocution. Miss Hunt also gave a very pleasing recitation, and was applauded. Mr. G. McDowell also declaimed in a most creditable manner and possesses marked ability in this line. Duets by Miss Alice Hamilton and Miss McClland, and Miss Ellsworth and Miss Ada Richardson, fully deserved all the applause which they elicited. The debate, which took up too much time considering the length and variety of the balance of the programme was taken by itself, very creditable indeed to those who took part in it. The subject was the question as to whether the warrior or the statesman occupied the superior position J. Stevenson and J. C. Robertson arguing in the affirmative, and E. Blackwell and F. Henry in the negative. The argument was well sustained, but was generally conceded to be stronger on the negative side. We trust this will not be the last of these pleasant entertainments.

OUR BUTCHERS.

The Christmas Display at the Market,

As in the custom at Christmas-tide and Easter, of the Peterborough butchers, there was a very fine display of beef, etc., during the week at the Market here, which was neatly decorated to give a better effect to the general display.

Harry Wilcox had a very fine display indeed, of beef, one that would do credit to a city market, and his mutton, pork, poultry, etc., was also up to the mark. Among the superb beeves which stocked the stall, was a splendid heifer from the herd of Wm. Armstrong, Otonabee; two heifers from John Miller, jr., Otonabee; a heifer from James Findlay, Smith; a heifer and steer from T. G. Grieves, Lakefield; a heifer from Joseph Green, North Monaghan; a heifer from George Webber, cattle dealer, in town. Sheep from Roger Maloney, Douro; Jas. Davidson, Smith, and Wm. Armstrong, Otonabee. There were also turkeys of unmistakably fat growth, geese, etc., all of the finest quality. The stall as well as the rest were handsomely decorated, a striking object being a block hare, "dressed in its coat," and some handsome horns.

James Howden, had some superb mutton, beef and pork.—a fine heifer fed by Mr. Wallis being a specially choice lot, and offering tempting cuts of kid'stall, and from the sweetness of the stock, it required no other.

F. W. Heathen also had a first-class supply of various meats, etc., and a man would have been hard to please who could not satisfy himself at his stall.

W. Wainwright had also a very attractive display of first-class meats, at his stall on George street, nearly opposite the Post Office, and received a liberal patronage, induced partly by the superior quality of the meat on display, and partly by his well-known reputation as a first-class butcher.

T. Coe, in the northern part of the town, had made ample preparation for the satisfaction of the Christmas requirements of the people in that section of the city, and his display was not only well selected, but what was more to the point, readily purchased.

Taken altogether, the display was most creditable to the butchers, and indicates that there must be some remarkable good cheer going on in town this Christmas Day.

Sale of Longhorn.—As will be seen in another column, Messrs. Irwin & Boyd, breeder mentioned, to offer for sale at the Nassau Mills, on Thursday, January 8th, [illegible] lot of good common lumber, consisting of bush poles, cedar, cedar posts, 40 and 8 inch lumber, and lath and pickets. The lumber is first-class stock of its grade, and suitable for building purposes, whether for the contemplated building, houses or fencing, and parties who want to run in cheap will only supply by attending this sale, where the lumber will be sacrificed down to the highest figure, because of having to clear the yard. Terms liberal as to time and to cash.

The County Gaol.

Few people devote the same amount of time and trouble to ensure the absolute security of their guests as does Mr. McWilliams, of the County Gaol. In fact, when any one comes to him duly accredited, it is impossible for them to evade his hospitality, and he not only provides for the security of his visitors, but attends to their personal comforts; sees that their hours are regular, that they take the proper amount of exercise, and observes the laws of cleanliness; more than that, he provides each one of the male persuasion with a suit of sterling style, and imposing effect; and affords him the closest attendance of the barber without any charge whatever. It must not be supposed that he does all this out of pure benevolence—on the contrary he is more fortunate than most of us, he gets paid a salary for exercising these little courtesies. A walk through the gaol will convince anyone that Mr. McWilliams is the right man in the right place. Everything about the place is clean and tidy as a new pin—and there are no doors left open. Our reporter on visiting this hospitable retreat, the other day, found there seven prisoners confined—four males and three females. Paddy Glen was dictated as a "rag," and Paddy Hanrahan ditto. Mr. Thomas Johnson, of Smith Falls, who had recently signed another man's name to a note for him without his knowledge, was doing the honors of the main corridor in an elaborate suit wherein one leg was orange and the other brown, evincing a somewhat singular taste on Thomas' part. At the hour of our visit he was engaged in working up his meals at the pump. George Masters was the other male prisoner, up for keeping a disorderly house, on which same charge, his wife was an occupant of the female ward. Mrs. Shine was another boarder in this apartment, and Mrs. McCutcheon, who is serving a term for theft, is the third female prisoner. The cells are extremely clean, and everything indicates a probability that some of the unfortunates who are lodged there are better provided for than if left to the cold mercies of an unappreciative world. It does not appear, however, that the prisoners have enough to do—their duties being carrying wood, shovelling snow and pumping water. Mr. McWilliams has a number of vacant apartments at at present, but says he very often entertains more numerously. On one occasion, the gaol, which contains 18 single rooms, was more than full—that was when the "swamp gang," a dissolute crew of abandoned women and more abandoned men, were given lodgment some thirteen years ago. He has been gaoler a little over thirteen years, during which time one execution has taken place, the hanging of the man Brunton (whose real name was Fox), for the double murder of a woman and a child, in Dummer, about six years ago. The annual report forwarded to the Government this year (ending Oct. 1st, last) shows that during the year there were twenty-two female prisoners and sixty-eighty male prisoners. The Turnkey of the gaol is Mr. H. Nesbitt, and he makes a very efficient assistant to Mr. McWilliams, in the discharge of his duties.

Santa Claus at Ashburnham.

Tuesday evening last was a gala night among the little folks of the Village of Ashburnham, where some 150 children, attending St. Luke's Church Sunday School, and as many more of their friends were assembled at 7 o'clock, in the Town Hall, on the platform of which, the cynosure of 150 pair of eager expectant eyes, glistened a tall and stately Christmas Tree, from whose prolific branches shone the bounty which the thoughtful kindness of the pastor and parents had provided for the pupils of St. Luke's Sunday School. That

"Christmas comes but once a year,
And when it comes it brings good cheer.
To good boys (and girls) only."

was fully realised by those little folks who had earned the right to expect consideration in the distribution of the gifts, by regular attendance at the School, and some doubtless realized the fact from an opposite direction, and resolved to augment the ranks of the pupils in the coming year. The proceedings were opened by a Christmas Carol, followed by a brief address from the incumbent, Rev. Mr. Bradshaw, after which by a vote of the children it was decided that hereafter, the midsummer soiree should be dispensed with in favor of the Christmas Tree. The distribution of the gifts was then proceeded with, and truly it seemed as if the fruits of the tree were inexhaustible. The gifts were handed round to the children, and received with exclamations of delight, which sometimes broke into hilarious applause, as a particularly appropriate gift, as a very small pair of stockings for the pastor, a pinafore for Mr. Frised, or a ridiculously diminutive doll for a very large boy, was handed out. Time, however, bring all things to an end, and at last the tree was stripped of all its glories, and every pupil had been duly remembered. Then followed another carol "Carol, carol, Christmas," by the School, very well given. So far the entertainment had been for the benefit of the children; now the children did their part of entertaining their elders, opening the programme with a recitation, "Who is Loved Best," by Katie Calcutt, very nicely given. Bella Rickey followed with the song "Beautiful Star," very sweetly rendered. Carrie Bannet's "Plea for Children," was well given and followed by the School with "Carol, Sweetly Carol." Clara Ludgate gave a pleasing recitation, "Work with Your Might," followed by "Tapping at the Gate," prettily sung by Frankie Rickey. Henry Adam's recitation "Dollars and Dimes," was well received, when the School gave the carol "In the Fields." Susie Phillips' recitation, "I Think it's Wrong, Don't You?" came next, and after it a recitation by Maggie Calcutt, "The Child's Trust." Bella Rickey then gave "Little Dora," very sweetly and pleasingly, followed by Maggie Dunlop, with a pleasing recitation, entitled "Children's Offering." The carol, "Three Kings of Orient," was sung by the School in very good time and voice, after which the closing address was given by Master Henry Deane, who acquitted himself in a manner that would have done no discredit to an older orator. "God Save the Queen," then brought the proceedings to a close. Miss Revell presided at the organ during the evening, and it must not be omitted that it is to her training that the excellence of the general singing in the School was due.

In connection with St. Luke's Church we are requested to say that on New Year's Eve, Wednesday next, the usual midnight service will be held, commencing at 11.30 p. m. The collection as in former years, will be in aid of the poor.

A Card.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness,

[illegible]
[illegible] with the exercise of her shedding
Brought by Santa Claus might be.

Lavish gifts the saint had brought her.
Sparing from his ample load
Candies, dollies, books and pictures,
Till both stockings overflowed.

How her laughing blue eyes sparkled
As she drew her treasures out!
How she danced with childish pleasure
When her toys lay spread about.

But a shade of disappointment
Stole across her chubby face,
And her merriment half vanished,
To reflection giving place.

"What the matter?" I inquired.
Prompt to ascertain the cause;
Then she said, with serious aspect,
"Pa, there ain't no Santa Claus!

"If good he did come down the chimney
With the things upon his back,
How could he get in the stovepipe?
How could he pull through his neck?

And beside, I lay and listened,
Just to hear if he would come;
When it wasn't far from midnight
Some one walked into the room—

"Came into the room like you would,
But I didn't dare to peep;
Lay down quiet—kind of frightened—
Made believe I was asleep.

"So they came and filled the stockings.
And I'm sure that there were two,
For they whispered to each other—
Sounded just like ma and you.

"Though the things are nice and pretty.
Still I'm awful sorry.—'cause
Now's Santa Claus that brings them—
I'm sure ma was Santa Claus."

Thus through life the old illusions
Fade out slowly one by one;
Are we happier or better
When the last of them are gone?

OUR CHRISTMAS STORY.

A SELF-BETRAYAL.

CHAPTER I.

A REJECTED LOVER.

'Make a handsome pair, don't they, John?'

'Um—very!' said John Redd, taking his cigar from his lips to send a wreath of smoke into the pure autumn air.

'Yes; a noble pair. He is as fine and handsome a piece of humanity as ever I saw; and as for Naomi——'

'She is perfect!' said John Redd, sending another puff of smoke into the air, as he tucked his riding-whip under one leg, and his reins beneath the other, letting the handsome, big-boned chestnut he rode follow its own bent.

'Quite right, my boy—quite right, John,' said the first speaker, a fine-looking, gray, elderly man—to wit, Sir James Marchpoint, Baronet, of Marchpoint Manor, the handsome, red-brick, Elizabethan building that lay embowered in the wood some four miles across the valley. 'By the way though, John—I speak as almost your second father—what a pity it is that you will poison the air with bad cigars. Why will you do it?'

'Bad habit, sir,' replied John Redd, drily. 'I am a man full of bad habits.'

'You are, John—you are,' said the Baronet bluntly. 'It is a pity. Why don't you take to some ennobling pursuit? You have a thousand a year, and no encumbrances. Why not go into Parliament?'

'Because I am an unlucky man, Sir James, and nothing I undertake prospers. And, besides, why should I get into Parliament? notice that the majority of those who get in never do anything.'

'Ahem—ahem!' coughed Sir James, who only made one speech per annum. 'I don't know so much about that, sir—I don't know about that. But you are an unlucky man, John Redd—very.'

'I am, Sir James, as you say, very. Nothing I undertake prospers. I am one of Nature's failures, even to my love affair.'

'Tut, tut, tut!' cried Sir James, impatiently. And he gave the fiery little cob so severe a cut with his whip, that the animal reared up, and very nearly threw him. 'Confound the brute! Quiet, will you!' he cried, with a tremendously red face. 'What's the matter with the brute? Quiet, King Dick—quiet, sir!'

The cob gradually ceased to corvet about from the road to the green border, and to make attempts to leap out of the country lane into the wood, but then showed a disposition to take the bit in his teeth, and make a bolt.

'You are fidgeting him, Sir James,' said the younger man, quietly; 'and I would not hold him so tightly with the curb.'

'John Rudd,' cried the Baronet, pettishly, 'I am fifty years old, sir, and you are thirty! I knew how to ride before you were born!'

All the same, though, as his companion bowed his head quietly, he made a point of following his advice, and the cob went on steadily enough.

'A vicious little beast!' said the Baronet, angrily; for he was very hot, and he had been jerked about so in the saddle, that his collar-stud had broken the button hole, and made him uncomfortable. 'But I was going to say, John, that there is a subject upon which I desire you will never, if we are to remain friends, address me. I never could, as I told you before, approve of an alliance between you and my daughter. It is absurd—impossible; and, besides, Mr. Da Silva, has proposed, and been accepted.'

'Has Naomi accepted him?' cried the younger man, turning pale.

'I have agreed to the alliance, Mr. Rudd,' said the Baronet, pompously; 'and my daughter knows my wishes upon the question. Perhaps, Mr. Rudd,' he continued, stiffly, 'it would be more suitable, now that there is this engagement, if you speak of my daughter as Miss Marchpoint. Too familiar a use of her Christian name cannot be agreeable to Mr. Da Silva.'

John Rudd bowed, and looked straight before him; but he saw nothing of the glorious prospect of hill and dale, with the woodlands tinted by Autumn's hand with gold, or more gorgeous with red, russets, and maroons browns. His eyes were fixed upon a cousin some fifty yards in front—the one a fine-looking man, of good proportions, as seen from behind, the other a graceful, girlish figure, in closely-fitting green riding-habit, with soft felt hat and feather, to match the green, almost black, of her habit.

They were both splendidly mounted—the gentleman on a fine black, with arching neck, and the lady on one of those pretty, graceful mares, with flowing mane and tail, with motion as easy as if the creature were an elastic spring.

As they rode along through the lovely woodlands of the Sussex Weald, the gentleman seemed to be divided between managing his fine steed and addressing remarks to the lady, who turned her head towards him from time to time, as if to reply.

Certainly they made a handsome pair, when the black horse was not fretful, which it was at times; for then its rider seemed ill at ease, and hardly addressed his companion.

John Redd's thoughts, however, were not much concerned with the appearance of those before him, since they were fixed on the gentleman's antecedents.

They rode on in silence for some time, save when Sir James pulled up suddenly, to call his companion's attention to the Manor, which standing as it did in a very elevated position on one side of the valley, formed a conspicuous object for some miles around.

'There, John,' said Sir James, who had recovered his good-humor; 'I always think the view at the Manor is so fine from this point.'

And so it was at several other points, the Baronet smiling his satisfaction on finding the place admired.

'Here, too, there is a noble view,' he cried, as they curved round a slope on the valley side.

'Noble, indeed!' said John Redd. 'By the way, Sir James, do you know anything of Mr. Da Silva's antecedents?'

'Antecedents!' said Sir James, drawing rein so sharply that his horse reared up, and nearly fell back upon him. 'Mr. Rudd, this is an impertinence!'

'Nothing of the kind, Sir James,' said the young man quietly. 'Surely, Sir James, one who has known Naomi from childhood must take an interest in her future welfare.'

'I, sir, as her father, am my child's natural protector; and, of course,' he continued, with would-be sarcasm, 'I should not enter upon such an engagement without making proper inquiries as to the gentleman's position.'

'True,' muttered John Redd, 'I might have known that.'

'Since you have taken so much interest in Mr. Da Silva's antecedents,' continued Sir James, 'he is a naturalized Englishman, descended from a noble Portuguese family, and he is a millionaire.'

'Thank you, Sir James,' said the young man; then, to himself, 'The millionaire will come a cropper if he don't mind.'

For just then the black horse, after a great deal of long-suffering and patient forbearance towards his very bad rider, began to exhibit tokens of temper, and a disposition to get rid of him.

Horse temper is decidedly infectious, and the result of Mr. Da Silva's mount proving restive was that the pretty little mare ridden by Naomi Marchpoint began to fidget and side, and in spite of the carressing administered by its mistress's gauntleted hand, it made two or three attempts to escape her control.

'Had we better not ride up, Sir James?' said Rudd; 'the horses are getting fidgetty.'

'Pooh! rubbish!' said the Baronet. 'My dear boy, long residence in chambers in town has resulted in the loss of your nerve. The horses are a little fresh, that's all.'

'Just a little,' said the other, as, catching the infection in turn, their own horses began to show the effects of good feeding and little exercise, and became what a groom would call 'larky,' straining against the bits, and asking for nothing but leave to stretch out in a tremendous gallop, and to kick their heels in the fresh morning air.

'They'll quiet down directly,' said the Baronet, who was being bumped up and down by his cob at a tremendous rate.

'I don't mind,' said Rudd, quietly; 'but I don't think Nao——Miss Marchpoint ought to be left by herself.'

'By—herself?' cried Sir James, every word being jerked out of his mouth by the horse. 'Can you not see that Mr. Da Silva will take every care of her, and——'

'By Jove, she's off!' cried Rudd; and clapping spurs to his horse, the great chestnut bounded after the mare, which, after resenting the clumsy evolutions of Mr. Da Silva's black till she was tired, suddenly gave her head a shake, turned aside, bounded over a high bank, and went off like the wind.

'Stop her!—Stop her!' shouted the rider of the black, who was making strenuous efforts to retain his own seat, while the horse was quite as energetic in trying to get rid of him.

The words fell on John Rudd's ear as he went by at full speed, and a contemptuous smile played about his lip as he saw the other's difficulties, and ending in a mocking laugh as the black laid its head between its legs, gave a tremendous kick, lodged its rider in the hedge, and dashed off after the chestnut, now going across a field at full speed.

Unburdened by a rider, the noble animal soon got abreast of the chestnut, uttered a whinnying neigh of delight, and raced on, with its stable companion neck and neck, in pursuit of the mare.

There was a stiff hedge at the bottom of the field over which they skimmed with ease, and took up the running on the other side, where Naomi, after vainly endeavoring to check her fiery little mare, sat up straight in the saddle, and contented herself with steering her course and manœuvring for the best parts of the hedges they had to take.

For about a quarter of an hour it was a wild steeplechase, over field and meadow, and then across a wild gorsey waste. In spite of his efforts, and the greater stride of his horse, Rudd could not overtake the fleet little creature, and his heart sank within him as they entered upon a stony, rugged part of the plain, and he saw Naomi turn in her seat and gaze back at him.

'On, old fellow, on!' he cried to the horse, which responded to appeal by tearing along so that the wind whistled by its rider's ears. But it was too late. Just as he was on the point of overtaking the mare, and had his hand stretched out to seize her rein, the wilful little beast rose to clear a block of sandstone half hidden in furze, struck her hoof against the top and rolled over, kicking and plunging madly.

Pulling up and leaping from his horse, John Rudd threw himself upon his knees by Naomi, for, fortunately, in the fall the girths had given away and she was quite clear of the mare, which had regained herfeet, and stood gazing at the mischief she had done.

'Oh! my darling—my darling!' moaned the young man raising the insensible figure in his arms, and pressing his lips to the soft white brow from which the hat had been loosened, revealing a terrible bruise where the poor girl had fallen upon a stone. 'Has it come to this?' he cried. 'Good heavens! is she dead?'

He gazed wildly round in search of water, but there was none; he had, however, a tiny silver flask, from which he contrived to trickle a few drops between her lips with the result that in a few minutes the poor girl opened her eyes, and gazed about her wildly, and then recognising the face bent over her, she smiled her thanks, closed her eyes, and the warm blood began to return to her cheeks.

She was lying in John Rudd's arms, but it did not seem to trouble her much; and when, in his sorrow and anxiety, he bent down and kissed her again, she suddenly burst into tears.

'No, no! you must not—never again, John!' she cried, piteously. 'I forgot!'

'But, Naomi,' he cried, as he still held her—'I never told you how dearly I loved you. I was content to wait. Tell me now my darling. You cannot, will not accept this man?'

'What—what can I do?' she said, piteously. 'Papa wishes——Ah, my head—my poor head!'

She pressed her hands to where there was now a terrible discolouration visible, and swooned away, showing Rudd plainly enough that she was more injured that he at first imagined; and, raising her in his arms, he was about to try and mount his horse, which now stood, like the others, quietly cropping the short sweet herbage, when he heard a shout to his left, and saw Sir James and Da Silva coming up towards him, the Baronet, leading his horse.

It was like so much cloud coming before his sunshine; but John Rudd had to submit; and, for the sake of her who lay insensible there, he left her, mounted the chestnut, and galloped across country to the Manor, ordering a carriage to be taken to the nearest point, while he continued his ride to the town, and brought back the doctor.

II.

A FORTNIGHT LATER, AND LATER STILL.

'No, Mr. Redd, I think not. In my opinion there was concussion of the brain—slight, mind you, slight; a contusion, with a certain amount of extravasted blood, and local irritation and disturbance. I'll trouble you for the claret.'

'But that long sleep——' began Redd.

'Come, my dear sir, pure coma. A young and healthy constitution will be a match for all that. This claret is excellent, had, my dear sir, your glass is empty.'

'Thanks, yes,' said John Redd, who was in spite of a direct hint or two, still a visitor at the Manor; and then he turned his eyes towards his rival, and was obliged to confess that he was a well-made, extremely handsome man; but even as he gazed at him, he could detect a curious shiftiness in his expression, and though he was supposed to be in earnest conversation with Sir James, it was evident that he could not help glancing at John Redd.

Naomi had been seriously ill after her fall, the strange result of which was a paroxysm of temper or sleep, in which she had remained till the present day. The best advice had been obtained; but there had been, it seemed, nothing but to wait, and waiting had resulted in a revival that morning—the poor girl seeming to awake from a deep sleep, and, to the astonishment of all, she had appeared at breakfast.

'Is anything the matter?' she said, quietly, as she took her place at the table.

'Matter, my dear—matter?' stammered Sir James, while Da Silva and John Redd half rose from their places, as the doctor, who was resident now, dressed to her.

'Pray be calm, my dear Miss Marchpoint,' said the doctor, taking her hand.

'Calm!' she replied, smiling. 'Oh, I recollect'—and she placed her hand to the bruise upon her forehead, now nearly gone—'Jeannette ran away with me yesterday, and I had a fall.'

'Yes, a nasty fall,' said the doctor; 'but you are better now.'

'Yes,' said Naomi, smiling at the little, fussy-looking, rosy man; 'I feel quite well. But it might have been serious.'

'Yes,' said the doctor, smiling and looking meaningly from one to the other, 'it might have been serious.'

The strange news was kept back from the sufferer, who resumed her daily avocations; and in due time John Redd had to yield, and bring his visit to a close.

He might have eloped—he might have persuaded Naomi to leave her home with him, but he was too honorable a man. He had known Sir James from boyhood; he was his guest, and he could not stoop to betray the trust placed in him. He had contented himself with making one more appeal to Sir James, which was laughingly set aside, and he had then the miserable sensation of leaving Da Silva, a man whom he utterly abhorred, the master of the field.

He would have liked to have one last interview with Naomi alone, but it was carefully avoided; and John Rudd had the misery or satisfaction of mentally carrying away with him the trembling pressure of Naomi's soft white hand, and the quivering of her lip, as she said 'Good-bye.'

It was all very matter of fact at the Manor. Sir James was too business-like a man to play with anything he had on hand, so he called Naomi into his study on the day of John Redd's departure, and motioning her to a seat, he pulled one of his coat-tails under each arm, turned his back to the fire, and he musing his boots upon the fender, managed to stand upon his toes.

'Well, Naomi, my dear, I want to talk to you,' he said, 'if you feel well enough.'

'Oh, I am quite well, thank you, dear papa,' she said rising to kiss him; but he motioned her back to her seat.

'Not now, child—not now. I want to be serious for a few minutes. John Rudd has gone.'

'Yes, papa, she cried pitifully; 'he has gone.'

'A very good, worthy fellow, Redd.'

'Oh, yes, papa; he is a dear, good fellow.'

'Good fellow, without the dear, child. Now, look here, Naomi. You have had your chat and flirt out with John Rudd.

'Chat? Flirt—papa?'

'Yes, child, and now he is gone that is all over, and we must be serious. The fact is, Mr. Da Silva has proposed for your hand.'

'Oh, papa?'

'And I have accepted him?'

'Papa!'

'Yes, and of course you have known it all along. Well, child, I congratulate you. He is one of our wealthiest commoners, and he puts up for Rumbley Borough at the next parliament.'

'But papa, dear, I can never love or care for Mr. Da Silva.'

'Well, child, who asked you to love and care for him? You are going to marry him—to be his wife. Do not you understand? is not that enough?'

'Marry—without caring for him—without——Oh, papa, dear, are you serious?'

'Did you ever know me to trifle about money matters?'

'No, papa.'

'Well, this is a money matter. Your settlements will be enormous; your jewels such as a princess might envy. Why, Naomi, yours will be the greatest wedding of the season.'

'But papa, dear,' cried Naomi, with some show of spirit, 'this Mr. Da Silva seems to repel me whenever he speaks to me.'

'Does he, my dear? Ah, that will soon wear off.'

'But papa, I do not—I cannot love him.'

'What novel have you been reading last, child?'

'None—I do not know—I have not been reading a novel lately, papa.

'Humph! because you are talking like an injured heroine. Now, once for all, Naomi, my dear, let us have a little common sense behaviour. Here is the most brilliant match of the season. You don't care for Mr. Da Silva? Well, I dare say he does not care much for you. That will all come right in time. There, now go to your own room my dear; I have some letters to write.'

'But when may I speak to you again about this, papa?'

'When? About this affair? Oh, not at all, child—not at all. It is all settled. I have promised Da Silva, so be as pleasant to him as you can, my dear. I should not give way too much at first, but let learn the him value of his prize. We have not much money, but we have blood; to mingle with his, why he must pay for it.'

He strode across to the door as he spoke, opened it, and ushered his daughter out, the poor girl making her way to the drawing-room, half-stunned and unable to comprehend the extent of the catastrophe which seemed to have befallen her.

In a strange, dreamy way, she entered the drawing-room, and, hardly knowing what she did, seated herself upon a long, low couch by the window opening into the great conservatory, when, to her dismay, she suddenly found herself confronted by Da Silva, who, with a smile, seated himself beside her, and took her hand.

His coming was to Naomi like some strange dream which had suddenly assumed the nature of a nightmare. She wanted to get up and rush out of the room; but his eyes were fixed upon hers, and, as if by magnetism, held them in spite of her efforts to get them free.

He saw his power, and smiled in a satisfied way as he tried to fix her attention more firmly. His eyes were large and lustrous, and as they seemed to close upon those of Naomi, they poured into her soul that which they had seen of their owner's life.

She could not explain how it was—she could not comprehend it, but as Da Silva gazed at her, she knew that he was printing upon her memory the answers to the questions asked by her eyes of his.

Her questions were of what he was, who he was, and why she felt such an irresistable repugnance to him; and now that they were being answered, she asked herself whether she should ever read those answers, for they were to her as a sealed book.

It was a singular sensation, and as Naomi experienced it, her head throbbed with acute pain. It seemed to her that the pangs started from the spot upon her forehead where her head came in contact with the earth on the day of the ball; but yet all this seemed extraordinary, and she gazed at him in a puzzled manner as he bent nearer.

She did not believe in magnetism, or any of the strange doctrines that had become popular of late; but she was forced to believe in the power of Da Silva's eyes, as, like some timid bird in the presence of a hawk, she shrank back on the couch and tried to listen to his words.

She heard them, but their import hardly seemed to reach her brain, for it was taken up with pondering the impossibility of here mother's life, as he gazed into her eyes, and held her by the close being in his power.

As for the words he uttered, they were probably the same as he had repeated to other women in his time. He told her he loved her; that from the moment he had seen her she had been the one object of his life; that she was dearer to him than all the world beside; that he would die for her, and that he would make her his wife.

Then he paused, and Naomi, in a dreamy way, thought that he was waiting for her to speak; but she could not, and he went on to tell her that he knew that her father had given consent to their union; and that their future would be one long path of roses. Money? He would shower it upon her, and she should have everything which wealth could procure. Her every wish should be fulfilled; and he ended by calling himself the most blessed of men.

As he finished speaking, he bent down to kiss the hand he held, and in doing so freed Naomi from his gaze, when, with a sigh of relief, she rose to her feet, and walked into the conservatory, taking care not to again encounter her companion's eyes.

QUEST—SUPERNATURAL?

Sir James was not a man to listen to the idle chatter of his servants, but he could not help it reaching his ears that there was something wrong at the Manor. First one, and then another, and then a whole batch of the domestics gave notice to leave, refusing to give any reason, till he regularly concerned the old butler one morning in his study, and insisted upon knowing what was wrong.

The old man looked at him, then at the floor, the ceiling, and the window, and then at the door.

'No,' cried Sir James, 'you don't leave this room, sir, till I have had some explanation. Look here, Penley—I don't care a pin who goes and who stays; but the trouble of changing varies me. Now, look here, my man, speak out at once.'

'If you please, Sir James, I'd rather not.'

'How dare you, sir? I insist upon knowing. Look here, Penley, evasions are useless. There must be some potent reason, and I will know.'

'Yes, Sir James; but as I'm not going to leave your service, would you mind letting me send in one of the men as is going?'

'One of the men as is going?' cried Sir James with disgust. 'No, sir; speak at once.'

The butler gazed timidly round, and ended by staring at his master.

'The fact is, sir, the house is haunted.'

The Most Valuable Gifts—Restoration of the Health.

During the past ten years the Great Shoshonees Remedy has faithfully redeemed every promise and guarantee made to the public. Alarming and apparently hopeless cases of Lung diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Kidney and Urinary Complaints of every description, including Scrofula and Skin Diseases of life-long duration, have been permanently removed and eradicated. Those who volunteered their testimony to the efficacy of the Remedy are not bogus people in unheard-of localities in foreign countries, but respectable citizens of this country, easy of access and open to question, upon whose verbal recommendations we are willing to rest the reputation of the Great Shoshonees Remedy. If you are afflicted, do not delay until medicine may be powerless to aid you. No injurious effects can possibly follow the use of these Indian Remedies, as they contain no minerals, by which the fate of the invalid is so often sealed under the form of some temporary sedative or stimulant. These Indian Remedies are widely known and still possess the public confidence, after the lapse of sufficient time to test their efficacy.

The Shoshonees Vegetable Sugar Coated Pills have won for themselves the most favorable reputation of any pill before the public. Their efficacy has been fully proved as a remedy for billiousness, Sick Headache and Insactivities of the stomach. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles, $1; Pills, 25 cents a box. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Mitchell's Belladonna Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgendy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one of the greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plaster they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service that a hundred of the ordinary kin. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn consinually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved on hand. RUBBER GOODS, &c., &c. MISSION OF THE BIG BOOT, next door to Dr. Esmond's Drug Store, George Street, Peterborough.

of RHEUMATISM, TIC DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS, PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST; and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long-seated Consumption.

Horses Saved.

The lives of thousands of horses have been saved during the past year, and the credit is due to "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." This preparation is being extensively used, and exacts from all the highest praise. Nothing of the kind has ever before been half so successful or given such universal satisfaction; it cannot be equalled. We can confidently recommend it, and would advise all who own horses to keep a supply of it on hand—it may be the means of saving your horse's life. Remember the name and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for Canada. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

The efficacy of Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers in curing Coughs, Colds, and all Bronchial Affections, and observing the afflicted, has passed into a proverb. In the United States, where these unsurpassed Wafers are known, they bear down all opposition and eclipse all rivalry; the demand for them has steadily increased for the last twenty years, until now the sales average over one hundred thousand boxes a year. Eminent members of the medical profession without number admit that they know of no preparation producing such beneficial results as these Wafers. When taken in season they effect a permanent cure. Sold by all druggists and country dealers at 25 cents per box.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

CATARRH.

Constitutional Catarrh Remedy Cures Catarrh.

T. J. B. HARDING, Esq., BROCKVILLE, ONT.

DEAR SIR.—It is now two years since your "Constitutional Catarrh Remedy" was introduced to me, I have waited this long to see if the cure would remain permanent before doing this, my duty, to you as at first the happy effects seemed to me to be "too good to be true."

I was afflicted in my head for years before I suspected it to be Catarrh. In reading in your Circular I saw my case decided in many particulars. The inward "drop" from the head had become very discernable, and a choking sensation often preventing me from lying long, I would feel like smothering and be compelled to sit up in the bed. My health and spirits were seriously affected. When your Agent came to Wallacetown in August 1877, I secured three bottles. Before I had used a quarter of the contents of one bottle I found decided relief, and when I had used two bottles and a third, I quit taking it. Seeing quite cured of that ailment, and have not used any since until of late I have taken some for a cold in my head.

A sense of duty to sufferers from that loathsome disease, Catarrh, prompts me to send you this Certificate, unsolicited, with leave to make what use of it you may see proper. Yours truly,

W. TINDALL, Methodist minister.

WILD-CAT CURRENCY.

There was a fair attendance at the Town Hall on Wednesday evening last, at the meeting called by the Mayor to hear what Mr. G. D. Griffin, of the Dominion Watchman, had to say about the issue of an irredeemable "National Currency," with which such distinguished financiers, as Mr. Griffin, Mr. Ick Evans and Mr. Wallace, propose to supplant the honest dollar in Canada. The Chair was occupied by the Mayor, who introduced the speaker without any reference to the subject on his own part.

Mr. Griffin began by riddicaling the standard of value as at present observed in most civilized nations, and propounded the belief that all currency ought to be issued by the Government of a country. He held that the amount of currency in Canada ought to be per capita equal to that in circulation in Great Britain, and argued that by the creation of an extra circulation the rates of interest would be brought down. He thought the borrowing of money from abroad helped to keep the country poor. In reference to the argument that we could not pay our foreign indebtedness with fiat money, we could pay off that indebtedness with the surplus of products exported. He thought the effect of a National Currency would be to compel merchants and manufacturers to buy within the country. He said we wanted $100,000,000 of this National Currency, and it would only cost $117,000,000 every ten years for its use. Referring to the Pacific Railway scheme, he said Sir John Macdonald's scheme would cost $160,000,000 every ten years in interest, and the Government would own neither the road nor the currency. Alex. Mackenzie's scheme would cost $178,000,000, and Sir L. Tilley's $130,000,000 every ten years. If his own scheme were adopted, he argued that the country would save every ten years $195,000,000, making use of the very singular statement that the saving in the cost of construction would build the road! If we had plenty of this accommodating currency, there would be no more mortgages, judgments, or book debts. He did not believe the currency would depreciate, as if we had plenty of gold the rate of interest would be lower. The fiat money would be paid out for the labor for public works, would go to the merchant, thence to the produce man, and from him into the banks. The foreigner would not take the money, but we would keep it in the country, and instead of borrowing from other countries, would build up our own country with our own money.

A gentleman in the audience intimated that he did not see how we were going to make money out of nothing.

Mr. Griffin said as long as the credit was sound it did not matter whether there was gold to back the circulation or not. He ignored the basis of gold altogether, and said all the Government had to say would be—"let there be money," and there would be money accordingly.

Mr. Tanner asked what the bonds which he proposed to issue would represent.

Mr. Griffin said the bonds would be issued for post office deposits, which would go to pay off the foreign debt of the country—(a pleasant proposition for P. O. depositors). At all events we would have the currency and would not have to pay the interest on it.

Dr. Kincaid enquired if he thought we could build the Pacific Railway out of the earnings of our people.

Mr. Griffin replied that there were enough people in the country to build it, if they had the money to do it with.

Another gentleman asked if fiat money would buy iron to build the Pacific Railway.

Mr. Griffin said if we couldn't buy it, we could make it here.

Mr. Dunford asked if a National Currency would not raise the cost of our importations.

Mr. Griffin admitted that it would, but thought only for a short time. We would make the goods at home.

In answer to a question by Mr. Edmison, he said the foreign indebtedness would be paid off with bills of exchange which we would get for our surplus products. If they wouldn't take that they would have to wait.

Mr. Edmison wanted to know what we would do for articles we didn't manufacture.

Mr. Griffin said we would be sure of food and raiment, and it didn't matter about luxuries.

On motion of Dr. Kincaid a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Griffin for his trouble in coming to Peterborough and making these explanations.

A motion of Mr. Toole, endorsing Mr. Griffin's views, was declared carried, though it was evident that the great majority of those present were averse to committing themselves to these opinions.

The meeting then dispersed.

A Tax Collector's Troubles.

Fined for Pointing a Pistol.

We take the following particulars of an interesting case in the Norwood Magistrates' Court from the Register of the 18th:

A Magistrates' Court will be held in Norwood on Saturday afternoon last. The Bench was composed of Messrs. H. Drain, D. Rose and John Kidd. The litigants were Mrs. — McNutt and James Taylor, both of Dummer, the latter being collector of that township. The plaintiff charged the defendant, Taylor, with having, on the 5th instant drawn a pistol from his pocket and pointed it at her. Pleaded not guilty.

Mrs. McNutt testified that Taylor came to her place in the absence of her husband to collect taxes, and knocked at her door for admittance; she refused to admit him. He asked if she was going to pay her taxes, she said, No! Taylor then said he would take a cow he saw standing near by, and told E. Morrison, who accompanied him, to drive her away. She came out and forbid them taking the cow, and as they were going down the hill she took up an axe standing at the kitchen door, and walked towards the cow. She intended to head her off, and as she approached, Taylor drew a pistol out of his pocket and pointed it straight at her saying, "Do you see this?" She looked at him, and he said "I'll mark you." She replied, "I'll put coats to you for this."

In cross-examining witness, Taylor put the question to her, Did she not say that she would swear rape against him? The witness declined to answer the question, stating that she had told the truth. The question being repeated, the magistrates authorized her to answer it, as it was deemed irrelevant to the case.

For the defence E. Morrison was examined. He testified that Taylor had a pistol, but he carried his pistol in his pocket; did not see him point it at Mrs McNutt. She said she would swear rape against both of us. Saw Mrs. McNutt coming forward in a threatening manner with an axe. Thought there was danger; did not hear Taylor make any threats.

James Taylor, defendant, testified that he went to McNutt's and demanded admittance and the taxes, and was answered by a voice inside "Come not to-day." He said there was a cow here and he would take her. He started away, when the plaintiff came out and said "If you take the cow I'll swear rape on you." He said you can't do that." She then said, "She could swear anything she liked." Morrison was with him, and before they approached the door, plaintiff lifted an axe and came towards the cow. He then put his hand in his pocket and drew out a pen-knife, and pointing (here witness raised his arm in line with his shoulder) and pointing it at her, told her to stand back.

The magistrates gave the case a very patient and attentive hearing. Messrs. Drain and Kidd adjudged Taylor guilty of unlawfully pointing a pistol at the plaintiff; while Mr. Rose contended that the case was not proven, and that Taylor, in the discharge of his duty as collector, being an ex-officio constable, was entitled to carry a pistol. The lowest fine, $20, was imposed on Taylor, the costs amounting to $5.75. Taylor appealed, and said he would take the case to another tribunal.

LOCAL NEWS.

THE TAGGART ENQUIRY.—The Lindsay Post says:—Further enquiry into the cause of Francis C. Taggart's death is now being prosecuted by police authorities, but in the interests of justice it is thought desirable not to make public the new information so far obtained.

RESULT OF A FALL.—Last Monday Mr. Robert McKeown fell from a load of straw and dislocated his arm at the shoulder. Dr. B. Kincaid reduced the dislocation, and the patient is doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

A LIBERAL GIFT.—Mr. Robt Hay, M.P., has offered an annual scholarship of $40, to be competed for next summer at Toronto Collegiate Institute. We might remind the M.P.'s for Peterboro' that there is a Collegiate Institute in this town. "Go thou and do likewise."

SIGN OF PROGRESS.—We observe that Mr. B. Morrow has purchased a handsome new sleigh for the delivery of goods to his customers in the town and Ashburnham. It is one of the handsomest rigs of its kind ever turned out by Mr. Laplante. Mr. Morrow is doing a first-class business, and he is bound to have everything appertaining thereto in first-class style.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.—This well-worn but ever favorite play was put on the boards on Wednesday evening last in Bradburn's Opera House to a fair audience. The presentation was in every respect a superior one, while the Topsy of Mrs. G. C. Howard was of an unusual order of merit. The audience testified their appreciation of the excellence of the performance throughout, and we can heartily recommend the Howard Combination to the patronage of the public elsewhere.

THE OPERA HOUSE.—Our readers must not forget that to-morrow evening is the date of the dramatic and musical entertainment by the pupils of Notre Dame Convent. The pupils have arranged an excellent programme for the occasion, and those who attend will, we can safely promise, be more than pleased with the entertainment. It is whispered that some local histrionic talent of no mean merit will make its debut on the occasion.

OUR CARRIER BOY.—When our Carrier Boy makes his weekly round on New Year's day we trust the numerous friends of the EXAMINER in the Town will not forget the kind donation which according to their liberality in former years they have felt inclined to give. This is a custom which obtains in every locality where a newspaper is published, and the carrier boys are always made happy that day by a pocketful of silver, and sometimes by a bounteous repast of cake.

THE HOLIDAY TRADE.—Mr. C. Young, of Ashburnham village, is determined, as will be seen by announcement elsewhere, not to be behind hand, in the ranks of the merchants who are "laying for" the Christmas trade, by the offer of liberal inducements to purchasers. His stock of groceries, liquors, crockery, &c., is complete in every department, first-class in quality, and cut down in price to the lowest living rate. The people of Ashburnham and East Peterborough will find that his stock is not surpassed by any in freshness and quality, and he only asks them to examine his stock for themselves and see his prices, and is willing to trust the rest to their own judgment.

THE CHRISTMAS BOOK.—Our readers will see by our advertising columns this week that Mr. J. Cameron, grocer and liquor merchant, is fully prepared in every department for the Christmas trade token, and has added to it with new stock to meet the requirements of his numerous customers and the public generally, and to judge from the rapid manner in which his stock is disappearing, the public find prudential reasons for dealing at his establishment. However, as he is constantly receiving fresh accessions of stock, he will probably be able to "hold the fort" against all-comers during the holiday rush. Buyers would do well to consult his prices.

AN EXCELLENT OPPORTUNITY.—One man's extremity is said to be another man's opportunity, and it is on the principle that when a dissolution of partnership takes place, and a stock of goods has to be forced upon the market to realize, the buyer has things pretty much his own way, and is enabled to make a little money over a good many purchases. One of these opportunities is now open to the public, by the dissolution of partnership and clearing sale of the firm of Hackett & Shirley, who are offering a splendid stock of dry goods at extraordinarily low prices, as any person can ascertain for himself or herself by paying a visit to the store of the firm on George Street. Those who want to take advantage of this chance to buy cheap at the cheapest rates, will do well to take counsel with prudence, and go and inspect the stock and consider the prices.

BUY GOODS FOR THE HOLIDAY TRADE.—Holiday purchasers will do well not to overlook the advantages offered them at the extensive importing establishment of W. Fahrner-ther in Co. They have a very heavy stock of all kinds of dry goods, etc., laid in for the holiday trade, and to judge from the liberal claims of public patronage, which they are receiving, we imagine that people find the goods there just as they advertise, both in respect of style, variety and quality, and as regards the very essential feature of very reasonable prices. They have cut their rates to the very smallest advance on cost, and as they have special facilities for purchasing to the best advantage, the retail buyer can rely upon getting the very outside value for his money. Buyers are quick to ascertain where they can lay out their money so as to get the most favorable return for their expenditure, and this probably accounts for the rush just now going on at Fahrner-ther's. People who contemplate purchasing should lose no time in paying this firm a visit, for it must be remembered that the early buyers have always an advantage in the range of stock to be selected from. They are, however, constantly adding to the stock as it is cleared out, to keep up with the demand, so that all-comers may rely upon finding what they want, and at prices which cannot fail to please the most economical buyers.

S. S. No. 16, OTONABEE.—A very successful examination was held at S S. No. 16, Otonabee, on Friday, 19th December, when quite a number of people from the section were present. At the close of the examination the pupils presented their teacher, Mr. A. M. Millar, with a very elegantly bound copy of Byron's works. The following are the names of the pupils, with the total number of marks taken by each during the term:—Part I.—Annie Stewart, 230; Joe Welsh, 351; Tommy Neithercut, 234; Charlie Frost, 177; Emma Welsh, 90; Patience Vossie, 71; Maud Neithercut, 36. Part II.—Freddie Lynch, 1186; William Robson, 1091; Mary Sheaffe, 988. Second—Arthur Stewart, 1467; Hannah Neithercut, 1156; Sarah Jane Neithercut, 1122; Sidney Bennett, 1077; John Lynch, 979; Maggie Sedgwick, 970; John Robson, 825. Third—Percy Kennedy, 2711; Welby Matchett, 2558; Harry Kennedy, 2250; Emma Welch, 2147; Archie Huston, 1692; Newton Stewart, 1600; Tidellah Gaddys, 1594; Ada Robertson and Charlie Robertson, 1555; Frank Lynch, 1274; Sarah Jane Welsh, 1217. A prize was given to each class for general proficiency.

A FAVORITE TOPIC WITH ABSENT WRITERS was the seven wonders of the world. These have come down to us embalmed in the eloquence of the poet and historian. One of the wonders of our own time is that great Fashion Journal—Andrew's Bazar. Six years ago launched on the sea of journalism, where have been so many shipwrecks, to-day with a subscription list of 75,000, it stands pre-eminent, the acknowledged standard of American fashion, absolutely reliable on all matters pertaining to the toilet, superbly illustrated, and brimful of chaste and brilliant literature. Andrew's Bazar was founded in Cincinnati, but the great demand for it in the East has compelled its publisher to establish his main offices in New York, where its Fashion, Editorial and Literary Departments are now conducted. It is published simultaneously in both cities. For $1 per annum every lady can have this invaluable fashion mentor. Every yearly subscriber is presented free with 50 cents worth of Andrew's Bazar Patterns; and, notwithstanding these wonderfully low figures, with the January number the publisher will give his new yearly subscribers a supplement sheet of designs worth $10. Every lady should send a year's subscription, or 10c for a sample copy to W. R. Andrews, Publisher, Tribune building, New York.

A SAFE INVESTMENT.—People who have to make purchases for personal or family requirements, naturally want to get the greatest return for their money, and there is no safer rule in making purchases of any description than to patronize those who practice the business economy of liberal advertising. The merchant who is too parsimonious to seek the custom of the public through the columns of the family paper, is much more likely to put sand in his sugar, to stretch his cotton, or to seek to get first-class prices for inferior goods, than one who consults the public convenience by laying before the readers of the local paper in black and white what he is prepared to sell, and how he is willing to sell it. The firm of Munro & Alexander understands the benefit, both to seller and buyer, of liberal use of the advertising columns of the EXAMINER. They acquaint the public with every fresh accession of stock, and the customer is not slow to find out that they always have on hand what they advertise, and sell at the most reasonable prices. Hence they create and retain custom which the non-advertiser would never procure. Our readers should watch their announcements from time to time, and they will always find the firm ready to supply them with any requirements in the dry goods line. They import only the very best stock, and work on the principle of light profits and quick returns.

The Story Told a Boy.

A Detroit boot-black, who had strayed out to Pontiac, was on his return, having a seat in the car with a benevolent old man. Of course Shiner put up the window as soon as he sat down. The wind blew in at the rate of forty miles an hour, and the old man presently said:

"Why do you keep the window up?"

"Don't I want some way to jump out if the cars fell into the river," replied the boy. Then he stuck his head and shoulders out, and the old man asked:

"Boy why do you lean out of the window so far?"

"Don't I want to call if there are any cattle on the track?" replied Shiner.

"Let me tell you a story," continued the old man as he hauled the boy in.

"There was once a boy 13 years old named Henry."

"Didn't they call him Hank?" inquired the boy.

"There was once a boy named Henry. One day he took a journey by rail to a city about twenty miles from his home.

"Didn't beat the conductor out of his fare, did he?"

This boy had been warned, continued the old man, "not to throw up the window. It open window is dangerous on accounts of the draughts, and many a person has been blinded by the flying cinders."

"But he shoved up the winder, didn't he?"

"Yes. He thought he knew more than any one else, and up it went. Not satisfied with that he put his head and shoulders out."

"Bound to see the country, wasn't he?"

"The train sped onward," sighed the old man, "and by and by it came along to a signal post. The boy was still leaning out, and all of a sud——"

"Hold on, old man," interrupted Shiner as he wheeled around, "I know what you are going to say! You are going to say that the boy struck the post with his chin and knocked about three feet off the top off and tore up half a mile of track and was put in Detroit Prison for life but I won't go to—Detroit first. No one can fool me. I'm going to look out of this window all I want to, and if this railroad company don't look after its posts they will get sued for damages."

MUNICIPAL MEETINGS.

Belmont Township Council.

The Belmont Council met on the 29th ult. James Wilson was given $6 for cutting trees on the 6th line. A petition to pay the late Mrs. Brock's funeral expenses was refused. Widow Lusher was given $4 charity, and John Walker $3. By laws respecting the municipal elections in Methuen were passed. Stephen Sophy's account of $15 for work on eastern boundary, was laid over, and the clerk instructed to ascertain if the Marmora Council supplemented the grant on the same line of road. An application to open up the 1st concession line was also laid over. The Reeve was authorized to attend the County land sales to dispose of certain lands to the highest bidder. Wm. McMullin and Robert Southwick were allowed the timber on the 8th con. line opposite lots 6 an : 7, for performing 9 day's road work The Council then adjourned till the last Saturday in December.

Montreal and the Trent Valley Canal Scheme.

The Montreal City Council met on Thursday afternoon last for the purpose of hearing a deputation appointed to explain the project of the promoters of the new Trent Valley Canal. Mayor Rivard occupied the chair, and introduced Mr. Joseph Keeler, M.P. for East Northumberland, and Mr. John Carnegie, of Peterborough, the gentlemen forming the deputation.

Mr. Keeler, M.P., explained how by making two inland cuts at the comparatively small cost of three millions of dollars, they would be able to make a barge canal, which would put the port of Montreal in direct communication with the Georgian Bay and the Manitoulin Islands, and bring Montreal 450 miles nearer to the Western States and Manitoba than New York.

Mr. Carnegie also addressed the Council on the importance of the scheme, after which the Mayor and Ald. Nelson were appointed to proceed to Ottawa on Tuesday to urge upon the Government to undertake the work.

On Friday the deputation had an interview with the Council of the Board of Trade.

A Hard Winter.

During the drizzle yesterday afternoon there was a choice crowd of old citizens under the portices of the Town Hall, and one such group was joined by a threadbare stranger, who scratched his itching back against the carving on one of the pillars and asked:

"Gentlemen, is this going to be a hard winter?"

"It is!" replied every man together.

"Work will be scarce and provisions higher?"

"Yes," they replied.

"Weather will be so all-fired cold that water will burst all the water pipes, I suppose?"

"Yes, it will."

"Won't be any show for a poor man like me?"

"Not a bit."

"I'd probably freeze to death while looking for a job?"

"You would—you would!"

"Well, that's what I thought, and I want to arrange to go to the county gaol for three months. I didn't want to go up as a vag, because that's low down. I'd rather be charged with assault and battery. Will one of you gentlemen please let me cuff off his hat and then ask the officer to arrest me?"

After some hesitation one citizen with more philanthropy than the others stepped out. His plug hat was jammed clear down to his top vest-button at a blow, he was knocked right and left by cuffs on the head, and as a climax was whirled around and given several kicks which weighed fifty pounds apiece.

"There!" said the stranger, as he shut off steam and slowed up. "That fixes both of us, you'll remember me and I'll remember you, and you may call Constable McGhee."

Some of the group called him out of the corridor, but the officer said he could not make such an arrest unless he saw the fight or had a warrant.

"Very well," replied the stranger, as he moved off, "I am willing to submit to your maturer judgment and experience, and I can't wait here all day! Good-bye, prophets! I think my best way will be to get down to Texas and leave your hard old winter to run herself!"

Smugglers' Boon.

There are as usual a serioes of pointed and amusing illustrations in last week's issue of Grip, but the principal and best is that which is entitled "The Smuggler; Hum." The Finance Minister discovered a hum and no mistake. A great wall (Protection) is shown. Over the top of this Sir Samuel Tilley and Sir Richard Cartwright are looking. Below a party of men, savage and piratical in appearance are at work. These are the smugglers, who have forced a hole in the wall, and are rolling in huge bales of American goods, upon which no duty is paid, and upon which it is not intended to pay any. Sir Samuel looks bad, and Sir Richard makes him feel the worse by remarking "Hoy ho! I told you so." The post has given us (in the same number of Grip; the following lines:

Sir Samuel Tilley bobbing round
A-hunting for the "hum."
Had travelled all the country o'er
And to the wall had come;
The wall I mean is that which guards
Our shore from foreign scum.

Quoth he, there is a business boom,
And I feel an honest pride
That I did help to rear this wall;
And now my trusty guide,
If you will kindly boost me up,
I'll take a look out side.

He took a glance, and there he saw
The thieving smugglers thick.
"There is a business hum, quoth they,
"Sam Tilley, you're a brick!"
Then Samuel got down off the wall,
And felt extremely sick.

A. CLEGG,

HOUSEHOLD HALL.

(Concluded from last week.)

"you know it was I who entered the room through the open window at your back. You know I followed you up the stairs, as you retreated with your spoil. When, at my trial, your servant testified to meeting me on the landing that night, with a face wild, white and horrified, you knew what that testimony meant."

"Never mind, old boy. I won't contradict you," said Thornton, airily; "as for the money I regret to say I have spent it according to my needs. Here is the last of it."

And he dropped the roll of bank-notes from his hand, and turned to Alice.

"Ah, Alice, I have lost you now for certain," he sighed.

"I was not yours to lose," she answered, haughtily; "I told you a week ago that I would never marry you. Now, follow me—I am going to find the judge."

"Very well," sneered Thornton; "come on, Coleman!" and under the overgrowth the three walked away to the house.

.. .. ..

An hour after Lawrence Coleman entered his boat from under the willow tree, and rowed back across the river. His thoughts were full of a proud, old man, bowed to the dust with shame and humiliation; of the friend he had come loved ignoring our his guilty soul in forced confidence, at last—of a girl, pale and beautiful, who had given him her hand at parting, and whispered fervently, "How glad—how very glad I am for you!"

The judge was a just man—he would not spare his son. To-morrow the whole town would know the secret of the willow tree by the river.

But when the morrow came Thornton Sinclair had fled. The town-cycle heard his story, indeed, but the culprit they never saw more. Lawrence Coleman went abroad for six months. At the end of that time he returned, and stood like a leggar at Judge Sinclair's threshold.

Alice Gordon met him there, beautiful and imperious as of old.

"I have loved you," he said, "ever since the night you knocked at my door in the storm! You were the first to believe in me Alice—the first to stretch out a hand to lift me up from despair. My darling, my darling! will be my wife?"

He was trembling with passion and pain.

She looked at him like Lochinvar's fair Ellen—"With a smile on her lip and a tear in her eye."

"Why should I not?" she answered. "I gave my heart to you long ago."

And the old judge, full of bitter and remorseful memories, took her white head and placed it silently in Lawrence Coleman's.

THE PEASANT'S DILEMMA.

A young peasant was giving concerts through Germany for her support, and to enhance her reputation she advertised herself as a pupil of Liszt. In a little town in the interior of Germany, where she had announced a concert, she was confounded the day before the concert was to take place by seeing in the list of arrivals, and at the very hotel where the concert was to be given, "Mr. Liszt."

Here was a dilemma, and what to do she knew not. Her fraud would be discovered, she would be arrested, she could never give another concert, she was ruined. Unwittingly she sought the presence of the great maestro, & crushed to make a clean breast of it, and cast herself on his mercy. Coming into his room with downcast eyes, she knelt at the old man's feet and with many tears told her story—how she had been left an orphan, and poor, with only her one gift of music with which to support herself, the difficulties she had encountered, until the fraudulent use of his great name had filled her rooms and her purse.

"Well, well," said the great man, gently raising her up, "let us see, my child, what we can do. Perhaps it is not so bad as you thought. There is a piano; let me hear one of the pieces you intend to play to-morrow." Making comments and suggestions as she played, and when she had finished, he added, "Now, my child, I have given you a lesson, you are a pupil of Liszt." Before she could find words to express her gratitude, Liszt asked, "Are your programmes printed?" "No, sir," was the answer, "not yet." "Then say that you will be assisted by your master, and that the last piece of the programme will be played by the old Liszt." That concert, it may be readily believed, was a great success.—The Interior.

AN OBITUARY FOR A LIVE GIRL.

A New York newspaper correspondent who has reached down East early in the season writes: Let us speak a good word for the Maine girl. She is a splendid housewife; she has beautiful arms, and she time to see them is when she is making bread. Why hasn't Longfellow written of "The Baking of the Bread" along with the building of a ship? Or has he? The Maine girl is fleshy as a general thing. She has a rosy, round face; she has heavy eyes, swept by long, silky lashes; she has brains as sure and true, if not surer and truer, than Boston brains. Her lips are ripe and full. She sings from sunrise until she seeks her downy pillow at night. She is merry and chirp as a sparrow; when she laughs she throws back her head. She looks beautiful. It is a grand sight to see a Maine girl laugh. It is thrilling, natural, and unaffected. It is splendid; it is nature—poor, fallen nature then. Where is the artist to paint the Maine girl laughing? to say that face on canvas? to duplicate that mouth in oil colors? If your phonograph has nothing but a Maine girl's laugh to throw back upon you, you are rich in melody. There is a sweet simplicity about the girl. We are happy at introducing her to any strangers, and hope we may be remembered, either by cake or invitation, when the marriage bells are ringing.

A Paducah, Kentucky, paper "goes for" the detestable practice of attaching and tying up steamboats on the most trivial charges. It says:

Four steamers were detained at this port yesterday by the Deputy United States Marshal for trifling sums alleged to be due roustabouts as wages. In most cases the officers of the boats would rather submit to be swindled by unscrupulous employees than to be detained. Of course there is no recourse left the law officers but to enforce the law as it appears on the books. However, the law is all wrong and too rigid on steamboatmen, and should be done away with and something more just and equitable supplied in its place. Railroads can owe thousands of dollars and run their trains right along as if nothing had happened; but let an unhappy steam boatman be sued by some ruffling, good for nothing roustabout and he must 'fork over' at once or submit to all kinds of vexation and trouble.

LADIES, DON'T READ THIS!

The following paragraph is not intended for the ladies. We call particular attention to this fact in order to avoid any misunderstanding that might arise if any of them should accidentally peruse it. We know they will all skip it now, after we have called their attention to the matter, and thus we shall be relieved of a great responsibility. Beware, ladies—don't read.

WOMAN'S CURIOSITY.

If there's anything worries a woman,
It's something she ought not to know,
But you bet she'll find it out somehow
If she gets the least kind of a show;
Now we'll wager ten cents to a farthing
This verse she's already read—
We know she'll get at it somehow,
If she had to stand up on her head.
—Home Guard.

There is nothing which most people will resent more promptly or with greater vigor than the rifling of the graves of the cherished dead. It is not often that any one is called upon to witness such an outrage, but suspicions are entertained by the public mind that graves are robbed oftener than is known. The faculties of medical colleges palliate these offences on the ground that they must have subjects for dissection; but they usually obtain the bodies of the poor and the friendless.

"Why is it, my dear sir," said Waffles landlady to him the other day, "that you newspaper men never get rich?" "We do not know," was his reply, "except it is that dollars and sense do not always travel together."

The greatest benefactor of the female sex on this continent, according to the Chicago Times, is Judge Booth of Detroit park, Iowa. He has adopted seventeen girls, "raised them, and married most of them off with generous moneying."

"So you are going to keep a school," said a young lady to an old bachelor acquaintance. "Well, for my part, more than that I would marry the wickedest man in existence." "I would prefer that myself; but where is the widower?"

"One who knows," asks the public through the Boston papers to suggest a name for an emergency for the present. We'll all do it. Until this heated term ends we will suggest to every anything on earth to say or what beyond what is already used.

LADIES' COLUMN.

WHY are the country girls' cheeks like well-painted cotton? Because they are warranted to wash and keep the color.

WOMAN is less independent than man in many respects, and requires to exercise more deliberation and caution. Moreover, she has not the initiative. It is easy for a man to decide and offer, when he loves; but a woman may love without hope of an offer. When man chooses, he proposes; when women choose, she waits.

TIME FOR MATRIMONY.—Among the ancient Germans, when whom a fever never existed, it was death for any woman to marry before she was twenty years old. In this country, very few ladies are fit, either physically or mentally, to become mothers before they reach the age of twenty-one, or twenty-two, or one or two years still older. The unsound condition and constitution of the parent is usually transmitted, with increased intensity, to the offspring. By the laws of Lycurgus, the most special attention was paid to the physical education of women; and no delicate or sickly women were, on any account, allowed to marry. Dr. Johnson, in his work on the Economy of Health, says that matrimony should not be contracted before the first year of the fourth septennial, on the part of the lady, nor before the last year of the same, in the case of the gentleman; in other words, the female should be at least twenty-one years of age, and the male twenty-eight years. The doctor says, that there should be a difference of seven years between the sexes, at whatever period of life the connection is commenced. There is a difference of seven years, not in the actual duration of life in the two sexes, but in the stamina of the constitution, the symmetry of the form, and the lineaments of the face. In respect to early marriage, so far as it concerns the softer sex, for every year at which marriage is entered upon before the age of twenty-one, there will be, on an average, three years of premature decay, more or less apparent, of the corporeal fabric.

FLOWER CULTURE FOR LADIES.—Gardening was anciently considered the second of the fine and agreeable arts, ranking next to architecture. It is a beautiful occupation for a leisure hour, giving to those who have a taste for the beautiful and valuable, delight and gain. It should be a favorite occupation for a lady, who should have her plants and shrubs, and occupy herself one or two hours a day with them. It is a mistaken idea, that injury to health arises from having plants within the house. When admitted into rooms to the limited extent that is generally practised, plants can produce no effect of sufficient consequence to injure the health of persons who occupy them, but, on the contrary, will afford amusement to the mind, and exercise to the body, both of which are so necessary to the enjoyment of good health. The mind will be agreeably employed in contemplating the beauty of the flowers, but more so still, if the study of their respective parts, natures, and structures, in a botanical and physiological point of view, be at the same time attended to. House-plants should be kept clean and well aired. They respire by the leaves, as the animals do by their breathing apparatus, and it is on this account that keeping the leaves clean is so very essential to the health of plants; indeed, the dust which collects on them, and interrupts their respiration is one of the greatest evils which can befal plants, especially those kept in rooms; the respiring powers are generally large in proportion as the leaves are so, and this is one of the reasons why delicate leaved plants are not so well adapted for house culture as those which have the leaves larger and firmer.

HARMONY OF COLORS IN TAPESTRY WORK.—A good eye for colors is a real gift; and although the proper perception and appreciation of the harmony of colors, like every other faculty of the human mind, may be greatly improved by cultivation and practice; yet, quick discernment in other respects, aided by good taste, will cause some persons to succeed more quickly in the adaptation of colors than others. To the most gifted, however, length of time and experience are necessary to a perfect knowledge of harmonious coloring—hence, the difficulty of arranging the various colored wools for a piece of tapestry work, or, as it is technically termed, when working from a colored drawing, sorting the patterns. There is a great difference between silk and wool similarly dyed; every kind of preparation and texture produces corresponding modifications—and roughness, smoothness, and glossiness, are all to be considered. The same silk used as "floss," materially differs in color when twisted. One great desideratum—permanency of color—must also be taken in account. All colors are not equally durable, some fading more quickly than others; it is, therefore, necessary to guard against the evanescence and perishable nature of some of the brilliant appearances of color, and to avoid them materials, whose gay dyes aim only at transient beauty. The numberless hues of gray, buff, slate, brown, russet, mauve, salmon, lilac and green, not to mention the more easily distinguished hues of pink, scarlet, geranium, blue, and yellow, together with the various tints and shades of the same, require greater skill for their arrangement and disposition than might at first be supposed, and can only be understood by special attention and study.

ADAPTATION OF FEMALE DRESS TO THE COMPLEXION.—Blue imparts orange, which is susceptible of allying itself to white and the light flesh tints of fair complexions, which have already a more or less determined tint of this color. Blue, therefore, is a color suitable to rose blondes, and in this case justifies its reputation; it will not suit brunettes, since they have already too much of the orange. The later color is too brilliant to be elegant; it makes fair complexions blue, whites those which have an orange tint, and gives a green hue to those of a yellow tint. Violet, the complementary of yellow, produces contrary effects; thus, it imparts some greenish yellow to fair complexions, it augments the yellow tint of yellow and orange skins, and the little blue there may be in a complexion it makes green. Violet, then, is one of the least favorable colors to the skin, at least when it is not sufficiently deep to whiten it by contrast of tone—a fact important enough to be remembered by the ladies. Rose red cannot be put in contact with the rosiest complexions without causing there to lose some of their freshness; dark red is less objectionable for certain complexions than rose red, because being higher than this latter, it tends to impart whiteness to them, in consequence of contrast of tone. A delicate green is, on the contrary, favorable to all fair complexions which are deficient in rose, and which may have more impurted to them without inconvenience; but it is not so favorable to complexions that are more red than rosy. nor to those who have a tint of orange mixed with brown because the red they add to this tint will be of brick-red hue; a dark green, in the latter case, will be less objectionable than delicate green. Yellow imparts violet to a fair skin, and in this view it is less favorable than the delicate green; to those skins that are more yellow than orange, it imparts white.

SLOW FIRES AND QUICK DESTRUCTION.

Somebody ought to publish a hand-bill about, and advise people to kindle their fires with gunpowder, instead of kerosene. It would be vastly safer, indeed, for the gunpowder only explodes, and then is done with it; and if it blows out the windows and doors, or takes off a leg or an arm, or puts out an eye, that is all there is of it, and people know what to expect. But the kerosene not only explodes, but takes fire, and its burning vapor is pretty sure death to the woman who tries this sort of kindling. It is a very easy thing to tilt what is left in the lamp or the oil-can right over the cook to make a blaze when the fire is slow, but the hospital ambulance and the coroner's inquest are pretty sure to follow. The most sickening of all horrors, being burned alive, is the natural outcome of this hurrying up of slow fires by the quick kindling of kerosene, but every woman that tries it ought to know that she would be a good deal safer in the front of a battle than behind the kerosene-can in such an experiment.—Lodger.

THE FIVE LARGEST STATES.

The five largest states in 1870 showed an aggregate population of 14,849,080, scattered over an area of territory containing 823,000 square miles, or over 161,906,000 acres, or more than double the area of Great Britain and one-fifth larger than France. Eighty acres are the territory, where over 7,000,000 of these intelligent people now live, was compiled by roving tribes of savages. In 1880 the five largest states will probably rank as follows: New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, and Iowa. Perhaps Missouri may hold her position as the fifth over Iowa, but it is somewhat doubtful. It will be several decades before New York and Pennsylvania will encounter their equal possessions as to soil around them, but it is only a question of time, for we believe in the ocean of the large painting at the head of the Art Gallery which bids fair to the hall of fame for the country which is to be the Queen of the Nations, entitled, "Westward the star of empire takes its way."—*N. The most unhappy of all men is the man who cannot tell what he is going to do, that has got no work cut out for him in the world, and does not go into any. For work is the grand cure of all the maladies and miseries that ever beset mankind—hard work which you intend getting done. —Carlyle.

The every day cares and duties, which men call drudgery, are the weights and counterpoises of the clock of time, giving its pendulum a true vibration, and its hands a regular motion; and when they cease to hang upon its wheels, the pendulum no longer swings, and the hands no longer move—the clock stands still.—Longfellow.

Most people, I observe, work until they are used up, and then rest to recover themselves. I am persuaded that the true principle for an energetic man is to rest before he gets tired, as a preparation for labor. The minister ought to rest on Saturday, and go into the pulpit full of vigor. For this reason the morning hours are generally the best hours, because they are the freshest. If the pond has a full head of water on, the machinery runs easily enough and vigorously. If the water is low the machinery drags. My rule, though I sometimes violate it, is never to work except when I have so much steam in me that it is easier to work than to keep still. There is the same difference between a worker who has a great reserve of force to draw on and one who can barely keep himself at work by his conscience, than there is between a trader who has a large capital behind him and one who is on the edge of bankruptcy.

THE CROWN DIAMONDS OF FRANCE.

The exhibition of these jewels in the Champ de Mars has drawn attention to a curious episode in their history. In 1792 the Constituent Assembly ordered an inventory to be made of them, and that task has hardly been completed when, on the night of the 16th of August, they all disappeared. Forty thieves, acting in unison, managed to conceale the house in the Place Louis XV., in which the gems were deposited, and effected an entrance by breaking in the window, and carried them all off. Although so many men were engaged in the enterprise only two were caught, but the diamonds could not be found. At that moment, a man named Lemeville, a hairdresser, was in the prison of the Conciergerie under sentence of death for coining, but he made his escape. A few days afterwards he called upon Sergeant Marceau, a municipal officer, who had rendered him some service while in prison, and told the policeman that while in confinement he had heard the men talking, and had discovered the hiding place of the precious objects, viz.: in the hollows of two large beams in a garret in a certain street. The Sergeant went himself to search, and recovered the whole of them, the Regent, the Sancy, &c. As for Lemeville, he was sent away from Paris for security. Petition, the mayor of the capital, reccommended him to the Minister of War, and he was made an officer in a regiment of the line. According to an inventory, drawn up in the reign of Louis XVIII., the jewels were more than 64,000 in number, weighing 18,761 carats, and were estimated to be worth 20,900,000 francs.—Galignani's Messenger of July 4.

JUICE RIFE.

Barnum says that the best investment he has ever made was the $1,000 which he gave (1835) to the Philadelphia exhibitors of Joice Heth, the pretended negro nurse of George Washington. He had then lost most of his property, and borrowing the amount from his friends, he made a journey to Philadelphia to investigate the prospect of turning the old colored woman to pecuniary account. Satisfied that there was money in her, he purchased her cash down; advertised her so cunningly that he created great curiosity to see her, and soon took in $1,500 a week. After the city had been gratified by the sight of Joice, he travelled through the country with her, in connection with a company of mountebanks, and made a good deal of money. This was Barnum's first venture as a showman, and determined his career. He cleared directly it is alleged, $50,000 out of Joice Heth, and indirectly an immense fortune. He had not had her much more than a year when she very ungratefully died, and an autopsy proved her to have been but 75 to 80 years old, instead of 161, as had been claimed. Barnum said he had bought her for the latter age, and had done his best to make the public believe her so old. It was her fault if she had fallen short of what was expected of her by some 80 years. She might have been 161, no doubt, if she had wanted to be, and her failure to attain that degree of venerableness evinced on her part a disposition to disappoint a too credulous and confiding community. The world is studded with Joice Heths, with a difference and unending variety of names.

THE CHAMPION BULLFROG STORY.

The people of this place have accidently discovered how to utilize bullfrogs by converting them into churners of butter. The discovery was thus reached: A farmer in the neighborhood having placed a pail of milk in a spring to cool over night went there the next morning and found, it is reasonably asserted, instead of the pail of milk a large bullfrog sitting in contemplative mood upon a large roll of fresh butter. The sole explanation is that the frog had jumped from the water into the pail, and in trying to extricate himself, had, by diligent and continued strokes of his long legs, churned the milk into butter.—*Middletown, (Conn.) NEW PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS

Our contemporary the Review, following in the wake of the Hamilton Spectator and the London Free Press, opposes the construction of new Parliament Buildings as proposed by the Government of the Province, and makes little of the offer of Toronto for a site in the Queen's Park. It might be as well for the Review before condemning the Government for an extravagant expenditure which it assumes without knowledge, to wait until Mr. Mowat submits his scheme to the Legislature, so that it may see precisely what he proposes to do, and how he will accomplish it. We have not the slightest doubt that in the erection of new Public Buildings Mr. Mowat will show that same spirit of judicious economy and regard for the public interests which he has always evinced. No one pretends that new buildings are not absolutely necessary, nor are the people of Ontario of so niggardly a spirit, that they will begrudge a liberal expenditure upon a structure which will represent the dignity, wealth, and intelligence of the people whose legislators assemble therein, and whose administrative affairs are there to be carried on. The gift of Toronto is a most munificent one, and will save the Province many thousands of dollars, besides affording a site not elsewhere procurable; and we think the people of the Queen City entitled to credit and not abuse for their liberality. With this assistance, and the sale of the premises now in use, we fancy Mr. Mowat will be able to make a proposal to the House when it assembles, which will meet with unanimous approval, in spite of the opposition of the Peterborough Review. We observe that the Mail gives no encouragement to the carping critics, who will find when the Legislature meets that all their malice has been misdirected.

ONTARIO TO PAY QUEBEC'S DEBTS.

Not many weeks ago the new Quebec Premier announced it as part of the policy of his Administration to sell the Government of the Dominion the Quebec Railways from Ottawa to Montreal and Quebec city, and lately a deputation from Quebec held a conference with the Dominion Ministry at Ottawa, with the object of furthering this scheme. It seems to be quite taken for granted by Quebec Ministerial papers that the proposed arrangement is practically accomplished, of which indeed the announcement of Mr. Chapleau, in view of his prospective entrance into Sir John Macdonald's Cabinet, is in itself strong proof—so that there can be little question that the people of Ontario, so pertinently called the "milch cow of the Dominion," in its past experience, have to contemplate another inroad upon their resources of several millions magnitude, for the purpose of rescuing the Province of Quebec from the financial difficulties into which the reckless mismanagement of its local government since Confederation has plunged it. The Dominion at large—which means to be a great extent in this respect Ontario—is to be taxed to the tune of several million dollars to pay up for Tory extravagance in Quebec, and to make capital in that Province for Sir John and his Government in the next Dominion election. The excuse will be, no doubt, that the Quebec Railways are to form a portion of the Canada Pacific, but the fact that the Canada Pacific traffic will, when it is built, be the main reliance for income of the Quebec line, forms no justification whatever for the squandering of millions of money in acquiring that line, which might be otherwise used in the work of construction of the Canada Pacific itself, the completion of which is necessarily so remote that it will be years before the Quebec railways will become practically a connecting link of a Transcontinental line. The sole object in taking it up now as a Dominion Government work would be to make Ontario pay Quebec's debts, and to replenish Mr. Chapleau's empty treasury; and it would be in a piece with Sir John's traditional policy. Years ago he ruled Ontario with a Quebec majority; since Confederation he violated the terms of the constitution in order to bribe the Maritime Provinces for support to crush Ontario's votes in the House of Commons and there is no doubt that now, recognizing the fact that the next elections in this Province will give a larger majority against him than ever before, he is prepared to use the public money to buy popularity in Quebec to maintain himself in power.

DANGER AHEAD.

In the Toronto Mail of some days since appeared a remarkable article in reference to the Supreme Court of the Dominion—remarkable, in that it bore unmistakeably the impress "inspired" by some one on behalf of the Government, whose semi-official utterances are made through that channel. This article almost unreservedly condemned the Court, and intimated that the Government had it in contemplation to make important changes in reference thereto. The publication of this article was intended, undoubtedly, to prepare the public mind for some radical change which the Government proposes, and it does not require great acuteness of comprehension to perceive what the tendency of such a change will be, if it should take place. Since the present Government came into [illegible] of civil servants for political reasons; we have had high-handed [illegible] of civil servants for political reasons; we have had the privileges of Parliament set at naught by the Executive in the dismissal and appointing of servants of the House; we have had the revival of Sir John Macdonald's coup-de-main-disfranchisement trick of legislating opponents out of office, in the bogus "re-organizing" of the Wright and Manoora districts; we have had fearless intervention of the Dominion Executive in Provincial affairs, and the Premier of the Ontario Government, in the [illegible] of a Lt.-Governor against the will of Her Majesty's immediate representative, on the simple excuse that "his usefulness was gone;" and we have had introduced and practised, in the most reckless manner, the pernicious Yankee doctrine, "to the victors belong the spoils," in the place of that good old English practice, which had, up to September of 1878, always been respected in this country. And now we are confronted with a proposal to "re-organize" the Supreme Court of the Dominion, whose usefulness, in Sir John's estimation, seems to be gone—in reality because the Court was organized, and its members and officers appointed, by a Liberal government, and there are supporters of the present ministry who covet their positions. We would like to know to what all this tends—where is to be the end of this violent wrenching of the political structure—this constant tampering with the very fundamental principles of the our government—this dangerous disregard of the vital elements of constitutional self-rule?

Musical and Dramatic Concert.

On Friday evening last, Bradburn's Opera House was fairly filled by a select audience, attracted thither by the announcement of a musical and dramatic entertainment, to be given by the pupils of the Convent Congregation de Notre Dame, and those who were fortunate enough to be present on the occasion, had every reason to be well satisfied with the investment of their money. The programme, which was not only large and varied, but was arranged with extreme good taste, opened with an instrumental display, "Heavenward March," in which the skill evinced by the players, spoke volumes for the excellence of the training which had developed such results. Then followed a grand chorus by the school, which was exceedingly well rendered, and offered a very pretty coup d'oeil to the audience. More music, vocal and instrumental, followed, each piece eliciting deserved applause. Then followed a charming little operette in two acts, "The Indian Princess," which was most successfully rendered, and was repeatedly applauded. More vocal and instrumental music was followed by a comic drama, "Aunt Doewinkle," which was the piece de resistance of the evening. The acting in this piece was superb, and would have done no discredit to the professional stage, Miss K. Martin's representation of the superannuated aunt being especially good. The young ladies who contributed the instrumental part of the entertainment were Misses L. Lemay, A. Delaney, M. Hartley, M. Lawder, A. Lech, C. Lemay, A. Lynch, L. Wilson, K. Martin, A. Lahey, M. Henry, and M. Ryan. In vocal music, the burden of the evening's work fell upon Miss Jordan, Miss Delaney, Miss Mailloux, Miss A. Delaney, Miss M. Lemay, and Miss K. Martin. In the dramatic part of the entertainment those who rendered the principal assistance were Misses M. Collins, A. Delaney, M. Henry, M. Tierney, C. McGarity, K. Martin, M. Lynch, G. Lynch and A. Lynch. The entertainment was in every respect but one—that of an audience equal to its merits—a great success, and the ladies of the Convent are to be congratulated upon having so much musical and dramatic talent at their command, and upon their success in developing it. We must not forget to mention the grand transformation scene which formed a striking and beautiful tableau, though a little too great haste in lowering the curtain, somewhat curtailed the pleasure of the spectators. "God bave the Queen," finally brought the proceedings to a close.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—A little daughter of Mr. John Robertson, on Friday evening last, had the misfortune to fall down a winding stairway in her father's house, and received a fracture of the arm as a result.

REWARD OF MERIT.—On Monday preceding Christmas Day, the pupils of S. S. No. 3, Douro, presented their teacher, Mr. A. Emerson, with an address accompanied by a beautiful bible. Mr. Emerson has had charge of this school for no less a period than 27 years.

CHRISTMAS DINNER.—Mine host of the Huffman House, did the amiable on Christmas Day, the dining hall of the establishment being gaily decorated, and a choice bill of fare for discussion by the guests of the house. A subscription was taken up which afforded some $3 each to the waiters, etc.

EXTENSIVE SALE OF LUMBER.—As will be seen by reference to our advertising columns, Messrs. McDougall & Lodgie are offering for sale 1,000,000 of lumber at their mills in Harwood, and will put the same up on the hammer on the 15th inst. This will offer a splendid opportunity for any one who may be contemplating purchases of lumber, to supply their wants at cheap rates.

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE.—This beautiful and valuable publication, for the spring of 1880, is on our table and it certainly excels, in the variety of its useful information and the illustrated lessons in flower culture, any previous number, which is saying a great deal. No lady who has a flower garden, or space that can be made one, or who wants to beautify the household by window gardening ought to be without this valuable instructor. Mr. Vick by his publications has done more to disseminate knowledge of flowers among the people than any other person now living.

FIRE LAST FRIDAY.—On Friday noon last, Mr. Geo. T. Leonard had just left his home on Gilchrist street, in the north part of the town, when an alarm of fire caused him to return to see where the fire was, when, to his astonishment and dismay, he found the kitchen of his own residence in flames. A brisk west wind gave additional fury to the fire, and owing to the distance to be travelled, the firemen were unable to render any service before the building was completely consumed. Indeed, so rapid was the work of destruction that Mr. Leonard and the household escaped with nothing more than the clothes they had on. It is not known how the fire occurred. The domestic states that she had occasion to answer the door, and when she returned the kitchen was in flames. The building was a cottage, of brick, and with the furniture carried an insurance of $1,200 in the London, Liverpool and Globe Company.

CONFEDERATION LIFE ASSOCIATION.—We beg to call notice to the advertisement of this first-class institution appearing in to-days issue, especially as to their mode of division of profits which is worthy of serious consideration to all parties interested in life assurance, their system being to divide the profits on the amount of premium paid instead of the ordinary plan, thereby encouraging to continuing rather than fall them in preparation by the second cash has encouragement to profits, cash increasing with each advance paid. By referring to the advertisement, the details [illegible] explained or compared with other companies, and the manager, in his annual report, says the profits of this institution have not been equalled by either home or foreign companies. The inspector, Mr. John Barnhart, is now in town, and he, with the local agent, Mr. D. H. Moore, will be able to furnish any further information necessary, and be ever ready, as the bland insurance agent always is, to mete out a cordial greeting to all.

A PHENOMENON IN LITERATURE ANDREWS' BAZAR, to-day the leading fashion paper of this continent, is an example of what business energy and business promises faithfully fulfilled can do. From the start this magnificent journal has commanded the admiration of every one who has seen it. Its Fashion Departments are always fresh and reliable; its literary excellence unsurpassed; and its fun joyous and refined. Notwithstanding its low price—only $1 per annum—every subscriber, new or old, for 1880, will be presented free with 56c. worth of Andrews' Bazar Patterns, and, furthermore, those who subscribe in time to secure the January number, will receive as a New Year's Gift an immense supplement sheet—the largest ever printed—filled with useful and practical designs for making lace, worsted and other fancy work, for painting on china, silk and satin, etc., which could not be purchased separately for $.10 Every lady should subscribe for this splendid journal, or at least send ten cents for a sample copy, to W. The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN'Y 1, 1880.

THE NEW YEAR.

With this number of the paper we enter upon the year 1880, and also upon the Twenty-fifth year of the existence of the EXAMINER, and we cannot extend to our readers and patrons the customary Compliments of the Season, without extending our thanks to our subscribers, many of whom have been receiving the EXAMINER during all this period, for their steadfast support, and to our advertisers and business clients, for their liberal patronage up to the present time. We take it as a warranty that our efforts to make the EXAMINER the best family paper in the County have not been unavailing or unappreciated, that the list of subscribers is constantly increasing, and that at the present time we have a bona fide circulation among the business men, mechanics, and farmers of the County, in excess of any other two papers of the County combined. Our advertising columns are the best proof that business men recognise them as the best medium of communication with the public generally, who look to and rely upon the various announcements of the advertisers as a convenience and a saving of time and trouble, when they are compelled to make purchases. During the past two weeks we have been compelled to enlarge the EXAMINER to fifty-four columns, in order to give space to the holiday advertisers, and at the same time to obviate encroachment upon our news columns, and a consequent depreciation of the value of the advertisements. This week the annual EXAMINER ALMANAC, a work carefully and accurately compiled, and giving besides a great quantity of useful and valuable information, is distributed free of charge, and postage paid, to every subscriber of the EXAMINER. Large numbers of new subscribers, and many of our old ones, have already taken advantage of the liberal club inducements offered, and the same are still held open to those who may choose to avail themselves of them.

A change has been made in the make-up of the EXAMINER, for the greater convenience of the readers, and to enable us to give foreign news up to the hour of going to press. The services of experienced and reliable correspondents at the seats of government at Ottawa and Toronto, have been engaged for the year, and their letters will form a new feature of enterprise, which will no doubt be favorably received. It is our intention to make constant improvement the motto of the EXAMINER, and to spare neither labor nor expense in making the paper worthy of the liberal and increasing patronage which is conferred upon it, both by the reading and the advertising public. With which object in view, we beg to wish them, one and all,

"A HAPPY NEW YEAR."

AN APPALLING CALAMITY.

The Tay Bridge Blown Down.

A Train Precipitated Right Into

THREE HUNDRED PASSENGERS DROWNED.

LONDON, Dec. 29, 1879.—A portion of the bridge across the Firth of Tay was blown down while a train from Edinburgh to Dundee was crossing last night. The gale was so strong that a steamboat was unable to reach the scene of disaster, but several mail bags have been washed ashore four miles from the bridge. There is no doubt the train is in the water. The passengers, who are certainly all drowned are estimated at 150 to 200.

LATER.—The gale having moderated somewhat, the Provost of Dundee and a number of leading citizens started on a steamer to the scene, but have not yet returned. The excitement at Tay Bridge station is appalling. Many the friends of people are congregated, awaiting definite intelligence.

The missing Dundee train was seen crossing the bridge, then suddenly a flash of fire became visible. The railway officials, in spite of the gale, walked along the bridge from Dundee until they found there was a large gap caused by the fall of two or three of the largest spans.

Last Night's Reports.

CAUSE OF THE DISASTER.

Sir Thomas Bouch, the engineer of the bridge, with a number of other engineers, made an inspection to-day. They found that the whole pier foundations were intact. The opinion of himself and others is that the train proceeded without interruption until it reached the high girders. Then one or more of the best carriages went off the rails, coming against the lattice work, and tore the structure to pieces, causing the frightful disaster. The showers of sparks seen by those on shore are believed to have been caused by the collision of the carriages with the ironwork.

THE NUMBER OF VICTIMS.

Estimates more carefully revised than those at first sent out, place the number of persons on board at 300, all of whom were lost. It is believed to be impossible that any have escaped.

ROYAL SYMPATHY ABOUNDS.

Her Majesty promptly made enquiries and the following message was received by Provost Brownlee from Sir Henry Ponsonby by this afternoon :—

"Sir Henry Ponsonby to the Provost of Dundee:

"Can you give the particulars of the appalling calamity reported to have taken place on Tay bridge? The Queen is inexpressibly shocked. She feels most deeply for those who have lost friends or relatives in this terrible accident."

"The Provost replied by giving full details of the accident.

A TRIUMPH OF ENGINEERS SKILL.

The bridge across the Frith of Tay was completed in 1879, having been in process of construction for several years. When finished it was pronounced one of the strongest and most trustworthy pieces of railroad bridge engineering in the world. Including approaches the bridge is about two miles long, and at the highest point 92 feet above high water, and 18 feet at the lowest. The superstructure consists wholly of wrought iron girders. For a mile and a half the bridge is perfectly straight, but there is a curve of about a quarter of a mile radius at each end. The gap created in the bridge through which the train from Edinburgh was precipitated last night is not less than half a mile in length. It includes 11 spans of 245 feet each, and one of 145 feet.

The Irish Agitation:

Quiet Restored, but Distress Increases.

Davitt, one of the political agitators recently arrested, has been despatched to the West of Ireland by the Irish Land League, as relief commissioner. The committee for the distribution of the Duchess of Marlborough's relief fund has already £32,000 available for distribution.

Ireland has been comparatively quiet since Mr. Parnell's departure. It is understood the remaining leaders await the result of Mr. Parnell's mission. The charitable authorities say never was the distress more general.

Reports of distress among the Irish tenantry still continue to come in, and their unfortunate condition is beginning to attract the attention of the people of all creeds and classes. The probabilities are that public opinion will force the Government into taking some method for their relief.

Dr. MacCormick, Bishop of Achroany, Sligo and Mayo, publishes a letter, stating that on Christmas Eve he gave food to three hundred starving people, one-fifth of the whole population of Ballaghaderoon town, out of his own funds, saying he reserves for a "darker, not distant day," the money sent him by charitable persons. He gives an appalling picture of the approaching misery.

The William Hall Peterborough Protestant Poor Trust.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER :

SIR,—In a recent issue of the Globe, a report appears of a case which has come before the Court of Queen's Bench in connection with the above Trust. I believe also that application has been made to have the Act of Incorporation amended. There appears from the report to be a dispute about the appointment of the Trustees from the Presbyterian churches. Now Sir, as this fund, I believe, is administered by Trustees from all the Protestant denominations in town, I consider it a matter of public interest, and think it would be well if you could let us know what all the trouble is about and why the Courts and Parliaments are appealed to. Perhaps Presbyterians think others have no interest in their disputes and that it is a private matter, but if their interests are affected, possibly those of other denominations may be also when a change is made, and if so we would like to know it now, so action can be taken if necessary.

The original Board of Trustees apparently got along well enough, but for some time, past since changes were made, there have been whisperings of trouble. If there is anything wrong in connection with the Trust, I don't think it should be kept quiet from the citizens who are all interested in the proper administration of the Fund, there for you will greatly oblige either by throwing light on the matter yourself, or calling on some of the Trustees to explain.

Yours, &c.,

AN ENQUIRER.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES.

Annual Missionary Meeting in St. Paul's Church.

The annual services in connection with the Presbyterian Missions were held in St. Paul's Church on Monday evening, when there was a large attendance of the members and others, among whom the ladies greatly predominated.

The services were opened by the singing, by the congregation, of the 100th Psalm, after which the pastor, Rev. Mr. Torrance, called upon Rev. Mr. Malborn to engage in prayer.

The pastor then read the 72nd Psalm, after which the 71st hymn was sung.

Rev. Mr. Torrance then gave a short statement of the collections for the mission fund during the past year. From the congregation in town, $654.77 had already been collected, and from the county, $155.05, in all $809.82. Last year the sum of $889.00 was raised, of which $40 had been collected at the missionary meeting, so that the sum collected this year would be somewhat in excess of that of last year. This contribution was raised for the three schemes of the church, and would be disposed of at the annual meeting of the congregation to be held in two or three weeks hence. He then called upon

Rev. Mr. Harper, who expressed his sincere interest in the branch of Christian labor to promote which they had assembled, and his gratification at meeting here, Rev. Prof. McLaren, with whom he had been an old fellow-laborer, and for whom he felt a warm friendship. He felt that the advancement of the Home and Foreign Missions and the promotion of French evangelization, afforded a field of labor in which there could not be too much earnest work. Even in the bounds of this town there was much work needed, outside of what is ordinarily done in the church, that he feared was shaming Christian laborers, and he had given it much earnest though as to how this work was to be come at. One had only to pass down the street on a Sabbath evening and he would see the crowds of young men that throng the street corners, and if he passed more slowly he would hear shocking blasphemy, that was most distressing to the follower of Christ, and that pointed to the need of organized or unorganized effort, and pointed to an abundant field of labor for Christian men and Christian women. It was a fact that there was a fearful amount of infidelity in our midst. This was confined at first to small numbers who met to exchange such views, and the taint gradually spread. It was at first confined to older men, smokers and drinkers, and from them it reached the young men and he knew not where it would end. Rev. Mr. Bell and himself had that day examined books exposed for sale in a book store, of most fearful character, in which the pernicious doctrines of infidelity were set forth, and which were calculated to contaminate the youth of the town. Those who were anxious to work at the feet of Jesus, would find here plenty of work to do.

The 68th hymn was then sung; when

Prof. McLaren was called upon and expressed his gratification at being able to be present, and at the opportunity of referring to the missions. It was twelve or fifteen years since he last seen Peterborough, and he was glad to see, after so many years, the growth and prosperity of the church. He was glad to see this building, and though he missed the venerable form that used to fill that pulpit, yet he was pleased to see that the good work still goes on. He was supposed to speak more particularly of the Foreign Mission work of the church of which Mission he was Convener, but he wished to say that he heartily endorsed every word that had been said concerning the importance of Home Missions, by Mr. Harper, with whom he had been a fellow-worker at Belleville and whom he was glad to meet here. If he thought it would be necessary to subtract one dollar from the Home Mission fund or from that for French evangelization, he would think he had a difficult task indeed. It was essential to the prosperity of the church, that we should look well to our Home Missionary work; but he was convinced that it would not be necessary to take a sixpence from the work at home. Last summer he had had the opportunity of visiting Manitoba and the North-west, where he had been convinced that there was a great field of labor there that required attention. There was not only the mission work at our doors, but there was the great west which was being rapidly settled up, and which would contain 40,000,000 of people, for whom it would be the duty of these missions to supply the ordinances of religion as settlement progressed. The church would require to be diligent in this work, and to supply men and money for its performance. But while recognising this duty, we must not forget that while these settlers have their bibles and Christian literature, there were, besides those, multitudes who were still in the region and shadow of death, and who had never heard that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; and he felt that we must have most thoroughly exhausted our means at home, if, by the exercise of a little self-denial, we were not able to give something to the Foreign Missions. He then explained the work of the missions of the church in Canada, which was divided into two branches, one embracing the Maritime Provinces, and the other taking Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba. The eastern branch had a mission at New Hebrides, in the South Sea Islands, established by the late Dr. Geddes, where there had not been one christian at the time of his visit, and there was not one heathen at the time of his death. There were there now three ordained ministers whose labors were being abundantly blessed. Then there was a most interesting mission to the Coolies on the Island of Trinidad, where are three ordained missionaries at work. This work was intimately connected with missionary effort in China and India, as many of these Coolies returned to their native lands and took with them the Christianizing influences they had acquired. The western branch supported three different missions to the Indians in the North-west, one at Fort Albert, and one at Fort Ellice among the Minnesota Sioux, whose work extends to Portage La Prairie. Further east there was a mission to the Crees. There was also a teacher in Manitoba. The work was progressing more prosperously than formerly, as the Indians were more and more abandoning their roving habits, and being settled on reserves by the Government. But perhaps the mission which had been the most largely blessed had been that in China, which had been commenced seven years ago by Rev. G. L. MacKay, a name that would be very highly honored in missionary work, on the Island of Formosa, an island containing a population of 3,000,000, lying 80 miles east of China. When Mr. MacKay went there there was no Protestant mission on the north part of the island. He had devoted himself to the study of the language in 10 months he was able to preach the gospel in Formosan, and in five months more he had baptised 569. The work had gone on with success, till now there were nineteen churches on the island, two hospitals, seven schools with 100 pupils and twenty trained native teachers. He gave a most interesting description of the manner in which Mr. MacKay advanced and managed his labors. He pointed out the great work that had to be done in China, the adaptability of the people for Christianity, the manner in which the great seething mass of 400,000,000 people was being impregnated with the leaven of Christianity, and gave some figures showing the great success already achieved by Christian labor there. He depicted how the great work to be done in India, where our mission had now three missionaries—Mr. Douglas, of Cobourg, Mr. Fraser, from Nova Scotia, and Mr. Wilkie, lately ordained for the service in Guelph. These missions had only been opened three years, but had already been blessed to gather in some of the first fruits. He gave a very interesting account of the nature of the work there. He concluded, that there was great encouragement that the prophecy would be fulfilled that Christ should have the heathen for his inheritance, and pointed to the substantial progress of Christian advancement and wonderful discovery and invention in these countries when the Christian religion was confided. He believed that God was putting the brute forces of nature into the hands of the Protestant nations of the earth for the advancement of His work. He pointed out the wonderful Christianization of Madagascar and Burmah, and urged them to use every effort to swell the stream of missionary influence which ran like a river of light through the history of the church. Compared with what was to be done, what had already been accomplished, was, however, of small extent. It was as if they had waded a little into the sea of Christian labor and gathered a few gems for the diadem of Christ, but had left, as yet, unexplored the countless riches which lay further out in the ocean.

The collection was then taken up, and after prayer and the benediction, the meeting dispersed.

The Greatest dramatic sensation of the 19th century, "Two Orphans," by the McDowell Shaughraun Co., Saturday night, Jan'y 3rd, at Bradburn's Opera House. Reserved seats at Wilson & Davis'. 52-3t

Twelve Months Leave.—Mr. and Mrs. Masters were before the P. M. on Tuesday, and pleaded guilty of vagrancy. The offenders were sentenced, that they were provided with a pass to Toronto, on condition of not returning to Peterborough for 12 months.

Sunday School Meeting To-Day.—There will be a union meeting of all the Sabbath Schools of the town at the George-street Methodist Church to-day, when services of an interesting character will be held. Addresses by clergymen and others, singing by the children, etc., will give varied and pleasing interest to the occasion.

A Family Row.—The Montgomery family celebrated Christmas by a row at Morgan's Hotel, after which John Montgomery got out a warrant for assault against his father, Francis. On the case being called in the Police Court on Tuesday, the complainant paid the costs and withdrew the case, being only allowed to do so, however, on account of its being a case between father and son.

Small Pox.—Dr. Riddel, in the Canadian Journal of Science, gives statistics of cases of small pox in the Province, showing that there were 870 cases and 161 deaths, from this dreadful disease, during the past year. The nearest approach of the disease to Peterborough was Marmora and Rawdon, where there were 42 cases and 9 deaths.

Lakefield Harness Depot.—W. Harper is now prepared to sell harness, horse clothing, trunks and valises at exceedingly low prices. If you want a sewing machine of the best manufacture—Wanzer F., Wilson A., Raymond or Louise—try him and see what money will do. 46-13 tns.

It Got Into His Head.—Wm. Walsh some days ago was committed to gaol on a charge laid by his wife that he was insane and unsafe to be at large. On being brought before Mr. Hutton on Tuesday, he was asked what he had say for himself, and replied that he had been taking a little whiskey, and he couldn't under stand it, but it always got into his head. The magistrate warned him that such was the invariable consequence, but on account of his family discharged him on this occasion.

A Singular Dream.—A correspondent in the Toronto Globe of Saturday week writes as follows:—"The writer, during a severe indisposition last spring, dreamed three times in succession on the same night that he fell asleep and awoke on the west half of lot No. 4 in the 1st concession of the southern division of the township of Burleigh, in the county of Peterborough. Time will tell whether that lucid dream was an indication of mineral or other wealth on or near that particular piece of land."

"Timed Shot" Wanted They for Christmas Presents.—This is the question which is just now agitating the public mind. What can be more suitable for a Christmas present than a set of furs for a fur garment of any description? Nothing can add more to the richness and elegance of a lady's toilet in the winter season than furs, whether worn as jackets, hats, boas, muffs, or even as trimmings, while at the same time nothing is more eminently useful or comfortable. Nature has, has provided the different grades and qualities, so that this comfort and elegance is within the reach of all and nobody who has a thoughtful friend to make them a Christmas present, need suffer from the cold blasts of the after winter. Those who want to get a first-class article in furs, both as to style and value, at the cheapest rates, should call and see the elegant stock at W. Loch's establishment, George Street. He has also a fine lot of ladies' and gentlemen's kid mitts and gloves received for the season. See advertisement. 52-4 ins.

MAYORSHIP OF WARD.

At 10 o'clock on Monday morning, Mr. C. D. Macdonell, Town Clerk, as Returning Officer, declared the hour ready to receive nominations, when Mr. James Stevenson proposed, seconded by Mr. Geo. Dunsford, Mr. J. J. Lundy as a fit and proper person for the office, and at the expiration of an hour, no other person having been named, the Clerk declared Mr. Lundy duly elected.

Mr. LUNDY briefly returned his thanks for the honor conferred upon him—the contest being declared without opposition. He would be permitted to think that this fact indicated that the public had been satisfied with the manner in which he had discharged the duties of his office, and he would in the future as he had in the past, to the best of his ability endeavour to serve the interests of the town, and to do what was right between man and man. He was glad to see that there were men before the people for election to the new Council who would maintain the dignity and credit of that body, and hoped the best men would be chosen for the position. The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

From the Town Treasurer, stating that the appropriations for streets and bridges, miscellaneous and special grants were exhausted.—Received.

From Messrs. Donaldson Bros. & Hall, enclosing a copy of the judgment in the case of the Town of Peterborough vs. Hatton.—Received and referred to the Finance Committee.

From Kinton & Wood, transmitting their opinion in reference to the matter referred to them at the last meeting as to what steps should be taken to protect the town from loss in the arrears in the Collector's Roll of 1873. The solicitors of the opinion was that as no demand had been made for those taxes for that year they were not a debt due, and could not be barred by the statute of limitation. They also held that they could not be collected now. If taxes not entered on the Roll were collected by the Collector, such moneys could be recovered.—Referred to Finance Committee with power to consult Messrs. Edmison & Wood.

From J. D. Edgar, President of the Ontario and Pacific Railway Company, asking the Council to memorialize the Government to aid the construction of the said road.

From Margaret Cooney, asking that her taxes be returned against her property as she was unable at present to pay them.

From Wm. Coures, asking an extension of time for the payment of his taxes.

From L. Binnette and Samuel Datcher, asking remission of taxes.

From Stephen Jeffray, asking a refund of 80 cents of seizure for taxes.

From Thos. Leonard, asking that the taxes rewarded against a portion of his property be refunded as he had already paid them. the property being assessed to another.

All petitions referring to taxes were referred to the Finance Committee.

Moved by Councillor DENNE, seconded by Councillor ROBERTSON,—That Mr. Edwards be requested to make an explanation at the next meeting of the Council respecting Messrs. Mills and Hogan's audit, if any mistakes, what amounts paid and to whom, in writing.—Carried.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Councillor CAHILL submitted a report from the Finance Committee recommending the Council not to interefere in the matters referred to them in the petitions of W. J. Rombough, Mrs. Barchard and Mrs. Walsh. In the case of Mr. Laplante's petition the minutes of the Court of Revision showed that no reduction had been made in his assessment. In reference to the application of Mr. Hall for a bonus towards establishing a Cocoa Mill in the town the Mayor was requested to communicate with Mr. Hall in order to ascertain his views more fully.

The report was adopted.

After granting $500 to Messrs. Hagan & Mills Special Auditors, the Council adjourned for two weeks.

The Golden Boot.—Skaters who desire a comfortable, well-fitting, and warm boot, should leave their orders with Mr. S. White, who is now making a specialty of skater's boots.

Births, Marriages and Deaths.—During the month of December the number of registrations made with the Town Clerk were as follows:—Births, 36; Marriages, 16; Deaths, 4. The totals for the half-year ending December 31st, 1879, were:—Births, 79; Marriages, 39; Deaths, 32.

Correction.—Our attention has been called to a slight error in the list of candidates passing the Intermediate Examination, given in last week's EXAMINER. Inadvertently we gave the Town School credit for preparing Miss Maud Dean, which should have been given to Mr. Jas. Wright, teacher of S. S. No. 5, Smith. The mistake got into the "set only—as full credit was given in a note at the foot of the list.

Personal.

We are glad to learn that Mr. W. H. Scott, M. P. P., is recovering from his recent severe illness, and we hope soon to see him about again as usual.—Dr. Cornwall, of Omemee, was thrown out of his carriage a few days ago, receiving injuries [illegible]

LAKEFIELD.

X'MAS DAY—SALE OF BOILER—COUNCIL MEETINGS—REMINDERS FOR THE WEEK.

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

Xmas day passed off very quietly in our village. The stores being all closed gave it the appearance of Sunday, were it not for the dashing sleighs and the merry laughter of the happy occupants. The usual Xmas service was held in St. John's church, (which was beautifully decorated for the purpose), by the Rev. Mr. Bell. A shooting match on the Ovenier's wharf for turkeys and geese, drew a large crowd, and some excellent shooting was made, much to the disgust of the parties putting up the game. Our Reeve took eight geese and nearly all the others were as successful.

A boiler and engine formerly used by Mr. Jas. Hendren in his blacksmith shop here, has been taken up into Dummer, and will be used to furnish power to drive a sawing-machine by parties having a contract to take out sawed wood on the shores of Stony Lake.

An adjourned meeting of the village council was held in the Council Chamber on Friday evening, the 26th inst. Members all present, the Reeve in the chair. A [illegible] was read by the Reeve of the concession line lying between Church Street and Water Street, and also a to open a new street called Concession Street, from Church to Water Street in line of the Concession, were read a first, second, and third time and passed. George Bolton and Mrs. Fredenburgh had their taxes remitted as charity. Several small accounts were read and ordered to be paid. The delegates to Ottawa gave an account of their visit and reception, re the Trent Valley Canal, and a vote of thanks to them was passed. The council then adjourned to meet at the call of the Reeve.

REMINDERS.—On Monday go to the poll and record your vote for the Reeve who you consider will manage the village and county affairs in the best and most economical manner; and in the evening "don't you forget" to attend the regular meeting of L. O. L. No. 122 in the Orange Hall. Tuesday attend to your business during the day and in the evening take a rest and attend to the duties at the regular meeting of Clementi Lodge in the Masonic Hall of the Young Canadians in the Orange Hall. Wednesday vote and work, so that we shall have two new trustees who will practice the most rigid economy in our school affairs, having at the same time a due regard to the high standard which the school now holds. John Isbister and Wm. Cox Sr. are two who should command the support of the majority of the ratepayers and will make good trustees.

The Captain and Mr. G. Wood, Port Hope, killed eight "cotton tails" on Monday after the nomination.

PETERBOROUGH BRANCH, - DIXON'S BLOCK.

Goods Sold Direct to the People at Wholesale Price. ☞The Only Business in Canada Conducted on the Same Principle. Over $20,000 worth of Boots & Shoes so Supplied Last Year.

The great loss annually sustained by selling to Dealers, first led to our establishing of Branch Stores, where we could supply direct to the people for Cash all the goods we could manufacture, thus giving to the people the goods less the dealer's profit, and saving to ourselves the enormous loss. We were the more forcibly impressed into this step from the fact that cheap Eastern-made shoddy goods were being palmed off as our goods. We now sell our own goods, warrant what we sell, use no shoddy or inferior material of any kind, and can and do supply goods of the best quality 25 per cent. less than they can be bought elsewhere.

Everything Marked in Plain Figures. Only One Price.

CUSTOM DEPARTMENT.

VEGETINE.

A Home in the Celestial City.

HOUSATONIC, MASS., Dec. 24, 1879.

H. R. STEVENS, Boston:

About nine and a half years ago I had a fever; the doctor gave me some poisonous medicine, drove the disease into my leg, and it broke out, and has been from two to ten running sores ever since. I could not sleep the fourth of a night sure in six months, and a great many nights was compelled to get up and take opium—a piece as large as a pea—for dead on the pain. I have tried everything I could hear of, in fact, I have paid out hundreds of dollars, and found no relief until I commenced taking Vegetine, and now I can go to bed at eight o'clock at night and sleep on till seven o'clock in the morning, and no opium to obtain from pain. I can get up, perfectly cured in reality, and frequently when I would get up, would be dizzy, and have to put my hand on something to keep from falling; but since I commenced taking Vegetine it has all disappeared, and I feel like a new man. My honest conviction is that it will carry any by entirely, from the present looks and feelings, I shall continue taking Vegetine, and recommend it to all whom I come across; and I hope the man who introduced Vegetine into the United States will have a home in the Celestial City.

Yours most sincerely,

W. S. LEACH.

Mr. Leach is a gentleman well known here and is the owner of the celebrated Turbine Water Wheel.

Christmas Hymn.

While shepherds watch their shilling,
All hidden in their desk,
They forget the joyful message
Sung by the heavenly host.
At first they were astonished,
But the news forgot their fear,
While the Angels sang of Christ come
And proclaimed a bright New Year.

Then let us join the Seraph,
Who told the Saviour's birth,
Saying, Glory to the highest,
And Holy Peace on Earth.
Good will to all our neighbours
And friends both far and near,
That such a happy Christmas
And to all a glad New Year.

The year that now is nearing
Has brought its share of woe.
For man is born to trouble
As the waters downward flow;
But let us look to Jesus,
Our fainting hearts to cheer,
And the blessed light of Christmas
Shall make a bright New Year.

There are those who used to join us
Around the Christmas board;
But now they shine in glory
Forever with the Lord.
Oh, thank Him for His mercy,
To those we hold so dear;
There's in the happy Christmas,
And their's the blest New Year.

While He who came to Bethlehem,
Shall come to earth again,
Ten thousand thousand Angels
Shall follow in His train.
Then the Saints shall sing in triumph,
Till Heaven and earth shall hear
Of a happy happy Christmas,
And a bright unending Year.

OUR CHRISTMAS STORY.

A SELF-BETRAYAL.

CHAPTER III. (Continued.)

Sir James took up a heavy glass lakstand, and held it as as if about to throw it at the butler, but put it down again, and gazed at him with a countenance full of contempt.

'How old are you, Penley?

'Sixty-one, Sir James.'

'Then you ought to be ashamed of yourself, sir! Now, look here, Penley—I looked to you as the head of my staff of servants, as a man of sense, and above such folly.'

'But, please, Sir James, I saw it myself,' said the butler, earnestly.

'Saw what, man?' cried the Baronet, angrily—'a great, big-headed hobgoblin, with fiery eyes, teeth like a saw, and a tail like a spear?'

'Oh, no, Sir James; something much worse than that.'

'What?'

'Much worse than that,' said the butler. 'Such a thing as you describe we know is all nonsense; but this was a dim-looking, big figure, with flashing eyes, as went along the west passage to the Blue Room, wringing its hands, and groaning, and then struggling horribly till it disappeared.'

'Rats!' cried Sir James; 'one of the footmen ate too much supper and felt ill in the night.'

The butler shook his head solemnly.

'When did you see this?'

'I've seen it four times, Sir James; and no longer since than last night.'

'Now, look here, Penley,' said Sir James; 'of course this is all nonsense.'

'I declare to goodness——'

'Oh, yes, yes! I believe you have seen something; but I believe it is all nonsense about it's being anything out of the ordinary way. There is no such thing as a ghost; it's all nonsense, old woman's twaddle—rubbish! But I shall sit up and see what this means. I am not going to have my house upset in this way. You will sit up with me to-night.'

'I, Sir James? Me, Sir James? I couldn't do it, Sir James! I've been all of an upset ever since last night, and I couldn't bear it again.'

'I say that you will sit up with me to-night, sir; and I shall ask Mr. Da Silva to bear us company.'

The butler protested, but his master was firm, and at the stroke of twelve all three of the watchers took their places in silence and in the dark at the end of the west passage to wait for the apparition.

'Did any of the servants know that we were going to watch, Penley?' asked Sir James.

'No, Sir James; I thought it better not to tell,' said the butler.

'Quite right. Now you take your position there; you, Mr. Da Silva, go into that recess, and I will watch here. A slight hint is to be the signal of anything being seen.'

'And the scouer the better, my dear Sir James,' whispered Da Silva. 'I, for one, love my bed, and shall be glad when the ghost is found. I hope there is a chair where I am to sit?'

'Yes, you'll find one there,' was the reply; and each went to his place, which had been so arranged by Sir James that not a soul could have entered the passage to pass to the Blue Room without being seen.

At every quarter of an hour the deep tones of the turret-clock as it chimed seemed to vibrate through the great Manor House; otherwise, saving the distant bark of a dog, all was still, and the watchers kept to their posts waiting patiently, till Sir James, who had for his friend taken precautions to make the sojourn as comfortable as possible, heard the chimes indicate half-past one; and then all was growing very misty with him, the dimly-seen farther wall of the great, wide passage seemed to be mixed up with the hangings of his bed, and a heavy breathing told of sleep, when he started into wakefulness, for a hand was laid upon his arm, and, looking up, there was the figure of the butler, pointing down the passage.

'There—there it goes!' he whispered hoarsely; and, rising to his feet, Sir James could just make out a tall figure, with long, flowing garments, gliding solemnly into the chamber at the end of the passage, known as the Blue Room.

The Baronet was no coward, but this startled him; and it was some minutes before he could summon up a sufficiency of resolution to follow the figure, during which space of time a dull, low, piteous moaning could be heard, and a peculiar rustling noise, like a struggle going on.

At last, summoning his courage, the Baronet seized his domestic's arm, and together they went on tip-toe to the door of the Blue Room, from which the sounds emanated.

It was very dark still, and, on peering in, nothing was for the moment visible; but as his eyes became more accustomed to the deeper gloom of the room, and being led as it were, by the sound, he could just faintly see that a dark figure was stooping or kneeling down, and that there was a hoarse panting, mingled with blood-curdling sighs, while the rustling noise continued.

Sir James had fully made up his mind to rush in and seize this strange figure, whatever it might be; but he could not make up his body. In fact, as the butler dragged at his arm, and tried to lead him away, he followed him back along the passage, till they reached the upper staircase, and then descended to Sir James' study, where he immediately made for a collarette, and, taking out a decanter and glass, filled for himself and the butler.

The glass of spirits, of which each partook, seemed to give them back their power of speech, for Sir James exclaimed, 'I don't wonder that you were frightened, Penley; it is startling!'

'It made my blood run cold, Sir James!' replied the butler, shuddering. 'It's very horrid!'

'If I thought it was someone trying to scare us, Penley,' cried Sir James, growing bolder, 'I—I—declare I feel as if I could shoot him!'

'You couldn't shoot that, Sir James!' replied the butler, solemnly. 'There's been murder done here some time or another, and them as did it can't rest!'

'Humph! Maybe!' said the Baronet. 'It's very strange—its curious—it's——Dumme, Penley, I'm afraid we have been frightened at shadows! Let's go back, and see if it is there now.'

'Not for the worlds, Sir James!' gasped the butler. 'It came right two nights one first, and then went right back past us, Sir James.'

'Did it? I did not see it pass.'

The butler was too full of reverence for his master to hint at his having been fast asleep, and took refuge in a cough.

'Dear me!' exclaimed Sir James, 'where is Mr. Da Silva?'

The butler glanced round the room, as if expecting to see him there, and not finding him, let his eyes rest upon his master.

'Perhaps he fainted away with fright, Sir James?' he ventured to suggest.

'Penley, you are an old fool!' exclaimed Sir James, angrily. 'Come with me directly!'

Picking up the poker for a weapon, the Baronet led the way up-stairs, closely followed by his butler, who, much as he disliked the idea of going, liked less that of staying alone, and following his master, with the soft, thick carpet effectually silencing their footsteps, they at length reached the west passage, and stood listening to find all silent.

'Most—most I go any further with you, Sir James?' stammered the butler.

'Yes, sir!' was the stern reply; and after listening again for the panting noise, they went softly down the passage and stood at last opposite the room where they had left Mr. Da Silva.

'Da Silva—Da Silva!' said Sir James, in a loud whisper.

'Well?' was the sharp reply. 'Have you heard anything?'

'Yes. Have you?'

'Not a sound. What have you heard—rats?

'No!' replied Sir James, huskily. 'Come down to my room, and I'll tell you!'

The guest followed him down-stairs, with the butler close at their heels, and, after hearing the report, he gazed from one to the other in a peculiar manner.

'It is very strange,' he said, rather casually; 'but how is it I did not hear a sound?'

'Did you drop asleep?' said Sir James.

'Asleep? Not likely, Sir James. I don't think that a very likely place for sleep. Well, what are you going to do?'

'To do?' said Sir James, hesitatingly.

'Yes—to do. Let us go and search the room with a light.'

'By all means—yes.'

And lighting a chamber-candle, the party once more ascended, to find the Blue Room perfectly empty, and no sign of anyone having been there.

Da Silva looked at the Baronet, and the Baronet looked at the butler, and the result was that all went off to bed.

IV.

LADY DU PACHY HAS A BAD NIGHT.

During the next two or three months, there was too much going on for Sir James to pay much heed to the question of apparitions in his house; but, all the same, he had to put up with the annoyance of constantly changing his servants, for the fever amongst them was epidemic, and he could not get anyone but the old butler to stay.

Several times over he suspected him; but the whole fellow seemed so sincere, that he gave up doubting him, and after sitting up and watching several times to see the dim figure, or to have his pains for nothing, he gave it up for the present, in the excitement of the preparations for his daughter's marriage. That over, he determined to place the Manor House in the painters' and decorators' hands, while he had a month's tour.

For with a speed that seemed frightful to Naomi, the proceedings for her wedding were hurried on. Appeal and expostulation were met aside with smiles by her father, who half-maddened the poor girl by setting all down to youthful modesty, and her retiring disposition, till at last Naomi seemed to have accepted her fate.

Had John Rudd only stood by her, she said to herself, she would have braved her father's anger, and resolutely refused to listen to De Silva; but her old companion seemed to have forgotten her, and for weeks and weeks she had not heard even of his whereabouts.

'If I had been a man,' she said to herself—as she thought of the treatment she was receiving,—'if I had been a man, no one should have taken her I loved from me.'

She blushed directly she had said these words, and asked herself the question—Did John Rudd love her? And, with burning cheeks, she told herself that she was sure he did.

And thus the time glided on, till, in a mechanical, indifferent way, she found herself driven here and there: now in town to choose a carriage at the coach-builder's, then to select particular furniture for the new residence in Belgravia. There was always something to do, and when she was back in the country, presents were daily arriving when Mr. Da Silva was not at her side; while, when he was there, he had constantly something fresh—ring bracelet, fan, tiara, to bring out as an offering, invariably, though, asking Sir James whether he thought Naomi would accept it.

She, poor girl, woke as from a dream, to find that there were only two days left to her of maidenhood; and white and shrinking she went about the place, aghast at the extent of the preparations.

'It is not everyone who can wed a child to a millionaire,' Sir James had said, with an ostentatious smile, and trusting his hands down into his pocket he rattled the cash therein, and walked up and down his study, thinking of the notices in the daily papers, but not of the happiness of his child.

At times, a terrible depression of spirits set in, and Naomi felt as if she could willingly end her troubles by walking down to the great lake and plunging in; for, as the hour for her wedding came on, her repugnance for De Silva increased, and had John Rudd been near to hold out his hand and say 'Come,' the poor girl would have fled.

But that was not in fa. John Rudd was too honorable a gentleman to behave with treachery towards Sir James. He had been very busy making certain enquiries into the former life and position of De Silva; but all his investigations had proved to be failures.

The eve of the wedding arrived, and Naomi after a few last words with her father, parted from him for the night. De Silva had several times sought for an interview with her, but she had absolutely refused to see him alone, and although the presence of so many guests was painful to her in one respect, yet she hailed their coming as a protection to her from De Silva's advances, and took care never to be alone with him.

De Silva's handsome face looked ugly as he met with so many rebuffs, and his peculiar glances augured ill for poor Naomi's future when he assumed the mastery, and she was irrevocably his.

'Till then, my darling,' he said, showing his teeth—'till then.'

Those white teeth ground together in an unpleasant way as they glittered in the lamplight; but they were hidden directly by his black moustache, as he saw that he was being observed by the old butler, who was apparently busying him with a tray containing spirits and soda-water.

'Ah, Penley, my good friend,' he said, for they were alone in the library, 'I don't think I have anything more to ask you to do for me, only to request you to send my man up to my room. I may not have a chance of seeing you in the morning before I start; will you accept this?'

The butler took this with thanks, and opened the crumpled piece of paper when he reached his pantry, to find that it was a five-pound note.

'Humph!' he said; 'five-pound notes are all very well, but I don't somehow care about taking your money, master, and I'd give it you back if you'd be off, and leave our mistress alone.'

'What are you talking to yourself about, Mr. Penley?' said a voice at the door, and Naomi's maid entered for the glass of wine that was generally ready for her in the pantry.

'Talking, my dear; oh, only about our business.'

Hide Bound Horses.

A horse is said to be hide-bound when his skin will not slip under the pressure of the hand, but sticks as if it were glued, which condition is always dependent on a deranged state of the stomach and digestive organs—by correcting which, and giving to them a healthy tone and condition the disease or complaint will disappear. Experience has proved that the means best adapted to this end is "Darley's condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." It has been used in numerous cases with complete success, generally effecting a cure in a few days. It is the best condition medicine known, and may be given with perfect safety at all times, and does not require that the horse be kept from work. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for Canada. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

If health worth having?

If it is, protect it. It is a jewel as really lost as virtue, and is many cases as difficult to recover. In the climate, and more particularly at this season of the year, people are very apt to take cold and suffer from sore throat, coughs, spitting of blood, and pulmonary complaints generally, which if not checked immediately lead to serious consequences. The question arises, what is the quickest and most effectual remedy? Byron's Peimonic Wafers have been before the public for twenty years, have always given perfect satisfaction, and invariably effect permanent cures when taken in season. Sold by all medicine dealers and country stores at 25 cents a box.

The Most Valuable Gift—Restoration of the Health.

During the past ten years the Great Shoshonees Remedy has faithfully redeemed every promise and guarantee made to the public. Alarming and apparently hopeless cases of Lung diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Afflictions of the Kidney and Chronic Complaints of every description, including Scrofula and Skin Diseases of life-long duration, have been permanently removed and eradicated. Those who volunteered their testimony to the efficacy of the Remedy are not begus people in unheard-of localities in foreign countries, but respectable citizens of this country, easy of access and open to question, upon whose verbal recommendations we are willing to rest the reputation of the Great Shoshonees Remedy. If you are afflicted, do not delay until medicine may be powerless to aid you. No injurious effects can possibly follow the use of these Indian Remedies, as they contain no minerals, by which the fate of the invalid is so often sealed under the form of some temporary sedative or stimulant. These Indian Remedies are widely known and fully possess the public confidence, after the lapse of sufficient time to test their efficacy.

The Shoshonees Vegetable Sugar Coated Pills have won for themselves the most favorable reputation of any pill before the public. Their efficacy has been fully proved as a remedy for billiousness, Sick Headache and inactivities of the stomach. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles, $1; Pills, 25 cents a box. Sold by all medicine Dealers.

Mitchell's Bellandona Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Ottmanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gumes, is found to be one of the greatest healing medicines ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plaster that they ever before tried; and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kin. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn constantly to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, BIG DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS, PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST; and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long-seated Consumption.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

CATARRH.

Constitutional Catarrh Remedy Cures Catarrh.

T. J. B. HARDING, Esq., BROCKVILLE, ONT.

DEAR SIR.—It is now two years since your "Constitutional Catarrh Remedy" was introduced to me, I have waited this long to see if the cure would remain permanent before doing this, my duty. It was as at first the happy effects seemed to me to be too good to be true.

I was afflicted in my head for years before I consented it to be Catarrh. In reading in your Circular I saw my case detailed in many particulars. The forward "drop" from the head had become very disagreeable, and a choking sensation often preventing me from lying long, I would feel like smothering and be compelled to sit up in the bed. My health and spirits were seriously affected. When your Agent came to Wellington in August 1877, I secured the Remedy. Before I had used a quarter of the contents of one bottle I found decided relief, and when I had used two bottles and a-half, I quit taking it, finding quite cured of that ailment, and have not used any since until of late I have taken some for a cold in my head.

A sense of duty to sufferers from that loathsome disease, Catarrh, prompts me to send you this Certificate, unsolicited, with leave to make what use of it you may see proper. Yours truly,

W. TINDALL, Methodist minister.

Fort Elgin, Ont., Aug. 24, 1878.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 8, 1880.

A NEW YEAR'S RESOLVE.

Our contemporary the Review, in its New Year's article, has the following: "It "will be our earnest desire in the future, "as in the past, to promote such a state "of affairs by discussing questions as far "as possible upon their merits alone, and "thus cultivate that liberality of sentiment which enables men to differ, and "yet act together in municipal and other "matters. It will be our earnest endeavor in the future, as in the past, to "promote this state of affairs, and cultivate an increased liberality of sentiment "between those differing from each other "on any question, yet living in harmony "with each other." We hope our contemporary will adhere to the programme here laid down. It is possible both with newspapers and individuals, for those holding different opinions to "agree to disagree," to exercise mutual respect, and to treat the opinions of others with fair consideration and courtesy. It is impossible for all to think in the same channel, and so long as different temperaments exist, so long will there be different creeds, both of political and religious belief, the adherents of each conscientiously believing themselves to be right, and all others in error. But these differences need not necessarily degenerate into animosities, nor engender rancor and ill-will, as is too often the case. It is too much the rule with newspapers, that the opinions of contemporaries are disrespected, and motives imputed where nothing improper has been intended or compassed, where mutual respect and more kindly regard would elevate the press in public esteem, and enable it to pursue its mission of usefulness with greater success, and certainly with more comfort. Generally, however, the average reader is taught, by weakly lessons, that the editor of the other paper is a blood-thirsty assassin, and the publisher a social pirate, who, the welfare of the county demands, ought to be plased under restraint. In expressing the hope that the sentiments which we have quoted from the Review will not be lost sight of, we do not wish to be understood as implying that our contemporary is a greater sinner in this respect than other journals; but we feel convinced that more temperate discussion, and proper respect for the motives of which we still cannot approve, would not detract from the comfort of the reading public. Differing from the Review in political belief, and maintaining as vigorously and zealously as we are able those opinions which we believe to be the best adapted to this country, and best calculated to promote its welfare, we can still duly respect those from whom we differ, and will always be found at one with our contemporary in all matters affecting the improvement and progress of the town and county, and the elevation and education of its people.

OUR AGENT IN ENGLAND.

We observe in the Montreal Gazette an editorial announcement that "a question may possibly before long come up for decision in England in connection with Sir Alex. Galt's recent appointment, as to the advisability, and if so, the legality, of his at the same time having a seat in the British House of Commons." This statement, coming from such a source, would appear to intimate an intention, on the part of the Government, to take a step in the direction of Mr. Blake's Confederated Empire, and to find a seat in the English House of Commons for the Canadian Agent. Such a course, if it be legal, would involve some curious situations, for while we see no reason why Canadian interests should not be represented in the Imperial Parliament, it is very doubtful if that Parliament would permit one of its members to be the paid servant of a colonial government.

ANOTHER VICTIM TO PERSECUTION.

One of the first proclamations of the Conservative members of the Western Peninsula after their victory of 1878, was a demand for the removal of Mr. E. V. Bodwell, the Superintendent of the Welland Canal, appointed by the late Reform Administration. Mr. Rykert and others of the extremists openly boasted their intention to have Mr. Bodwell removed to make way for some friend of the party. It was not alleged that Mr. Bodwell had been guilty of any dereliction of duty, or that he was not competent to fill the position, or that he had in any way interfered in political affairs after the time of his appointment. It was sufficient, under the new doctrine of "sus sticks," that he had been previous, to his appointment, a member of the Liberal party. Pressure was brought to bear at Ottawa, but even to the Government the thing asked to be done seemed of so flagrantly wrong and unjustifiable a character that they hesitated to yield. A session of Parliament approaching, however, they were at last induced to suspend Mr. Bodwell from his duties and to appoint a Commission to enquire into certain charges which had been made. But that investigation, conducted by creatures of the Government, and pursued by the prosecution with all the malice of which they were capable, only proved that the charges were of so false and frivolous a character that the Government were compelled for very shame to reinstate him in his place. But the persecution was never-theless continued with a persistence that has at last, it appears, been rewarded with success. The Mail, of Saturday last, is enabled to announce that Mr. Ellis, of Prescott, has been appointed Superintendent of the Welland Canal, in the place of Mr. Bodwell, "removed to an office of equal emolument on the Pacific Railway." Of course it is understood, that the position of Superintendent of the Canal is a permanent one, and that no position on the Pacific Railway to which Mr. Bodwell can be appointed can be considered permanent; so that it is evident, the object is to carry out the wishes of Mr. Rykert and his friends, in such a way as to divert public attention for the present from the outrage which has thus been perpetrated. Mr. Bodwell possessed peculiar qualifications for the office which has been taken away from him, and he had the additional advantage of several years of valuable practical experience, which made his services of so much more value to the country. Mr. Ellis is said to be "a thoroughly practical engineer," but so far as that goes, his services would have been of more value on the Pacific Railway where the "equal emolument" was open to him, if he had to be provided for. But the object was simply to deprive Mr. Bodwell of his position for Mr. Ellis' benefit, and it has been carried out in this Heathen Chinee fashion. It is a matter of regret that the Government did not continue to possess the back-bone which they at first opposed to the outrageous demands of Mr. Rykert and his friends.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

Another deputation has waited upon the Minister of Railways and Canals in reference to this scheme, and also the Murray Canal, and in reply to their representations the Minister stated that—

"The two schemes to which the address had alluded he had no hesitation in saying commended themselves to the Government; and he could safely say that so soon as the finances of the country would warrant it, when an equilibrium has been established between revenue and expenditure, it would be his duty in the interest, not of this locality alone, but in the interest of the carrying trade of the whole Dominion, to ask from Parliament permission and the means for prosecuting these great works."

It should be borne in mind that the total expenditure required to carry the Trent Valley Canal to a successful issue, as stated by Sir Charles Tupper on the authority of the Government engineer, would be only three millions of dollars, or in other words, $180,000 of annual interest on a loan at 6 per cent. Surely if this project be, as he asserts, of so great importance to the whole Dominion, and if the Government are so strongly impressed with its necessity as he professes, it is not too much to expect that Sir Charles ought at once to ask so able a Finance Minister as Sir Samuel Tilley, to provide the ways and means for proceeding with it? The Redpath Refinery alone, according to the admission of the Government, has made $1,000,000, or one-third the cost of the Trent Valley Canal, out of the National Policy, and it is not unreasonable to ask that "the carrying trade of the whole Dominion" shall have at least as great a claim upon the liberality of the Government, as a single monopoly, more especially when it is required for a permanent public improvement of incalculable importance to the future of the country. The public had been led to expect that the finances of the country had already, under the boasted manipulation of Sir Samuel reached that "equilibrium" which it seems is necessary to enable Sir Charles to proceed with his work. Surely, either Sir Charles has been trifling with the Trent Valley scheme, and is not sincere in his professed desire to see it constructed; or else the Finance Minister has been misleading the country as to the financial condition of the Dominion, and the results of the National Policy. There seems to be no doubt that either Sir Samuel or Sir Charles must be content to sit upon a horn of this dilemma.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE Telegram says:—"It is rather a striking anomaly that bankrupt members of Parliament should be allowed to sit in the House of Commons and make laws on bankruptcy. Yet this anomaly exists in Canada. It may possibly be contended that a man who has taken advantage of the Insolvent Act and paid twenty or thirty cents on the dollar, is in a better position to judge of the merits and demerits of the Act than the one who has had no such experience. But it is a question if the experience thus acquired is the best kind." Bankrupts are not only allowed to sit in the House of Commons, where property qualification has been abolished, but they are even allowed to retain posts of emolument in the Senate, though the Confederation Act explicitly declares that if a Senator be adjudged a bankrupt, his seat shall be vacated.

THE Liverpool Post informs Canada that "it can breathe freely," as it is not true we are going to be deserted by Lorne and Louise. The Post is unnecessarily solicitous. The Canadian people respect the Governor-General and his royal consort, on account of their personal relation to the Queen, and the position of the Marquis in our constitutional machinery, as well as the personal virtues and accomplishments of the Princess. But they are not tuft-hunters nor toadies and would breathe just as freely if the Governor-General were a plainer Commoner, and royalty no nearer than Loudon. In fact the only time since the arrival of the Viceroy's royal consort, at which there was a certain uneasiness in the Canadian breast, was when Lady MacNamara attempted to give Canadian lungs more freedom than Canadian ladies are accustomed to consider decorous.

On Dec. 29th, the decision in the test case of the Town of Peterborough vs. Hatton, was given by C. J. Wilson, at Osgoode Hall. To give the decision in full would require more space than we have at our disposal this week, and might, besides, interfere with the peace of mind of any person who attempted to comprehend it. Whether it was because it was the day after Christmas, or on account of some other reason, the judgment is so involved and obscure, and of so uncertain a meaning, that we have been unable to find a lawyer willing to commit himself to a definite opinion as to how it should be interpreted. The Toronto Police Magistrate, in order to be on the safe side, has announced that the Court of Common Pleas having decided that neither the City nor Magistrate is entitled to police court fees, he will not in future impose such fees. Is is, in fact, the sum desperate legal confusion of the year, and it is not unlikely that [illegible] will be contested as to [illegible] point and to be unusually entertaining. The words are adapted to the music of Pinafore. The author is believed to be Mr. G——n G——ym——r of the Militia Department. The new Government have appointed so many new and unnecessary officials that a good many of them, having really nothing to do beside putting their time in and bolting out bailiffs, resort in sheer desperation to Pinafore production.

OUR OTTAWA LETTER.

Letellier Ill—Governor Dufferin—Seven Leaves' New Year's Presentation—Silver Cradle—Another Silken Gone—The Municipal Elections—The Civil Service Pinafore.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

OTTAWA, Jan. 3rd, 1880.

I regret to have to state that Hon. Mr. Letellier, the dismissed Lt.-Governor, who has been for some time the guest of his son-in-law, Mr. E. E. O'Connor, is so alarmingly ill at the time of this writing, his life is despaired of. Mr. Letellier's nervous system is completely prostrated, and it is very unlikely that he will long survive the effects of the treatment to which he has been subjected.

A private letter from Manitoba, to a gentleman in this city, makes the following statements:—"The secret history of the transfer of the contract for Section No. 15, Thunder Bay branch, from Mr. Whitehead, to the firm of Messrs. Whitehead, Fraser & Grant, is gradually coming to light. Messrs. Fraser and Grant are Nova Scotians, and, as you are aware, the reputed "friends of Sir Charles Tupper. Mr. Whitehead, it is well known, has long been in financial difficulties, and I am told on good authority, went to confer with Dr. Schultz, M.P. for Lisgar, about the matter. The latter gentleman advised Mr. Whitehead to grant him a power-of-attorney. This Mr. Whitehead did, and subsequently the contract was transferred to the parties mentioned above, Messrs. Fraser and Grant taking one-half interest in the contract, and promising to pay $15,000 to Mr. Whitehead for their share. Previous to his receiving the power of attorney Dr. Schultz was unable to complete his South-Western colonization railroad organization, but he did so after the occurrence narrated in this letter." This is a sample transaction of the manner in which the Government contracts are dealt with.

The writ for a new election in North Lanark to fill the vacancy created by the death of the late Mr. Galbraith, has been issued, and nominations will take place on the 15th inst. Both parties have nominated their candidates, and are actively working to secure a victory. The Reform candidate is Mr. Macdonnel, as I intimated in my last letter, and he is opposed by Mr. Jamieson a gentlemen who has undertaken to defeat at the hands of the late member. The constituency is a close one, and was only held by Mr. Galbraith by his personal influence, but there are strong hopes that it will not be allowed to fall into the hands of the enemy.

There appears to be some unaccountable delay in the issuance of the writ for Cornwall, where Dr. Bergin was unseated for corruption, but has been again nominated, but it is believed that wires are being pulled to get him to make way for a more respectable candidate. Meanwhile the day of meeting of Parliament is drawing near, and there is a prospect that the constituency will be disfranchised.

The rumor goes quietly about well-informed circles, that when the House again assembles the "Chieftain" will announce his retirement, and ask the party to select Dr. Tupper for the leadership. It is also stated that Tupper is getting jealous of Tilley's influence with Sir John, and is impatient to be installed in the place he covets.

New Year's was a gala day at the capital. The Governor-General held a levee at his office in the Eastern Block, when a large number called to pay their respects. The thoughtfulness of His Excellency in not imposing the trip to Rideau Hall upon his callers, considerably augmented their numbers.

Mr. C. H. Carriere has severed his connection with the Citizen newspaper, in which he was a partner, and the employees presented him with a large and varied assortment of silver ware on the occasion.

In accordance with a time-honored custom, Mrs. Mackintosh, the wife of the Mayor, was presented on New Year's Day with a silver cradle in honor of the advent of a young squaller, who made his first appearance on the stage of life during the term of Mayor Mackintosh's office. The Aldermen enjoyed the extreme felicity of kissing the infant all round.

But little interest is taken in the elections going on. Mayor Mackintosh's re-election is certain, as his opponent is perhaps, the most unpopular person in the city.

After a vacancy of ten months the Kingston Post Office has at last had a Postmaster appointed, the appointee being Mr. James Shannon, of the Daily News, who, you will remember, was Treasurer of Sir John Macdonald's bribery fund.

A circular has been issued by the Marine and Fishery Department to the effect that in future all matters connected with the laws for protecting and preserving game, other than Quebec and Ontario Fish, must be left to the Provincial authorities, and to the voluntary action of private individuals.

A Civil Service Clerk has written a parody on "Pinafore," which will shortly be produced in Toronto, by McDowell's Shaughraun Company. It is entitled "H. M. S. Parliament, or the Lass who loved a Government Clerk," and the characters represent leading politicians of the day. The play is said to be full of point and to be unusually entertaining. The words are adapted to the music of Pinafore. The author is believed to be Mr. G——n G——ym——r of the Militia Department. The new Government have appointed so many new and unnecessary officials that a good many of them, having really nothing to do beside putting their time in and bolting out bailiffs, resort in sheer desperation to Pinafore production.

An Emily Idyl.

The Omemee Herald relates the following under the head of "A Juvenile Thief":—"One day last week, Mr. Thomas Donelly, of Garden Hill, had about $900 stolen from him, by a young boy named Nelson, ten years of age, a son of Wm. Nelson, formerly of this Village. The lad had been adopted by Donelly's mother, and showed his extreme gratitude, in the above manner, for the kind consideration bestowed upon him. After stealing the money, he headed for Millbrook. On his way, he met an old tramp, and gave him about forty dollars. The latter returned to town, with the boy, and accompanied him to Brenker's, where the lad bought a pair of boots, then to the dry goods store, where he rigged himself out in Sunday-go-to-meeting toggery.—The tramp was found at Cavanville, dead drunk, and most of the money he received was recovered. The lad was discovered, while making his purchases, and Mr. Donnelly had the satisfaction of recovering most of his money.

Learning from past experience that "it is not good for man to be alone," Mr. Donnelly invited a daughter of Mr. Maxfield, of Hope, to meet him at the Altar of St. Thomas Church, Millbrook, yesterday, where a very interesting ceremony was performed by the Rev. Rural Dean Allen, as was announced in the public by the lively peals of the Church bell; and now—Thomas has got some one who will take better care of his money than he did himself.—Since the above was in type, we have learned that it was David Donnelly, brother of Thomas, who lost the money, but there is no mistake about Thos. having found a bride.

New Year's Entertainment.

On New Year's Day, there was a large gathering of young people and some children of older growth of the township of Douro, at Nassau, on the occasion of the entertainment given by Orange Lodge, No. 467, and we must, parenthetically speaking, admonish our friends of the male persuasion, that this is Leap Year, and if they want to avoid temptation in the way of pretty and seductive girls, to keep away from Nassau Mills. The "tea" spread on the occasion bore testimony not only of the hospitality of those interested in the entertainment, but to the good taste and skill in cookery, of the ladies, so that there is this much consolation,—that if a young man does get "roped in" to the matrimonial noose by any young lady from Douro, he will have the melancholy satisfaction of knowing that he may be talked, but never starved, to death. After the good things provided by the ladies had been done ample justice to, the meeting was organized by the appointment of Mr. Weir of Peterborough, to the chair. Rev. Mr. Washington then offered prayer, after which the meeting was more formally opened by a brief address from the Chairman, who reminded the audience that that was the first entertainment of the kind ever held in Douro, and spoke of the fact as a proof of the growth of the Orange order, and the increasing good-will

PROVINCIAL ASSEMBLY.

Fourth Legislature: First Session

Opening at Toronto Yesterday.

TORONTO, January 7th.

Shortly after 2 o'clock the members began to straggle into the old Legislative buildings, on Front street. At three o'clock when the Attorney-General, and the rest of the members of the Government filed into the Chamber, there was a pretty full muster, the Ministerial party flowing over half-way into the seats nominally allotted for the Opposition.

After a few minutes had been spent in hand-shaking, introductions and social conversation, the members took their seats, and shortly after three o'clock the Clerk of the House called the members to order.

Mr. Mowat rose, and addressing the Clerk, pointed out that the first duty of a newly elected Legislature was to elect one of their number to preside over their councils, or in other words to choose a Speaker. He paid a high compliment to the Hon. R. M. Wells, for the satisfactory and impartial manner in which he had fulfilled the duties devolving upon him in the two terms for which he had occupied the chair. Mr. Mowat then gave several reasons why he thought it was advisable to make a change, and concluded by nominating Col. Clark, the member for Central Wellington, for the Speakership. In doing so the Attorney-General pointed out the many years experience Col. Clark had had as a Legislator, and said he felt sure that not only his own friends, but Honourable gentlemen opposite would unite with him, (Mr. Mowat,) in the opinion that there was no honourable gentleman in that House more eminently qualified for the position. He moved that Col. Clark be appointed Speaker.

Ex-Speaker Wells supported the motion, and Mr. Meredith spoke in approval.

The Clerk then declared Col. Clarke duly elected Speaker, amidst general applause from both sides of the Chamber.

Col. Clark then advanced to the Speaker's chair, and thanked the members for the honor done him, promising that he would discharge his duties impartially and to the best of his ability.

The House then adjourned to meet to-morrow at 3 o'clock for the formal opening by the Lieut.-Gov., who will then deliver his speech.

This evening the members of the Government entertain their supporters at a dinner at the National Club.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Bros. Trayes and Wilson will be able to condole with each other over the conduct of "the fickle mob," in the Port Hope Mayoralty election.

THE election in the County of Dufferin takes place to-morrow, the 9th inst. Parties seem to be a good deal split up, and it is difficult to say who may win. The unseated member was a Conservative.

ANOTHER Conservative M.P.P. has gone the way of the way of all the corrupt. The recount in South Wentworth having been finally concluded, Mr. Carpenter, who was declared elected by the Returning Officer, is unseated, and Mr. Awrey, a supporter of Mr. Mowat, takes his place in the Legislature.

AN intimation received by post-card says the annual meeting of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance will be held in the Temperance hall, Toronto, on the 15th inst., and all temperance workers are invited. Railway certificates can be procured from Mr. Thos. Carswell, Toronto.

OUR contemporary the Daily Guide has entered upon the third year of its existence, and we most congratulate it therupon, as well as upon its general good conduct, and the evidences of vitality with which it emerges from its second year. The efforts made during the past year by a pseudo-Reform daily made no impression upon the friends of the Guide, and the decease of the News seems to have left it thriftier than ever.

We must congratulate our friend Mr. Shannon, of the Kingston Daily News, upon his appointment to the position of Postmaster in that city. No man in that section deserved better at the hands of Sir John Macdonald, of whom he was a zealous and unflinching partizan. We will not, now that he has retired from the arena of politics, say that his zeal was over unscrupulous, but as a Conservative must necessarily fill the vacancy, we feel sure that Mr. Shannon's appointment will give satisfaction to all sides. We hope he may live long to fill the position which has rewarded his political labors.

IF ANYTHING were needed to prove how essentially liberal the majority of the people of Ontario are, we have only to point to the general superiority of the Liberal press, and the evidences it presents of the largest share of public favor. A good example of this is presented by that staunch Liberal paper the Guelph Mercury, which comes to us this week enlarged to eight pages of eight columns each, and presenting an appearance of skillful management, both literary and mechanical, which makes it second to none of its contemporaries.

IN the Argenteuil election case, we see by the Mail's report that "Mr. H. McIntyre, of Grenville, and Mr. Thomas J. Higginson, of Ottawa, both Conservatives, gave evidence that Higginson promised to pay McIntyre an old account of $64 to influence him, which the respondent's counsell admitted as sufficient to void the election on a strict interpretation of the election law. The election consequently is voided. Dr. Christie will again be the Liberal candidate, and will be opposed by the Hon. J. J. C. Abbott." We would advise Dr. Christie to steer clear of such Conservative "friends" in the next contest.

OUR little friend, the Daily Review, makes so violent an attempt to criticise an article in last week's EXAMINER, that we really feel compelled, in a friendly way, to warn it that it is better for feeble organizations to avoid all kinds of excitement, lest the prostration which follows reaction should be attended with fatal consequences. We pointed out last week how entirely unjustifiable, and we will now add, stupid, was its attack upon Mr. Mowat on the ground of extravagance, without any knowledge of what the proposed expenditure was to be, and it replies "both the Globe and the Mail said so!" Well, the Legislature has now met, and the distress which is now harassing our contemporary, arising from its extreme solicitude for the welfare of the taxpayers, will shortly be kindly terminated by Mr. Mowat. Our contemporary's attempt to accuse us of being influenced by "Toronto ideas," is as shallow, as its argument in reference to the gift of a site in Toronto is feeble, and its insinuation as to what it "vots of" in reference to some alleged contemporaries, would be false if it were directly applied to the EXAMINER. Whatever our contemporary "vots of," it is quite clear that what it does not "vos of" would fill a large book. It says, "It is true that the city of Toronto obtained a lease of it (the proposed site) at a nominal rent, for a certain period, and that all they have therefore done is to surrender a lease which the Legislature would be perfectly justified in cancelling at any time the interests of the Province might demand it." The Review ought to be aware that an indefinite lease of valuable property at a nominal rent, is generally supposed to be of great value, as in this case it is; and it ought to know, too, that the Legislature of Ontario has neither the right nor the power to interfere with vested rights, or to cancel the lease alluded to against the will of the city of Toronto. Had Toronto refused to surrender this property, the Government would have been compelled either to have abandoned the work, or to have purchased a site at a very heavy outlay. Our contemporary says "we believe a majority of the EXAMINER'S readers will endorse our views of the matter." Perhaps they will; and if the Review were to announce its confidence that the moon was made of green cheese, it would find the readers of the EXAMINER equally ready to defer to an opinion coming from such an infallible authority.

Watch Night at St. Luke's

On New Year's Eve there was a very large congregation, among whom were a good many visitors, in attendance upon the services held at St. Luke's Church to commemorate the advent of a New Year. The visiting members of the congregation present especially were struck with admiration, as they entered the building, by the beautiful and truly artistic coup d'oeil presented by the very handsome decorations with which the congregation, under direction of the Incumbent, had adorned the Church. On either side of the chancel window were scrolls, of handsome design, bearing the mottoes "Unto us a Child is born; unto us a Son is given," and "Thou shalt call His name Jesus, for He shall save His people from sin." These, and the chancel window, were adorned with evergreen wreaths, relieved with the scarlet berries of the mountain ash, and above, the motto "The Word was made Flesh." Bannerets of choice design and exquisite workmanship hung under the corbouldis of the principal groins of the arched roof, and evergreen wreaths were supended between the windows, along the mouldings, and everywhere where good taste suggested. On either side of the chancel were the Greek Monograms of the Church in beautiful designs, the work inside the chancel having been principally executed by the Misses Bennett and Miss Revell, the lettering over the windows reflecting the greatest credit upon the skill and good taste of Mrs. Harry Smith. The Font was handsomely decorated with evergreens, and the words in scarlet letters on a white ground: "One Lord, One Faith, One Baptism." The decoration of the pulpit especially was of exquisite delicacy. In fact the decorations as a whole were such as the eye of an artist could scarcely find a flaw in, while the perfect workmanship of the details bore testimony that the labor of love had been aided by skill, good taste and patient industry. The services began at 11.30 and were the shortened Evening Service with special Psalms and Lessons. Just before 12 o'clock the audience spent a few minutes in silent prayer, and as the last stroke of midnight died away, the Choir sang out the "Gloria in Excelsis." The Incumbent, Rev. Mr. Bradshaw, gave a brief but appropriate and earnest address after which cards were distributed to each person in attendance, bearing a Motto for the year 1880, in the words "Watch and Pray." The collection was then taken up, and was a very liberal one, the proceeds being devoted to the Poor Fund. Hymns 280,283,and 72, formed the musical part of the service, which was throughout most impressive.

On Monday, Holy Innocents Day, a special service for the children was held when an appropriate sermon was delivered by Mr. Bradshaw, the children singing the Christmas Carols.

THE REAL TRUTH

(For the Examiner.)

Mr. Editor,—I will come with your permission, on Monday, that pet-erborough Protestant Poor Trust "is "a matter of public interest." I propose as one "of the interested parties" to avail myself of your invitation, and furnish "an Enquirer" through your columns with the information he desires, notwithstanding that in order to do so it will be necessary for me to contravene a resolution passed at a recent meeting of the Board to the effect "that meetings of the Board shall not be reported to the public press, except through the Secretary by the direction of the Board."

The application to the Courts and to Parliament, to which your correspondent refers, have been made to remedy an injustice which the members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church conceive themselves to be labouring under, in consequence of the unfortunate wording of the Act obtained under the authority of and presumably intended to carry out the objects of the deed creating the Trust, and which in its practical working, if correctly interpretated by a majority of the Trustees, must deprive that congregation, for all time to come, of the representation which they believe was clearly intended by that instrument.

In order to place the matter before your readers properly and do even meagre justice to St. Andrew's congregation, I must begin by stating that about eighteen months ago the office bearers of that Church were informed by a gentleman, who certainly should know the intentions of the signers of the deed of Trust, that Mr. Robert Fairbairn had vacated his seat at the Board by reason of having ceased to be a member of their congregation, and that they should take the necessary steps for the election of a successor. If I am not misinformed Mr. Fairbairn was almost immediately, privately, informed of his right to continue to sit as the Board being questioned on the ground stated, "but if so it failed to bear fruit, and at a joint meeting of the Session and Managers of St. Andrew's Church in October, 1878, I was instructed to write to the Board calling their attention to the claim of the congregation, explain the grounds upon which it was founded, and point out that the preamble of the Act recited the deed, word for word, except that it omitted the words "and having been selected two from each congregation" in connection with the representation of the Presbyterian body on the Board. That communication was addressed to and laid before a meeting of the Board on the 30th October, 1878, and resulted in the Secretary being "instructed to inform Mr. Carnegie that in the opinion of the Board there is no vacancy." Being informed by report that Mr. Fairbairn took the ground that he was not appointed a Trustee as either a member of or as representing St. Andrew's congregation, in December '78 four questions were addressed to Mr. Nichols, who had chiefly to do with the framing of the deed and the naming of the Trustees, and the replies given below were subsequently received from him. For the sake of convenience I give the questions with the answer to each following:—

1st Question:—Were the four Presbyterian Trustees appointed two to represent each congregation, St. Pauls and St. Andrews, respectively, or were they appointed without any reference to the particular congregations to represent the general Presbyterian population?

Answer:—It was my desire and intention to appoint as Trustees of the Hall Fund, four members of the Presbyterian Church, viz., two members of St. Paul's Church and two members of St. Andrew's Church, and it was not intended that the four trustees should be appointed from one congregation, but two from each.

2nd Question:—If appointed two to represent each congregation was it intended or not, that each congregation should thereafter elect the successors of its first representatives when occasion for electing successors should arise?

Answer:—The intention was in case of death or removal, or other cause of one or both the Trustees representing either congregation, that each congregation and no one else had the power to appoint the successors of its first representatives so that each congregation would continue to be represented at the Board of Trustees, as intended, by two members from each congregation.

3rd Question:—Did you or did you not, believing Mr. Fairbairn to be a member of St. Andrew's congregation after first consulting him, appoint him to be one of its representatives?

Answer:—I did believe and do now believe that Mr. Fairbairn was at the time he was appointed a member of St. Andrew's Church, which information I got from Mr. Fairbairn at the time he was appointed as Trustee to represent St. Andrew's Church.

4th Question:—Did you appoint him to represent anything or anyone outside of St. Andrew's congregation.

Answer:—He was not appointed to represent anything or anyone outside of St. Andrew's congregation, and I regret that there should be difficulty in the matter, and think Mr. Fairbairn fully understands the desire to have both congregations represented at the Board by two Trustees from each congregation. From memory think I had at least two if not more conversations with him about it at the time the trustees were first appointed, and at those interviews explained to him the intention, wish and desire, was to have two members from each Presbyterian Church, and as he then was an active member of St. Andrew's Church took great interest in its welfare, also took so much interest in the Sunday School of St. Andrew's Church, I thought him a fit and proper person to represent said congregation, so long as he continued a member of said congregation and no longer.

Taking these replies in conjunction with the fact that the deed of Trust says: "The first Board of Trustees to be composed of Fred W. Haultain, Dr. W. H. Taylor, Robert Fairbairn and Robert Dennistoun, as representing the Presbyterians, and having been chosen two from each congregation," and furtheron the manner of succession to be such as may be determined by the said Board "having due regard to the continued representation on such Board of the several denominations in the proportions above prescribed and set out."

I venture to think, whatever the actual fact with regard to Mr. Fairbairn's membership at the time of his appointment, or his understanding with regard to the same, that most men would, with these facts before them, have deemed it their duty to resign a position, which they held morally if not legally forfeited, rather than shelter themselves behind an Act whose wording, could not even if so intended (which I do not believe it was) have been better framed to meet his unanticipated position, and defeat the evident intentions of the very deed which the Act was obtained to carry out.

Early in January, 1879, Judge Dennistoun, one of the original Trustees resigned and in accordance with the provisions of the Act, and intention of the deed at a meeting of St. Andrew's congregation held the same month, I was appointed his successor. At the same meeting, my letter to the Board, their reply thereto, and the correspondence with Mr. Nichols, already given, having been duly considered, a resolution re-iterating the claim to Mr. Fairbairn's seat was unanimously passed, and the secretary instructed to forward a copy of the same to the Board. At the annual meeting of the Board on the 3rd of February last, I took my seat, and the resolution above referred to was read and after a good deal of discussion first as to the propriety of its being considered, and secondly as to the merits of the claim, and during which I produced and read the questions submitted to Mr. Nichols and his replies thereto, "it was resolved that any action upon it be postponed." During the discussion of this question at this meeting it was proposed that a motion should be made and signed by all the Trustees, setting forth the congregation and denomination to which each Trustee belonged at the time of his appointment, and that in that minute Mr. Fairbairn should be set down as a member of St. Andrew's Church so as to secure to them the right of electing his successor whenever that became necessary. On behalf of St. Andrew's congregation I expressed my willingness to accept this as a settlement of the difficulty and thus leave it to Mr. Fairbairn to sit so long as he liked on the board as our representative. This proposition however was rejected in a most positive manner by Mr. Fairbairn on the ground that he could not make such a statement, and it accordingly came to nothing and action was postponed. Shortly after the February meeting I was privately informed that it was proposed to remove the difficulty by Col. Haultain resigning his seat and St. Paul's congregation electing a member of St. Andrew's as his successor. If seriously contemplated, this intention was not carried out, and at the regular May meeting of the Board the matter was again brought up by myself and very freely discussed. At this as at the previous meeting, the chief argument used against the contention of St. Andrew's congregation was that it had not been proved that Mr. Fairbairn ever was a member of their congregation. Unfortunately for us our memorial records are wasting for the whole period of Mr. Maclennan's pastorate, and consequently for some time both before and after the date of the appointment of the Trustees. We had however good reason to believe that the records of St. Paul's congregation would show that Mr. Fairbairn had been admitted to that congregation by certificate from St. Andrews. I had several times explained our position in this respect and asked the chairman (Col Haultain) to refer to the session records of St. Paul's and see if our expectations would not be realised, and at this May meeting he agreed to do so, and report at a special meeting which was then expected would be held in June or July. No special meeting was, however, held, neither was the regular meeting in August, and no opportunity was consequently afforded for bringing the matter up again until the regular meeting last November. On the Friday afternoon before the Monday fixed for that meeting, Col. Haultain called upon me and informed me that immediately after the close of the meeting about to be held, both he and Mr. Fairbairn would hand the secretary their resignations, and that St. Andrew's congregation would be called upon to elect Mr. Fairbairn's successor. As this would accomplish all that the congregation were contending for, I did not therefore, nor did anybody else refer to the matter at that meeting. The promised resignations however, did not come, and at an adjourned meeting of the Board during the same month a letter was read from the heirs of the late William Hall stating that it was their intention that St. Andrew's congregation should only have one representative on the Board, and upon this being read, Col. Haultain informed me that he considered the promised resignations unnecessary. It is, however, I apprehend, no breach of confidence for me to state, that one of the signers to that letter subsequently informed me that their intention was that St. Paul's should have two representatives, and St. Andrew's, along with the others, but one each—in which case it is equally clear, to carry out their intentions, it would be necessary to decapitate one of the three representatives which St. Paul's now has, and reduce the total number of Trustees from eight to seven.

I apprehend, however, that if the deeds signed by the heirs and Mr. Nichols are to be gone behind at all, in all justice one would require to go not to their intentions, but to the intentions of the late William Hall, whose unexecuted will, the the deed in question professes to carry out, and the memorandum made under the late Mr. Hall's directions, I am informed, provides for four Presbyterian Trustees. Another reason why the congregation of St. Andrew's church feel perfectly justified in taking their stand upon the deed, notwithstanding the letter of the heirs; is that, according to our information, Mr. Nichols had morally as well as legally, a right to a voice in the framing of the deed which, in justice, cannot be ignored. Taking these facts into consideration, and feeling that all our efforts extending over a period of twelve months, to find an amicable and honorable solution of the difficulty had not only failed, but made it apparent that unless we were prepared to appeal to the only authorities able to give us redress, we had better abandon the claim altogether. We decided to forthwith seek redress.

As under the wording of the act it is fairly open to argue that Mr. Fairbairn had forfeited his seat under its provisions, it was felt that if the congregation confined itself to an application for an amendment to the act to meet the interpretation put upon it by the Board, they might be met with the answer that the act already was sufficient to give them what they required, and that they should apply to the courts for redress. Under these circumstances, it was deemed advisable to apply to the court for its interpretation, and also to give the necessary notice for amendment to the act, so that if the court decided against their application, no time need be lost in asking the Legislature to give them the rights accorded to them under the deed. Since the meetings already referred to, two special meetings of the Board have been held. At the first of these, the question of opposing the Act, for which we have given notice was considered, and it was decided unanimously not to offer any opposition thereto, which is a practical admission by the Board, that they think the present Act does not "secure to the congregation of St. Andrew's church that representation on the Board of the said Trust which the deed creating the same contemplated." Having, previous to this meeting, notified the chairman that I would expect him thereat, to redeem the promise which he made to me in May, with regard to looking up the records of St. Paul's congregation, in so far as they related to Mr. Fairbairn's membership, he kindly produced the following memorandum, viz.;

EXTRACT FROM ROLL.

Mr. Robert Fairbairn's name appears on the roll as communicating with us for the first time, June 29, 1871. This is in Mr. Wm. Hall's writing. His certificate that I have bears date February 12, 1876, and is from St. Andrew's church here and signed by Mr. McLennan, and the date of certificate and where certified from is in the writing of Mr. J. M. Smith. It is also marked in pencil as removed and returned. I think Mr. F. was away in Lindsay for a while after joining us.

(Signed.) JOHN ERSKINE,
Session Clerk.

From this it is seen that our anticipations were fully realized, and the records of St. Paul's congregation affords conclusive evidence, when other circumstances are taken into consideration, that Mr. Robert Fairbairn was a member of St. Andrew's congregation at the time of his appointment, viz.: on the 2nd August, 1875. That he must have been a member of St. Andrew's church just previous to and up to the date of the certificate which he, himself, presented to the session of St. Paul's, and upon which he was re-admitted a member of that congregation, so one acquainted with Presbyterian usage and church law, will venture to deny. As that certificate is dated only a few days more than six months after the date of the deed, and nearly five years after the entry first referred to, the supposition of a man becoming a member and leaving a congregation within six months, is necessary to comply with the contention that Mr. Fairbairn was not a bona fide member of St. Andrew's congregation at the time of his appointment. This point might be left here but that the certificate quoted attempts, in some measure, to discount its full force by referring to the fact that Mr. Fairbairn resided in Lindsay for a time between the date of the first entry and that of the certificate. As a proof, that his residence in Lindsay in no way interferes with our contention, I may say that the books of our Treasurer show Mr. Fairbairn to have paid seat rent with us in the years 1873, 1874 and 1875.

Other incidental facts might be mentioned to sustain the position that Mr. Fairbairn was a bona fide member of our congregation, and that Mr. Nichols had every reason to suppose he was such when he appointed him, but I think I have said enough to convince all but the most prejudiced, and trespassed already, too much on your space.

As I have thus far only dealt with the deed, and our own and Mr. Fairbairn's position, under it, I must trespass still further on your space to say a word or two in subjection to the Act itself. In the Taylor after a short residence of some four Years, only, in Lindsay has so far won the confidence and respect of the people of that town, that on Monday last they elected him Mayor by a considerable majority over Mr. Russell, an old resident, and a man so strong, personally and politically, that he was able to cut vote Hon. "To Mr. John Wood, late Head Master Ashburnham School:

"DEAR SIR,—On behalf of the pupils lately under your charge we beg to present you with the accompanying vases and motto, as a slight token of our esteem and gratitude for your long arduous labors on our behalf. Presentation.—On December 23rd, Miss Jessie Smith, who for the last four years has been teaching in S. S. No. 2 Smith, on the termination of her engagement, was presented by her pupils with an elegant writing desk and a handsome parlor lamp, accompanied by the following address:—

"DEAR TEACHER,—We, the pupils of this School, who have for the last four years not only enjoyed the benefits to be derived from your careful teaching, but also the pleasure of your society, during that period, now that we are about to part, here present you with this lamp and desk, hoping that you will accept them—not that they are of any value themselves, but as a token of the esteem with which we regard you, not only as a teacher, but also as a friend. It is with feelings of regret that we bid you an affectionate good-bye, hoping that health and happiness may attend you wherever you go, and may the same esteem reward your efforts there as here. Collided with a Train.—On Saturday evening last Mr. Robert Vance, of Cavan, had a narrow and almost miraculous escape from a terrible disaster. It appears that he was at the Midland station, where he had some business with his team, when he observed a train engaged in shunting back directly upon him. He endeavored to get the team out of the way, but the horses becoming terrified plunged directly towards the train, which struck the sleigh, smashing it to atoms, turning Mr. Vance out upon the platform, fortunately without injuring him in the least. Every person who witnessed the accident thought for the moment that Mr. Vance must have been crushed to pieces, and he is to be congratulated upon his lucky escape. Meanwhile the team, who barely grazed the train, being freed from the sleigh, dashed off over the Smithdown hill at a furious pace, and by the time Mr. Vance had had a chance of surveying the wreck of the sleigh, were out of sight. They were subsequently found by a farmer several miles out on the Hall Lake Road, and brought in to the Croft House by him. The team was not in the least injured by the escapade, and having preserved another sleigh from Mr. T. Fitzgerald, Mr. Vance proceeded home the same night.

Fire Organization.

On Tuesday night, the proposed meeting for the re-organization of the Fire Brigade was held at the Fire Hall, when there was a good attendance of young men of the very best material from which to create what is needed here, and which the meeting was called to inaugurate, a first-class effective Fire Brigade.

Just previous to the opening of proceedings the old Hose Company met and formally disbanded, after which a meeting was held in the Hall, Mr. S. H. Henderson in the chair. After some thirty names were enrolled, it was decided to appoint a committee to draught a Constitution and By-laws for the new organization, on the basis of the old By-laws, and to report to an adjourned meeting to be held on Monday evening next, after which the meeting adjourned.

In the room adjoining, those interested in the formation of a Hook and Ladder Company, to the number of twenty-five, met and organized as such Company. They then elected the following officers:—Captain, E. Hughes; Lieutenant, Geo. Fagin; Secretary, J. C. Robertson; Treasurer, W. S. Cocks. It was resolved that the meeting nights of the Company should be the first Wednesday in every month.

We wish the new organizations the greatest success.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

Town of Peterborough.

The polls, for the election of a Council to administer the affairs of the ratepayers of Peterborough for the year 1880, were opened in the different wards at 9 o'clock on Monday morning, and contrary to expectation there was a brisk interest manifested during the day, and as will be seen by the returns, quite a full vote polled. The result is that the Council of 1880 will be composed of Mayor Lundy, and Councillors Cahill, Taylor and McNaughton, for No. 1 Ward; Councillors Smith, Dunsford and Paterson, for No. 2 Ward; Councillors Yelland, Douglass and Toole, for No. 3 Ward; and Councillors Denne, Sawers and Menzies, for No. 4 Ward. On the whole, though the electors had generally good men to select from, we must congratulate them on the choice at which they arrived, and which will, we trust, tend to the promotion of the interests of the town. As will be seen Dr. Boucher ran very close in No. 3 Ward. The comparatively small vote polled by Mr. Mills in No. 2, was no doubt attributable to his retirement from the council without completing his last term of office, though he has the satisfaction of having received the support of most of the large property-holders of the ward. In No. 1 Ward, both Messrs. Stethem and Macdonald had announced their retirement from the contest, though some of their friends nevertheless persisted in voting for them. The following is the vote in detail, the names of defeated candidates being in italics:

Distress in Ireland.

MEETING TO TAKE STEPS FOR THE RELIEF OF THE DISTRESSED POOR IN IRELAND.

Immediately after mass in St. Peter's Church on Sunday, Jan. 4, 1880, a meeting was called for the purpose of considering the best means to take for obtaining relief for the distressed poor in Ireland. During mass on Sunday the Rev. Father Lynch said that he had been considering for some time past the best means to devise to obtain relief for the distressed poor in Ireland. He said it was a matter of interest to every Irishman, both Protestant and Catholic alike. He would therefore request the male portion of the congregation to remain after mass and call a meeting.

On motion Dr. J. O'Sullivan was called to the chair, and Mr. Thos. Kelly requested to act as Secretary.

The CHAIRMAN briefly stated the purpose for which the meeting was called, and pointed out the wide-spread destitution that exists in Ireland, and the interest taken in Montreal, Toronto and other places for the relief of the distressed poor of that unfortunate country.

The Rev. Father LYNCH, addressing the Chairman, said that he would be only too glad to co-operate in any plan that might be adapted to raise funds for the relief of the poor in Ireland.

Messrs. Hogan, John Moloney, T. Dolan, J. Dolan, Hackett, Cahill, Delaney Garvey, Shirley, Doherty, Morrow, and other gentlemen spoke, expressing sympathy for the poor in Ireland.

Moved by Mr. THOS. SHIRLEY, seconded by Mr. JOHN CORKERY.—That a Committee be appointed to wait on the Mayor and request him to call a public meeting for the purpose of devising a means for the relief of the distressed poor in Ireland.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. THOS. CAHILL, seconded by Mr. C. MCGRATH,—That Mr. Jas. Dolan and Mr. James Hogan be appointed to request the Mayor to call a public meeting as early a date as possible.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. JAS. DOLAN, seconded by Mr. JOHN MOLONEY.—That this meeting adjourn in order to await the action of the Mayor and citizens.—Carried.

The meeting then adjourned.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 7.

At the School meeting the Secretary read his annual report, giving the number of children of school age as taken last week, as follows:—Lakefield, 330; Douro, part of Section, 98; total, 428.

John Dinwoodie, ex-Reeve, returned to Longford on Tuesday to take charge of the repairs to Mr. Thompson's mill and on his return in the spring will remove his family and bid farewell to Lakefield as one of it's citizens.

Those of the ratepayers who chose to partake, were treated to an oyster supper on Monday evening after the close of the poll, at the Midland Hotel, by the Reeve elect.

This week is going to prove a good one for the parsons of the Village, as no less than four weddings are to come off, and others are spoken of.

On Monday afternoon a horse driven by Mr. Wrightson, late of the News, ran away on Queen Street. Mr. Wrighson, although upset and thrown out, managed to bring the frightened animal to a stand before any damage was done.

Last Monday week, five teams from the vicinity of Norwood, went up the Burleigh road to look for work, and on Friday were seen returning home, having failed their object, and never having had their teams under cover one night all week.

A heavy rain fell on Saturday night, which has removed most of the snow, but not enough to spoil the sleighing. The lumbermen have hailed it with delight, as it will fill up the swamps and flood the lakes so that with a few cold nights the travelling will be good and work can be pushed in the woods.

A moose head is on exhibition in the Post Office here, which attracts much attention from its size &c. It was killed by Mr. D. Nelson, about 40 miles east of the Magnetawan Muskoka District. It's length was over 6ft., weight 1,800 lbs. Head weighs about 80 lbs, and the horns are 5ft. 3in. between the tips. Mr. Nelson intends to take it to Peterboro' and raffle it, as your readers will have an opportunity of examining it. $60 was offered and refused for it. Mr. N. shot five others this fall, but none so large or with such fine horns.

Quite a number of children are down with measles in the Village, but all are doing

OUR CHRISTMAS STORY.

A SELF-BETRAYAL.

CHAPTER IV. (Continued.)

"Did he give you that?' said the maid pointing at the note.

'Yes,' said the butler, musingly. 'How's Miss Naomi?'

'Lal you may well ask that. I don't know what to make of the poor thing—going to marry a rich handsome husband to-morrow morning, and she looking just as if she was getting ready for her funeral.'

'She don't care for him, then—eh?'

'Oh, I believe she regularly hates him, that I do. He's a fine, handsome fellow, though, he is!'

'Wouldn't marry him yourself, my dear, eh?'

'I wouldn't marry him,' said the maid; 'but I would his money.'

An hour later the last light had been extinguished in the Manor, and the many occupants of the place were preparing in rest for the busy day to come. Bridesmaids had taken their last look at the tasteful dresses they were to wear; mammas had whispered in dreaming papas' ears their opinions upon the match, and wished that their daughters could do as well. Sir James had sat thinking for some time about the alliance, and though the remembrance of his child's careworn, haggard face had several times obtruded itself, his thoughts were mostly upon the splendid position she would occupy.

'And as to love,' he had said, 'that's mere school-girl twaddle. We don't make love now-a-days; that belonged to the pastoral age, and they're welcome to it.'

The bridegroom did not look self-satisfied and happy as he sought his couch. An uneasy feeling troubled him; for that night Naomi's look had been one of such unmistakable aversion that, as he walked up and down his room and recalled it, he could get help thinking that if John Rudd were to put in an appearance the next morning even at that eleventh hour the wedding might be delayed.

'Nonsense!' he cried, at last; 'she is mine sure enough, now!' and throwing himself upon the bed, he was soon asleep.

It was about one o'clock that, as the elderly lady who, in her position of most important female relative of the family, had been asked to the wedding, was lying in a half-dreamy state, neither sleeping nor waking, consequent upon a fit of indigestion produced by too many good things, she saw the door of her room open by the gleam of the feeble night-light, burning in a saucer of water.

For a few minutes she lay thinking it was part of a dream into which she was plunged; but directly after she grew more wakeful, upon seeing that the door opened wider and wider, and was so carefully closed by a tall, dark figure, which came softly and silently into the middle of the room, and there stood in a bent attitude, as if listening intently.

The occupant of the bed lay with her tongue dry, and her lips apart, longing to shriek for help, but unable to utter a sound. She knew that there was help just across the passage, but she could not summon it; and strive as she would, she felt that she could only lie there, bathed in perspiration, and gaze at the figure.

It paid no heed to her; but, after standing there bent down for a few moments, began cautiously to move round the room, as if following somebody, and then, with a cat-like spring, seemed to leap upon the victim, hurl it to the ground, and then go through the motions of a terrible struggle, holding the imaginary victim to the floor.

This lasted for some minutes, and then, with a heavy sigh, the figure cautiously left the room.

As the door closed, the occupant of the bed fainted dead away; and on recovering went into a succession of fits, which kept her in a state of fear and agony until towards morning, when she fell into a troubled sleep, which lasted till she was called.

V.

FAST ASLEEP ON A WEDDING MORN.

The excitement caused by the elderly lady's narration lasted but a short time, on account of other more important incidents.

The news was conveyed to Sir James that Lady Du Paget was alarmingly ill, and he ordered the doctor to be sent for, determined that nothing short of a death should stop the wedding that morning, and muttering something about what a nuisance old women were.

He had just settled this matter, and was preparing for an early breakfast, at which he expected to be joined by Da Silva, with whom he wished to have a little chat about the wedding settlements, when Pauley, the old butler, came in to announce that the maid was afraid her mistress was ill.

'Yes, I know. Lady Du Paget is ill, you mean, and the doctor is sent for. There, bring in the coffee, and don't bother me any more!'

'No, sir; I mean my young mistress—Miss Naomi.'

'What?' half-shrieked Sir James.

'My young mistress, sir. Mrs. Loker says she has been knocking at the door for ever so long, and can't make her hear.'

'Stand on one side, idiot!' cried Sir James.

And running to the grand staircase, he leaped up two steps at a time till he reached the passage in which Naomi's room was situated.

'Here Naomi—Naomi!' he cried, knocking at the door; but there was no answer.

'Please, Sir James, I've been doing that this half-hour,' said the lady's-maid.

'Silence, fool!' cried the Baronet, excitedly, making the woman bridle up, and her eyes flash, as she exclaimed, beneath her breath, 'Well, I'm sure!'

'Naomi, Naomi!' cried Sir James, rattling the door-handle; 'wake up, child! Are you asleep?'

No reply; and on the Baronet laying his hand against the door and listening, there was no sound.

'Naomi, Naomi!' he shouted. 'Naomi, my child—it is late!'

Still no reply; and just then a door opened, and Da Silva, dressed most elaborately for the wedding ceremony, entered the passage.

'Is anything the matter?' he asked, anxiously.

'Yes—no—I can't say!' cried Sir James. 'Pauley, go down-stairs and out of the hall door. Look up at Miss Naomi's window, and see if it is closed.'

The butler hurried down, and while he was gone, Sir James beat and called at the door, without avail.

'Well?' he cried, as the butler came panting up. 'The window?'

'Open also, sir, the curtains and all blown about by the wind.'

'Quick! Search!' the Baronet continued; for he had quite forgotten about there having been an elopement. In fact, he was sufficiently sure there had not been one, still he found, without doubt, that the door was locked upon the inside, and thinking still to the best.

'Quick!' he cried—'using something to beat open the door!'

'No, no!' cried Da Silva. 'I protest, Sir James. It would be an outrage.'

'It is my daughter, Mr. Da Silva,' retorted the Baronet, pendulously—'not your wife. I beg you will not interfere.'

There was no difficulty about getting tools, for the old carpenter of the manor was below in the servants' hall, drinking ale with the rest of the outdoor people gathered together in honor of the wedding, and in a few minutes he had been led up to the door, though not without some difficulty, for he considered it was his duty to wipe his mouth upon every mat he passed; but, at last, he put down his tool-basket by the door, where some twenty or thirty excited visitors and domestics had gathered, and, trembling with nervousness, proceeded to divide his time between trying to pick the lock and wiping the perspiration from his forehead.

'Break the door open!' cried Sir James, at last. 'Ah, you here, doctor?'

'Yes,' said that worthy, hastening up. 'What is the matter?'

'Naomi—my child—I don't know yet,' cried the Baronet. 'Be quick!'

This last to the carpenter, who was damaging the door and frame a good deal, but making no progress.

In the midst of the carpenter's hammerings with mallet and chisel, John Rudd, who had slept at the nearest village the night before, came up the staircase, followed by a clerical-looking looking stranger, and in a few moments he was made au courant as to the trouble on hand.

Crash! The door had given way at last, and Sir James rushed in.

Da Silva was about to follow, when John Rudd thrust his hand across the door frame, and barred his way.

'Stop, sir!' he cried, sternly; 'that chamber is sacred.'

'How dare you!' cried Da Silva, fiercely, and raising his hand, he seemed about to strike John Rudd; but the latter's resolute bearing cowed him, and his hand fell to his side.

'Pass in, doctor. You too, Mrs. Luker,' cried John Rudd to the maid; and they hastened in, the maid uttering a cry of dismay as she entered the darkened room.

In half a minute the doctor was at the door.

'Get me brandy—hot water—enough for a bath. Quick!' he said. 'Mr. Rudd, clear this passage, and let me have silence.'

'But Naomi—Miss Naomi?' cried Da Silva, in a tragic voice.

'I've no time to answer questions, sir,' said the doctor, abruptly. 'Attend to my orders.'

Da Silva made as if to take the ordering of all matters into his hands; but John Rudd's stern ways seemed to master him, and he submitted to the command to go below.

'But Mr. Rudd, I am as good as her husband,' he said, appealingly.

'You will be no husband to-day, Mr. Da Silva,' said John Rudd, fighting hard to keep down his feeling of triumph. 'The bride elect has had a seizure of some kind, and there will be no wedding.'

John Rudd surprised no one more than himself as he said these words, for as he spoke them, he felt that he had no authority for so doing, and that they were to a certain extent prophetic.

For soon the doctor sent out Mrs. Luker as a messenger, and from her it was learned that her young mistress seemed to be quite asleep, and that the doctor thought it was just such a seizure as she had had last.

An hour passed, and the report was the same. Another hour, with Da Silva beginning to act like a madman, for he was in fear that the marriage ceremony would not be performed that day.

Messenger after messenger he sent up, and at last Sir James came down into the drawing-room.

'How is she now?' said Da Silva. 'Will she be well enough for the ceremony?'

'She is plunged in a deep, strange stupor,' said Sir James, looking round from one to the other; 'and it will be impossible.'

'Let the clergyman come to her room, Sir James,' cried Da Silva, as the quiet, clerical-looking man, who had been standing near the drawing-room door, suddenly gave a satisfied smile, and spoke to another quiet-looking, clerical individual who had entered the room.

'Friends of yours, John Rudd?' said Sir James, haughtily.

'No, Sir James,' said the young man, quickly.

'No, Sir James—it' all right,' said the first-comer. 'We were not invited; we invited ourselves.'

'Sir!' cried Sir James, forgetting the trouble in the mad excitement. 'Have the goodness to leave at once. This intrusion is——'

'All in the proper form, Sir James,' he said. 'We are friends of Mr. Da Silva there. It strikes me that even if the young lady had not been taken ill, there would have been no wedding. Now, Smith—quick! Come, my lad, no games; it won't do—it—ah——'

The sharp report of fire-arms, and the plaster of the ceiling came rattling down from where the bullet had struck, for as Da Silva saw the two strangers approach him, he thrust his hand into the breast-pocket, and drew out a pistol. The men he had to deal with were fully on the alert, and springing upon him, the pistol exploded, but was wrenched directly after from his hand; and the next instant he was securely hand-cuffed, and standing helpless between his captors.

'What does this outrage mean?' cried Sir James, whose breath was completely taken away by this incident.

'Only a little bit of business,' Sir James,' said the quiet, clerical-looking man. 'I am Inspector Steanton, of Great Ireland Yard, and this is Sergeant Smith, who brought me the warrant to arrest this gentleman here, whom I made sure of first. There is the warrant, Sir James.'

'But what for—debt?' cried Sir James.

'No, sir; something worse than that. It is a case of murder!'

Ten minutes later Da Silva was in a hired carriage, and upon his way to the station, and the wedding guests were flying from the court as from a sinking ship.

VI.

JOHN RUDD ON HIS DEGREES.

Sir James came down to his study from one of his visits to his daughter's room, and finding John Rudd there, he turned upon him angrily. He wanted some object upon whom he could throw the blame of all his troubles, and John Rudd was one whom he had known so long, and upon whom he gazed down with so condescending an eye, that he had no hesitation in attacking him.

'How is Naomi?' cried the young man, eagerly.

'Sir, the question of Miss Marchpoint's health is not one for you to discuss. I wanted to have a few words with you, John Rudd. Now, answer me candidly—if you can. This seizure of Mr. Da Silva—this contemptible arrest—is it not due to some plans of yours?'

'Certainly not, Sir James.'

'Do you dare to tell me, sir, that you did not set those detectives, or those detectives, to arrest him?'

'Certainly I do, Sir James.'

'What? Do you possess the effrontery to deny that you have not been making inquiries into what you called that gentleman's antecedents?'

'Oh, no; I do not deny that,' replied John Rudd.

'Oh, indeed! I thought not,' said Sir James sarcastically.

'I had tried hard, Sir James,' continued John Rudd, 'and left no stone unturned, to find out who and what this Da Silva is.'

(To be concluded next week.)

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

A Reformation, "wholesale".—This is the intention was for Temperance Temperance orders generally payment of subscriptions:—We regret to say that many of our personal friends have not yet sent in the dollar they owe us for their year's paper. We are sorry for two reasons: first, because when we cut their names off our list which we shall do the first week in January, we deprive them of their last hope of moral redemption; and second, because it annoys us to find that we have, in the past, regarded as friends persons who are so excessively mean as to keep in their pocket a dollar which is ours, and still keep it there, though we thus remind them of their meanness. See-for such friends! The man who calls himself our friend, and yet hangs on to our dollar is too contemptible a thing to call a sneak."

The Dominion Board of Arbitrators will meet in Ottawa in the second week of January. There is a good deal of work before it.

On Dec. 26 the Church of England property on the corner of Rideau and Sussex streets, Ottawa, was sold to Sheriff Powell for $13,406. It is said, he intends to form a joint stock company for the erection of a first-class hotel.

A hair merchant in London, Ont, named Fred. Bennet was arrested on the 26th December, on a warrant, charging him with attempting to procure an abortion on the person of a young girl in his employ named Elizabeth Fagan, aged 15. The girl told him of her trouble, when he gave her as drug. She grew alarmed and told her mother. The arrest followed.

A very interesting question is now before the Supreme Court, and one which cannot fail to interest suitors. In the cases of Valin vs. Langlois, Mr. Langlois argued successfully his own case, but in making up the bill of costs the Registrar did not allow the respondent counsel's fees, holding that it was contrary to English practice that they should be allowed in such a case. An application has consequently been made to the Court to overrule the Registrar's decision.

PETITT'S EYE-SALVE.

An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Film, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause.

The American Eye-Salve is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflamation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optive nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also, for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have been long threatened with a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe and effectual remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, avoiding the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of caustic minerals and eye-washes. Ringworm and old Chronic Sores, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the American Eye-Salve. IT IS USED SUCCESSFULLY FOR PILES. Its soothing effect is immediate, and a permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. Petitt's American Eye-Salve" while making new and improved machinery for making a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper, Circulars, advertisements, etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

What they say of it? A few facts for the People.

There are but few preparations of medicines which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Read the following and be convinced:—Thomas Robinson, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writes, 'I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and since then have had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all.'——J. H. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Shefford, P. Q., writes—'I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc, and think it equally as good for horse as for man.'——A. Mayhog, Merchant, Warkworth, writes,—'I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, 'one of the best medicines they have ever used;' it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc., and is worthy of the greatest confidence.'——Joseph Hume, Township Darcy, writes, 'I was persuaded to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a public benefit.'

Very Natural.

When a person has proved an article and found it good, and answering the purpose for which it was intended, he will not readily abandon it for one of doubtful reputation, or concerning which he knows nothing. We are led to make these remarks owing to the course always pursued by those who have used that celebrated and valuable horse-medicine known as 'Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy.' All are so well pleased with it that they will not use any other; many have waited several weeks until the agent could obtain a new supply. There is nothing equal to it as a condition medicine or for any complaint affecting the wind of horses. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Be Wise.

Too often a cold or slight cough is considered a very ordinary, trifling affair, just as well left to go as it came, and hence quite frequently neglected until a simple ramble affection is converted into a serious pulmonary disease. The more prudent, aware that a cough or cold should never be trifled with, promptly use 'Dyer's Pulmonic Wafers,' which have sustained their reputation for over twenty years. They are always efficacious, and exert a most beneficial influence on all the bronchial and pulmonary organs. Sold by all druggists and country merchants at 25 cents a box.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

PROVINCIAL ASSEMBLY.

Fourth Legislature: First Session

The Lieut.-Governor's Speech.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

TORONTO, January 8th.

At three o'clock the firing of a salute by the right division of the Toronto Field Battery, which was stationed at the corner of Simcoe and Wellington streets, intimated that His Honour was on his way to the House. In the grounds in front of the House the Governor was received by a guard of honor from the Queen's Own, under the command of Capt. Bowes. His Honour, on entering the buildings, walked immediately to the Chamber, preceded by the Sergeant-at-Arms and the Speaker, and accompanied by his A. D. C. After he had taken his seat in the Speaker's chair,

Mr. Speaker Clarke advanced towards him and asked in the usual terms for the Assembly "all their undoubted rights and privileges, especially that they may have freedom of speech in their debates, access to your Honour's person at all seasonable times, and that their proceedings may receive from your Honor the most favorable consideration."

Mr. Hardy, Provincial Secretary, said: "Mr. Speaker,—I am commanded by his Honor the Lieutenant-Governor to declare to you that he freely confides in the duty and attachment of the Assembly to Her Majesty's person and Government and, not doubting that their proceedings will be conducted with wisdom, temper and prudence, he grants, and upon all occasions will recognize and allow their constitutional privileges. I am commanded also to assure you that the Assembly shall have ready access to his Honor upon all seasonable occasions and that their proceedings, as well as your words and actions, will certainly receive from him the most favorable construction."

The Lt.-Governor then read the following

Speech from the Throne:

Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:—

THE GENERAL ELECTION.

I have great pleasure in meeting you on this the first Session of the Legislative Assembly being convened since the general election of the past year. The deep interest manifested in the opportunity then afforded for a full discussion of public affairs, and the quietness and order with which the elections were everywhere conducted, were striking proofs of the intelligence and public spirit of the people of the Province.

THE HARVEST.

I am happy to be able to congratulate you on the beneficial effects upon the country, arising from last year's abundant harvest, and on the fact that an increased demand for certain classes of lumber has tended to some tendency to revival in that long depressed industry.

OUR WESTERN BOUNDARIES.

I had the pleasure last summer of paying an official visit to the Thunder Bay district, and to the territory declared by the late award to be part of the Province of Ontario, lying between Lake Superior and the Lake of the Woods, and I have reason to believe that my visit was not without public advantage. I commend to your attention the reports relating to the resources of this and other sections of the north-western and northern portions of the province, received from the stipendiary magistrates appointed under the provisions of an act of last session, and which will be laid before you.

The existence of gold deposits in the islands of the Lake of the Woods has lately attracted much attention, and should this circumstance, as is anticipated, occasion a considerable influx of population to that locality during the ensuing spring and summer, some additional measures for the preservation of peace and order may be necessary. Some correspondence has taken place between my Government and the Government of Canada, respecting the award of the boundary arbitration. I expect that at the approaching session of the Dominion Parliament the award will receive from that body legislative recognition.

REFORM IN THE REFORMATORY.

The attention of my Government has recently been directed to the duty of bringing the management of the Reformatory for boys at Penetanguishene more thoroughly in harmony with the original design and intention of such an institution. The system it is proposed to pursue is modelled on the improved method adopted at the most successful establishments of this kind elsewhere, and with the view of substituting for penal discipline a treatment and influence of a strictly reformatory character, a bill will be submitted to you for this object, and your assent will be asked to an appropriation to cover some necessary outlay in connection with the changes contemplated.

THE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

The Ontario Agricultural College has been so far a success as to justify, in my opinion, legislation providing for its permanent management. I trust that a measure framed with that object will meet with your approval. The intimate connection between the prosperity and advancement of the agricultural interests of Ontario and the welfare of all other classes of the community is universally recognized. You will be asked to provide for the appointment of a commission to enquire into various matters affecting this great industry, and especially to ascertain by what means increased efficiency may be given to the efforts of the Government and Legislature in its behalf.

PROTECTION TO THE SETTLER.

Experience in the working of the Free Grant Acts has shown that the absolute relinquishment of the rights of the Crown to pine timber upon the lands of the patentee, has encouraged a wasteful treatment of our pine forests, and has been attended to with loss to the revenue without corresponding benefit to the locatee. You will be asked to consider a measure designed to protect the public interests in these respects.

AGRICULTURAL IMMIGRATION.

The depressed condition of the agriculturists of Great Britain lands to the expectation that a considerable immigration of farmers and farm labourers to Canada may be anticipated during the present year. Care will be taken by my Government to place the claims and advantages of the Province of Ontario favorably and prominently before that portion of the population of the United Kingdom.

LEGAL BUSINESS.

In view of the extraordinary number that have attended past efforts towards the reform of law and equity procedure in this province, you will be invited to consider a measure, which by consolidating the Superior Courts of law and equity, and providing for the adoption of a uniform and improved system of pleading and procedure, will complete the work of consolidation.

Some suggestions, with due safeguards, of the jurisdiction of the Division Courts appear to be called for by public opinion and a bill will be laid before you.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

From the proceedings in the Dominion Parliament at its last session, the early abolition of the Dominion Insolvency Law appears to be imminent, and in view of that event it may be desirable that a measure for the equal distribution of the property of execution debtors should be placed on the statute book of Ontario without delay.

SAFEGUARDS FOR BRAKEMEN.

The frequent serious accidents, attended in many instances by loss of life to brakesmen employed on railways, suggest the importance of some legislation making it the duty of railway companies to provide means by which the dangers of this necessarily perilous avocation may be diminished.

TAX EXEMPTIONS.

Certain of the statutory exemptions from the burdens of municipal expenditure have been felt to be a grievance in some of our municipalities. A bill on this subject will be postponed for your acceptance, and at the same time you will be asked to consider some other changes in the incidence of local taxation.

THE LEGISLATIVE BUILDINGS.

The requirements of the Legislature and Public Departments have long since outgrown the accommodation afforded by buildings erected at a time when the population of Ontario comprised but little over 300,000 souls, and when the business transacted was proportionately limited. As long since as the year 1873, and again in 1877 the Government architect called attention in his reports to the Commissioner of Public Works to the necessity, on the grounds of health, safety and economy, for the early erection of a new Legislative Chamber and public offices. For some years it has been necessary to secure a hired house for the business of two of the Departments, while that of a third is transacted at a distance of nearly a mile from the main building. Meantime large sums have been unavoidably expended in repairs incidental to the deterioration effected by time. The public records, constantly accumulating, have been in great peril from insufficient security against fire, and increasing inconvenience has been experienced year by year owing to the want of the space demanded for proper departmental arrangements.

The report of the architect with plans and estimates for the construction of new buildings on a more eligible and more healthy site will be laid before you. The value of the present site for other purposes will materially reduce the cost of the new structure, while the price of material and labour is favourable at this time for such undertakings. It appears to me therefore to be worthy of your very serious consideration, whether the erection of an edifice commensurate with the needs of the public service and creditable to the province shall be longer delayed.

DEPARTMENTAL REPORTS.

The annual reports of the several departments will be submitted for your information. In connection with the report of the Minister of Education, it is satisfactory to observe that the improvements introduced within the last two years into the system of training teachers through the agency of the Normal and Country Model Schools, has been attended with the best results to the great cause of public school education.

PROVINCIAL FINANCES.

The Public Accounts of receipts and expenditure will be laid before you.

The estimates for the current year will on an early day be presented for your approval. They will be found to be framed with all due regard for that economy which is consistent with the demands of the public service.

PARTING WORDS.

I trust that in this, the last session of the Legislative Assembly during which I am likely to occupy the position of Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, the work accomplished may be of so permanent and useful a character as to leave in the minds of all who are engaged in or identified with it a feeling of true and lasting satisfaction.

Obituary.

We regret to have to announce the death, which took place last Friday, at Inverlea, the residence of Judge Deanistoun, of Prof. McKerras of Kingston University, son-in-law of the Judge. The late professor was greatly beloved, and much regret is expressed at his death. He was born in Nairn, Scotland, in 1833, and came to Canada at a very early age. He entered Queen's University in 1847, and took his degree of B. A. in 1850, and M. A. in 1862. At the age of twenty-one he was ordained, and was sent to Bowmanville, where he remained till he was appointed Professor of Classics in Queen's University, in 1864, on the resignation of Professor Weir. The Professor was for several years Clerk of the late Synod of the Presbyterian Church in connection with the Church of Scotland, and, after the union of the two branches of the Presbyterian Church, he was appointed one of the Clerks of the General Assembly, in which capacity he was a model of accuracy. He was one of the best ecclesiastical lawyers in the Presbyterian Church. His did not often speak in Church Courts, but few then spoke with greater point and clearness. The success of the endowment fund of Queen's College is largely due to his exertions. It was while attending and lecturing through the country on its behalf that he contracted the cold which led to his death. In private life, Prof. McKerras was a man of singular geniality. The Presbyterian Church has lost, in him, one of her most able and useful ministers, and Queen's University an accomplished Professor; and there is probably no man in the ranks of the University more heartily loved by his brethren than was Professor McKerras.

The Kingston Whig mentions, as a sample of the citizenship of the late Prof. McKerras, that every year he paid his taxes, refusing to take advantage of exemption, and contending that as he received all the benefits that others enjoyed he should pay his share of the burden of city government.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 15, 1880.

THE TORONTO AND OTTAWA RAILWAY.

A bill before the Legislature at Toronto brings this project again into prominence, and as the interests of the town of Peterborough are so intimately connected with it, the change which is proposed to be made will very naturally receive critical consideration at the hands of our citizens. It is proper that we should be careful to ascertain that no changes inimical to the town, in the conditions of the Company, are contemplated, and that none of the safeguards which at present surround the bonus conditionally granted to the company, are interfered with. That assured, it is the next duty of the town, regarding this enterprise as an investment from which we shall draw the principal benefits, to aid the promoters of the undertaking in overcoming obstacles which have been thrown in the way of its progress by the intrigues of the Grand Trunk Corporation, and the bad faith of the city of Toronto, which, while acknowledging the importance of the scheme, has sought to evade its share of the pecuniary responsibility. The position of the Company, it appears, is this: The action of the Toronto people has made it impossible to secure the million dollars of municipal bonuses which was the condition on which all the bonuses were granted, and they desire to be placed in the same position with $750,000 in bonuses as was intended with $1,000,000 Another change proposed in the project is to make a portion of the bonuses payable on the completion of the connection with the Midland, instead of making Toronto the objective point, since Toronto has refused to contribute its share of the expenses. So far as Peterborough is concerned, we do not regard the connection with Toronto as of any importance as compared with the benefits which must be derived by opening up communiontion by rail through the country east of us, a large portion of the trade of which must be laid under tribute to the prosperity of this town; and indeed we are disposed to think that these benefits will be more surely ours, as practically the eastern terminus of the line, or as an important point of trans-shipment, than as a mere way station on a through line to Toronto. We are of opinion that it will be found desirable, and in the true interests of the town, to assist the Company in legalizing these proposed changes, and that no reasonable objection can be raised to a re-vote of the town and county bonuses, under these new conditions, so as to secure an early commencement of the work of construction of, and the expenditure of money on, the road from this point east. Of course, it must always be understood that the guarantees of the town under the old conditions must not be impaired, and that our interests are not to be in any way jeopardised, or involved in new obligations. We understand a meeting of the ratepayers will be called on Tuesday evening to consider the subject.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The writ for a new election in Cornwall has at last been issued, and nomination will take place on Monday next, polling on the 20th.

The election in Dfferin, on Friday last, resulted in the return of Mr. Jelly, (Conservative) by a large majority, three candidates being in the field.

We are glad to learn that the health of Hon. Mr. Letellier has taken a turn for the better, and that he is steadily improving.

The Selkirk election case, an appeal against the decision sustaining Hon. D. A. Smith in the west, has been dismissed for hearing at the February term of the Supreme Court.

Her Royal Highness, the Princess Louise, in her retired home, will be ruled by the Governor-General in Holiday; not Quebec as at first stated. She is expected to reach Ottawa on the 1st of February.

The Examiner says: "The National Policy is beginning to be felt everywhere. The largest movement on that line is the re-opening of the Lundy Tannery on Brock Street. Mr. Robt. Lundy is making preparations for resuming labor in his works." As a matter of fact Mr. Lundy's tannery had never been shut down at all, except for a short time, as is customary every season, to make the usual annual repairs. If the "National Policy" has affected the business at all it has been in anything but the way implied by the hum-hunter of the Review.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Closing up Last Year's Business—Bookering the Results of the Elections, etc.

The Board of Education of 1879 held their last meeting on Friday evening. Present, Mr. Stevenson, Chairman, and Messrs. Cook, Wrighton, Carlisle, Toole, Menzies, Errett, Shaw and Dumble.

The Secretary read the minutes of last meeting which were read and approved.

Mr. Dumble drew attention to the requirement of the law which compelled the board to make the official declaration of the election.

The Board went into Committee as a returning board, Mr. Cook in the chair, and the returns were duly canvassed and reported by the committee.

On motion of Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Shaw, the report was adopted, the candidates having the highest number of votes declared elected, and the Secretary directed to make the necessary notices according to law.

Mr. Toole asked for information concerning the taxes for the Douro part of the school section.

The Chairman said they had taken steps to have the taxes collected; the roll had been made out and a collector was now out for that purpose. All had promised to pay but Mr. Hoskins, who said he was advised by the Reeve of Douro not to pay a cent.

Mr. Dumble said that was not in very nice spirit.

Accounts were received from Mr. McClennan for repairs to clock, and Mr. W. R. Robertson and Mr. J. R. Stratton for printing, which were referred to the Finances Committee with instructions to pay if found correct.

A communication from the Collegiate Institute Board of Clinton, was read.

Mr. Errett explained that this was in reply to a communication from himself, for the special committee appointed for that purpose. It had been thought that a convention of delegates from the various High Schools, who could meet the Minister of Education and discuss such changes in the School Law as were desirable, would have greater weight than a mere memorial.

Mr. Shaw said he had called the Committee together, but no one had attended but Mr. Errett; they had thought that a deputation composed of a delegate from each board visiting the Minister during the session, would have a better effect than sending petitions.

Mr. Dumble said a delegate could not go except at considerable cost, and it was desirable that by means of a memorial the Government could be informed beforehand of what was wanted, so as to be in a better position to give some definite answer to a deputation.

Mr. Errett referred to the peculiar position of the town and county under the law, and considered the town was paying for the county education. The law seemed to be more framed to consult the interests of the teacher than the ratepayer. The Minister had no experience in the working of the law, and a discussion with a delegation who could give him such information would further the ends sought.

On motion of Mr. Errett, seconded by Mr. Dumble, the Chairman was instructed to officially sign the memorial sent by Clinton and return it to that board.

Mr. Shaw read the report of the Finance Committee, which will be found elsewhere, and it was on motion of Mr. Dumble received and adopted, with a vote of thanks to the Chairman, Mr. Shaw.

Mr. Errett, Chairman of the Committee on Property, reported that the salaries paid the Janitors were greater than were necessary, and recommended to give the Janitors a month's notice, and to advertise for competant persons to perform the work at lower rates. The Janitor for the Central School was paid $550, and it was thought the work could be done for $400; the amounts paid the ward janitors was also excessive.

Mr. Shaw, in seconding the motion to adopt the report, said if they could get competent men for less, of course they should do so, but there was such a thing as false economy, and he did not think much improvement could be made over present arrangements.

The report amended so as to submit the action of the Committee to the Board was carried.

The Chairman drew attention to the very dangerous character of the side-walk in front of the Institute, and it was understood that the Janitor should keep the sidewalk clear till further arrangement.

Mr. Errett on behalf of the Committee on Appointments (Mr. Dumble, the Chairman, having been absent in Ottawa on the Trent Valley Canal Deputation when the action reported was taken,) reported in regard to the vacancy created by Miss Hall leaving to attend the Normal School, that Miss Hall was in the same position as Misses Ellsworth and Bagley, and that when she returned, her claims to a situation under the Board would be considered. Also that Miss Dowling had been asked to take the vacancy at a salary of $226, and had accepted, and entered upon her duties. Mr. Toole seconded the report, which was carried.

Mr. Errett read the report of the Special Committee to whom was referred the application of J. P. Metheral, asking that a non-resident who was a tax-payer in the town, should not be compelled to pay the 25 cents a month. The report recommended that this Board consider it has no power to discriminate between non-resident pupils whose parents are tax-payers in the corporation, and those who are not, and could not interfere till the school law was amended, and also that steps be taken to have the matter brought under the notice of the Minister of Education.

Mr. Dumble did not think any change in the law desirable. In cases of non-resident property it was generally occupied by tenants who paid the rates, and whose children got the benefit of it.

The report on motion of Mr. Dumble was carried, and the Board adjourned.

The Omemee Burglary.

On New Year's night, as appeared in last week's Examiner, the store of Mr. Thos. Stevenson, of Omemee, was entered by burglars. It will be remembered, the safe was blown open, and money, and commercial papers to the value of about $20,000 were carried away by thieves. There being some doubts as to the ability of the local police authorities to ferret out the offenders, the Government was asked to assist in their capture. Government Detective Murray was despatched to the scene of the robbery, and after obtaining he worked at the case with a determination which eventually had its reward. Friday morning James Mackie, Levi Ross and John Staples were put under arrest charged with being concerned in the burglary. The two first named are hotel keepers in the village, and the latter is a warm friend of their's. The circumstances which led to the arrest of the trio are of a peculiar romantic character, and the way they were walked together, reflects great credit on the ability of Mr. Murray. After he had thoroughly inspected the safe, he became convinced that the operators were NOT PROFESSIONAL THIEVES.

A CLIGHT CLUE,

It would appear that the safe door had not been fully blown open, and a "jimmy" or another tool required to force it. Marks of tools were observed on the door, near the safe, which, the detective felt assured, came from a wound on the hand of one of the thieves, caused by the slipping of the "jimmy," and the "tearing" of the skin.

THE BLOOD MARKS

were tracked to within a short distance of Mackie & Ross' hotel. The morning following the robbery, Mrs. Mackie applied at a drug store for some ointment, stating that her husband had hurt his hand the night previous. Mr. Murray made the acquaintance of Mackie, and from the appearance of the wound on his hand, combined with other suspicious circumstances, he felt JUSTIFIED IN ARRESTING HIM.

The three prisoners were brought before a bench of Magistrates in the village Friday afternoon, when Mackie was committed for trial. Ross and Staples were remanded to-gaol, till Saturday next (17th) when further evidence will, it is said, be brought forward against them. They were taken to the Lindsay gaol by the detective, and Constables Balfour and English, of this place. These officers were of valuable assistance to Mr. Murray in working up the case.

THE LINDSAY POST SAYS:

James Mackie's arrest was made on the testimony of a young man named Robert Moore, from Ops, who is here attending the high school. It seems that Moore had occasion to go to Millbrook on the morning of the burglary, and arose a little before four o'clock from his bed at Clark's hotel, where he had stopped for the night. On his way to the station he put his hand into one of his pockets to satisfy himself that his money was all right. He pulled out a $2 bill—all the money he had about him at the time—and the wind catching it blew it way. It being dark he was unable to find it, and returning to the village to borrow some money of a friend, he noticed when passing Stephenson's store that one of the panes of glass were out and inside two men were stirring about with a lighted lamp, one of whom he identified as Mr. Mackie. It occurred to him that Mackie had probably run short of liquor in his bar and had gone to get a supply, so he gave the incident no further consideration but pursued his way on to Millbrook On returning in the afternoon he was told of the robbery, and vouchsafed the information recited.

THE LATE WM. THOMPSON.

Funeral Sermon in the W. M. Church.

On Sunday last, at the Methodist Church, George Street, after the usual introductory service of prayer and thanksgiving, Rev. Mr. Harper improved the occasion of the death of an old and esteemed member of the congregation, the late Wm. Thompson, whose mortal remains had been escorted to their last long resting on January 3rd last. Mr. Harper, in addressing the congregation, said that in the Scriptures the character and life and triumphant death of the godly were commended for our example and encouragement, and if God had taken notice of the departure from their term of probation here of His servants, it was fitting that we also should do so, and it was therefore proper that they should mark the departure, from their midst, of their late brother Wm. Thompson. The late Wm. Thompson was born on March 30th, 1799, in East Lincoln, York, England. At the early age of 19, in the year 1818, he came to this country and settled at Smith's Creek, now called Port Hope. After two years, he removed to South Monaghan, which was then an unbroken forest, where in after years he succeeded in acquiring a comfortable home. He was the first to place his home at the disposal of the early pioneer missionaries who came to this district, and his name will be found honorably mentioned in this connection in the memoirs of the late Anson Green. The late Wm. Thompson had often been heard to say that it was the loneliness and solemnity of life in the forest which had first directed his thoughts towards Christ Jesus. At the age of twenty-two years he had received the blessings of religion, and from that time up to his death he had been a faithful and consistent follower of Christ. During fifty years he had been an active member of the church, but about two years ago he had been prevented by infirmity from attendance at public worship. It was not necessary to dwell upon the course of their departed brother's life. He had lived among them, and his daily walk and conversation were known to them all, and those who had the pleasure of his acquaintance could bear testimony to his manly christian virtues. He was not an angel, but he was a good christian man. He had given up the spirit, but though the grave held all that was mortal, his spirit was still enabled to walk with Christ. There were some who looked greatly to the close of life, to the last few words of the dying, but he rather looked at the life of a man, and if that life had been a christian one, if throughout life a man had followed Christ, then he surely expected that death would be peaceful. Their late brother had led a life of self-denial and christian virtue, which was far more reliable as a ground of belief in his sure hope of Christ than the few last words. Their dear brother had borne a painful illness in a christian and unexcomplaining spirit. He had betrayed neither anxiety nor impatience, and the close of his life was peace.

The Rev. gentleman then chose for the text of the funeral sermon, II Thess., V chapter, 10 verse:

"Who died for us, that whether we wake or sleep, we should live together with him."

He said all other animals have but one course of life; all live alike. Not so with man. Man was governed by different impulses, and lived in divers ways accordingly. This was due to the fact that he had lost the great guiding principles of existence, as first given him by God. He would say there were four forms of life. The first one was the mere animal form, in which a man looked only to eat and to drink, and for wherewithal to be clothed. The second he would call the secular course of life, in which a man, while not indifferent to what he ate and drank, devoted himself mainly to the pursuit of wealth and made gain his god. The third was the speculative class—those who passed their life in pursuit of knowledge. Of these he mentioned the Humboldts as a type. They had won fame by their researches, and had left behind them rich treasures of knowledge; yet one of them at least openly disbelieved in God, and while absorbed in wondering investigation of His works, did not see God in them. The fourth was the class who lived for Christ; they were not animals nor barterers, nor visionary theorists. Man was made like God. He had a spiritual existence as well as an intellectual and animal one. The spiritual existence survived the animal, and in its living was the true life of man. The spiritual existence involved its vital or living connection with Christ Jesus. It was to awaken that existence that Christ died. It survives dissolution. In that true living connection there was sympathy and actual union with Christ. As the juice which feeds the tree permeates every branch and leaf and blossom, so Christ was diffused through every member of His church. Their dear brother had found himself alone in the forest, but when he found Christ he had found peace, true sympathy and fellow-feeling. He described the true meaning of sympathy, in which souls mingle with those of similar aims. People might live in the same house and in the same room and yet not be together. When they lived with Christ their aims were the same—to glorify God, to remove evil and to do good. Man can only be blessed when he receives the divine image, and shares divine aims. These are brought by Christ, and attained by sympathy. With the true living connection with Christ there was personal sympathy. Christ says, "My Father will love Him, and we will come and live with Him." This was no poetical fancy, but a living reality. In the heart that truly loves Him, God sets up his Throne and dwells there. You ask how can we have fellowship with an invisible being? The seal that animates you is invisible, yet we have union of spirit. How can we have means of communication with the spirit of Jesus Christ? The words left by Him. His uttered thoughts, which shall endure till the everlasting hills are shaken, are with us, and in them the troubled soul seeking rest finds God. The true Christian can never be lonely, for when alone he has the best of company. He has that vital connection with Jesus Christ which constitutes the true life of man. He portrayed the ineffable love of Christ, who though he might have avoided it, yet endured the agonies of an ignominious and painful death, that the vital connection of man with God severed by sin might be reunited, and spiritual life re-awakened. That life in the Christian survives physical dissolution. The life of the body is severed by death, but in the case of the Christian the spiritual life is preserved by its connection with Jesus Christ. This connection has no power to prevent dissolution, but it modifies it; dissolution is so affected by it that it is not called death but sleep. Their dear brother while with them lived for Christ; he had that vital connection with Christ, and now that he has gone he has fellowship with Christ and shares in the glory of Christ. Though the body is dead the soul does not cease to be—it is not death but sleep. "Blessed be the dead that die in the Lord." The blessed life that their brother had awakened in him which, sustained him through long years of pilgrimage here below, is not severed. The life of every good man is a commentary, a finger-post, an encouragement to those that remain. What God has enabled one man to do, another may do. Life is not worth living only in eating and drinking, or for money, or in acquiring knowledge, but true life is in that vital connection which leads to everlasting life through Christ Jesus. God give us ability to reach it, and lay hold of it.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Winding up Business—The Special Audit—Appointment of Trustees—The Peterboro Junction Railway—The Collector's Roll.

The Town Council met on Monday evening at 7:30. His Worship the Mayor in the chair. Present, Councillors Cahill, Taylor, Smith, Buller, Paterson, McBain, Yelland, Douglass, Rutherford, Deane, Robertson and Griffith.

The minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

The annual report of the Chief of Police was handed in.

The following letter from the Town Treasurer was read:

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to state that I have, in accordance with the resolution of the Council, undertaken an examination of the report of the Special Auditors as to errors that are said to have been made by me when I was Town Clerk in past years, in making out the Collector's rolls, but have not yet completed the same.

I may say, however, that I have already ascertained that in some of the cases reported on by the Auditors, they themselves appear to have committed errors, with more careful examination on their part of the assessment and Collector's rolls might have prevented. They have, in fact, reported a large number of cases as errors in which the entries in the books are strictly correct, and the money paid to the collector, and in at least two cases they have reported the same twice, and so to swell the sum total against me. In several other cases I find that persons whose names are omitted from the Collector's rolls, whose assessments have not been carried out, have, nevertheless, paid their taxes in full for the years named.

In view of the importance of the matter and of the fact that an accurate or incomplete report on any part would only further complicate matters, I must delay making a formal report until I have had time to fully investigate the matter. Respectfully yours,

J. EDWARDS.

A number of petty accounts and applications for remission of taxes were received and referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. Robertson read the report of the special committee recommending a grant of $100 towards the Ludgate foot-bridge. Mr. Robertson being asked if he moved the adoption of the report said he would not. No other persons appearing on behalf of the report, Mr. Paterson moved that it be not received, which was carried.

Mr. Smith brought up the subject of a proposed memorial in favor of a railway from Gravenhurst to Nipissing. He explained that the object was to secure a grant from the Dominion Government for the Pacific Junction Railway.

Mr. Cahill asked how the proposed road would affect our interests.

Mr. Smith said it was an Ontario scheme, to prevent the trade of the North West going past our doors to the lower provinces.

Mr. Cahill did not like to pass anything he didn't know anything about. It would be like taking a leap in the dark.

The matter was deferred to hear some explanations from Mr. Cox.

A By-law to appoint two trustees for the Collegiate Institute in the place of Messrs. Edwards and Edmison, was then read a first time, and the Council went into Committee. Mr. Smith in the chair.

Mr. Robertson moved, seconded by Mr. Deane, that the blanks in the By-law be filled up with the names of H. Best and Geo. Edmison.

Mr. Paterson moved, seconded by Mr. Cahill, that the names of A. Rutherford and H. Best be inserted.

Mr. McBain asked if the appointments could not be made separately, which was agreed to.

Mr. Robertson, seconded by Mr. Deane, moved to fill the first blank with the name of Geo. Edmison.

Mr. Paterson, seconded by Mr. Cahill, in amendment moved the name of H. Best. The amendment was carried, appointing Mr. Best.

Mr. Robertson, seconded by Mr. Deane, moved to fill the name of Geo. Edmison in the second blank.

Mr. Paterson, seconded by Mr. Cahill, in amendment moved the name of A. Rutherford.

Mr. Rutherford explained his position in the late contest. He had consented to run for the School Board to fill the balance of Mr. Macdonald's term in 3rd Ward, but in his absence he had been nominated to oppose Mr. Dumble. He had consequently taken little interest in the contest and had been defeated. He was not desirous of going into the School Board for any personal benefit, but he considered that something ought to be done to reduce the expenditure of that body, which was now costing the town some $16,000, and if sent to the Board that would be his aim.

Mr. McBain couldn't see his way clear to voting for Mr. Rutherford after his rejection by the people.

Mayor Lundy said he had promised to support Mr. Rutherford for trustee, but after he had gone to the electors of his Ward and been defeated, he considered himself released from his promise.

The amendment was then put with the following result:

YEAS—Cahill, Taylor, Paterson, Yelland, Douglass and Rutherford—6.

NAYS—Lundy, Buller, McBain, Robertson, Deane and Griffith—6.

The Chairman voted yea, and the Committee rose, reported the By-law as amended by the insertion of the names of Messrs. Best and Rutherford, and it was read a second and third time and passed.

The By-law to amend the Fire By-law was introduced by Mr. Paterson, and the Council went into Committee. Mr. Deane in the chair.

Mr. Robertson asked if there was not some dissatisfaction among the men of the old brigade concerning the disbandment.

Mr. Paterson knew nothing of it.

The By-law as amended by expunging the clause respecting fines, was reported, read a second and third time and passed.

A By-law amending the By-law respecting fire limits, to allow wood to be piled inside the limits by permission of the Council, was also passed.

The Mayor then called upon Mr. Geo. A. Cox to make some explanation respecting the proposed Pacific Junction Railway.

Mr. Cox exhibited a map of the proposed Pacific Junction Road, showing the connection contemplated with the existing roads. The Northern Railway was already constructed from Orillia to Gravenhurst, and all roads leading in that direction have the right of running over that road to that point. The object of the Pacific Junction was to open connection for the Ontario railways from Gravenhurst to the Canada Pacific on the Canada Central Extension. It was not supposed to be the policy of the Dominion Government to build the Canada Pacific at present across the head of Lake Superior, but rather to subsidize a private company to open up a connection with the American roads at Sault St. Marie, in connection with the extension of the Canada Central subsidized by them to Lake Nipissing. The object of the Pacific Junction was to connect the Ontario system of railways with the Canada Pacific scheme, so as to secure a portion of the western trade, which otherwise would go past our back doors to the Province of Quebec. The proposed road would give all the Ontario roads this connection. It had been established by the Ontario Government to the extent of $3,000 a mile, and it was proposed to ask the Dominion Government to give to it a subsidy of another $3,000 a mile. The railway, which was somewhat difficult of construction, would cost, it was estimated, $22,000 a mile, and the balance would be raised by stock subscriptions and the issue of bonds. The object of this memorial was to urge on the Dominion Government to grant this assistance. They had already aided to the extent of $12,000 a mile the Canada Central, for the extension to Lake Nipissing, and it was now constructed for some distance west of Pembroke. They might have noticed that Sir Charles Tupper, in speaking to a deputation recently in Montreal, had indicated that the Government would urge the rapid completion of that extension, and it was desirable that the connecting road should also be constructed as early as possible. The Pacific Junction would be open to all Ontario railways that could form connections, as the Government attached such conditions to the aid they gave. The distance from Gravenhurst to Lake Nipissing, where the connection was proposed to be made, was 107 miles.

Mr. Rutherford asked what would be the benefit to Peterborough.

Mr. Cox said that the project was more of a national than a local character. None of the municipalities were asked to give anything. It would be in a sense a colonisation road. It passed through a country of unbroken forests, which would be opened up and improved, and Peterboro' would get her share of the benefits of such improvement. In answer to Mr. Rutherford, he said the Canada Central extension took the place of the Canada Pacific. The Pacific Junction would run directly south from Lake Nipissing to Gravenhurst, where it would connect with the existing Ontario system of railways. All the municipalities throughout the Province were uniting in asking this aid from the Dominion Government, and many towns had already passed the memorial. All shades of politics, and all the different interests of the Province were agreed upon the subject. The only opposition came from the Province of Quebec, whose people say Ontario has already got the subsidy to the Canada Central, but the Canada Central extension would be of no benefit whatever to Ontario, except this railway were constructed to open up the connection.

Mr. Cahill asked how this would affect the Trent Valley Canal.

Mr. Cox said it would not affect it at all—it could not affect it injuriously. He considered that any enterprise that opens up and enriches the country is a direct benefit to all the railways and canals in it. He pointed out that the Ottawa lumbermen had extended their operations westward, nearly to the north of us, and their traffic was going out by way of Ottawa and Montreal. If this connection were made, no doubt a large share of this trade would be brought down by the Midland road. He gave a statement of the various distances from Lake Nipissing southward, showing that the proposed road would enable the Midland Road to give the the shortest connection eastward from the Canada Pacific at Lake Nipissing.

Mr. Rutherford asked if the Ontario Government had given a grant of $3,000 per mile to the road.

Mr. Cox said two or three years ago the Ontario Government had set aside a bonus of $3,000 a mile to aid any company that would open up a road which would afford this connection to the Ontario Railways. The Pacific Junction Company had taken the matter up, secured a charter, and would be entitled to this bonus. He said Sir Charles Tupper, in speaking to a deputation concerning this road had acknowledged its importance, and expressed the most favorable views towards it.

On suggestion of Mr. Cahill it was decided to consider the subject of the memorial at the special meeting to be held on Saturday evening.

On motion of Mr. Robertson seconded by Mr. Deane, the Clerk was instructed to write to Mr. Scott, M. P. P., for a copy of the Bill to be introduced respecting the Toronto & Ottawa, and for copies of all the Bills affecting Peterborough interests.

On motion the time for return of the Collector's Roll was extended till the first day of February.

The Council then adjourned till Saturday evening.

Peterborough Presbytery.—The Sabbath School Conference of the Peterborough Presbytery will be held as announced last week on Wednesday next, in this town. The Midland Railway, we learn, issues tickets to visitors at a fare and one-third.

To-night.—Remember the Oyster, Wrinkle and Fruit social of the Carnwell Lodge of Good Templars, to be held in their hall to-night. The Rev. Mr. Starr will be present and deliver an address, and every arrangement has been made by the committee, to make those who attend spend an enjoyable evening.

Meeting for the Irish Sufferers.—His Worship the Mayor has called a meeting of the citizens of Peterborough, to be held this evening, in the Town Hall, to consider what steps it is advisable to take on behalf of the town to aid the sufferers by the prevailing distress in Ireland, when there will be, no doubt, a large and sympathetic attendance.

Electric Hose Company.—The adjourned meeting of the new Hose Company was held on Tuesday evening, when the constitution and by-laws were adopted, with the above name, and the company organization completed by the election of the following officers :—Capt. S. Henderson; Lieut., W. W. Smith; Sec., A. N. Shaw; Treas., Geo. McBain. Branchmen.—J. Hodge, W. Hetherington, S. Clegg, R. Connolly, Finnerty, Richardson.—D. Meagher, John Armstrong and T. McBain. Janitor, W. Scollie.

New Business.—Mr. G. Donnelly, late agent for Nexsen Bros., of Ingersoll, and G. A. Morrison, agent for Comitt Bros., Guelph, have secured the stand in Bradburn's block, George street, lately occupied by Mr. D. McLeod, and opened business as General Agents, for agricultural implements, railway tickets, sewing machines, etc. They represent the White Sewing Machine Company, and the Great Western Railway, and are prepared to supply all kinds of first-class agricultural machines.

The Western Advertiser Annual for 1880 (given to each subscriber), besides containing the usual almanac matter, will give the complete election returns; record of events for 1879; postal guide; rural hints for every month, by W. F. Clark; the new tariff complete; name of Municipal and Parliamentary officers; a brief History of Canada since Confederation," a brilliant piece of descriptive and historical writing, by a leading member of Parliament—the only matter connected and tasteful matter to be obtained, not given at the period mentioned.

Removed Operations.—Mr. J. Z. Rogers' saw-mill, which has been shut down for some time for repairs, the experience of the past season having suggested the advisability of certain alterations, has again resumed running. Though only finished in the beginning of last year, the new mill cut 10,000,000 feet of lumber during the season, averaging 30,000 feet per day of eleven hours, with two circulars. The machinery is worked by two turbines, of 75 and 40 horse power respectively, and runs on an average with about 100 horse power.

Central Exhibition Association. Messrs Wade, of Port Hope, and Kain[illegible]nday on Monday of last week audited the accounts of the Central Exhibition held in Peterborough last year. Though not compared with Lindsay, Port Hope and Cobourg, Peterborough was at a great disadvantage, having only some $80 on hand to begin with, the results are manifestly in favor, of the managers of the Exhibition [illegible] being only $210 in excess of the outlay whereas the cost in Port Hope was $1,800, in Lindsay, $2000, and in Cobourg $1,200 over the receipts. This result speaks well not only for the prudence of the management, but for the liberal public spirit of the people in this section.

Procter's Revellers.—On Friday evening last a troupe luxuriating in this seductive name, heralded by persuasive posters, and recommended by vigorous "puffs" in the Daily Review, made their appearance upon the stage in Beaubien's Opera House, where they were advertised to give the thrilling drama "written expressly for the Company"—"True to Death through Death; or Convict Life in Canada." Whether the unfortunate state of the weather prevented a large attendance, or the well-known antecedents of Proctor alias Stewart alias Newbold were not encouraging to those who usually patronize deserving entertainments, deponent sayeth[illegible]; but it is quite certain that the audience present was of those dimensions usually described as "slim." In fact the slimness of the audience could only be equalled by the thinness of the performance and the transparency of the so-called play. The reserved seats were occupied by seven ladies, two babies, one bald-headed man and some fifteen or twenty others. About double the number witnessed the play from the more modest 25 cent seats, and not a single god chuck his august brow from the gallery. The proceedings opened with a "farce"—"That Blessed Baby," which proved of so preternaturally solemn a character that an undertaker might have envied the average countenance of the auditorium. A frisky female, attired in the fascinating costume usually worn by Spanish and other foreign ladies, then appeared, and in "a singular minor key" gave the ditty, "Riding in a Railroad Kyar," with such an effect that the audience hysterically shrieked for an encore, which, much to their discomfiture was promptly given. Another nymph in Highland costume followed and executed a Highland Fling in really good style, electing the only serious applause of the evening. The Sensational Living Drama then made its appearance, with Proctor-Stewart-Newbold in the title role, the whole piece being a stupid attempt to dramatize into heroism the actual experience of a scoundrel, who had been very deservedly punished for a very contemptible and unmanly crime. The alleged drama was too supremely ridiculous for description, and we can only say of it that the authorities had probably hit nearer the mark had they sent the author to another public institution than the Penitentiary. We can only say in reference to this "play," and another which not long ago graced the boards at the Opera House, that it is time the management, if they desire to preserve the good reputation the town enjoys as a liberal patron of deserving amusements, should exercise more discretion in the selection of the companies[illegible]as to whom they allow to invite the patronage of the people of Peterborough at the Opera House. We observe that Mr. Hill and sundry others whose services are always necessary in connection with public entertainments, have for some days past worn a subdued and reflective expression of countenance, as if "Convict Life in Canada," as portrayed on the stage, had a degenerate and melancholy influence. An announcement was made in the Daily Review previous to the performance that the proceeds of the entertainment would be given to the Mayor for distribution among the poor of the town, doubtless with the hope of obtaining from the benevolent landlords of the public that concession upon which the character of the "play" pansy "forbids its otherwise receiving. People, however, naturally regarded the offer as an insult to the deserving poor of the town, and kept their charity for some more reputable channel. It is needless to say that the Mayor has not been called on, and is not likely to be, to take care of any of the superfluous wealth of the "Revellers." The Company made their appearance again on Saturday, but, as the total receipts at the door only amounted to 76 cents, they declined to play, and left in disgust to seek "fresh pastures and fields more green," in the direction of Lindsay.

Sheriff's Sale.—On Thursday morning next, at the rooms of Mr. Hackett Hall being vacated, there will be a very complete stock of dry goods, &c., on display for cash sales. Remember the sale will take place next Thursday morning, at the close of the sheriff's sale, at 11 o'clock. Remember the place, the right in a fair commercial hum-ground, the nothing of which was to be removed. The fine having necessarily been smothered out by its own action, and thus fortunately confined to the interior of the bar. How it originated is a mystery, the only theory being that matches had been dropped into the bar while packing, and that these had been ignited by the nibbling of mice. It is most fortunate indeed that the results were not more serious.

Charge Against a Constable.—On Monday a charge of assault, preferred by Jos. Stubbs against P. C. McGhee, was heard before the Police Magistrate. From the evidence, which was very lengthy, it appeared that complainant, who is a blacksmith, at Bridgenorth, was in town on the 3rd instant, and one of a crowd who were obstructing the sidewalk. On neglecting to comply with the Constable's injunction to "move on," he was "moved on" by Mr. McGhee, complainant alleging that the assistance thus afforded him constituted an assault. The evidence showed that the sidewalk was an obstructed that people had to take the street, and that the constable was in the discharge of his duty, and the Magistrate very properly dismissed the case. The complainant's own evidence showed that the crowd had ridiculed the constable with cheers, after he had first admonished them. This gathering of people on the street corners is one of the most offensive nuisances the town is troubled with, and while of course, an officer has no right to resort to undue violence, it is his duty to see that the streets are kept clear for the passage of people and to protect the citizens, and especially the ladies, from the annoyance of having to almost force their way through knots of idlers who congregate on the street-corners.

Town Watch-dog.—Chief of Police Johnston at the meeting of the Town Council on Monday evening presented his annual report, from which it seems that the total number of cases brought before the Police Magistrate in 1879 was 214, as against 211 in 1878, showing a perceptible improvement in public morals. The cases were classified as follows :—Breach of the Temperance Act 1864, 1; vagrancy, 28; malicious injury to property, 7; found drunk in the streets, 21; search warrants, 2; obscene language, 1; insulting language, 9; assault, 32; fighting on street, 9; drunk and disorderly, 32; breach of Market By-law, 2; perjury, 1; keeping improper house, 2; lunacy cases, 2; frequenters, 2; non-payment of wages, 3; keeping house for improper resort, 3; obstructing sidewalk, 2; disorderly conduct in streets, 5; non-payment of statute-labor tax, 24; neglecting to remove offal from premises, 4; keeping vicious dog, 2; insanity, 8; breach of building by-law, 3; common prostitutes, 1; breach of liquor by-law, 3; abusive language, 3; trespass, 1; assaulting constable in discharge of his duty, 1; obstructing do., 6; depositing garbage on street, 3; interference with Chief of Fire Brigade in performance of his duty, 1; larceny, 1; contempt of court, 1; deserting employment, 2; shooting with intent, 1; exposing immoral pictures, 1; assault with intent to do grievous bodily harm, 1.—214.

CURLING NOTES.

The first of a series of games for champion belts, presented by the club, was played on Monday evening, by rinks under A. Hall, and W. G. Ferguson. The game was keenly contested, and the play excellent on both sides. Mr. Ferguson's rink leading till just at the close of the game, when Mr. Hall's rink got 2 ahead on the last end. The following were the players: A. McNutt, R. W. Thompson, A. McNeil, W. G. Ferguson, skip—13; A. Mercer, John McClelland, R. S. Davidson, A. Hall, skip—16. Another match is to be played between the two rinks.

Bible Christian Missionary Society.

The annual services of the Bible Christian Missionary Society were held in Peterborough on Sunday and Monday last. On Sunday interesting and appropriate sermons were preached by the Rev. J. A. Dafoe, and W. H. Butt. On Monday evening the public meeting was well attended, and presided over by Mr. R. Fairbairn, with his usual ability.

The Pastor read the report, from which we learned that the society have missions in Great Britain, South Australia, Victoria, Queensland and New Zealand, besides their missions on this Continent, that are in the British Provinces and two of the States of America. During the past year a mission has been opened in the North-West, with good prospect of success.

The receipts of the year of the Canadian Conference alone, amounts to $12,333. The disbursements were a little less than the receipts, yet the society has a heavy debt, the result of past efforts for church extension.

Addresses were delivered by the Rev. Messrs. Butt, Guard and Cossitts, who ably presented the claims of the Missionary Society on the sympathy, prayers and support of the christian public. The audience responded by contributing $74.63.

The choir enlivened the meeting by singing some suitable anthems.

Criminal Statistics.

From the Returns made from this County to the Department of Justice at Ottawa, we gather that during the year 1879 there were only ten trials for indictable offences disposed of by the different tribunals of criminal justice. There was no case before the General Sessions of the Peace. There were tried at the Assizes three were disposed of by the Police Magistrate; four were decided in the County Judge's Criminal Court. Of these trials, which were for murder, larceny, assault, obtaining money under false pretences and neglecting to support family, four resulted in acquittal, and in six cases there were convictions. No prisoners were sent to the Penitentiary during the year, and none to the Central Prison. One, the boy McCutcheon, was sent by Judge Dean[illegible]on for two years to the Penetanguishene Reformatory; larceny. The longest term for which a prisoner was sent to the County Gaol was three months, and the shortest period, fifteen days. The report shows that the County of Peterborough will compare favorably with any other in the Province as regards the law-abiding character of its citizens.

SCHOOL FINANCE.

To get a lucid and intelligent financial statement from a municipal body is exceedingly difficult, and the public have to thank Mr. Shaw, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Board of Education, for the following very satisfactory exhibit, being the report of that Committee, read at the meeting of the Board on Thursday evening last :—

Your committee in presenting their report for the year ending 31st December, 1879, beg leave to submit, for the approval of the Board, the following statistical information as taken from the books of the Secretary-Treasurer :

It will be observed that after making the necessary allowances for the debit balance brought forward from last year, and the amount remaining at the close of Section Fund account, together with all other expenses incurred during the past year, we have a balance on hand of $1,139.91, which we consider sufficient to meet the current expenses, pending the collection of arrears, to be carried forward for the maintenance of schools for the ensuing year.

It is due the question will be asked, "Why were the rates reduced?" and for more than the second reason, your committee make the following explanations in reply :—From the increase in the assessment for the year, we find that the following items were over-estimated, viz :—

Tuckersmith Salaries	$ 250 00
Fuel	200 00
Incidental Expenses	100 00
Also reduction in grants for Public Schools	275 00
Making a total of	$1,475 00
Deducting for items under estimated	150 00
Leaves the balance above mentioned about	$1,325 00

to be carried forward.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

GEO. E. SHAW,
Chairman.

The Grangers.

The Northumberland and Durham Division Grange No. 14, P. of H., held its annual meeting in Friendship Temperance Hall, Peterborough, last week, commencing on Wednesday and concluding on Thursday. There was a very large attendance of delegates and visiting Grangers, some two hundred being present. The two days were taken up with the private business of the order, the only matter of public interest being the election of Division officers, which resulted as follows :—

Jesse Trell, Oshawa	Master
T. Johnston, Otonabee	Overseer
D. Kennedy, Otonabee	Lecturer
T. B. Carloff, Warkworth	Steward
D. A. McFarlane, Otonabee	Asst. Steward
Ira Brisbon, Baltimore	Chaplain
S. Coldwell, Perrytown	Treasurer
N. Peters, Canton	Secretary
Wm. Sullivan, Emmemore	Gate-keeper
Mrs. H. Davidson, Smith	Ceres
Mrs. Job Humphries, Asphodel	Pomona
Mrs. Ira Brisbon, Baltimore	Flora
Mrs. D. Kennedy, Otonabee	Lady Asst. Steward

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.—S. Parsons, Baltimore; I. J. Mallory, Cobourg; H. Davidson, Smith; D. D. Henderson, Otonabee; H. Middleton, Newcastle, and Levi Van Camp, Bowmanville.

It will be seen that the Peterborough Granges contributed no less than eight of the Division officers of the Durham and Northumberland district, a fact which speaks well for the interest taken by our agriculturists in an institution whose operations and deliberations concern so closely their interests. The number and prosperity of Granges in a county offer a fair index of the degree of intelligence and education attained by the farming community within its borders.

Hamilton Robbery.

On Saturday evening last a young Irish lumberjack, named Henry Kenrick arrived in town by the train from Port Hope, and went, in company with a person who gave his name as Riley, and whose acquaintance he had made on the train, to the Stewart House. The pair secured a double-bedded room, and spent the evening in social and moral intercourse. About 3 o'clock on Monday Riley said to his companion who had wakened, that he had occasion to go down stairs and would put on his boots as his own (Riley's) were tight and the others would be easier to "slip on." Kenrick suggesting nothing unpleasant, and took exception or cognizance of evening Morpheus. On getting up later he was surprised that his companion had not returned, and going down stairs, enquired his whereabouts concerning his room-mate to Mr. Cavenagh. The latter at once smelt a very large mice, and instituted search for the missing Riley, but to no avail. Search was then made of Kenrick's pockets, and with he ther nonsense, for it proved that the missing rascal had not only cut away with his boots, but all his money and even the cheek for his trunk. Search was made in every direction for the thief, Mr. Cavenagh driving on foot as Hastings on Monday, but so far the only reward has been the discovery that Riley is not Riley at all, but one Pupin, a notorious thief, who some time ago stole a horse from Lakefield, and who is, we believe, a nephew of the notorious Mrs. McCutcheon, of present languishing in Castle MacWilliams, under sentence for larceny. The unfortunate lumberjack is left in a very bad plight, and is ready to say Pupin's old boots at a valuation. It is to be hoped the rascal may yet receive his deserts.

Building Operations of 1879.

Buildings operations for year the 1879 in Peterborough, fell considerably short of those of the year previous; in fact, short of those of any year for some time previous We give below a list of the principal buildings erected during the year. It will be seen that the aggregate expenditure foots up to about $80,000. No doubt there are some omissions in this list, but we fancy it will be found to give an approximate idea of the extent of the growth of the town during the past twelve months.

Repairs and improvements were made in the schools during the year to the extent of over $500. Mr. John Alfred was the contractor.

Mr. D. W. Dumble erected a brick cottage at a cost of some $1,200. The work was very nicely finished by Mr. John Alford, contractor.

Mr. Bradburn, who purchased the Clifford place on Dublin St.—expended $500 on it in repairs and improvements, under superintendence of Mr. Lasher.

A house on Aylmer Street was similiarly reorganized at a cost of $250.

A handsome brick terrace was built by Mr. Bradburn on Charlotte Street, near the Railway station. It is of white brick two stories with a mansard roof, and comprises three tenements. The work was done under the direction of Mr. Lasher, and cost some $5,000.

A new wing was added to the residence of Mr. D. W. Dumble, which adds greatly to its appearance. The work, which was done by Mr. A. Rutherford, cost $1,500. Other improvements to the extent of $125 were also made.

A house was completed for Mr. James Reid, by Mr. A. Rutherford, at a cost of $500.

The new boat house built by Mr. Rutherford cost $150.

Work done by Mr. Rutherford on the town block, new band stand, etc., amounted $325.

Mr. F. Bell has commenced a dwelling house on Hunter Street; when complete it will cost 2,000. Builder, Mr. John Alford. Contractor, Mr. J. E. Belcher.

A rather neat dwelling house was erected for Mr. Walter Nesbitt, on Hunter Street. Cost $2,000. Complete with baths, gas, &c. Builder, Mr. John Alford. J. E. Belcher, Architect.

The new Post Office building, situated on the corner of George and Brock streets, for R. A. Morrow, Esq., has an aggregate frontage of 120 feet. This building is an ornament to the town, is three storeys high, and designed in the French classic style with arcaded ground story, from whence spring pillasters supporting a panelled frieze and modallioned cornice with ballustrade and pedimented finish, and trust that the membership list for 1880 will be swelled by the addition of many new names.

The value of an organization of this kind in a community cannot be over estimated; apart from the pleasure which the annual Exhibition must afford the members by enabling them to meet and exhibit in harmless rivalry the beautiful products of their care in Agriculture, and the more practical produce of the garden, the educating effect on the young in tending to refine their tastes and create an interest in what is beautiful in nature and useful in our home, should in all thinking minds create a desire to support and foster the Society in our midst.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. H. ROPER,
President.

ELECTION OF

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN., 15, 1880.

OUR CHRISTMAS STORY.

A SELF-BETRAYAL.

CHAPTER VI. (Continued.)

'Mister Da Silva, sir—Doctor.'

'This Da Silva—this convict apparently,' continued John Rudd, firmly, while Sir James looked at him aghast; 'but, in spite of all my efforts, I had no success. Whatever he has been, or how he has made his money, he has been clever enough to surround himself with mystery, and I have learned nothing.'

'And pray, sir, why did you make these inquiries?'

'Out of a sincere desire for Naomi's happiness.'

'Miss Marchpoint's happiness was a question for me to watch over, sir. Then, I suppose,' he added, angrily, 'it was from a sincere desire for her happiness that you came here this morning.'

'Nay, I cannot deny that,' was the reply. 'I felt a strong desire to see Naomi once again before she became another's wife, and I came down last evening, and stayed at the villa.'

'And they came over this morning in company with a man who arrested Dr. Da Silva.'

'That clerical-looking personage certainly stayed at the inn last night, and came over in my company this morning; but I was, as I told you, Sir James, perfectly ignorant of whom or what he was.'

'John Rudd, I don't believe you!' cried Sir James. 'Leave my house, sir; and I desire——Ah, doctor, how is she?'

'I don't know—I can say nothing,' cried the busy little man, entering the room. 'There is some pressure upon the brain, from which the poor child suffers; and it is undoubtedly the result of her old fall, augmented by excitement due to the wedding preparations. Was she averse to this union?'

'Oh, dear, no, doctor,' said Sir James; 'on the contrary——'

'I am sorry to contradict Sir James, doctor, said John Rudd, sternly; 'but Miss Marchpoint was bitterly opposed to this wedding. You ought not to go upon false premises.'

'How dare——'

'That will do, Sir James,' said the little doctor, sharply; 'I thought as much; if you want to boss, go and boss on a closet; or, look here, I must have fresh air and counsel in this case. Take a carriage and go off with this note to town. Take it yourself to Brooke Street and bring back Sir Samuel Brand.'

'I—I go?' faltered Sir James, who was stupified by the way in which he was being contradicted and ordered about.

'Give me the letter, doctor, and I'll bring Sir Samuel back with me,' cried John Rudd; and before Sir James had recovered from his astonishment, he was half-way to the stables, and soon after on his way to town.

VII.

IMPRESSION OR DREAM?

Naomi could never afterwards give a very clear account of her sensations that wedding eve, as she lay down to sleep, only that she felt stunned and helpless, and that she had sobbed until her head felt rent in twain. Then a cloud of darkness had seemed to come over her, and, how she could not tell, she seemed suddenly transported into one of the quaint old houses of a Portuguese town.

It was Portugese she knew, from the peculiar aspect and the language of the two people who sat there talking at a table—one of them, a big, well-made man, who had his back to her; the other thin, dry, and withered, and about fifty.

It was very peculiar, but as she lay watching this scene, and listening to the words, she felt that here was a kind of double existence, for she was not where she was, but seated upon the couch in the drawing-room with Da Silva, flinching from, and yet compelled to gaze into his eyes. The same terrible feeling came back to her that she was influenced by them, and that they were imprinting upon her memory the reflections of this man's own brain.

Then she seemed to recall how she had felt time back, that these reflections or memories were being impressed upon her, but that she could not read or see them—there was no interpretation to them; but now it had come. This scene was the reading of those old impressions that had been implanted in her brain, and after lying there latent for the time they were starting out plainly, not as imaginations, but as truths.

She could explain no more—these were the chief points. Da Silva had printed with his eyes the thoughts of his brain upon hers, and now, after a lapse, she was reading them.

It seemed a horrible revelation—like some dreadful dream. She would have shrank from it all, and torn herself away, but she was compelled to peruse it with photographic minuteness—the strange, heavy furniture, tapestry-hung walls, and coarse rugs spread upon the floor; the quaintly-shaped glasses and flasks upon the table; and, above all, the figures of the two men seated there.

It was no surprise to her when the man who had his back to her rose, crossed the room, and looked out of the window, to see that it was Da Silva, whose eyes seemed to possess a curious fascination for her as they met hers.

All was strange and incongruous as her labouring brain struggled against the pressure placed upon it. She was there, and yet she was not there; it was a dream, and yet it was a clear picture of what had taken place.

Da Silva seemed to return to his seat at the table, and an earnest conversation ensued, during which the elder man seemed to be making some offer to Da Silva, who rose, and raising one hand, evidently swore an oath.

Apparently satisfied by this, the elder rose and took a key from his pocket, while Da Silva watched him with glittering eyes, his hands beneath the table opening and shutting like the claws of a bird.

Going to the panelled wall of the room, Da Silva's companion thrust at the beading with both hands, so that a piece gilded aside, revealing a key-hole, and into this he thrust the key, turned the lock with a sharp, clear, snapping sound, which seemed to echo through Naomi's brain, and then drawing upon the key, the panel turned upon its hinges, acting like a closet door, within which she could see shelves, with papers and small cases, while at the bottom it seemed deep, and black, and void.

Naomi shuddered. She could not tell why, but a strange feeling of impending trouble was upon her, and she seemed to gaze upon the scene before her as if expecting some terrible event to take place.

The elder man turned as he threw open the door, and laughingly pointed to the contents, when Da Silva rose to join him.

In an instant the door was clapped to, and its owner held up one hand, pointing to the seat the Da Silva had left, his gesture saying as plainly as words, 'Keep your seat, or I close the door.'

Da Silva calmly resumed his place, and resting his elbows on the table, leaned his chin upon his hands and watched, while in playful, taunting way the other took out packets of papers that looked like shares and scrip; cases which he opened to display lustrous jewels, diamonds, pearls, emeralds, sapphires, and rubies, set and unset, but all carefully ranged in the velvet-lined cases. Next he took out some half-dozen clumsy-looking pocket-books, and opened them one by one, to show that they were full to bursting with bills and notes.

Altogether there must have been immense wealth in the shape of notes and shares, without counting the jewels; and at last, with a weak smile, the owner closed the closet door, locked it, and drew the banding over it, before placing the key in his pocket, and went smilingly back to the table, where he seated himself opposite Da Silva, and poured himself out a glass of wine.

Drinking a part of it, he rose and

PETERBOROUGH, JAN'Y 22, 1880.

A TRANSPARENT ATTEMPT AT BRIBERY.

The Government at Ottawa have just been guilty of as gross an attempt to bribe a portion of the electors of South Lanark as was ever perpetrated in the history of any Conservative administration since Confederation had a name. Our readers are, no doubt, aware that an election is taking place in that riding, where nomination of candidates was held on Thursday last, and where voting is in progress to-day. A large element of the electorate whose support is generally given to the Reform party is the Irish Catholic vote. The members of the Government, anxious to secure from a constituency with such large manufacturing interests an endorsation of the Taxation Tariff, have been, by personal interference and otherwise, using every exertion possible to secure the return of Mr. Jamieson, the Conservative candidate. Opposed to them and supporting Mr. Macdonell, there has been the Irish Canadian newspaper and many local Conservatives, who have resented the contemptuous manner in which Sir John Macdonald, ever since his victory in 1878, has treated his Irish Catholic supporters in the distribution of Cabinet portfolios and public patronage. Finding the prospects of defeat for their nominee, Mr. Jamieson, almost certain, Sir John has taken a step designed to bribe the Irish Catholic votes of North Lanark. He has transferred Hon. John O'Connor from the barren post of President of the Council, where since September of 1878 he had been kept as a fifth wheel of the ministerial coach, to that of Postmaster-General, and Mr. O'Connor has been despatched to North Lanark to use the influence of his new position and the patronage it affords in favor of Mr. Jamieson, and to claim credit among his co-religionists for the generosity of the Chieftain toward them. Whether or not this audacious attempt to bamboozle the Irish Catholic electors will have the anticipated effect, we will be able to inform our readers next week, but it is quite certain that every intelligent man amongst them will recognize the object which the Government have in view, and estimate at its true value the motive which has at last given to an Irish Catholic the position in the Cabinet to which he was in justice entitled when the Ministry was formed, and of which he has been up to this time deprived, and would have so remained had not the self-interest of the Government suggested his advancement. When Mr. Mackenzie was called upon to form a Ministry, he did not wait for circumstances to force upon him recognition of the just rights of the minority, but gave to a representative Irish Catholic—one to whom that body are principally indebted for the Separate School system—Hon. R. W. Scott, one of the most important departments of the Government, and, moreover, placed another representative of that class, Hon. Timothy Warren Anglin, in the proud position of First Commoner of the Dominion. He did this immediately on his acceptance of office, as an act of justice, and not to pander to any class or creed. How different has been the course of Sir John Macdonald. Supported largely in 1878 by the Irish Catholic vote, he has ever since treated them with unconcealed contempt and premeditated insult, and it is only when he sees the chance of carrying a constituency that he is reluctantly forced to render a tardy justice. The vote in Lanark to-day will tell whether or not those whom he seeks to cajole is so bare-faced a manner are to be so easily seduced from the position they owe to their dignity and self-respect.

IMPRISONMENT FOR DEBT.

Most people in Canada are under the impression that that relic of barbarism, and oppression, imprisonment for debt, was long ago banished from our statute books, but it is a fact, which has been given unpleasant prominence in the press of late, that though it does not exist in name, it is still a reality, and an actual arbitrary instrument in the hands of unscrupulous creditors, pettifogging attorneys, and that class of the legal fraternity who are content to search for more in the scavenge of society, which is too often taken advantage of to the hardship and distress of the poor and unfortunate debtor. It is true no Judge has the power to send a debtor to gaol for a debt; but he can order a debtor to pay a debt, and then, if he is unable to do so, or neglects to do so, the Judge sends him to prison for "contempt of court," and there is no doubt that this power is too frequently exercised, particularly in large cities, as the instance of a class who live upon the misfortunes of their neighbors. The only excuse for the existence of such a regulation is, that it is necessary to punish those who deliberately incur debt with intent to swindle. But when the rod of punishment falls so often on the back of honesty, and when innocent women and children are made to suffer by the harshness of an outrageous legal provision, it appears to us that it would be better to enact a specific penalty for attempted swindling, and leave it to be dealt with in the Criminal Courts. The class upon whom the petitioning bailiffs and tootsey fatties, are those who are generally poor and honest, but improvident. Their wants pinch them, and they take credit where they can get it. Dealers who credit them do so because they can charge 50 per cent. over the ordinary prices, and they know they have the goal in the background to terrify the unfortunate debtor when his time comes. If no such power existed these credits would not be given, and the poor would be compelled to live within their means; and it would be far more humane and just, if the law, instead of placing the penalty of imprisonment for no crime in the hands of the most unscrupulous class of society, were to protect the poor against themselves, by leaving the trader who chooses to give credit to take his risk. If this where done the usefulness of some hangers-on of the courts would be gone, but the public generally would be benefitted. We observe that the Government has promised some amendment in the regulations respecting Division Courts, to be made during the present session, and we trust the matter will receive the earnest attention of the Legislature, and that whatever change may be effected, the absurdity and tyranny of imprisoning a man for a debt which he cannot pay, which now practically exists, will be swept off the statute books.

THE POOR WORKINGMAN.

It will be remembered that in Ottawa, in the winter of 1878, there was a gathering of so-called workingmen at the Parliament buildings during the session, who made a "demonstration" demanding of the Government work or bread. Mr. Mackenzie was besieged, at the House, and almost forced to leave his legislative duties to attend to the demands of these agitators. No doubt there was at that time a certain amount of distress at the capital, though we happen to know that the demonstration referred to was the work of some Tory wire-pullers, and that many of those who were most clamorous at Mr. Mackenzie had actually left work to attend this demonstration. However, Mr. Mackenzie received them kindly; he gave them a handsome donation in money out of his own slender purse, and exerted all his influence with the public contractors to afford employment, so that through his exertions every man at the capital who chose to work for his bread, had the opportunity of doing so. Nor was this the only occasion on which the late Premier, who had been a workingman himself and never lived to be ashamed of it, showed his solicitude for the welfare and interests of the workingmen. On many occasions he interfered to prevent contractors from swindling their employees by the truck system, and more than once withheld contractor's estimates to secure the payment of the mechanics and laborers. He was not a loud-mouthed demagogue, making all sorts of promises which he knew would never be fulfilled, but he was really and practically an active and sympathetic friend of the industrial classes. Now, the scene is changed. The self-vaunted "workingman's friend" is at the helm of state, and now there is no mock-poverty at the capital—it is the genuine spectre of starvation which stalks its streets, whose empty shops and worse than empty tenements bear eloquent testimony to the mockery and delusion of the boasted N. P. It was not well-fed turbulence bellowing "bread or blood" at the beck of political wire-pullers, which waited the other day upon Sir Charles Tupper; it was an assembly of starving men suffering from want of employment, many of whom had just been turned adrift in mid-winter by Hon. Mr. Langevin, who sought to be given the means of earning an honest sustenance. And Sir Charles—who overflowed with sympathy with the sons of toil eighteen months ago—did he shake the workingman by the hand, and exhibit his kindness of heart in some practical way? Not he. The elections are over, and the workingman's "usefulness is gone," so he very coolly turned the deputation out of his office with the advice to "see the Mayor;" and his friend, the Mayor, has, we understand, promised some stones to break when the weather moderates sufficiently. Thus the workingman, asking for bread, is literally given a stone. We apprehend the workingmen will, after the lesson of this winter, and in the recollection of past experience with Mr. Mackenzie, be able to draw the distinction between the demagogue full of empty professions, and the honest, earnest man, more liberal in deeds than words. "Fine words butter no parsnips," is a maxim being painfully impressed upon the minds of the laboring classes of the capital.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN'Y 22, 1880.

CONFIDENTIAL.

The subscribers and business patrons of the Examiner Office are just now receiving from our counting-room many hundreds of accounts for subscription, advertising, and printing, many of them of small dimensions, but amounting in the aggregate to several thousand of dollars. We would ask those who have received their accounts the favor of their early attention, and would remind them that, for every item, the publisher has been at a cash outlay, on which a very narrow margin of profit is charged. It ought not to be necessary to suggest that it is impossible to conduct business without a periodical settlement. Accounts standing on the books no matter how "good" they may be, will not satisfy the type-founder, the paper manufacturer, the ink-maker, the printer, the landlord, or the tax-collector, all of whom look for and receive cash for every item that enters into the cost of printing and publishing; while even the postage on the newspapers nowadays, has to be paid by the publisher in advance. As most of the delinquents stand so simply through carelessness, we take the liberty of pointing out to such how desirable it is that these accounts should be promptly attended to now that they are in their hands. We endeavor to do business without "danning" our patrons, and we trust they will accept this intimation and save us the annoyance of having to do so. We have to thank many subscribers and advertisers for their kind attention already in the matter of prompt settlement, and would say to those who have not yet had the opportunity of squaring up on our books, that we have still an abundant supply of thanks on hand which will be liberally dispensed to all who call or send for receipts for their accounts. There are some subscribers on our lists who have heavy loads of arrears on their consciences, and to these we would quote from a poetical American contemporary, into whose soul the iron has entered.

The man who cheats the printer
Out of a single cent,
Will never reach the heavenly land
Where good Elijah went.
He will not gain admission there,
By devils will be driven,
And made to toil his time away
Outside the walls of heaven.
He'll have to chew the thistle
Of sorrow and regret,
He'll have to hook around right smart,
With ceaseless pen to bet.

The Lindsay Post says Mr. Cox deserves a good deal of credit for the clear and concise statement of the condition and prospect of the Midland railway at the meeting here, and the creditors have wisely taken the best course under all circumstances by accepting the proposition of the company and agreeing to assist in obtaining the required legislation. No doubt the acceptance of the large reduction on their claims is an unpalatable proceeding, but it is the best thing that could be done under the circumstances, —far better than to throw the road into insolvency. The bond-holders and the present managers are in no way responsible for the heavy load of indebtedness pressing on the company; and as they can work the road into a first-class condition in a short time it is far better in the public interest as well for the private interests at stake to assist them in every reasonable way. Lindsay, with several other municipalities, is interested in the legislation, for it will increase the prospects of the payment of its lien, which ranks first; but the town and indeed the whole country interested is more largely interested in having the road placed in a first-class condition and managed in a way that will best serve the public. This will, we are confident, be the case under the present management. The meeting was a very satisfactory one in every respect.

About Advertisements.—A decision of interest to newspaper publishers and the public was rendered the other day by Judge Stevenson of Haldimand. A merchant named Boyle inserted an advertisement in a Cayuga paper to run a year, which was duly paid for. Boyle did not give any further instructions about the advertisement, which was, however, continued by the publisher, and the paper carefully sent to the patron. At the end of the three years, he sent a bill for the four two. The merchant refused to pay on the ground that the card was left in, as supposed, to fill up. Judge Stevenson decided that the advertisement must be paid for.

Methodist S. S. Anniversary.

Sermon by the Rev. Mr. Stone—The Story of Absalom—A Festival for the Children.

Sunday last was the Anniversary of the George Street Methodist Sunday School, and at the morning service a special sermon to the children was preached by the Rev. Mr. Stair. The body of the church was pretty well filled with little folks, most of the older members of the congregation having to resort to the galleries. After an eloquent prayer, in which he spoke of the children as plants in the nursery of Christ destined to blossom and bloom in Paradise, or to be cut away as cumberers of the ground, Rev. Mr. Stair took for his text the 19th verse of the 18th chapter of 2nd Samuel:

"And there went over a ferry boat to carry over the king's household."

The King referred to here was King David. David had been a good little boy and in time he grew to be a great big man, and God made him King over Israel. King David had sixteen little boys, and one of them was a beautiful little fellow, with long curling chestnut hair. He was called Absalom and when he grew up he became the handsomest man in the kingdom, but he was also as bad as he was handsome. It is not safe always to go by appearances. The most beautiful are sometimes the most wicked, and a handsome face often hides a black heart. They should judge people by their actions, not by their looks; "handsome is as handsome does." Absalom was a very bad man; no doubt he had been a bad little boy; perhaps his father let him have too much of his own way. When he grew up he quarrelled with his father. Like a good many other boys he began to think that he knew more than his father, and he actually laid a plot to kill his father and brother; but the old man was a little suspicious of Absalom, and he didn't fall into the plot. However he killed his brother, and fled away to his grandfather and remained two years. His father then forgave him and allowed him to return to the city and live in the palace. Absalom then began to plot against his father again. He got into the company of fifty other fast young men, and every day used to go out and stand at the gate outside the city to meet the people who used to go to the city to lay their troubles and grievances before the old King, and get his counsel and advice. Absalom would tell these people what he would do for them if he was King; how he would redress all their grievances, and how much better it would be for them if he were King instead of his father. And this wicked son actually stirred up a rebellion against King David. The poor old King could scarcely believe his ears when he heard that the little boy whom he had reared with so much tenderness, was seeking his life, but he was soon forced to believe it for there was Absalom marching on the city with an army, and David the King was obliged to flee away out of the city to escape from the malice of his wicked son. Outside the city he found friends who supported him with aid and furnished him soldiers, and Absalom pursuing him a battle ensued. On the way to the battle David charged his officers—the poor old man still loved his son notwithstanding his wickedness towards him—not to hurt Absalom. He said "Don't let any harm come to that poor boy of mine; deal gently with him for my sake." In the heat of the battle Absalom became separated from his followers, and riding hard to rejoin them his mule dashed into the thick boughs of an oak, where he was caught by his long curling hair. The mule he rode went on, and he was left there suspended between heaven and earth. Then a man who saw him told Joab the King's captain, and Joab said "why did you not smite him," but the man said that David the King had given his orders that no harm should befall Absalom, and he could not turn his hand against the King's son. Then Joab went and took three darts, or arrows, and pierced the heart of Absalom and slew him. When King David got to the river Jordan on his return to the city, the people were so glad to see him that they would not let him cross the ford where the water was shallow, as usual, but had provided a ferry-boat to carry over all the King's household. When our boys came home victorious from Barrie last summer they remembered how glad they were to see them, and how they turned out to welcome them with a torch-light procession, and it was in this way that the people were so glad to see King David again that they procured a ferry-boat to convey his household across the river. He had heard once of a Sunday School teacher who had asked the scholars why it was that it was recorded that the Eunuch after he had talked with Philip had "gone on his way rejoicing." A little fellow spoke up and said, "Please, sir, 'cause Philip had done a-teachin' him!" He didn't want any of his little hearers to go away rejoicing for any such reason as that, but he hoped he would be able to retain their interest to the end of his remarks. In ancient times the people believed that there was a river called the Styx which encircled the world nine times, over which the souls of people had to be ferried into another world. Acheron was another name for this river, and they believed that there was only one way to get across, and that was by means of the old Ferryman Charon, whose fare was never more than six cents, nor less than two. The friends of the dead used to put a piece of money called an obolus under the tongue of the deceased that they might have the fare to pay Charon to take them across the Styx. So the Indians when the warrior died put his knife and tomahawk and other weapons by the side of the corpse that the soul when it reached the happy hunting grounds might not starve, but have the means of obtaining sustenance. Of course we don't believe that, but it serves to illustrate that before the sweet fields beyond the Jordan of life could be reached there were rolling floods to be crossed where we would find the need of a ferryman. Christ in the fable of the fish swan and Lazarus, speaks of a gulf between the rich man and Abraham over which the angels crossed, and carried Lazarus to Abraham's bosom. The souls of all of us live forever, but between that eternal life and this life there is the river of Death. Then will come a time, once for all before him, when sickness and death will step in, when those bright eyes will be dim, and those merry voices be hushed—when death will claim them for one of two places, either Heaven or Hell. If they lived for Christ they would see in coming that dark river the domes and spires of the New Jerusalem bathed in golden glory. They might feel sick and be sick, but they would have no fear at all. He described the death-bed of a little girl, surrounded by her loving parents and anxious friends. As the end came the dying child's lips moved, and eager friends caught the words, "Mother, I see a light—I'm almost home," and Jesus took the little lamb in His arms, and carried her safe home. We might all envy such a death as that. Well would it be for us if when the dark river comes to be crossed, we can see a signal that will tell us that all is well. But death must first come. The river must be crossed, and we would ask first how to cross. Life is an ocean, and all the little boys and girls before him were sailing on its bosom. It was not always smooth sailing. There were storms, and even childhood had its storms, and troubles, and sometimes people seem to forget that the cares of childhood are just as great a burden to the childish heart as the cares of the older world. But they had their fathers and mothers to comfort them, and it was open sailing. There was one big storm, however, they all had to weather—that of death. On the cold river, of death parents' love could not aid them. All the little boys and girls wanted to get safe across this river, and he would tell them what to do—get on the King's ferry-boat. Lots of people try to get to Heaven by other boats, but they were sure to be wrecked. The only boat that is safe is the King's ferry-boat. God himself had built it, for the salvation of his children. About this ferry-boat—what is it? It is the only boat that will take us safe over the river of death—the ark of Christ's Church—Christ launched it first with a small crew of only twelve, and to-day there were thousands and thousands in Heaven and on earth who had taken passage on it. It had sailed for nearly 1800 years, and in fact was the accumulated character of the heart to Class. The class was then questioned by each, and many persons who joined the class for the first time on that occasion could join the Sabbath-school or the Presbyterian, and go straight to hell. Above this boat—how big was it? It was big enough to carry the King's household. God was our King, and when we were baptized we became of His household. We belong to that household, that is if we have not sinned, most of us have sinned, but Christ wants us all to go back. There is room in the boat for all. For eighteen hundred years, boys and girls, white and black and olive colored, from China in the east to Patagonia in the south, had been getting on board, and the boat was not crowded yet. Christ had said, let the little children come unto him, for he loved them, and he loves them just as much now as then when he was on this earth. He has made the boat so big that all can get on board and be carried around in the arms of His love. What is the fare? Not a cent. Old Charon charges a fare, but our fare has all been paid. Some man got other boats but it always costs a great deal more. The only boat that charges nothing and is sure to take us safe to shore, is Christ's ferry boat. Christ has paid fare for all of us in coin of two colors, red and white—blood and tears. When he died on Calvary he paid all our fares. How do you get on board? There was only one door, that was in the side of the boat. Some people tried other plans to get on the boat, but they never got on board. There is only one way, that is through the pierced side of Christ. All we have to do is to leave our sins behind us. He related the anecdote of a little boy who was very anxious to see the Queen, but on going to see her he was turned away by the guards. Prince Arthur seeing him weeping asked the cause, and on being told said, "Come with me and I'll show you the Queen," and her Majesty, like a good, motherly woman as she was, kissed the little fellow and gave him a sovereign. So if they believed in Jesus he would take them by the hand and lead them through all the troubles of boyhood, right on and up to Heaven. About the landing place? that was Heaven. Christ's ferry boat never missed the harbor. Thousands and thousands had gone safe over and were now standing on the shining beach of Heaven looking for more to follow. The Lord's boat never gets wrecked, like the Waubuno up here on the Georgian Bay, but always carries its passengers safe to the shore, and once there, there are the trees of life to roam under and the golden streets to walk upon; there are no sorrows, no tears, no trials, no quarrelling, but everlasting peace and happiness. And Heaven must be a far grander place since the improvements were put in—for ever since 1900 years ago there have been great and good souls going in, and when we get there we shall see them, and see Jesus, and be folded in the arms of His love. What a grand old ferry boat this was to take us to such a landing place! He wanted to see every little boy and girl try to get on. Last summer one of the scholars had got on this ferry boat, and been carried safe over, and some of them had promised to meet her over there. He hoped they would all resolve to be good boys and good girls, to love Christ and try to do His will, so that they would be sure of a place on the King's ferry boat which would take them to the haven of everlasting bliss.

Sunday Stewart's Proceedings.

On Monday evening there was a large attendance of the parents of the pupils and friends of the school at the church, when a very interesting programme was disposed of. Mr. Harper, the pastor, occupied the chair, and on the platform were Rev. Mr. Starr, Mr. LeLane of Port Hope, and the officers of the Sunday School. The chairman briefly opened the meeting after which Mr. D. Dunbable, the Superintendent of the School, gave an address, pointing out the difficulties experienced in successful Sunday School work and its importance to society. Mr. LeLane of the Port Hope Sunday School gave an interesting address in which he pointed out the influence of the work done in the Sunday Schools upon society by the correction and eradication of evil habits before they had time to acquire the force of habit, and by the inculcation of moral principles. There was no other institution which deserved better of society than he Sunday School, whose influence for good it was impossible to over-estimate. Rev. Mr. Starr gave an earnest and forcible address urging greater activity and renewed interest in Sabbath School work. During the evening the choir enlivened the proceeding by some well-rendered selections and some vocal music was furnished, among which the duet "The old Musician and his Harp," was rendered in an excellent manner by Misses Huston and Wells, and elicited warm applause. The recitation by Miss Bertha Harper, "Where the money goes," was given with considerable nerve and spirit, and evinced no inconsiderable power of elocution. Misses Huston and Wells gave the duet "Beautiful Zion" in a most effective manner, and Mr. Brown's solo "One by one," received merited applause. Mr. McCamus of Keene, was on the programme, but as he was unable to be present, his share of the burden of the entertainment was taken up by Mr. A. S. Davis, who sang "The ninety and nine." The collection plates were passed round at the conclusion of the entertainment and liberally patronised, after which the chairman dismissed the meeting with a benediction.

LAKEFIELD NEWS.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Lakefield, Jan. 14, 1880.

The first meeting of the new School Board was held in the Council Chamber on Monday evening. Present—Messrs. Casement, Galvin, Sanders, Clarin, Cox and Isbister. Mr. Galvin was elected Chairman. Mr. W. H. Casement was appointed Secretary at a salary of $10, he to take the school census and to make out the school report. Mr. John Clarin was appointed Treasurer. Messrs. Clarin and Cox were appointed managing committee for the first quarter. A number of small accounts were ordered to be paid and the Board adjourned.

Lakefield, Jan. 21.

Large numbers of teams are returning from the Shanties being unable to work on account of the bare state of the roads, and no bottom to the swamps and marshes.

On Monday morning a young man called Alex. Anderson while out driving managed to upset the buckboard in which he was seated, and the horse started on the run, passing down Queen Street to the bridge, where it was caught. Anderson escaped with a few bruises.

A requisition signed by a large number of the ratepayers was presented to the Reeve R. C. Strickland, Esq., requesting him to call a public meeting to appoint two or more delegates to proceed to Toronto and see the members of the Government in regard to the lowering of the Lakefield Dam. In compliance with the request he has called a meeting on Wednesday evening at 7 30 in the Council Chamber. Mr. Possette has been served with an injunction from the Court of Chancery to have the dam lowered 71 inches from the lower edge of the brackets on which are 15 to 18 inches high, so that the effect would be to lower the water 26 to 29 inches which would almost destroy the water privilege, and entirely stop navigation between here and Young's Point all for the purpose of partially draining a few acres of black ash swail not worth a dollar an acre. Large petitions have previously been sent in to the Government requesting them to take the dam under their own control, but they have been passed over—hence the meeting.

The first regular meeting of the new Council was held in the Council chamber on Monday, 19th inst. Present—the Reeve, Councillors Horner, McWilliams, and Nelson. The members present having took the declaration of office, Mr. G. J. Galvin, by permission, addressed the Council in regard to the assessment of that part of the Lakefield School Section paying in Dewey; also, in regard to the equalization of the rates to be paid by each part of the section. Messrs. Doran and McIlmoyl addressed the Council in regard to the backing up of water by the crossing opposite Paterson's bakery—caution deferred. W. C. Casement and W. J. Wallace were appointed Auditors at a salary of $4.50 each. After ordering payment of several accounts, the Council adjourned.

OUR RAILWAY.

MEETING AT THE TOWN HALL.

The Proposed By-Law Changes.

On Tuesday evening a very large and important meeting of the ratepayers of the town was assembled at the Town Hall, to consider the propriety of assenting to certain changes proposed to be made in the conditions attaching to the bonus granted by the town of Peterborough to the Toronto & Ottawa Railway Company. The chair was occupied by His Worship, Mayor Lundy, and Mr. Dumble acted as Secretary. The Mayor called upon the promoters of the railway to explain the proposition of the Company.

Mr. Dumble expressed his regret that the condition of Mr. Scott's health prevented his being present. He pointed out the position in which the Company had been placed by the unscrupulous opposition urged against them by the Grand Trunk Railway monopoly, which had spent money to defeat the Toronto & Ottawa scheme in the city of Toronto and in the city of Ottawa, and he did not know but some of the Grand Trunk money had been brought to Peterborough with the same object. The refusal of Toronto to give the bonus asked from that city had made it impossible for the Company to secure the $1,000,000 in municipal bonuses, which was the condition upon which Peterborough had passed its by-law, and they now asked to be released from this obligation, so that the bonus might be made available and the work could be gone on with. There was no doubt that the road would be an important factor in the future of this town, and would make it the centre of the trade of a large district of country which we can not now reach. Peterborough had taken the initiative in this enterprise, had stood by it for years, had encouraged other municipalities to grant bonuses, and the directors to spend large sums of money in the preliminary expenses of the undertaking, and it was only fair and reasonable that they should be asked now, under the circumstances, to come in and make this bonus available, so that the construction of the work might be gone on with. This town must be the source of supplies for the work, which would make an important addition to its trade, and the road, when built, would bring the trade of a large district here permanently, as there is no other railway into the country to be traversed till we reached the Kingston & Pembroke railway. There was no doubt that a large portion of the money expended in construction would naturally flow into this town. The bonus had been already granted, and it was only asked that it be placed in such a shape that the company could use it. It was true it was a large bonus—larger than he would have liked it to have been. Nevertheless he thought the town had acted wisely in granting it, for the county and the other municipalities had based grants upon that of Peterborough, and if it had not been for that grant, instead of having to-day, as they had, $735,000 in municipal bonuses, they would not have had half that amount. The County of Lanark had granted $75,000—$15,000 to be paid upon completion of every mile of railway in the county. This was a much more useful bonus than the Peterborough grant, for it would enable them to go right along with the work. He would move the appointment of a committee of citizens to devise such amendments in the bonus conditions as would enable the Company to go on with the road.

Mr. Deane asked if this new by-law were to be granted, would it go to the people to be voted on.

Mr. Dumble said yes, certainly. They could get no bonus without going to the people, and he would be very sorry to ask it.

Mr. Mills asked Mr. Dumble to read clauses 12 and 18 of the by-law.

Mr. Dumble read the clauses which stipulated conditions concerning the employment of a certain number of workmen in the workshops to be maintained here. He said there was a clause in the Ottawa by-law providing for the employment there of 200 workmen during construction, and for the permanent employment of one-third of the workmen. They would recognize the justice of this, as Ottawa had granted a larger bonus than Peterborough. It was proposed that Ottawa should have one-third of the workmen, Peterborough one-third and Toronto one third. In answer to a question by G. M. Roger, Mr. Dumble said they could either strike out the clause making it obligatory to raise $1,000,000 in bonuses or reduce it to $500,000. This condition did not exist in any of the other by-laws, and it was fair that it should be amended. As it existed it acted as a clog in the undertaking, and prevented it from being prosecuted as it was in the interest of the town to do. As to the employment of workmen the company were willing that a clause be inserted just the same as the Ottawa By-law, or in any other shape that might be thought best to secure the interests of the town.

Mr. Roger said the By-law provided that Ottawa should have 200 workmen, and it was said Toronto, Peterborough and Ottawa should have each one-third. Would the road employ 600 men?

Mr. Dumble said he could not really tell the exact number of men that would be required, but he knew that the location of workshops in Stratford had built up that town, and the removal of a single workshop to Belleville had made the addition of a whole suburb to that city.

Mr. Roger thought Stratford and Belleville were further apart than Ottawa and Peterborough.

Mr. Dumble said that was not the case.

Mr. Roger enquired the number of workmen employed in the shops at Stratford.

Mr. Dumble could not say that, but it was well known that the shops had brought prosperity to that town.

Mr. Roger thought it was not reasonable to expect that 600 men would be afforded employment on the Toronto & Ottawa.

Mr. Dumble believed they would require more than that.

Mr. McBain—Did Ottawa give $2,000?

Mr. Dumble—Ottawa gave $200,000.

Mr. McBain—Yes, but did they give $2,000 to help you fellows to go on with your scheme?

Mr. Dumble—The people of Peterboro' were so anxious to see this railway constructed that they advanced $2,000 of the amount of their bonus to assist the Directors in defraying the preliminary expenses of the undertaking.

Mr. Deane—Were the bonds ever given for that $2,000?

Mr. Dumble—I really can't say.

Mr. Roger asked how the money was to be given to the road.

Mr. Dumble said $60,000 would be paid on the completion of the grading to the eastern boundary of the county; $40,000 on completion of the road to Ottawa, and $50,000 on its completion to Toronto.

Mr. Roger—How long a time is expected to be occupied in completing the road to Ottawa?

Mr. Dumble said some of the bonus by-laws limited the time for construction to 1894. When the company commenced construction they would go right through with it. He believed the road could be constructed in two years.

Mr. Mills was called on and expressed the opinion that it wasn't fair to expect him to speak before the Directors had laid down their programme. He would be out to please for condemning before-hand what he didn't know anything about. He was not so much opposed to the railway if it was in different hands. The law stipulated that the Directors should subscribe 10 per cent. of the stock, but they hadn't invested a cent. Why did they require to come to Peterborough for $2,000?

Mr. Dumble—The Directors have invested $60,000 in the road.

Mr. Mills wanted to know who the Directors were. Most of them he believed were insolvent. He wanted to see men in the scheme who would take an interest in the road. The recovered sum of the plums had aloof from it. Mr. Dumble said the road would do more harm to the Grand Trunk. The Grand Trunk could not pay any dividends now, and look at the Midland—not able to pay its workmen. How could this road be expected to pay. The idea of bringing iron up this way from Hastings was a farce. Look at all the trunk lines of railway; they had to depend on their connections with the United States for their traffic. There was no internal trade in this country to support local lines. The local lines were all race-horse machines. They ought to be careful about imposing any more taxes than they had present. The more taxes the greater the burdens of the people. It was all very well for the Dumbles who wanted to make a little money out of the scheme, but the taxpayers would have to pay for it. The whole thing was a failure. The conditions of the Ottawa By-law were very different—they would only have to pay 5 per cent. interest and we would have to pay 6. When Mr. Scott came before the Council the last time, he promised that if he could get $1,000,000 in bonuses, he would never come back again to the Council, and here he was now asking for new conditions. We were going to be placed in a very awkward position by these changes, and under the circumstances it was better that we should not pass any by-law at all. If Mr. Scott were sincere in his professions, he would not be asking for this by-law. This by-law would impose a tax on us of $12,000 a year for all time to come. There were people now being sold out for taxes, and he thought it was a shameful state of affairs. He proposed a resolution that Messrs Bertram, Hazlitt, Dunsford, Cox and Elliott be a committee to go to Toronto to oppose the Bill Mr. Scott proposed to pass. He thought the best thing to do would be to let the By-law lapse. It would be better to give $30,000 to start a cotton mill or to aid the Trent Valley Canal. Mr. Carnegie had said at Ottawa that they could carry grain on the Georgian Bay in flat-bottomed boats. He would advise Mr. Carnegie to get his mother's wash-tub and sail across the river here before he talked of flat-bottomed boats.

Mr. Dumble thought this meeting was not here to discuss personalities.

The Mayor requested Mr. Mills to confine himself to the subject under discussion.

A voice—Let him go on; he can't hurt anybody.

Mr. Mills said the town should keep in reserve so as to be able to aid the Trent Valley Canal, and perhaps influence the Government to do likewise. When he found the rights of the people being trampled on, he thought it was time to speak out, though Mr. Carnegie would say he had found another mare's-nest. He wanted to know why the Directors hadn't taken any stock in this road.

Mr. Dumble—That's not true.

Mr. Mills said two of the Directors at least, he believed, were insolvents. He thought it would be safer to let the By-law lapse.

Voice—Why don't you sit down.

Mr. Mills said he was there to express his opinions, and he wouldn't be put down by any little would-be-big-man that he knew hadn't got a cent of money. The promoters of this scheme were men of straw, and he would say, let them give us the road before we gave them any money.

Mr. Dumble thought it right to reply to some of the statements made by Mr. Mills. He was one of those gentlemen who were always putting up little obstructions in the way of public enterprises, but they generally fell down themselves. Mr. Mills' years would save him from the severity which his statements deserved, but he thought when he came here into this town, a stranger, and talked of our citizens as he had done, and spoke of Mr. Scott as he had done, it was time for him to hide his grey hairs. (Applause.) A man who would abuse Mr. Scott behind his back, when he knew that gentleman's health and position did not enable him to be here to defend himself, was guilty of most cowardly conduct. (Hear, hear.) Mr. Mills talked of bankrupts. The few dollars that he had had made him purse-proud, but he (Mr. Dumble) could tell that brains and character went for something in this country. He would like to know if such men as Mr. Clinton and other gentlemen of means on the Board were to be railed at in this way. Mr. Mills says "No road; no money." He wanted to know if Mr. Laidlaw, of Toronto, who had built so many railroads into that city, and done so much to build up its prosperity, had done so with his private means. No; but with his brains and energy and enterprise. Railway stock in this country never paid and was not expected to pay. Railways were a public benefit, not a monetary speculation. If by cheapening freights by competition we are enabled to pay one cent or two cents a bushel more for the grain of the farmers, for all time to come, the railway scattered money broadcast amongst us, and all are benefitted though the road does not pay a cent of dividend. He had spoke of the Midland—where would Peterborough have been to-day without the Midland railway? Where would Toronto, which had added 30,000 to her population in two years by means of her railways, have been without them? Mr. Mills in one breath said the Grand Trunk was ruined and in the next that the company were going to put down a double track to meet their requirements! Mr. Mills talked of poor people being sold out for taxes. It was to make work for these poor men, and to circulate money among them so that they could not only pay their taxes but have something beside, that they were promoting this enterprise. (Applause.) If by paying a few thousands of dollars we can get millions spent amongst us he thought it a paying speculation. This railway would open up a large extent of country whose trade must centre here and benefit the town. Mr. Mills had referred to Madoc. He ought to know that they can't ship ore on the Bay of Quinte, and Peterborough was as near to Madoc for shipping purposes as Belleville. He would judge from the higgledy-piggledy method in which Mr. Mills had expressed his ideas that it would not be found safe for the people to pin their faith to his judgment. He would prefer to take the judgment of such persons as Mr. Clinton and Mr. Cox. What the Company now asked was nothing more than that the company could make use of it and begin the construction of the road at once.

Mr. Douglas—If the road is not going to Toronto will the Company throw off the $60,000?

Mr. Dumble said probably. If the road was never taken to Toronto, as was possible, the $60,000 would never be asked for. The Company were willing to agree to any reasonable stipulations that might be thought desirable. They might throw out the million dollar clause altogether, or reduce it one half, or do as Lanark did, pay $15,000 a mile as the work was done. That was a much more useful bonus to the Company than the Peterborough bonus, because it assisted them to go right on with the work, while in Peterborough they could not get anything till they got to the eastern boundary of the county. The Directors had been alluded to as men of straw. They had found a valuable charter in the hands of Mr. Fowler who was unable to do anything with it. They had taken it up in the interests of the town, and had paid out some $30,000 already in forwarding the scheme. They had brought honesty, economy, and good judgment to bear on it, and had brought it to the position it occupied to-day. They had used their time and energies and private means in this road which was a public enterprise, and he did not think the people of Peterborough, which was to be so greatly benefitted by this road, wanted to retain conditions which would act as a clog upon its progress, instead of the help and assistance which were intended to be afforded when the by-law was passed.

Mr. Burnham followed in opposition to the by-law.

Mr. Roger would like to be satisfied that the railway would benefit the town.

Mr. Cox was in favor of the scheme, but thought $150,000 was more than Peterborough ought to give. It was equal to a million and a half from Toronto.

Mr. Clinton supported the road, and pointed out how it would benefit the town by bringing in trade, and increase the value of produce by reducing charges for freight.

Mr. Bertram did not put so much faith in the road as some, but he would not put himself in antagonism to it.

Mr. Dumble moved, seconded by Mr. Cox, that the following gentlemen be a committee to confer, and report to this meeting on Tuesday evening next, in reference to the request of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway Company for the re-submission to the people of Peterborough of the by-law to aid their railway: Messrs. J. Galvin, T. Cahill, Jos. Stevenson, J. P. Burnham, Wm. Clinton, Geo. A. Cox, J. J. Lundy, D. W. Dumble, Thos. Bradburn, Wm. Hamilton, John Berntram, T. G. Bradley and H. R. Smith.

The motion was carried unanimously and the meeting adjourned.

[We regret that the limited space at our disposal precludes our giving the speeches of Messrs. Burnham, Cox, Clinton, Roger and Bertram more fully in this issue.—Ed.]

New Station Buildings.—We believe it is the intention of the enterprising President of the Midland, Mr. Cox, to erect during the coming Summer, a splendid lot of brick Station Buildings, in Millbrook, for the accommodation of both the Peterborough and main lines.

6th Ward.—As Mr. Sawers has decided not to take his seat as Councillor for No. 4 Ward, another election must necessarily be held in a short time. Mr. Wm Lee, at the request of a large number of ratepayers, has consented to be a candidate. We have not heard whether he will be opposed or not. Mr. Lee would make a trustworty and reliable representative.

County Temple.—The annual meeting of the County Temple, will be held in the rooms of Peterborough Temple, Water street, on Thursday the 29th instant. The Grand Worthy Chief, Rev. John Shaw, of Whitby, will be present. In the evening an open meeting will be held in Friendship Temple, George street, when addresses will be delivered by the G. W. C. and other prominent gentlemen. A pleasant programme for the evening is being arranged for, and it is hoped that the friends and members of the Order will endeavor to be present.

The Mayor's Supper.—On Monday evening last, after the meeting of the Town Council Mayor Landy entertained the members of the Council, officials of the town, and representatives of the press, to an oyster supper at Chamberlain's Hotel. After the oysters and et ceteras were disposed of, "The Health of our Mayor," was proposed and drank with enthusiasm. A number of other toasts followed, and a very pleasant and social evening was spent. All present were profuse in their praise of the courteous manner in which His Worship had filled the chair during the past year, and the courteous, affable and impartial manner in which he had discharged his duties.

West Riding Agricultural Society.—This Society held their annual meeting yesterday, at the Council Chamber, there being a fair attendance of members. On motion of Joseph Walton, seconded by W. Bell, Jas. Campbell was elected President. On motion of Mr. Fitzgerald, seconded by Mr. Bennett, Rev. V. Clementi was elected 1st Vice-President. On motion of W. Collins, seconded by Mr. Walton, John Rutherford was appointed 2nd Vice-President. The following Board of Directors was elected:—Jas. Walton, W. Rutherford, T. E. Bell, J. J. Bennett, George Fitzgerald, Henry Collins, Geo. Scott, Thos. Willan, John White, and Peter Hamilton. A motion by Mr. Walton, seconded by Mr. H. Collins, that Mr. Campbell be a delegate to select a member of the Board of Agriculture, was carried. A motion of W. Collins, seconded by Wm. Croft, to hold a [illegible] was carried, decision being deferred. Messrs. Edwards and McClelland were re-appointed auditors. Mr. Campbell returned thanks for his re-election to [illegible] and the meeting then adjourned.

The Directors met immediately and appointed John Larmour Secretary-Treasurer. On motion of Mr. Walton, seconded by Mr. Fitzgerald, $60 was guaranteed on the basis of last year, to the Port Hope Central Fair of 1880, and the Board adjourned.

Lambert's Hotel, Port Hope.—We can cordially endorse the following which we find in the Port Hope Times:—"A walk through Lambert's Hotel, Ontario street, Port Hope, would astonish one who judges of its size and convenience from its front elevation. It has every convenience suggested by a long experience in the hotel business. The dining-room is large, and being fitted up with dumb-waiters from the kitchens, hosters, side-boards, etc., will accommodate a very large number of persons in the course of one day. The bar and cellars are replete with the choicest of wines, liquors, and cigars; the sitting rooms are numerous, convenient and comfortable; the arrangements for the proper carrying on of the dining and bar business are first-class, and comprise large and [illegible] store-rooms, cellars, ice-house, etc., and all of these in the house are presided over by the genial and courteous proprietor, Mr. J. W. Lambert, assisted by a staff of bar-keepers, etc., etc. [illegible] be beaten in the province in their endeavor to please the patrons of their employer. [illegible] as regards courtesy, attention, and knowledge of the wants of the travelling public and farmers, carried with the [illegible] to do a good stabling at the right time, their efforts have already gained a more than local fame. The stabling of the Lambert House has always been noted for cleanliness and comfort, and also for amplitude. On Saturday next the new stable, in place of the one washed away by the flood of 1878, will be ready for occupation and consequently the stable room is greatly augmented. The stables and driving sheds of Lambert's hotel will now accommodate comfortably over 200 horses." Visitors to Port Hope will do well to patronize Mr. Lambert

Opera House Improvements.

To the Editor of the Peterborough Examiner:

SIR,—Nothing gives me greater pleasure than to notice improvements going on whereby the public generally may be benefitted. Mention is made in the Review of alterations now going on at the Opera House, and I hope it will not be considered out of place, if I suggest an improvement whereby a great advance might be reached. I refer to the necessity there exists with its glaring advertisements. From whence was this novelty imported? I have been in many theatres and places of amusement in Europe and on this continent, but never witnessed such a display of bad taste. I think it a hard case, if a merchant cannot enjoy a few hours of relaxation at a place of amusement without being reminded between the acts of the present nature of his business, by the dismal display of advertisements of defunct firms on the drop curtain. It is discouraging enough to see the names in town and country dailies, with these reminders of how business is diminished, without being compelled to face them in a place of amusement like the Opera House. Why not erect advertising boards up in the circle? They would be quite as appropriate. Is there not plenty of space in the newspapers for advertising enterprise? If not, you should keep a private black-board all the year round.

Thanking you for the encroachment on your space, I am,

Yours, etc.,

WM. LEGH.

The above suggestion may well be taken to heart by those in the advertising drop curtain is certainly no ornament to the Opera House. It offers ample proof, however, that the merchant who wastes his money in that kind of unprofitable advertising, instead of patronizing the newspaper, where he gets a return for his outlay, is penny wise to come to grief.—Ed.]

An Incorrigible Thief.

In last week's issue of the EXAMINER we gave the particulars of the robbery of Henry Keswick, at the Stewart House, by a fellow named Pappa, who made his escape. As then stated, Mr. Cavanagh went in search of the thief in the direction of Hastings, where he took step for his apprehension. On Monday Pappa made his appearance in Hastings, and being advised of this, Mr. Cavanagh telegraphed to have him arrested, which was promptly done by Constable Cook of that village, who conveyed his prisoner to Peterborough. On Friday he was brought before the Police Magistrate. On the charge being read over, which alleged that he had feloniously, etc., stolen "a pair of boots and a sum of money, to wit eight dollars," the prisoner remarked:—

"I took the boots but I didn't take eight dollars. There was only four dollars, a two dollar and a half gold piece, fifty cents, an old English quarter and five cents."

He pleaded guilty to the charge, and on being informed that he had the privilege of receiving sentence summarily, or going up for trial at the County Judge's Criminal Court, said:

"I'd just as lief have you do it."

The Magistrate pointed out to him the disgraceful position he occupied as a self-convicted thief, and asked if he had anything to say in extenuation of his crime.

Prisoner—"I suppose it was wrong, but it's done now and it can't be helped."

The Magistrate said he wished to give him a chance, and sentenced him to six months in the County Jail. Pappa left the Court in charge of Mr. Cook, vigorously but vainly gouging his eyes with an ancient plaster handkerchief, in search of tears.

It appears that when the young man skedaddled with his plunder on Monday, his overcoat was locked in the bar, and he was unable to get it. On Saturday as Mr. Cavanagh was rearranging it, he noticed something bulky in the pocket, and on searching discovered a handsome silver call bell, which the fellow had evidently stolen, and which is awaiting an owner.

LITTLE LAKE CEMETERY CO'Y.

Annual Meeting—Election of Officers—The Annual Report.

The meeting of the shareholders of the Little Lake Cemetery Company was held, as advertised in the EXAMINER, on Monday last, at 12 o'clock, in the Council Hall. There was a very full attendance including the President, Rev. V. Clementi, who occupied the chair, the Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Jos. Edwards, the Superintendent, Mr. John Kelly, Mayor Landy, Reps. J. Hamilton, Jos. Walker, Jas. Evens, J. Carnegie, Jas. Stanbury, sr., Wm. Rowland, Robt. Watson, W. H. Newry, J. J. Hall, John Sawers, Wm. English, Geo. Taylor, Charles Stapleton, Maxwell Hall, Geo. Hall, And. Jackson, W. J. Lawrence, Wm. Cummings, W. McBurney, D. C. Trow, Wm. Heather, Wm. Milton, and J. Cameron, and the Post says:—"Our "bairns" are determined to give a good account of themselves and we hope they may succeed."

When the lot time for came into our possession its was found necessary to construct some path work on the lake side of the lot and to fence it in, and authority was given to the committee to carry out such improvements, as planting, &c., as they might deem proper.

I was also authorized to memorialize the Town Council respecting the encroachment of the river on the street leading to the Cemetery, which I did to the following effect:

PETERBORO' May 31, 1879.

To the Mayor and Councillors of the Town of Peterboro'.

GENTLEMEN,—On behalf of the Directors of the Little Lake Cemetery Company I beg to direct your attention to the condition of the street leading to the Cemetery, and to express the hope that in the interest of the community at large, you will adopt such measures as may be deemed advisable for preserving the road from utter destruction.

As this is a matter which is of importance, not only to the inhabitants of the entire town, but also to those of the surrounding country, we would respectfully request the speedy if practicable the required work with as little delay as possible.

I am, Gentlemen, your obedient servant,

VINCENT CLEMENTI,
Pres. Cem. Co.

The result of this communication was that the Council carried on the cribwork for some distance west of our lot, and it is confidently hoped that, seeing the importance of the work, a still further addition will be made in the direction of the town.

When the others employed the caretaker has occupied his time in cleaning and improving vacant lots, with the view of promoting the sale of such lots. His report will show, among other things, the number of lots so improved (over 120), as well as the number sold (55), during the past twelvemonth.

Although I do not hear of any complaints as to the price charged for lots, it seems that exception is occasionally taken to the charge made for deeds; and, as in the sale of other property, it is customary for the vendor to give a free deed to the purchaser, I think, considering the satisfactory condition of our finances, that it would be well that we should adopt that plan in future, and not make any charge for our deeds.

The Treasurer has now the sum of $940 in hand.

The Directors, in conclusion, have to express their entire satisfaction at the manner in which the Superintendent has discharged his duties during the past year.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

VINCENT CLEMENTI,
President.

On motion of Mr. J. F. Dennistoun, seconded by Mr. Morrow, the report was received and adopted.

Mr. Edwards, sec'y-Treasurer, submitted the following:—

Each lot would be represented by a vote, and parties owning more than one would be entitled to a ballot for each.

On motion of Mr. Carnegie, Messrs. James Davidson and James Campbell were appointed Scrutineers. Some little time was consumed in counting the ballots, when the Scrutineers reported that the nine gentlemen above mentioned had received the highest number of votes, and were therefore declared re-elected.

Mr. McWilliams stated that some dissatisfaction existed at the hour appointed for the meetings, as it was inconvenient for many to attend, and the time allowed was too limited.

The Chairman stated that the meetings were held on that day, in compliance with the Act of Incorporation. The meeting of the Council being held at 11 o'clock, had somewhat limited the time.

Mr. McWilliams thought some other hour of the day would have been preferable.

Mr. Sawers said some of them seemed to run the business of the Company just as they pleased, but there would be a change some day.

Rev. Mr. Clement closed the discussion and the meeting, by remarking that he had left the choir.

The MAYOR said that the taxes of several [illegible] had been agreed to be remitted during the year by the Finance Committee and, the Collector had brought in a further list of persons from whom he could not collect. He had intended to have a report but there had not been time.

Mr. PATERSON asked what had become of the account of Mr. J. R. Belcher, for a plan and report on the proposed addition to the fire hall. Councillor CAHILL said it had not been reported on, and the matter was left to the new Council.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 22, 1880.

PROVINCIAL ASSEMBLY.

The Lieut-Governor's Speech.

FRIDAY, Jan. 9.

On the opening of the House Mr. McLaughlin, member for West Durham, rose to move an Address in reply to the Speech. He touched upon several topics, more especially the commercial improvement due to the late bountiful harvest, the brightening prospects of the lumber industry, and the new territory acquired under the North West Boundary award.

Mr. Waters, of North Middlesex, seconded the address in a vigorous speech of some length, the most significant part of which, as coming from a Western member, was his frank testimony in favour of the necessity of new Parliament buildings.

Mr. Meredith followed for the Opposition, but took no exception to any of the suggestions foreshadowed, except for the creation of new Parliament buildings. He expressed his agreement with the leader of the Government on the importance of insisting on a recognition of the Provincial boundary award by the Dominion Parliament. He concluded by saying that last session feeling ran high, and occurrences took place which perhaps might have been avoided. This Legislature had been inaugurated under the most auspicious circumstances, and it was his earnest desire that they should continue to conduct the proceedings with the same good feeling.

Mr. Mowat on rising to respond was enthusiastically cheered. He expressed pleasure at the remarks which had last fallen from the leader of the Opposition, and took it for granted that the spirit they set forth would be exemplified by the members on that side. He could assure his hon. friend that if so they would find that spirit equally manifested on the Government side. The hon. member desired that the Min. of Public Works should be asked the reason for the increased majority for the Government. He presumed that meant that the Roman Catholics had very largely given their votes in favor of a Reform Government. He could see no reason why Roman Catholics should not support a good Government. (Cheers.) But the Roman Catholic vote formed only one-fifth of the total vote of the Province, so that the support of the Government was not only from them, but from Protestants as well. He acknowledged and was proud of the support he had received from all parties, as it was an acknowledgment that the Government had dealt fairly by all denominations, creeds, and nationalities. As to new Parliament buildings he said the proposal was not made for the erection of new Parliament buildings. The real question was not whether new buildings should be erected or not, but when they should be erected—whether they should be built now under a good Government, or at a future period under a bad one. His hon. friend in speaking of this matter as if it were to be done entirely in the interests of the city, should remember that not a member of the Government represented the city. Four members of the Government resided and always had resided, out of the city, and they permitted him to mention that it was at their suggestion that the matter had first been taken up. Not one word had been said about it until after the elections were over. After due consideration the Government had come to the conclusion that the expenditure was a proper one, and they might assume the responsibility of making it. He thought he might fairly determine from the speech made by the leader of the Opposition that there were really no faults to be found with the Speech from the Throne, and he hoped to be able to carry out all the measures there indicated. (Loud cheers.) He was glad to notice that such accessions of strength had been made to the Reform ranks in the House by the last election, and he particularly complimented the mover and seconder of the address upon the able speeches they had made.

The resolution for an Address, in answer to the Speech from the Throne was carried.

The Address was reported and passed unanimously.

Mr. Wood gave notice that he would on Monday move the House into Committee of Supply.

Mr. Wood gave notice that he would on Monday move the House into Committee of Ways and Means.

Mr. Meredith asked whether the return moved for last session of the appeals for conviction under the Masters and Servants' Act would be brought down this session.

Mr. Hardy replied that he would make enquiries and see why it had not already been placed before the House.

Monday Jan. 12.

The House met at 2 o'clock when a number of petitions by members were presented among others, one from the County Council of Simcoe, for a Commission to enquire into the practicability of lowering the waters of lake Simcoe and Couchiching.

A committee was appointed to strike standing committees.

Mr. Mowat presented a message from the Lieutenant-Governor, transmitting Preliminary Estimates, which on motion of Hon. Mr. Wood were referred to committee of supply.

Mr. Hardy presented the report of the Committee of Public Works for 1879 and the House adjourned after a 15 minutes session.

Tuesday Jan 13.

Several petitions were presented praying for the passage of the grant to High Schools and Collegiate Institutes.

Mr. Speaker informed the House that as the petition asked for a grant of money, it was out of order. Besides that, they were addressed to his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor instead of to the House.

Bills to amend the municipal act and Division Court Act by Mr. Calvin and Mr. Gibson were introduced and read a first time.

On the motion of Hon. Mr. Wood, the House went into Committee of Supply, and passed the preliminary estimates granting $317,050 to her Majesty for expenses of Government until the adoption of the general estimates. The estimates were reported and concurred in without amendment.

A motion by Mr. Lauder from a return of all Special Commissions since 1867 was carried.

Mr. Dercshe's motion for a return of the records of the last elections was carried.

Mr. Hardy presented the report of the Inspector of Division Courts for 1878, and the report of the Inspector of Asylums, Prisons and Public Charities for 1879 and the House adjourned.

WEDNESDAY, Jan. 14.

The House met at three o'clock when a number of petitions were presented.

The Speaker read a message from the Lt.-Governor returning thanks for the address.

A bill by Hon. Mr. Wood respecting the Agricultural College was read a first time.

Hon. Mr. Mowat introduced a bill "to consolidate the Superior Courts, of Law and Equity, to establish a uniform system of pleading and practice, and to make further provision for the due administration of justice." In explaining the object of the bill, he said the object of the bill was to consolidate the Superior Courts, and to have one Superior Court of the Province instead of the separate and independent Courts of Queen's Bench, Common Pleas, Chancery and Appeal. The Supreme Court he proposed to divide into two branches—one to be of original jurisdiction, and the other of appeals jurisdiction; the former to consist of the Courts of Chancery, Queen's Bench and Common Pleas, and the latter to be composed very much as the present Court of Appeals was composed. Then the bill provided for a uniform system of pleading and practice in the high courts. For the convenience of the business of the Supreme Court of original jurisdiction he proposes to divide it into three branches. He did not intend, however, to number the branches 1st, 2nd and 3rd, as was the case in the United States, but he intended to retain the historic names of Queen's Bench, Common Pleas and Chancery. These courts, however, would be no longer separate courts but divisions of one high court.

Mr. Hardy asked whether any regulations had been adopted prohibiting officers of the Local Government from acting in municipal positions or taking part in elections.

Hon. Mr. Mowat said no regulations had been adopted, but parties so acting to the detriment of their official duties had been warned.

Motions for returns by Messrs. Cook and Dryden respecting County Councils, their functions, and seats, were carried.

A motion by Mr. Crooks that the contempt formed motions respecting corrupt practises, etc., made at the opening of the House be Standing Orders of the House, was carried, and the Board adjourned.

THURSDAY, Jan. 15.

The House met at 2.30 when a number of petitions were received. Several bills received a first reading.

Hon. Mr. Fraser moved for a select committee, consisting of Messrs. Bell, Boulter, Cook, Fraser, Gibson (Hamilton), Harcourt, Hay, Lees, McLaughlin, Peck, Parkhill, Rose, Wells, White, and Young to enquire into the subject of the frequent accidents, in many instances with loss of life, to tradesmen employed on railways, and the means by which the dangers of this perilous avocation may be diminished.

Mr. Morris supported the motion which was carried.

Mr. Bridgeford asked when the return relative to the value of the present site of the Parliamentary Buildings and Grounds, and the probable cost of new buildings in the University Park will be laid before the House?

Hon. Mr. Mowat—It is intended to lay before the House the information asked for in the address and a great deal more before we ask the House to pronounce on the matter of erecting new Parliament buildings.

In answer to Mr. Wigle, Hon. Mr. Mowat stated that Mr. Johnston had not been dismissed from his place as Principal of the School of Agriculture. He resigned—and in the face of very strong persuasion to remain in his late position for which he was in every way competent.

Mr. Harcourt moved for a return showing the number of prisoners sent from each County of Ontario to the Kingston Penitentiary and to the Reformatories during the years 1878 and 1879, and also stating in detail the fees received by the Sheriffs of the Counties respectively for their services in connection therewith. He thought the return when brought down might bring up a discussion on the subject of Sheriff's fees. Some Sheriffs, he understood, were getting from $10,000 to $15,000 a year in fees, while others could not get $1,000.—Motion carried.

A motion for return of number of railway accidents, persons killed, &c., was carried and the House adjourned.

FRIDAY, Jan. 16.

On the opening of the House, Mr. Jelly, the new member for Dufferin, was introduced and took his seat.

A number of bills received first reading.

A motion by Mr. Graham was carried for a return showing numbers of applications for loans, &c., on the Tile Drainage Act, Hon. Mr. Wood saying the Act had not had a fair trial in view of the years of depression through which the farmers had passed.

A motion by Mr. Gibson for returns connected with the operation of the liquor law was carried.

Mr. Calvin's bill to amend the Municipal Act was read a second time on the understanding that the House was not committed to it, as there were several other bills before the House on the same subject. The House adjourned at 9.20.

POLITICAL REMINISCENCES.

(BY A CONTRIBUTOR. CONTINUED FROM A FORMER ISSUE.)

In order to understand the true position of events referred to by Sir John A. Macdonald, it is necessary to notice the dates on which they took place. As I observed before, the Reform Ministry obtained the necessary power from the Imperial Government to secularise the Clergy Reserves, and prepared the measures for its adoption. The Baldwin Ministry lasted from 1848 till 1851, when the Hincks-Morin cause in and kept office till September 1854, and were succeeded by that of McNab-Morin in the latter date. In the general election of 1852, Mr. Baldwin was rejected by his old constituency as it fancied he was not sound on the Clergy Reserve question. Mr. Hincks led the Ministry up to 1854, and was mainly instrumental in obtaining the power from the English Government to settle the Reserves. When the coalition was formed—composed, as Sir John says, of "Conservatives and Baldwin Reformers," but which I prefer to say was composed of Tories and renegade Reformers—the first step was the commuting measure of the Reserves and the commuting of the feudal dues of the Seigneurs of Lower Canada, which the former ministry had taken up and amended. Then follows the boast, "We enlarged the bounds of our educational system." When! How! I cannot find the enlargement, but I can tell what Reform parliaments have done. They established Common Schools, Normal Schools, set apart a million acres of land for a fund for Common School purposes, established and amended Acts concerning Grammar Schools, and above all, redeemed the country from the grasp of an intolerant hierarchy. That university we are so proud to call the property of the people, Sir John adds, "We established law and indignant feelings of our Catholic fellow-men, by giving them fair play at the hands of a decidedly Protestant majority." "Fair Play!" forsooth. When Separate Schools were first established in 1850, did Sir John approve of them? Mr. Baldwin recommended them, and that was enough for the former to oppose them. Very little did Sir John then reck them. If the Roman Catholics have to thank any administration for their rights and privileges, it is the reform party, not the Tories; Sir John to the contrary notwithstanding. He attempts attributing to himself, since 1854, all the legislation of importance, and says that the country has lost five years by Mr. Mackenzie being in office, that Mr. Mackenzie and his friends were a "factious opposition," that had he and his friends remained in power, they would have built the Pacific Railway in ten years—an utter impossibility. He refers to the period in 1878 "when the Government of which he was the head was forced from its position, but," he continues, "we wrapped ourselves in our mantle and fell, I hope, with dignity." And how came they to fall from that position? Simply by the gross acts of corruption brought to light in the Pacific Scandal. Sir John and his friends were proved guilty of levying money from a contractor of the Pacific Railway to assist at their elections, which money was to be recouped by the Government. Is shown how low public morality has fallen with that party, when they bate and feast men of such fraudulent and wicked conduct. He is not so void of common sense as to be ignorant of right and wrong, but allowing his zeal to run away on such splendid demonstrations, he is in a fair way of being in the dilemma of the man we read of,

"He that will be cheated to the last,
Deserves cheating or hell shall hold him fast."

Had these dynastic frauds been perpetrated by the Reform party, we never should hear the end of them, or had ordinary or private individuals been guilty of such crimes, they would instantly have been sent to the penitentiary. It is within my recollection that the Tory party, determined to keep Wm. Lyon Mackenzie out of the House of Assembly, spent money most lavishly, but all in vain, the good and true men of York were unpurchasable patriots, and finding money was unavailable in carrying out their nefarious purpose, they had recourse to brute force, and actually expelled him four different times. Sir John claims all the credit for all the good measures passed. His numerous representative institutions, responsible government and consequently elective laws. "Confederation," says he, "was the crowning victory, compared to both." If my memory is not at fault, I should say most decidedly, the Hon. George Brown and the party he belongs to, deserve the credit of establishing and advocating representative institutions, responsible government, Confederation, and above all, the whole of good election laws. Why, Mr. Editor, if the present election laws passed by Mr. Mackenzie's Government, between 1873 and 1878, had been in existence in 1872, not only would that corrupt push who brought their cash with borrowed money from a government contractor, but most all, if not every one, of the Ministers would have been held disqualified for eight years at least. Did not Mr. Brown write and fight in 1861 for representation by population, and failing to carry this measure he then advocated confederation? As for responsible government, the party of Sir John was bitterly opposed to its introduction into Canada, and Sir Charles Metcalfe, the wealthy Governor, was sent out expressly to defeat the measure. In 1843 he practically showed his dislike for it by making appointments over the heads of his Ministers, thus forcing them to resign. Above all the measures Sir John and his party should try to claim credit for, the election laws are the very last. From the earliest history of the country, it stands emblazoned on its front, that the election laws were framed and amended to suit the dominant Tory party. The ballot was stamped as "un-British" by the Chief, and if he had his way we should not have had it to this day. Sir John may point to George Brown as a disturber, a bigot, and an enemy to Frenchmen and Roman Catholics, and opposed to the larger idea of Confederation, but it is not true. Mr. Brown has done tenfold more than ever his accuser has done to secure for Canada responsible government, religious equality, the extension of the franchise, and the purity of elections. Sir John may joke, assail and ridicule the Reform leaders, may claim the credit to himself and party of passing, since 1854, "everything in way of legislation, everything in the way of administration of any consequence" but those who know the history of the country know better. He may be little his predecessor, Mr. Mackenzie, and in his post-prandial speeches, may tell his credulous listeners, that owing to the inability and inertness of Mr. Mackenzie, the "country has lost five years of national life." I remember, Mr. Editor, while Sir John was head of the government prior to 1873, that he paid a very high compliment to the then leader of the Opposition, pointing to him as a suitable leader of his party, if that party should assume power. What has led to this cowardly attack on the 27th of November last? Did not Mr. Mackenzie, when the leader of his party, bring into the office of Premier, honesty of purpose, unflagging energy, rectitude of conduct, and unceasing efforts to benefit the country? Whatever shafts of malice the assassin may throw, he cannot wound the object of his attack, for he is immeasurably removed from him. Alexander Mackenzie, we say and affirm, is an honest, upright man. And "an honest man is the noblest work of God."

INFLUENCE OF THE BLOOD.—The decided alterative action of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime, adapts it in a remarkable degree as a blood purifier well worthy of the trial of those suffering from a diseased condition of the circulating fluid. The unsightly blotches, pustules, and pimples that disfigure the face and neck, as well as other portions of the body of some persons, are indications of a diseased state of the blood induced by, as well as associated with, depraved nutrition, feeble digestion and imperfect assimilation. The continued use of the Phosphorized Emulsion invariably cleanses the blood from all these impurities and restores the system to a state of healthfulness that is manifested in increased constitutional vigor, mental activity, and lightness and buoyancy of spirits. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00.

Mitchell's Bellandean Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as at present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgandy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is rail of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one of the greatest healing medicens ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plaster they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service that a hundred of the ordinary kin. All other Plasters are sure of action, and require to be worn consinually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TIC DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive, and are sure to relieve WEAK BACKS, PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST; and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing and has generally settled on the CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long-seated Consumption.

Goods Sold Direct to the People at Wholesale Price. ☞The Only Business in Canada Conducted on the Same Principle. Over $30,000 worth of Boots & Shoes so Supplied Last Year.

The great loss annually sustained by selling to Dunlers, first led to our establishing of Branch Stores, where we could supply direct to the people for Cash all the goods we could manufacture, thus giving to the people the goods late the dealer's profit, and saving to ourselves the annual loss. We were the more forcibly impressed into the step from the fact that cheap Eastern-made shoddy goods were being palmed off on our goods. We now sell our own goods, warrant what we sell, use no shoddy or inferior material of any kind, and can and do supply goods of the best quality 25 per cent. on than they can be bought elsewhere.

Everything Marked in Plain Figures. Only One Price.

CUSTOM DEPARTMENT.

Our arrangements are now complete in this department, and we can make to measure promptly either Ladies', Gentlemen's, or Children's Goods, in the Latest Styles, at little over half the price usually charged.

CONFEDERATION LIFE ASSOCIATION.

EXAMPLES OF PROFITS.

No. of Policy.	Kind of Insurance.	Sum Assured.	Annual Premium.	For 1878. Cash	For 1878. Bonus	For 1877. Cash	For 1877. Bonus
1	Life 10 Payment Life.	$20,000 5,000	$838.20 203.45	$74.60 112.10	$317.60 797.60	$53.00 125.00	$225.60 795.60

It will be observed that these results are not only very handsome, but are also Equitable. If this Association distributed the Profits on the ordinary PRINCETAGE PLAN, allowing a bonus of 8½ per cent., payable at death, then the profits would have been as follows:—

Policy No. 1. For 1877. Cash..... $37.50. Bonus..... $262.50.
" " " 1878. " ..... 62.50. " ..... 187.50.
" " " 1879. " ..... 87.50. " ..... 112.50.

It will at once be seen that such a system as this last cannot commend itself to persons who will take time to consider it, as it not only does injustice to persons paying by a limited number of Premiums, but it gives only the same profits after a person has paid a score of Premiums. The above profit-results, which place the Confederation Life in the van of Life Companies in Canada are obtained by

Not paying more for business than it is worth. Adopting a High Standard of Valuation from the outset. Giving 90 per cent. of the profits to Policy-holders. And economy in all branches of the business. And employing a Mode of Division, just in its results, giving to each in the proportion in which each has contributed to profits

The above profit-results, which place the Confederation Life in the van of Life Companies in Canada are obtained by

The exercise of care and economy in all branches of the business. And employing a Mode of Division, just in its results, giving to each in the proportion in which each has contributed to profits

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recent y published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

CATARRH.

Constitutional Catarrh Remedy Cures Catarrh.

T. J. B. HARDING, Esq., BROCKVILLE, ONT.

DEAR SIR.—It is now two years since your "Constitutional Catarrh Remedy" was introduced to me. I have watched this long to see if the cure would remain permanent before doing this, my duty, to you, as at first the hope it gave seemed to me to be "too good to be true."

I was afflicted in my head for years before I commenced it to be Catarrh. In reading in your Circular I saw my case described in many particulars. The inward "drop" from the head had become very disagreeable, and a constant sensation often prevented me from lying long. I would find Mucous forming and collected to get up in the throat. My hearing and spirits were seriously affected. When your Agent came to Baltimore in August, 1877, I procured three bottles. Before I had used a quarter of the contents of one bottle I found relief, and, used when I felt was just half a one a third, I quit taking it. Neither entire cured of that affliction, and have not used any since until of late I have taken some, for a cold in my head.

A word of duty to sufferers from that loathsome disease, Catarrh. Be thorough in your cure. Constitutional, constitutional, with power to make what use of it you may see proper. Yours truly,

W. TINDALL, Methodist minister,

Fort Erie, Ont., Aug. 24, 1878.

Ask for Lippincott's Constitutional Catarrh Remedy and take no other.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN'Y 29, 1880.

THE TORONTO AND OTTAWA PROJECT.

This enterprise is again occupying the attention of the people of Peterborough, the Directors having invited their assent to a change in the conditions under which the bonus was granted to the railway. As we have before stated, we believe it to be in the true interests of the people of Peterborough to do everything in their power to aid the promoters of the railway in getting this important work under construction. It is of course proper, and we should be careful to insist upon it, that in assenting to any such change, none of the safeguards which surround the original By-law, should be lost sight of, and that the interests of the town should be properly guarded. That assured, those interests are best to be promoted by a hearty co-operation in any proposition which the Directors may submit, that may recommend itself to our judgment as being calculated to facilitate the progress of the undertaking. Since we have had the opportunity of hearing a statement, on behalf of the Directors, of the measure, to be submitted for the approval of the ratepayers, we have no hesitation in saying that they are such as we can heartily approve, and as we trust will receive the general support of our citizens. The only change of any importance contemplated, is that which proposes to reduce the aggregate amount of bonuses upon condition of securing which the $150,000 By-law was passed. This condition was originally inserted in the By-law in order to facilitate the work of getting bonuses from other municipalities interested in seeing the road constructed, by impressing upon them the necessity of liberal bonuses along the line, to secure its construction. It does not exist in any other By-law giving aid to this enterprise. It has accomplished its purpose, thanks to the hard work of Mr. Scott, and it only stands now as a clog upon the progress of the project. The town of Peterborough is interested only in getting the work under way and pushed to completion. It does not matter to us whether the Company receive a million of bonuses or half a million, so long as the enterprise is gone on with. The Company have now received $785,000 in bonuses, which is amply sufficient to warrant them in proceeding with the work, and which will enable them to secure the balance necessary to complete it, by the issue of bonds, and what they now ask is simply that the bonus which has already been granted shall be placed in such shape as to be of use to them, as was the intention in granting it. As it stands now the Company cannot utilize it, and the town cannot secure the road till they are enabled to do so. It is not a question of giving the $150,000, which is under discussion, as some people seem to imagine—whether the change be assented to or not, the liability of the town for the $150,000 would remain. The only object is to make the grant available for the immediate prosecution of the work, and that is an object which the citizens of Peterborough ought to be quite as anxious to promote as the Directors themselves. We should not forget that by placing this grant at the immediate disposal of the Company, we would ensure the expenditure amongst us of at least a million and a half of dollars within the next two years, which would be the first and immediate beneficial result of getting this project under way. Of the future and permanent results, when the line is completed and in running order, we believe that due reflection will lead will lead any unprejudiced person to but one conclusion, and that is, that it will ensure for Peterborough the position for all time to come of the great midland centre of Ontario. It will, now that the road from Montreal to Ottawa is completed, and the bridge to connect with the Toronto & Ottawa under construction, open up a through line to the commercial metropolis and the seabord, and ultimately give to Peterborough the position on a great trunk line from Lake Huron, competing with the Grand Trunk, which Toronto now occupies on that railway. It will bring an enormous traffic from Chicago, Milwaukee and the great shipping ports of the west, by opening up for the Midland the shortest, safest and most convenient connection for that trade with the seabord. Then we have to consider its direct effect on the trade of Peterboro. It will make this town the best market to sell in, and the cheapest to buy in, in this district. Freights to Montreal would be reduced to nearly the rate now quoted from Peterborough to Port Hope, and the benefit to the farmer in the county, and the merchant in town, would be two-fold. Every bushel of grain grown in the district would fetch, in our market, at least two or three cents a bushel more than it does at present, while the merchant would, by the saving effected in the cost of importing his goods, be enabled to sell at a much lower rate with equal profit. It would secure the entire travel from all points west of this to the capital, and by diverting that traffic, would give us the benefit which always accrues to a junction of two important lines of railway. These are some of the results which experience and common sense show us must inevitably follow the consummation of this scheme, and every day which is lost in carrying out the work, is an unprofitable day for every man in Peterborough, town and county. The proposition of the Directors is also advantageous because it gives us the opportunity of getting rid of the $50,000 to be paid on the extension of the line to Toronto, which it seems likely to, and will we trust, be abandoned, as well as to insure a more favourable condition as regards the employment to be secured to this town. Looking at it in every light we cannot but come to the conclusion that any opposition to a proposal which will secure immediate prosecution with the work of construction of the Toronto and Ottawa, would be worse than a mistake, because a mistake in a matter of such vital importance would be suicidal folly, and a crime against the future of the town; and we trust, therefore, the town will not stand in its own light, but give its hearty co-operation to Mr. Scott in this enterprise.

We cannot refrain from alluding to reflections which we have heard made upon the motives and objects of Mr. Scott, Mr. Dumble and the other promoters of the road. It is with regret, we might say indignation, that we observe an attempt made in some quarters, to create an impression that these gentlemen are actuated by sinister and selfish motives, and have personal axes to grind. Such statements are not only utterly false, but grossly unjust. These gentlemen have acted throughout from public spirit and a desire to secure a great benefit for the whole community. They have sacrificed their time and money; and in the case of Mr. Scott, he has neglected his own business and personal interests, and seriously injured his health, to secure an object which will confer a greater benefit upon every merchant and property-owner in Peterborough than it will ever bring to him. If they had desired to make the scheme serve their own personal ends, they might long ago have sold the charter and pocketed the proceeds. If Mr. Scott had been accessible to such an offer as the Grand Trunk would be willing to make, that company would not have required to have spent thousands of dollars in endeavouring to defeat the scheme in Ottawa and Toronto, and it is a poor reward for his self-sacrifices in this enterprise, that he should be made the subject of such ungenerous and ungrateful reflections.

PUBLISHER'S NOTICE.

Our readers will have noticed the announcement, elsewhere, over the signatures of the Publishers of Peterborough, that hence forth the abuse of dead-head advertising, which has for a long time been so extensively carried on at the expense of the proprietors of the newspapers of this town, will no longer be permitted. This step has been made necessary by the extent to which the practice has been carried, and a recognition of the fact that, under the great advance which has taken place lately in every line of publishers' stock and material, without any corresponding advance in the charges of the publisher, the latter cannot afford to throw his news columns open to the free use of the public, in competition with his legitimate business columns. Any person who takes the trouble to give the subject a moment's consideration, will see both the reasonableness and justice of this step. The space in a newspaper devoted to business announcements represents the capital of the publisher. To have that space available for legitimate business, costs the publisher the investment, in the case of the EXAMINER of some $10,000 of cash, for material, machinery and stock, as well as an annual outlay of many hundreds of dollars to replace deteriorating material and to meet the requirements of business—to say nothing of the labor and expense of carrying on the business of publication after that capital has been invested. To derive a fair interest upon his capital and return for his labor, and to meet the very heavy cash outlay involved in carrying on business, he has to depend entirely upon the return afforded by the few columns of his paper set apart for the business of advertising. Every inch of that space stands to him in the same relation exactly, both as to cash invested and the necessity of a return therefrom, as every acre of a farmer's land does to the farmer. He can no more afford, and ought no more to be expected to give away that space without a consideration, than a farmer to give the use of a portion of his property to any person who might choose to ask it. People come into a newspaper office and request the use of a dollar's worth of advertising space, free of charge, who would never dream of going to a grocer and asking to be made a present of a pound of tea. They will ask to be donated $4 worth of advertising on the ground of having spent $1.50 in a printing job on which perhaps the publisher has perhaps 25 cents profit, but would never think of asking the butcher from whom they had purchased two pounds of suet, to throw in a quarter of beef—yet the two transactions would be strictly identical. A newspaper is a public convenience, it is true; but it is in precisely the same way as a railway or a telegraph line—it cannot be conducted in the public interest without a very heavy expense, and to meet that expense certain charges must be made. No person who buys a ticket from Peterborough to Port Hope expects to get half-a-cwt of freight carried free on that account, nor should any reasonable man expect that the payment of a dollar for an advertisement or a job, gives him the right to expect the publisher to make him a present of two dollars, which supposition is based on a very modest estimate, indeed, of the average assurance of the dead-head local advertiser. We take the trouble to direct the attention of the public to these considerations, that they may understand how reasonable and just it is that they should be compelled, as they will in the future be, to pay a fair rate for advertising in any shape whatever.

From the Peterborough Review.

We would invite the attention of our patrons and friends to the notice which appears elsewhere with reference to the insertion of "Local Notices" in our columns respecting the business of any individual, company, club, society or association, as it is our intention to strictly adhere to its terms. The great injustice to ourselves in giving such notices gratuitously will be manifest when we remind our patrons that our columns are our stock in trade, and necessitate a continuous expenditure of time and money, and therefore that the merchants has no more ground for expecting the insertion of a local notice free regarding his business—even when accompanied by a regular advertisement—than we would have on purchasing a pound of tea, for requesting to receive free the sugar necessary to sweeten it; or that on purchasing a coat, after much "chinning" and cutting of prices, we should get a pair of pants along with it. But the most cutting kind of local notices to the publisher are those relating to entertainments, concerts, lectures, sleighing and dancing parties, church meetings, and a dozen other matters of a similar kind, all of which, though entirely legitimate for advertisements, are not legitimate for unremunerated local comment in the local columns of a paper, as if they and not the publishers were conferring a favour in inserting them. Now we have made up our minds that if these institutions require the use of the columns of the REVIEW for these local notices we will in future charge for them at our regular published advertising rates. Then, if the object they are promoting is one which we believe deserves our personal assistance we will give it as other people do. Organizations which would not think of asking us personally for a subscription or donation, have no right to take many times the same amount out of our pockets in the way of local notices or reduced prices on job work, and we do not intend that they shall in the future.

THE TAXATION TARIFF CONDEMNED.

In spite of the personal interference of the Dominion Ministers and malgre the shuffling of Cabinet offices, and the sop thrown to the Irish Catholic vote at the eleventh hour, the people of North Lanark have given the Dominion Cabinet an unmistakeable rebuke, and condemned the patent Taxation Tariff by increasing the Reform majority of 1878 from 43 to 98. The riding is pretty evenly divided politically, and has in the last two local elections been carried by the Conservatives, and it is moreover a constituency in which manufacturing interests are very strong, so that it affords the first fair expression of popular judgment based upon experience of the tariff. In Almonte town, the principal seat of the manufactures, that experience only gained one vote for the Ministerial party, while in Pakenham, the other manufacturing centre, the Conservatives lost twenty votes as compared with 1878. The election is significant of the fate of the N. P. in 1883.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The vacancy in the office of President of the Council at Ottawa has been filled by the appointment of Mr. J. J. McGee, brother of the late Thos. D'Arcy McGee.

The message of the Governor of Connecticut, delivered at the opening of the State Legislature, recommended the extension of the franchise to women.

Mrs. Fisher, wife of the editor of the Parry Sound North Star, who was drowned in the Waubuno disaster, has entered an action for $20,000 damages against the Georgian Bay Transportation Company, the owners of the boat.

The Police Magistrate at Ottawa, recently gave a decision in a test case of some interest—Brewer v. Huckell, involving the right of landlords' bailiffs to sell goods seized by public auction. The decision was in favor of the plaintiff, the magistrate giving it as his opinion that landlords' bailiffs did not have the right to sell goods by public auction.

"When rogues fall out honest men get their own." The publishers at Toronto have got one another by the ears, and as a result of the quarrel, the Department of Education is apprised of the existence of a ring of publishers to keep up the prices of authorized school books to an extortionate rate. In consequence, the Minister of Education has taken effectual steps to break up the ring.

The Port Hope Times and Guide compliment Mr. Scott, M.P.P. The Times Toronto despatch says: "Universal regret is felt on both sides of the House at the absence of Mr. Scott on account of illness." The Guide editorially says: "Mr. Scott is by far the ablest man on his side of the House." We regret very much that Mr. Scott is still detained by illness from the active discharge of his duties at Toronto, and it is to be hoped that his absence will not be prolonged. He is the only man on the Opposition side of the House who carries any weight in the deliberations of the Assembly, and in committees his services are freely acknowledged on both sides. His moderation in expression, and courteous regard for opponents, as well as his undoubted ability, makes Mr. Scott respected in the House, where Mr. Meredith's milk-and-water oratory is barely tolerated, and the carping ill-conditioned querulousness of Mr. Morris unanimously voted an unmitigated bore. In fact, the only wonder is that the Opposition should allow the unconcealed wrangling for the leadership between such men as Meredith, Morris and Leader to go on, while they have available the services of a man so vastly superior in every quality of leadership as Mr. Scott is.

[Since the above was written we are glad to learn that Mr. Scott has so far recovered as to be able to undertake his legislative duties at Toronto.]

St. George's Society.

TENTH ANNUAL MEETING.

The St. George's Society of Peterboro' held its tenth annual meeting on the evening of Wednesday of last week, Mr. Wm. Helm President, in the chair, and Mr. Toker, in absence of Mr. Bithray, acting as Secretary. Matthias, by death during the year; that St. George's day was duly celebrated by a dinner at Mr. W. Chamberlain's, and that 11 members were elected in 1879, the total membership being 61, amount expended for ballot $97; cash in Treasurer's hands $36.-33. The Treasurer reports showing a balance in hand of $126.33. The relief committee's report showed $45.20 expended during the year, and $6.53 on hand unexpended. The election of officers then took place with the following result: President, Mr. W. Helm, re-elected; First Vice-President, Mr. Wm. Hock; Second Vice-President, Mr. W. H. Sherwood; Chaplain, Rev. Coarsley.

Through the soil of Virginia grows the best tobacco land in the world, it does not all grow equal qualities. The production of cabbages enables it to obtain quite different, the one producing leaf which at once determines if grown in the other. The leaf of the "Myrtle Navy" is the product of the choice sections of the State, which, through some combination of local influences, produces a better quality than any grown. This is shown by its always commanding a higher price than any other marking leaf.

East Peterborough Agricultural Society.

On motion of Mr. Lemay, seconded by Mr. O'Connel, the Secretary-Treasurer was required to give bonds to the value of $200. Some communications and accounts were disposed of, and on motion of Mr. McNamara, seconded by Mr. Lemay, two desks for First Ward School were ordered. EDITORIAL NOTES.

Dr. Bergin was re-elected for Cornwall on Tuesday by a majority of 176 over Mr. D. B. McLennan.

The Princess Louise is expected to reach Halifax on Saturday should the Sarmatian experience anything like fair weather.

It is understood that the Government is engaged in the work of revising the tariff at Ottawa, in preparation for the session.

THE libel suit of Boyle v. the Globe has resulted in a verdict in favor of the Globe. The evidence affords a good insight into the work of contract-swindling at Ottawa, as carried on under the Government at Ottawa.

A gentleman, formerly a resident of Peterborough, who is now engaged in the iron trade at Airdrie, Scotland, writes to a friend here, who has permitted us to make the following extract, which may be of interest to some who may feel dissatisfied with their lot in Canada: "This is a poor country for a workingman—First, the shops are very uncomfortably cold. They are low paid, and not respected; live in one-horse houses; taxed fearfully, and pay very high prices for everything but fuel, while boots and clothing are about the same as with you. Chickens are 68 cents a piece, (workingmen don't eat them); 4 pound loaf 17 cents; potatoes 25 cents per stone—14 lbs. and miserable trash they are; fresh butter 35 cents; salt 31 cents; steak 20 to 25 cents; coal $2.50 per ton. I have paid nearly $15 taxes already." The writer, it will be borne in mind, has only been a resident of Airdrie for some six months.

ON the organization of the Peterborough County Council, on Tuesday afternoon, the Reeve of Ashburnham, Mr. John Burnham, M.P., received the compliment of an election by an unanimous vote to the position of Warden of the County, for the fourth time. While we have the misfortune to differ from the new Warden politically, and believe moreover that the Warden's chair ought not to be too much monopolised, but should rather be open from time to time to a change of occupancy, that it may be the fair reward of long and honorable service at the Board, we cannot find fault with the present action of the Council. Mr. Burnham has made, and no doubt will continue to make, an excellent Warden, and the fact of his residence at the County Town is also an advantage, as it consults the convenience of parties having business to transact coming within the purview of the County authorities. Mr. Burnham himself expressed his desire to give way to some other member of the Board, so that his election under the circumstances testifies all the more strongly to the satisfactory character of his past stewardship.

We find the following in the columns of the Peterborough Review:—"If not "checked with a firm and steady hand it "is to be feared that patronage will "prove here, as it has already done in "the neighboring states, the curse of our "system of party Government. The de"mands of "party" are unfortunately so "great and so pressing upon the leaders "of all parties that it becomes more and "more difficult for them to resist the im"portunity of needy followers, but that "makes it none the less an evil to be de"plored or lamented." It is said that "so long as the lamp holds out to burn, the vilest sinner may return," and we trust the Review will continue to wrestle with the curse of patronage, until it brings its patrons of the Dominion Government to a true and proper sense of the situation. We have before called attention to the danger of adopting in this country the pernicious system of patronage in vogue in the United States, and practised in this country since 1873, and we are glad to see our contemporary casting aside the shackles of party, and so vigorously administering Sir John of the error of his ways.

We have been favoured a copy of the Dominion Watchman, a paper published by Mr. Griffin, one of the two names of that unpromising infant pulpit the rugby, and the cause who addressed a meeting in Peterborough a short time ago on the question of wild-cat money—

"Most paper-credit! Lean and bankruptly!
That lends corruption lighter wings to fly!"

It will be remembered that at the conclusion of Mr. G.'s speech, a motion was declared carried, though manifestly against the judgment of nineteen out of twenty present, which, under the cover of a vote of thanks to Mr. Griffin, implied in a somewhat ambiguous way, approval of his fiscal nostrum. As it was Mr. Griffin's meeting, and that gentleman had come to Peterborough, unlimited, to enlighten the people here on the question of currency, and had, moreover, labored conscientiously to impress his views upon the audience for a period of two hours, the meeting did not feel disposed, on that occasion, to wound Mr. Griffin's susceptibilities in regard to his hobby-horse, by expressing the undoubted feeling of most of those present with respect to it. Had they been aware, however, that the vote which, out of consideration for Mr. Griffin's feelings, was allowed to pass, was to be used, as it is being used in the Dominion Watchman, as evidence that the citizens of Peterborough endorse the "irredeemable currency" scheme with which a few fiscal quacks are trying to supplant the honest dollar in Canada, we speak by the book when we say no such motion would ever have been allowed to pass. On this point we feel sure our contemporary the Review will agree with us.

THE letter of the Auditors appointed at the first meeting of the Town Council, read at the meeting on Monday night, in which they pointed out the impossibility of performing the amount of labor asked of them for the remuneration offered, affords food for reflection. We are as strongly impressed as any one can be with the importance of rigid economy in the management of the business of the town, and we believe that every dollar of the hard-earned money of the tax-payers should be carefully weighed in its expenditure. But there is a point where economy ceases, and parsimony steps in, more dangerous, and in the end more costly, than judicious and prudent liberality. To expect that a work of such vital importance, involving such an amount of actual labor—making in all some 10,000 separate calculations, attended with so great responsibility, and requiring ability and experience of a peculiar order, can be expected to be properly performed by the Auditors at $50 a year, is we think absurd; and it is not surprising that men like Mr. Pearse and Mr. McDougall, who would bring both capacity and the determination to conscientiously perform these responsible duties, to their work, should feel compelled to decline to undertake it on those terms. No doubt incompetence can be cheaply purchased, and plenty could be found to accept the $50; but we would like to know how much that false kind of economy will cost the town in the long run? We have heard enough of late about the results of alleged bungling in town affairs, and what we want to insist upon is, to place the important work of auditing in competent hands, paying therefor such reasonable compensation as will secure us that the work will be done in an efficient and reliable manner. The town has but yesterday paid $100 for a special audit, which would never have been necessary had that work from year to year been performed as we would be certain it would be, if Messrs. McDougall and Pearse were properly remunerated for their onerous duty.

Down to the Fore.

A Good Work with an Auspicious Commencement.

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

SOUTH DOURO, Jan. 26.

Rev. Father O'Connell of this place announced to his congregation on last Sunday week, the necessity of taking some steps towards relieving the suffering poor in Ireland. He was waited on by several members of his congregation after Mass, when, after discussing the matter from several standpoints, it was determined to call a meeting of the ratepayers in each of the four wards of the township for the purpose of finding out the expression of the people, with a view to levying a general rate in the whole township. But it appears that this suggestion did not meet with the approbation of the ratepayers in general. As Father O'Connel did not want to make the matter compulsory, he advised that a collection be taken up at the church door on last Sunday, when every person would have an opportunity of giving according to the dictates of his conscience. Accordingly a subscription list was opened headed by the Rev. Father with the gift of $100. Actuated by the zeal of their pastor, the congregation subscribed very generously, the amount subscribed in all was $335, of this amount $224 was cash, and as the collection will be continued on next Sunday it is more than probable that the fund will reach between four and five hundred dollars.

Charlotte St. Church Anniversary

The seventh anniversary services at the Charlotte St. Church was held on Sunday morning and evening, the pastor, Rev. Mr. Starr, conducting the morning services and preaching an eloquent sermon from 2nd Phillipians, 15th verse. In the evening Rev. Dr. Harper held service. On Monday evening the lay celebration was held, on which occasion Mr. Geo. A. Cox presided, the attendance being very full. Mr. James Stevenson read the report of the finance committee, showing that besides the defrayment of current expenses and contributions to mission work, the congregation had reduced the church debt from $3,000 to $2,300. Rev. T. W. Jeffrey delivered his popular lecture "How to rise in the World," after which a collection amounting to $30 was taken up. Rev. Messrs. Starr, Harper and Roberts occupied seats on the platform, the latter pronouncing the benediction at the close of the proceedings. The congregation have much cause to congratulate themselves upon their improved financial condition, and expect by a vigorous effort during the present year, to report the church clear of debt at the next anniversary.

SUDDEN DEATH.—A frightfully sudden death occurred in Port Hope on Sunday evening. For some time past a fourteen year old daughter of Mr. John McFarlane has suffered from a bunion on one of her thumbs. On Sunday night she took tea as usual with the family, and shortly afterwards retired upstairs to bed. Some of the members of the family had gone to church, and a little while after that hour her father heard her moaning as if in great pain. He hurried up stairs at once, and was surprised and alarmed at the condition in which he found her. He at once took her up from the bed in his arms, and as he did so she gave one scream and dropped back dead—a victim of heart disease.

Presbytery of Peterborough.

Peterborough Presbytery met on the 20th inst. Present,—Messrs. Cleland, Boyd, Wardell, Smith, Anderson, Stuart, (Clerk), R. J. Beattie, Esq. Kirkpatrick, Clarke, Cameron, Torrance, McFarlane, Ministers; Messrs. Robertson, Biddel, Johnston, Sanderson, Scott, Carnegie, Mahood, Hamblin, Cameron, Elders. Mr. Hodnett was chosen Moderator for the next six months.

Mr. Bennet submitted the following motion, of which he had given notice at the previous meeting: "That the Presbytery take the necessary steps towards the organization of a Presbytery Fund, to aid in the erection of churches and manses within the bounds." He submitted the following scheme:

I. The Fund shall be raised by collections and subscriptions taken in the congregations within the bounds of the Presbytery, and received from friends of church extension generally, and shall be managed by a committee of the presbytery, appointed annually by the Presbytery.

II. No contribution shall be given from the Fund for any church whose cost shall exceed $2,000; nor for any manse whose cost shall exceed $1,200.

III. For no church shall more than $1,000 be contributed from the Fund; and for no manse shall more than $600 be given.

IV. In no case shall more be given for either church or manse than has been contributed by the people themselves.

V. No grant shall be made from the fund until the plan of building, the estimate of expense and the deed shall have been submitted to the committee, and approved of by it; and no grant shall be paid until at least one-half of the money subscribed—or legal security therefor—shall be in the hands of the Treasurer.

VI. All applicants shall be understood by the fact of their application to engage that if a grant be made to them, no subscriptions shall be solicited outside of the bounds of the congregation, unless leave shall have been obtained from the committee.

Messrs. Bell (convener), Torrance, Beattie, ministers, with Colonel Haultain and Mr. John Carnegie, elders, were appointed a committee to consider the scheme, and report at next meeting.

Colonel Haultain was appointed to preach in Perrytown, Knoxville and Oakhill on Sabbath, and to read to the people at Oakhill the finding of the Presbytery arrived at in the matter reported to them from that station.

The following resolution was adopted regarding the remit sent down from the General Assembly on the question of the establishment of a Presbyterian University of Canada:—

"That in the opinion of the Presbytery, the question of the establishment of an Ecclesiastical University for the purpose of conferring degrees of divinity is one which does not fall within the legitimate province of the Church of Christ, and that in the present circumstances of our Church of Christ, and that in the present circumstances of our Church, its agitation is both inexpedient and impracticable, and calculated to lead to no satisfactory results."

In answer to the prayer of a petition from the people at Blairton, steps were ordered to be taken for the transfer of that station from the jurisdiction of Kingston to that of Peterborough Presbytery. Other matters contained in the petition were referred to the Presbytery's Home Mission Committee.

The Home Mission business of the Presbytery was next taken up and discussed at length. Steps were taken for the payment of the arrears of salary due to the missionaries who had been laboring within the bounds during the summer months.

The next meeting of the Presbytery was appointed to be held in Fort Hope, and in the first Presbyterian Church there on the 23rd March, at 10 o'clock a.m.

Mr. Bell reported regarding trial discourses submitted by students since last meeting of Presbytery.

Upon the remit "Amend the statutes of retired ministers," the Presbytery resolved,—"That the names of ministers who have been permitted by the General Assembly to retire on account of age or infirmity from the active duties of the ministry, and who continue to reside within the bounds of the Presbytery to which they had belonged, be retained on the rolls of their respective Presbyteries."

On Wednesday morning the question of the indebtedness on the Minden manse was considered resulting in the ministers and representative elders residing in Peterborough, Mr. Bell convener, being appointed a committee to take steps to secure the release of the manse from its present incumbrance.

The Presbytery adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock for the purpose of holding the S. S. Conference appointed at the last meeting in Cobourg.

MEETING WITH THE S. S. TEACHERS.

The Peterborough Presbytery met the Sunday School Superintendents and teachers in conference at St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. A. Bell presiding.

After prayer and singing the Rev. A. Bell opened the discussion of the subject, "The Preparation of the Session at Home." Sheriff Hall introduced the subject, "The Relation of the Sunday School to the Session." Rev. E. F. Torrance gave an outline of the subject, "Teacher's Meeting."

At the evening session the subject of "The Teaching of Presbyterian Doctrine and Government in the Sunday School," was introduced by Rev. A. McFarlane. Messrs. Sheriff Hall, R. Meikle, of Norwood, Wm. Tully, J. H. Roper, G. H. Johnston, D. Pentland, Col. Haultain, and the Revs. Bell, Bennett, Torrance and McFarlane, joining in the discussion. Considerable diversity of opinion was manifested, but all agreed, however, that the children should be instructed in the doctrines of the Presbyterian Church either in Sunday School or at home, or both.

The Rev. Mr. Bennett then introduced the subject of "How Parents may help the Sunday School," Col. Haultain and the Rev. Mr. Torrance taking part in the discussion.

The subject, "The Claims of Baptised Children upon the Church," was discussed by Col. Haultain, who was followed by others, after which, and the singing of a hymn, the Benediction was pronounced.

Little Lake Cemetery Company.

On Monday evening the Board of Directors of the Company met in the Council Chamber, Mr. James Wallis in the chair.

Mr. Stevenson, seconded by Mr. Landy, moved that Rev. Mr. Clementi be re-elected President, but that gentleman positively declined the honor, and moved seconded by Mr. Carnegie, that Mayor Landy be elected President, which was carried unanimously.

Mr. Landy having taken the chair, Mr. Stevenson, seconded by Mr. Edwards, moved a resolution, which was carried, expressive of regret at Mr. Clementi's retirement, and acknowledging his past services as President of the Board.

Mr. Clementi returned thanks and pointed out that when he became President there were but $70 in the funds, against which there was a debt of $700 due the Banks. Now they had a credit at the Bank of $640, and that after the erection of the mortuary chapel, and the construction of much valuable permanent improvement.

Mr. Jas. Edwards was re-elected Secretary-Treasurer.

The auditors, Messrs. H. Pearse and J. J. Hall, submitted their report, which was adopted.

It was resolved, in compliance with a suggestion made by Mr. Kingan at the annual meeting, that in future an abstract of the Treasurer's report, audited if practicable, be printed for circulation among the shareholders, one week before the annual meeting in each year.

It was also resolved that in future no charge be made for deeds of lots purchased in the Cemetery.

A suggestion by Mr. James Stratton, at the annual meeting, with regard to getting sufficient fund for the keeping in order of neglected lots, was discussed and approved of. It was thought prudent, however, as a considerable sum would require to be expended this year in fencing, to postpone action upon it till next year.

A requisition with respect to the appointment of a constable, signed by over a hundred persons, many of whom, however, were not shareholders, was referred to a sub-committee to report upon at the next meeting of the Board.

The Board adjourned.

Trent Valley Canal.—The Committee having this enterprise in charge met on Thursday last, when it was decided to bring the matter before Parliament, by moving for a committee to examine into the scheme and report to the House. Some further examination is also to be made by an engineer. It is likely that either Mr. McCarthy or Mr. Hector Cameron will take charge of the scheme during the ensuing session of Parliament.

Parlor Social.—Mrs. D. W. Dumble will give a parlor social at her residence, London and Reid streets, this evening, in aid of the Trust Fund of the George street Methodist Church. A musical entertainment for 15 cents will be charged for that object, and an admirable programme for the evening's enjoyment has been arranged. Mrs. Dumble only hopes that her residence may prove too small to accommodate all the visitors she desires to entertain on the occasion.

The Central Exhibition.—The Cobourg World is a little "off its base" on the subject of the Central Exhibition accounts, and labors to prove that Peterborough was enabled to make a favorable financial statement by having "a small show," and curtailing expenses. We may assure our excellent contem. that in drawing attention to the difference in the results at Peterborough, Lindsay, Port Hope and Cobourg, we had no intention of casting any reflection upon the Cobourg Committee of Management of the Central there. It is poor logic to argue that the alleged smallness of the show have can account for the excess of receipts over expenditure, as such a condition would naturally work the other way). If our friends at Cobourg will "curtail expenses," and cut off dead-head patronage at their next show, they may be able to do as well next time as Peterborough.

Disorderly Conduct.—On Thursday morning the young men, Fred and William Turcott, Cornelius Ryan, John Sponchy, Thomas Tangney, James Burns, Thos. Donovan, Thos. Hickey and Charles Mayhew implicated in the disturbance of the previous Saturday night, occupied a front bench in the police court to answer to the charge of storming the domicile of one Mrs. Storms. The evidence against the defendants was given by one La Duke, Mrs. Storms and a daughter of the latter, and though it was apparent that they belonged to a class which could be dispensed with without much loss to the town, it was equally clear that the provocation of the young men were such as the magistrate could not overlook. Mr. Smith, appeared for the defendants, and on the charge of maliciously injury to property having been altered to one for riotous conduct, put in the plea of guilty on their behalf. The magistrate gave them some serious advice, and fined them $2 each, $2 damages and costs.

E. C. T. E.—A successful effort was made to establish a Tent of the Knights of the Maccabees in this town, by Gt. Sir Kt. Arthur Dunbar, on Monday evening, when the following officers were elected for the term :—Ex Sir Kt Geo Coon—Sir Geo Hutchison ; Sir Kt Com —R J Chowne ; Sir Kt Lt Com—T H McFadden, Record Keeper—Geo H Johnston ; Finance Keeper—R W Thompson ; Prelate—R W McFadden. This organization is one of the most successful of all kindred institutions. It has a good constitution and provides a simple and inexpensive form of government that might be imitated with advantage by other societies. One of its features is the absence of the heavy expenses attached to membership in nearly all other societies. This and the $1,000 paid by the Society to the widow or heirs of a member at his death, are what have caused the rapid growth of the K. O. T. M. Any male between the ages of 18 and 60, who is in sound health and believes in a Supreme Being, is eligible as a member.

Friendship Temple Entertainment.—On Wednesday evening of last week notwithstanding the unfavorable condition of the weather, there was a large attendance at Friendship Lodge Hall, on the occasion of the entertainment given to mark the 32nd anniversary of the Lodge. Rev. Mr. Hodgson, of Cavan, opened the proceedings with prayer. The following was the programme which was carried out by the Misses Johnston, Mr. G. H. Johnston and Mr. James Thompson ; solos by Mr. Templeton Brown, Miss Stratton, Mr. G. H. Johnston, Miss Heather and Herbert Mitchell ; readings by Rev. Mr. Starr, Master Willie Mitchell, the blind boy, A. Clegg and W. Gellett ; recitations by Master Willie Mitchell. The singing was exceptionally good throughout, as was testified by the warm applause which followed each piece, and Mr. Starr's reading was simply inimitable. Willie Mitchell's reading from the colored nabobs was also an interesting feature. At the close of the meeting Mr. Brown led the choir in singing God Save the Queen, which brought to a conclusion one of the most successful and enjoyable entertainments ever held in the Hall.

The General Committee appointed by the late public meeting to take steps to collect relief for the sufferers by the famine in Ireland, met for the organization of the work on Monday evening last, when His Worship the Mayor was appointed Chairman and Treasurer, and Mr. John Garvey, Secretary. The Secretary was instructed to invite the Reeves of the different corporations and townships of the county to organize committees for the same purpose, and to forward the money so collected to the Mayor. The Hall Poor Trust.

A few weeks ago we gave place to a lengthy communication from Mr. John Carnegie setting forth one side of the case, which was then under the consideration of the Chief Justice of the Court of Queen's Bench for decision. The other side of the question may be inferred from the following which we find in reference to the case in the Globe of Saturday last :—

"Some days ago a report was published in these columns of a dispute that had arisen in Peterborough concerning the trusteeship of the William Hall Protestant Poor Trust Fund, by which created the trust directed that four out of the eight trustees of the fund should be chosen from the Presbyterian body, two from each church or congregation in connection with the Church of St. Andrew's Church some time ago, and a demand was made on the Secretary of the Trust, to notify the church that a vacancy had occurred, and to appoint a new trustee. Mr. Fairbairn still claimed to control the office, and a motion was made in the Queen's Bench for a mandamus to compel the Secretary to declare the position vacant. The matter was argued, and Chief Justice Wilson gave his judgment yesterday morning, refusing the mandamus and holding that no vacancy had yet occurred. He says that as the document chiefly upon the ground that the Court considers that no absolutely declare that two trustees should be chosen from each of the Presbyterian churches, as the Act of incorporation was silent upon the matter. Mr. Fairbairn, being still a member of the Presbyterian body, he was not therefore disqualified."

After Many Days.

The Port Hope Times of Thursday last gives a sketch of the career of one John Brown, formerly of Millbrook, and who will be remembered by many in Peterborough. The person referred to, eighteen or twenty years ago lived at Millbrook, where he was married, and for some years kept the village hotel, and while a young man married a young woman whose family lived in Peterborough, by whom he had four children. A few years after his marriage he greatly deserted his family. He found work in Rochester, where the Times says he maintained a mistress, by whom subsequently he went further west. The concluding portion of his career is thus given in the Times :—

"The next and closing page of his life is a sad and tragic one. Another arrest had cost her spells upon him, and they lived together, although she too was only a mistress. This was in Norfolk, Va., where they in turn resided until about a short weeks ago. He was earning a large salary as conductor on the North Alabama Railway, and as he became prosperous all these years, he kept an establishment of more than ordinary dimensions and style for one who was simply a concubine. One day about six weeks ago his mangled bleeding body was carried home, still in death. In the discharge of his duty he had met with an accident which had prematurely closed his erring life. The cars had run over him.

"The Times' informant of these facts, who has peculiarly good facilities for knowing all about the matter, thinks that Mrs. Brown, who is thought to live in Peterborough or Millbrook, should at once take steps to secure the remnant of his fortune, which is considerable. The woman spoken of above has seized what he possessed, but as she was not his wife she has no legal right to the valuable effects. We trust, therefore, that the much-wronged woman or her children will see this sketch, and that they will be successful in securing what is undoubtedly their's by right. They have suffered enough already, and we trust that now, although the death of the husband and father will have a saddening effect, they will reap the joy which cometh after long waiting.

"If Mrs. Brown, or any of the children of the late John Brown, wish for any further information or particulars, they will be cheerfully given by applying at this office, or by addressing communications to Box 320, Port Hope."

The wife referred to as "Mrs. Brown" or the new Mr. Kemp, of Ashburnham, who died some seven years ago, and whose family, about five years ago, moved to East Saginaw, Michigan, where we believe they now reside. The man John Brown, was a son, and Samuel Brown, and lived some fifteen years ago in Ashburnham. About that time he left to better his fortunes in the United States, and had never been heard of since, till the above intelligence reached here.

A Word to Butter Farmers.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER :

SIR.—Farmers should always build themselves an ice house and lay in a stock of ice, by taking a space in any of their sheds or stables they can easily stow away enough to do them a year. Take four posts ten inches through and plank them nine feet apart, board them on each side, and fill the space with saw dust. Dig out the bottom one foot, remove a few inches to carry off the drainage, put six or eight inches of saw dust in the bottom, and your ice 16 inches square, this will make a tier containing 36 pieces, say the ice is 12 inches in thickness, by a half high, and contain 120 pieces ; take out a tier, and you have 84 remaining. This will require ten loads of ice at 12 pieces to a load, commencing on the sleigh, three counts a piece—24 in. Now you can get a farmer has five carry you ten miles for the ice, and you can get it for 75 cents a load, he can be glad to get better for five cents a pound cash for his ice, and $1 or $2 off per cwt more than his neighbor who does not use it. During the summer months, when you take the ice out, be careful and cover up the top of the ice in your butter cellar, and you will always have enough to freeze any time you want it, and you will have your butter cool in the heat, such as cooling the butter, a big lump of grease.

The motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. BURNHAM in assuming the the Warden's chair, said the position was one by no means unfamiliar to him, having been favored on several former occasions with similar marks of their confidence. He thanked them for the honor conferred upon him, for it was an honor to fill the chair, but he did not think it was quite fair to have elected him on this occasion as there were other men at the Board who had claims upon the position, who were quite competent to fill it. However, as he had been elected, he would endeavor to perform his duties to the best of his ability.

The minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

The Committee rose and reported, and on motion of Mr. MALONEY, seconded by Mr. COLLINS, the By-Law was read a third time and passed.

The WARDEN referred to the death of a former member of the the Council, the late James Miller, and suggested that action should be taken to draft a resolution of regret and condolence.

TOWN COUNCIL.

The Council met on Monday evening. His Worship the Mayor in the chair. Present, Councillors Smith, Paterson, Dunsford, Yelland, Doupe, Toole, Deane, Menzies, Taylor, Cahill and McNaughton.

The minutes of last meeting were read and on motion adopted.

A letter was read from the Auditors appointed at the last meeting, declining to act, owing to the immense amount of labor involved in the extra work to be done this year, but offering to perform the ordinary audit for the sum mentioned in the By-law.

The Mayor said the effect of this was that the Auditors would do all the work necessary for the ordinary audit, but would not undertake the debenture account.

Mr. Dunsford suggested, that to save the town's expense the audit of the debenture account be taken up by a special committee.

Mr. Toole moved, seconded by Mr. Dunsford, that the communication be referred to the Finance Committee.

A communication from Mr. Corbray, Secy-Treas. of the Separate School Board was received.

A communication from Mr. Sawers, resigning his position as Councillor.

Mr. Deane wanted to know if there was any chance for the exposure of a new election.

Mr. Toole thought it was not proper to expect such a thing.

Mr. Sawers was heard, and said he was willing to pay the expenses of a new election if Mr. Mills was.

The statement of the Treasurer for December was received and referred to the Finance Committee.

Accounts from Scott and Edwards for $32.55, and Henry Best, were referred to the Finance Committee.

A communication from Wm. Spenceley, asking aid to be sent to the hospital at Toronto, was referred to the Finance Committee.

A communication asking assistance from Mrs. LeSueur, was referred to the Charity Committee.

The Mayor reported on a dispute between the town and county concerning cedars belonging to the latter used by the former, recommending that the matter be referred to Mr. John Carnegie for arbitration, which suggestion was adopted.

On motion of Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. McNaughton, Mr. Sawers' resignation was accepted and the Clerk given the necessary orders for a new election.

Mr. Toole, from the Committee of Appointments, presented the report of that committee, recommending the employment as Assessors at a salary of $75 each, of Messrs. R. Rowe, W. Helm, C. McGrath and Jos. Lundy.

Mr. Toole, seconded by Mr. McNaughton, moved the adoption of the report.

Mr. Deane, seconded by Mr. Menzies, moved that it be referred back to the committee till the vacancy in No. 4 Ward be filled.

Mr. Cahill thought the fact of a vacancy in the Council should not delay business.

Mr. Menzies thought in justice to the Ward the appointment ought not to be forced at present while that Ward was unrepresented. He had a letter from two parties offering to do the work for $200 a piece. He desired to go in for economy.

Mr. Toole thought that Assessors should be men of experience, and that the Assessors who had already performed the work satisfactorily should be retained.

Mr. Yelland thought the town had no occasion for four Assessors. He considered that two men assessing the whole town were more likely to make a fair assessment.

Mr. Paterson said there was a suggestion by which it appeared, the Council could save $100. If that could be done the Council should consider the matter. Nothing would be lost by delaying the appointment.

On motion of Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. McNaughton, the Finance Committee's report recommending the payment of the quarter's gas bill was adopted.

The Mayor said the bill respecting the Toronto and Ottawa Railway had been received by the Clerk, and could be examined by the Council. He did not consider that the proposed bill affected the interest of the town injuriously.

Mr. Paterson said the bill should be carefully looked into, to see that the interests of the town were protected, and moved, seconded by Mr. Deane, that it be referred to the Finance Committee with power to consult Mr. Dennistoun.—Carried.

Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. McNaughton moved that the By-law for the appointment of Assessors, be read a first time.

Mr. Deane, seconded by Mr. Menzies, moved that it be referred back to the Committee on Appointments.

The amendment was lost, only Messrs. Deane, Yelland and Menzies voting for it.

Mr. Patterson suggested that if the old Assessors would take a less sum than formerly paid, they should be given the first consideration.

Mr. Deane said great dissatisfaction existed with the assessment, and protested against the matter being disposed of until the 4th Ward was represented.

Mr. Smith did not see that anything was to be gained by delaying. He moved the Council go into committee, which was done on a division. Mr. Paterson in the chair.

Mr. Dunsford expressed his approval of Mr. Yelland's proposition, that the Assessors should be reduced in number, as we were more likely to get an equitable assessment with two than four assessors. He moved, seconded by Mr. Deane, that there be but two Assessors appointed.

YEAS—Landy, Dunsford, Yelland, Dougie, Deane and Menzies—6.

NAYS—Cahill, Taylor, Smith, McNaughton and Toole—5.

A number of nominations were made, when Mr. Lundy suggested that the report be referred back to the Committee on the understanding that they only recommend the appointment of two Assessors.

Mr. Toole thought this proposition was not treating the Committee respectfully.

Mr. Smith moved that the appointments be made singly. Carried.

Mr. Smith moved, seconded by Mr. Toole, that Mr. McGrath be appointed an Assessor.

Mr. Deane moved that Mr. Aldridge be appointed, and that the salary be fixed at $67.50. The motion was lost, only Messrs. Lundy, Toole, Deane and Menzies voting yes. Mr. McGrath's appointment was carried by the same vote.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Dunsford, that Mr. Joe, Lundy be appointed assessor.

Mr. Douglas moved, seconded by Mr. Smith that Mr. Rowe be appointed.

Mr. McNaughton spoke, saying that Mr. Rowe was one of the worst Assessors in the world, and instanced cases where he had understated his own property. He concluded an eloquent speech amid general applause.

Mr. Deane moved the appointment of Mr. Hogan, but was unable to find a seconder.

The motion of Mr. Douglas was then put, the Mayor declining to vote. The motion was lost and the motion appointing Mr. Lundy was carried.

The salary was fixed at $200—$100 cash—and Tax Bylaw put through its several stages and passed.

Mr. Cahill moved that the Road and Bridge Committee be empowered to enter into contract for stone as advertised.

Mr. Dunsford objected. It was a matter concerning the payment of money, and should go to the Finance Committee. He argued that it would be cheaper and better to use gravel than to bring in stone.

Mr. Paterson said his principal object was to provide work for a great many poor men who were out of employment and unable to pay their taxes.

Mr. Cahill said George street was in great need of repairs, and delay would only be a loss to the town.

The Mayor said Mr. Dunsford should have pressed his objection when the matter was up before. The resolution was passed.

Mr. Rankin was heard in reference to a portion of the Dickson estate which, by an error in the [illegible] had their taxes twice in one year. He based his application, however, on the fact that the property had been burned, and that it was the custom to remit the taxes in such cases. He was requested to hand in a formal communication, and the matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

On motion of Mr. Smith the Council then adjourned for two weeks.

"Our girls" have resorted to the muscular exercise of carrying of late, and there is a studied club hanging in the hall for the benefit of any young man who may have the temerity to act on the supposition that they are not duly "sophisticated."

ASSEMBLY.

Legislature—First Session

[From our special correspondent.]

TORONTO, Monday, Jan. 19.

A large number of petitions were presented and then the House read a first time.

In answer to Mr. Awrey, Hon. Mr. Mowat said it was not the intention of the Government to change the mode of mailing the ballots to electors. The Government did not think it prudent to be changing the election law from year to year.

A motion by Mr. Metcalfe for a return showing the cost of grand juries for 1877 and 1878 was carried.

A motion by Mr. Young was carried for a return of correspondence between the Provincial and Dominion Governments respecting the North-West boundary. He trusted the Attorney-General would fully understand that men of both parties would support him in any measure he might adopt which would secure the rights of the Province.

Mr. Harcourt's motion for a return showing the receipts of County Judges for Surrogate fees in 1877 and 1878 was carried.

Hon. Mr. Mowat's Bill to extend the powers of Co-operative Associations, as to owning property and transacting business, was read a second time.

Hon. Mr. Mowat moved the second reading of a Bill to make further provisions respecting Coroners' Inquests; this subject being to prevent the holding of inquests, where there was no doubt as to the cause of death being natural or accidental, by compelling Coroners to make affidavit. The Bill was read a second time and the House adjourned.

TUESDAY, Jan. 20.

After routine the House went into Committee on the Co-operative Bill, which was reported without amendments.

Hon. Mr. Mowat then moved the second reading of the Bill for the fusion of the Courts, the details of which were given in his explanations last week.

Mr. Meredith spoke in favor of dropping the names Court of Chancery, etc., but he approved of the Bill. Messrs. Creighton, Miller and Parton urged delay in dispensing of the Bill, which was read a second time, on the understanding that some time would elapse before it was taken up in Committee.

Mr. Cook's Bill to provide for the safety of persons walking across railway yards or tracks, was read a second time and referred to Committee.

Mr. Hay, in response to a question, elicited the information that the Government had no intention to pay to the municipalities interested the amount due to them from the Land Improvement Fund until a settlement was effected between the Ontario and the Dominion Government, which would probably be before next session.

At a later stage of the proceedings he moved for the correspondence on the subject, which was ordered to be brought down. The money in question was realized from the sale of School and Crown Lands before Confederation, and it would have been paid long ago to the municipalities but for the disputes over the award of the arbitrators between Ontario and Quebec.

After some remarks from Messrs. Sinclair and Lander, the Treasurer explained that the delay in securing a settlement was due to political changes at Ottawa and Quebec, and that nothing could now be done till after the close of the approaching session of the Dominion Parliament.

To facilitate discussion of the subject when the appropriation comes up, Mr. Miller moved for a return of the expenditure on Colonization Roads for 1878 and 1879.

Mr. Gibson (Huron) moved for and obtained an order for a return of the receipts and expenditure of the Agriculture and Arts Association. In 1878 only $14,000 out of $26,000 had been expended in prizes, and he thought the use to which the other $12,000 had been put should be made known. He referred to the fact that at almost no expense to the Province the large local fairs were being the work formerly done by the Provincial Exhibition.

After some further questions of little moment had been replied to, Hon. Mr. Pardee, in reply to Mr. Miller, stated that some new townships would probably be thrown open for free grant settlement after the close of the present session.

The House then adjourned.

WEDNESDAY, Jan. 21.

After routine, Hon. Mr. Mowat moved the third reading of the Co-operative Bill, which was passed with cheers, being the first bill of the session carried through all its stages.

Dr. Baxter's motion for a return showing the number and price of authorized school text-books was passed.

Mr. Creighton moved the second reading of his Bill to amend the License Act so as to require the License Commissioners by the end of June in each year to furnish the Council of each municipality with a printed statement in detail of the receipts and expenditure on account of the license fund.

Mr. Hardy explained that steps had been taken by the Government to have this information supplied to the municipalities, and as this rendered the measure unnecessary, he thought the mover should withdraw it. This, Mr. Creighton refused to do, but Mr. Waters, who had a Bill of a similar import, stated his willingness to withdraw his after the Provincial Secretary's explanation and announcement.

After an irregular discussion Mr. Creighton's Bill was voted down by 50 to 26, Mr. Scott, who was absent through illness, pairing with Mr. Striker.

The House then adjourned.

THURSDAY, Jan. 22.

After routine a lively discussion sprang up in Committee on the Attorney-General's Bill to provide checks against [illegible] unnecessary inquests and post-mortem examinations. As might be expected, the medical members figured prominently, and three of them, Dr. Robertson, Dr. Robinson, and Dr. Cascaden, made excellent maiden speeches. Strong exceptions were taken to one or two clauses of the Bill, and Mr. Mowat agreed to modify it in some respects to meet the views urged by the objectors.

Mr. Mowat's Bill respecting supplementary drainage by-laws, and Mr. Sheraton's respecting mortgage sales of personal property, were read a second time.

Mr. Robinson's Bill respecting ditches and watercourses, and Mr. Waters' respecting provision for the destitute and insane, were allowed to stand over with a view to their being referred to a special Committee to be appointed on municipal Bills.

Mr. Waters withdrew his Bill requiring license commissioners to make certain returns to municipal Councils, in consideration of the announcement of the Provincial Secretary that the information would be given by the Government.

The Premier announced that the Provincial Treasurer expected to make his financial statement on Tuesday next.

The House then adjourned.

FRIDAY, Jan. 23.

A large number of petitions were presented, among them one by Mr. Boulter from the Belleville and North Hastings Railway Company, praying for its committee words as a subsidization road.

The Private Bills Committee's report in favor of extending the time for completion of Private Bill's to the 30th, post-adjourned.

A number of Bills received a first reading, among them one to incorporate the Victoria Riverdale Railway Company, by Mr. Peck; by the same gentleman, respecting the Midland Railway, and by Mr. Hay, to incorporate the Ontario Canal Carrying Company.

Owners of Horses Rejoicing.

And why not? And who knows but what their horses are rejoicing as well; who can prove the contrary? But their owners rejoice because of the astonishing and almost miraculous effects on their horses of "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Elixir Remedy." Some were lean and poor, having no appetite, others would devour their feed ravenously, yet derive no benefit from it, some were hide-bound, with rough and shaggy hair; others had severe colds and coughs, many had the heaves and other complaints peculiar to horses; on all it operated like a charm, and digestive organs corrected, the skin restored, and a sleek and shining appearance given to the coat all without any danger to, or preventing the horse being used.—Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Public Speakers and Singers.

Consumption, so prevalent and so fatal, is dreaded as the great scourge of our race; and yet, in the formative stages, all pulmonary complaints may be readily controlled by using "Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers." They will relieve the worst cough in a few minutes, and have a most beneficial influence on the bronchial and pulmonary organs; but they must be used in time. Public speakers and singers will also derive great benefit by using them. Sold by all druggists and country dealers. Price 25 cents per box.

PETITT'S EYE-SALVE.

An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Films, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause.

The American Eye-Salve is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflamation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optive nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also, for all portions where vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have been long threatened with a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe and effectual remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its applications, being used externally, and, of course, avoiding the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of caustic minerals and eye-washes. Ringworm and old Chronic Sores, of scrofulous origin, or requiring from whatever cause, yield to the American Eye-Salve. IT IS USED SUCCESSFULLY FOR PILES. Its soothing effect is immediate, and a permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. Petitt's American Eye-Salve" while making new and improved machinery for making a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper, Circulars, advertisements, etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

What they say of it? A few facts for the People.

There are but few preparations of medicines which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Read the following and be convinced:—Thomas Robinson, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writes, 'I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and since then have had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all.'——J. H. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Shefford, P. Q., writes:—'I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and think it equally as good for horse as for man.'——A. Maybee, Marshaltz, Wentworth, writes:—'I have sold many hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, one of the best medicines they have ever used; it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc., and is worthy of the great reputation it has obtained.'——Joseph Rouse, Township Raleigh, writes, 'I was persuaded to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a public benefit.'

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. See that the signature of E. D. Thomas is on the wrapper, and the name of the firm, Thos. A. Lyman & Co., on the bottle, and 25cts. no other. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cents. MANUFACTURED BY THOS. A. LYMAN, Chemist, Cor. MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Sor Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

Sor This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

CATARRH.

Constitutional Catarrh Remedy Cures Catarrh.

T. J. B. HARDING, Esq., BROCKVILLE, ONT.

DEAR SIR.—It is now two years since your "Constitutional Catarrh Remedy" was introduced to me. I have waited this long to see if the cure would remain permanent before doing this, my duty, to you, or at first the happy effects caused to me (it is) for need to be true.

I was afflicted in my head for years before I commenced to try to Church. In reading it was recommended to me, and after I saw [illegible] I was determined to make a trial. The second "dose" from the head left me entirely. The sores commenced to heal, and a natural appearance came from bone long. I could feel the [illegible] and was enabled to [illegible] the first time for years. Your Agent came to [illegible] and I was induced to purchase a second bottle, which I did, and am happy to say, completed the cure. I have since recommended your Catarrh Remedy to many persons afflicted with Catarrh, and in every instance it has given perfect satisfaction. I am, Dear Sir, yours truly, [illegible]

Goods Sold Direct to the People at Wholesale Price. The Only Business in Canada Conducted on the Same Principle. Over $20,000 worth of Boots & Shoes so Supplied Last Year.

The great loss annually sustained by selling to Dealers, first led to our establishing of Branch Stores, where we could supply direct to the people for Cash all the goods we could manufacture, thus giving to the people the goods less the dealer's profit, and saving to ourselves the annual loss. We were the more forcibly impressed into this step from the fact that cheap Eastern-made shoddy goods were being palmed off as our goods. We now sell our own goods, warrant what we sell, use no shoddy or inferior material of any kind, and can and do supply goods of the best quality 25 per cent. less than they can be bought elsewhere.

Everything Marked in Plain Figures. Only One Price.

CONFEDERATION LIFE ASSOCIATION.

EXAMPLES OF PROFITS.

No. of Policy.	Kind of Insurance.	Sum Assured.	Annual Premium.	For 1878. Cash	For 1878. Bonus	For 1877. Cash	For 1877. Bonus
1	Life	$10,000	$230.80	$74.60	$217.60	$66.60	$252.60
7	10 Payment Life.	5,000	240.45	112.10	207.00	130.00	223.00

It will be observed that these results are not only very handsome, but are also Equitable. If this Association distributed the Profits on the ordinary PERCENTAGE PLAN, allowing a bonus of 2½ per cent., payable at death, then the profits would have been as follows:—

Policy No. 1. For 1877. Cash.....$67.83. Bonus.....$252.60.
" " 7. " ..... 66.66. " ..... 125.00.

It will at once be seen that such a system as this last cannot commend itself to persons who will take time to consider it, as it not only does injustice to persons paying by a limited number of Premiums, but it gives only the same profits after a person has paid a score of Premiums.

The above profit-results, which place the Confederation Life in the van of Life Companies in Canada are attained by

Not paying more for business than it is worth. Adopting a high Standard of Valuation from the outset. Giving 90 per cent. of the profits to Policy-holders.

The exercise of care and economy in all branches of the business. And employing a Mode of Division, just in its results, giving to each in the proportion in which each has contributed to profits

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, FEB. 5, 1880.

TORONTO AND OTTAWA RAILWAY.

The County Council at its session last week, passed a new By-law for submission to the ratepayers of the County of Peterborough, respecting the bonus granted to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway enterprise. The effect of the new By-law, which will be found in another column, is to dispense with the clause in the old By-law which made it requisite for the Company to raise $200,000 in bonuses, and to make some minor amendments rather in favor of the County than otherwise, with the object of making the bonuses available for immediate use by the Company, on the construction of the line being proceeded with. The Council have acted wisely in taking this course, and we have no doubt their action will be heartily endorsed by the ratepayers in the several municipalities, whose best interests are involved in this undertaking. They have only to bear in mind that when once this road is completed to Ottawa, and a direct route for freight and passenger traffic to Montreal opened up from this point independent of the Grand Trunk monopoly, we will have such a rate of freights established as will enable buyers to pay so much more for grain and produce here as will prove a small income for every producer in the County, and at the same time give their money a greater purchasing value, by the reduced prices the merchant will be enabled to ask for his importation, by the same reason. Now that the undertaking has reached that favorable stage when it only lays with the Town and County of Peterborough to ensure immediate commencement of the work of construction, there should be no hesitation in giving the promoters our hearty co operation in every reasonable demand that will tend to facilitate its progress, and hasten the day that will make Peterborough the mart of the Midland district of Ontario. The Company have had a hard struggle against the unscrupulous opposition of the powerful Grand Trunk monopoly, which is interested in killing off this project that it may continue to be able to rob the farmers of this section of their legitimate profits by extortionate freight charges in the movement of grain; but perseverance and industry have at last brought the scheme into such a shape that it only now remains for the people who originated the enterprise, and launched it forth to receive, as it has, unanimous support all along the line between here and Ottawa, to place the key-stone of success in place by enabling the Directors to go on with the work of construction. That the ratepayers of the Town and County will do so, and do so with a hearty unanimity, we make not the slightest doubt.

THE CONTRACTORS' REIGN AT OTTAWA.

One of the first steps taken by Mr. Mackenzie on his accession to office at Ottawa, was to reform the administration of the public works of the Dominion, and to devise a systematic method to prevent the jobbery which had for years made Ottawa the contractors' paradise. Stringent measures were adopted to put an end to the practice of bogus tendering, which had resulted in so much loss to the country, and involved the Public Works Department in endless and costless litigation, in the Intercolonial Railway contracts, and other works carried on under Mr. Langevin's rule. This he accomplished so successfully that in a few months the contractor's agents, brokers, and stool-pigeons, who used to linger about the public buildings like turkey-buzzards in search of corruption, became as scarce as Reformers are now in the Dominion Civil Service. He compelled each tenderer to deposit with his tender a certified check, or cash, to a certain amount, as a guarantee of its bona fides, which was forfeitable in case of a refusal to accept the contract if awarded or in case of any kind of crookedness being developed, and he caused successful tenderers to deposit with the Government a percentage of the gross amount as security for proper fulfilment of contract, and to protect workingmen who were too often defrauded by unscrupulous contractors. But sous change tout cela. Mr. Langevin and Dr. Tupper found these safeguards in the way of their friends, and they were cast aside, the result being a recurrence of the old condition of affairs, aggravated by the increased rapacity created by five years of exclusion from the public crib. The libel suit of Mr. Boyle, of the Irish Canadian, against the Toronto Globe tried last week and decided in favor of the Globe, gives a fair insight into the manner in which the contract-brokers et hoc genus, play docks and drakes with the people's money. The Globe charged that Mr. Boyle had been induced to withdraw his tender for public printing so that a higher tender could step in, by a pecuniary consideration; hence Mr. Boyles action. The evidence showed that the successful tenderers, McLean & Rogers, had paid money, for Mr. Boyles' benefit, to a party who secured Mr. Boyle's withdrawal, but it appeared that Mr. Boyle never received it, the rascal who was engaged to do the dirty work taking advantage of the necessary privacy of an action which would not bear the light of day, to pocket the plunder himself. A short extract from the evidence will show the tenor of the whole of it:

E. J. Cheshon, who admitted being a contractor's broker, deposed that at an interview between Cotton, Boyle and himself, Boyle had first declined to sell out, and then added he would leave the matter in the hands of Cotton and witness.

Q.—How much did you pay for Mr. Boyle's tender? A.—One cheque of $700, and $8,300 in five notes of $600 each,—that is $8,000.

Q.—Did you imagine, from what took place, that you were authorized to represent Mr. Boyle from that time? A.—I did not. I represented Mr. Rogers.

Mr. J. C. Rogers deposed to the cheque being made out and given for the withdrawal of Boyle's contract. The cheques were made out payable to Charlton.

Q.—Have you given any cheques, notes, or other negotiable papers for the withdrawal of other tenders? A.—I have.

Q.—What did you give Mackintosh? A.—Well, that was a regular business transaction. It was not of the same order as this.

Q.—Mackintosh's was the lowest tender I believe. He sent in a letter of withdrawal? A.—Yes, it was necessary that he should.

Mr. Bethune—Oh, yes, of course. (Laughter.)

Q.—What consideration did he get? A.—He got $10,000 worth of bonds. That was after the matter was settled by the House.

Q.—There was some negotiations before he sent the letter of withdrawal, as, of course, you were not going to pay him so heavily unless you could get the contract. How much was he to get? A.—$12,000 altogether.

Q.—In one lump, or in time? A.—In time.

Q.—How much a year? A.—I think notes were given him for $2,000 a year.

Q.—How much of that have you already paid? A.—I think it is $4,000.

Q.—Did you pay Hope anything? A.—No.

Q.—Who did? A.—Charlton negotiated that.

Q.—Boyce & Co. were got out of the way? A.—I don't know anything about that except from hearsay.

In further evidence it came out that part of the Boyle negotiation was conducted on a Sunday.

Michael Starrs, called in rebuttal, denied he made anything out of the Boyle contract; but Cotton made $8,000.

James Cotton gave an account of how he got the letter of withdrawal from Mr. Boyle; "how he never promised to pay any of the $8,000 he got cheques for to Mr. Boyle, and how the latter had never asked him for any of it.

Q.—Why didn't you tell Mr. Roger, when you handed him that letter, that you were not going to pay Mr. Boyle? A.—If they were getting the contract it did not matter to whom they gave the money. (Laughter.) Mr. Charlton said to me that they would give $3,000—$500 in cash and five notes of $500 each.

Chas. H. Mackintosh deposed that he had put in a tender for the printing, after an interview with Mr. Roger; that his application was made up by that gentleman; and that it was an understood thing, if all other things went well, his tender was to be assumed by McLean, Roger & Co., and he was to have an interest. He would not deny he had got $12,000 to give up his contract.

The Judge commenting on the evidence of these gentlemen said:—"A more disgraceful and discreditable transaction he never knew than this—the shameless way in which the witnesses came into the box—two of them especially. one of them stating that he considered that he did not think there was anything wrong in it, and the other admitting that he was a contractor's broker. He had never seen anything of a more shameless character."

So grossly scandalous is this transaction that the Mail and our contemporary the Review do not attempt to defend it, though they do seek to screen the Government from blame in connection with it. The fact is, that Mr. Mackintosh is a favorite hanger-on of the Ministry, and publisher of their Ottawa organ the Citizen. The interest he holds in that journal is represented by a mortgage of $14,000 to Hon. J. H. Pope, Minister of Agriculture, so that it is not difficult to draw the inference. Cotton and Charlton, were well known to the public as insolvent contractors, with a very bad record in the Public Works Department, while the firm of Boyce & Co., only existed on the paper on which their contract was written. Of these circumstances the Government were well aware, and it was their duty while this buying and selling of the public interests was going on, to have withdrawn the contract and put it up for a second competition. We say selling of the public interests, because every dollar paid in these corrupt transactions, has to come out of the public treasury. We understand that the whole subject will be fully ventilated at the next session of Parliament, and it is not unlikely that a measure will be introduced from the Liberal side of the House, to provide a legal penalty for the punishment of such corrupt conspiracies to defraud the public in the future. The Globe has done the country good service by bringing about this expose and placing it on record under sworn testimony, and the verdict of the twelve good men and true, will fairly represent the public judgement upon the profligacy which now reigns at Ottawa, when the people again have the opportunity of pronouncing upon it.

The Temperance Cause.

County Lodge I.O.G.T.—Annual Meeting—Election of Officers, Etc.

The annual meeting of Peterborough County Lodge I.O.G.T., was opened on Thursday afternoon in the Orange Hall here. The following lodges were represented:—Friendship, No. 146; Peterborough, No. 340; Carnwell, No. 411, all of Peterborough; Nassau, Douro, Union Lodge, No. 51; Selwyn Lodge, Selwyn; Balsam Grove Lodge, Balsam Grove. Henderson Nesbitt, of Peterborough Lodge, W. County Templar, occupied the chair, Mrs. Glass, of Carnwell Lodge, acting as W. Vice Templar; Rev. J. Shaw, Grand W. Chief Templar of Ontario, Chaplain; Mr. Joseph Paul, Secretary; Theodore Braden, Marshall; Miss Morris, Inside Guard; and D. Pentland, Past Chief Templar.

The minutes of the last County Temple were read and approved, after which the reports of the different lodges were read, showing gratifying progress in work and membership.

The Grand Templar, Rev. Mr. Shaw, then addressed the Lodge, urging that individual members of the order should exert more active efforts to promote the cause of temperance, instead of leaving it entirely in the hands of paid lecturers. He congratulated the County Lodge upon the favorable condition of the subordinate lodges as shown in the report.

Mr. D. Pentland suggested that the Council should be asked to exempt the town lodges from taxation, as he thought that an organization carrying on a purely philanthropic work in the interest of the community ought not to be hampered in any manner.

The election of officers followed with the following result: H. Nesbitt, of Peterborough Lodge, W.C.T.; Miss Mollie Reid of Nassau Lodge, W. V. T.; Joseph Paul, of Union Lodge, W. S.; W. Graham, of Union Lodge, W.T.; John Campbell of Nassau Lodge, W.C.; Robt. Brayden, of Selwyn Lodge, W.M.; Miss Mary Bell, of Selwyn Lodge, W. D. M.; Miss Mary Bennett of Balsam Grove, W.I.G.; T. Brown, of Peterborough Lodge, W. O. G.; Mrs. J. Mowry, of Peterborough Lodge, R. H. S.; Miss Douglass, of Carswell Lodge, L. H. S.

A resolution was carried that when the County Lodge adjourned it should be to meet on the third Thursday in June at Nassau Lodge.

The newly elected officers were then installed in due form by the G. W. C. T., assisted by Mr. A. Young of Union Lodge, as Grand Marshal.

The question of submitting the Scott Act was discussed, but no conclusion was arrived at, and the lodge adjourned with the usual ceremonies.

ADDRESS BY MR. SHAW.

On Thursday evening a meeting was addressed in Friendship Hall, by Rev. Mr. Shaw, G. W. C. T. The attendance was fair, but not as large as would have been the case but for the severity of the weather. Mr. James Stratton occupied the chair, and introduced the Rev. lecturer in a few appropriate remarks. Mr. Shaw complimented the town and county upon the stand taken in the cause of temperance and the success which had attended the good work here as compared with other counties, and expressed his pleasure with the reports of the various lodges. He dwelt strongly upon the work of temperance as essentially connected with that of the Gospel, and its efficacy as a means for preparing the mind for the favorable reception of Christian principles. He thought it important that the Temperance cause should have to a greater extent the sympathy and support of the churches. He urged on them all renewed and unremitting exertion in the cause.

Mr. D. Pentland, seconded by Mr. Campbell of Nassau, moved a vote of thanks to the lecturer for his able and interesting address, which was heartily carried and suitably acknowledged.

On motion of Mr. Geo. Chamberlain, a vote of thanks to the Chairman, Mr. Stratton, was carried, and the meeting was dismissed with the benediction by Rev. Mr. Shaw.

FRIENDSHIP LODGE.

On Wednesday evening of last week this lodge met at their hall on George St., and elected the following officers: R. W. Kelso, W. C. T.; Miss Charlotte McNeil, W. V. T; Geo. Stevenson, W. Secretary; Miss. A. Lamsdon, Financial Secretary; D. Pentland, Treasurer; Mrs. G. G. Owens, Chaplain; Robt. Hamilton, W. M.; Mrs J. Baller, W.I.W.; Cole Barrett, W.O.G.

The following were elected representatives to the County Lodge:—Messrs. Jas. Stratton, D. Pentland, W. A. Kelsey, Mrs. M. A. Heather, Mrs. S. G. Green, and Miss M. A. Duncan.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Dominion Parliament will assemble for the despatch of business on Thursday next the 12th inst.

The election in West Hastings, necessitated by the corrupt acts of Mr. Robertson in the election of 1879, terminated on Friday last by the re-election of Mr. Robertson by a majority of 149 votes. In June last Mr. Robertson's majority was 236, so that his reduced majority now is very significant of a decided change for the better in the political temperament of the riding.

The Princess Louise, wife of His Excellency the Governor General, arrived at Halifax on her return to Canada from a visit to her august mamma, on Monday last. The Princess was accompanied by the Hon. Lady Pelly, Hon. Mrs. Langhan, and Col. McNeil, Equery-in-Waiting to the Queen. Captains Chater and Collins were in attendance on her Royal Highness.

The Belleville Chronicle of Tuesday says:—The By-law to extend the time for the completion of the Grand Junction Railway, and providing for the paying over of $35,000 in debentures, was seen "where the woodbine twineth" last night. The time for the completion of the road as specified in the By-law introduced by Ald. Holden, and passed by the old Council, remains in force, but the contractors refuse to accept its terms.

The Globe is quite as much astray in sympathising with McLean, Roger and Co., as the Ottawa Free Press is in condoning the disreputable transaction in which Mayor Mackintosh cut such a sorry part. The fact is, the whole printing job was a conspiracy to swindle the public treasury, in which McLean, Roger and Mackintosh appeared as principals, and Cotton, Chaglon and the rest as instruments. The Government will do less than their duty if they do not take steps to have the contract annulled.

Referring to the sharp trick attempted by Mr. Griffin of the Dominion Watchman, in seeking to fasten a pledge to his insane system of irredeemable currency upon the citizens of Peterborough, the Review says: "We are quite ready, as the Examiner anticipates, to agree with it that the vote of approval of Mr. Griffin, when he lectured here on the National Currency, would not have been passed if it had been thought that the resolution would have been used as evidence that the citizens of Peterborough endorsed the "irredeemable currency." Indeed, in commenting on the resolution at the time, we protested against its being considered as a verdict of the people of the town in favor of irredeemable paper."

We learn with pleasure that Mr. Robt. Romaine, formerly of the Peterborough Review, has been appointed to the position of Stationery Clerk of the House of Commons Service, in the place of the late James Sloane. Mr. Romaine is not only entitled to this recognition of long and active political service at the hands of his party, but he is peculiarly fitted by ability and experience for the duties which have been assigned him. Perhaps the Government could have made no choice that would have given more general satisfaction, especially to people of both sides of politics in this section, and though it is not often we find reason to approve their acts, we can heartily concur in the propriety of Mr. Romaine's appointment. We understand the salary is $1,400.

The sinister influence of the Grand Trunk Corporation and its money-bags is already perceptible in an effort to defeat the consummation of the Toronto & Ottawa Railway scheme, so desirable for this town and county. The work is begun by a pretence of the Grand Trunk to take up, complete and operate the Grand Junction Railway, so that its paid emissaries may have the opportunity of crying out "what is the use of paying money for the road to Ottawa and Montreal, when you are going to have the Grand Junction for nothing!" The fact is, the Grand Trunk have no more intention of building the Grand Junction than they have of building a railway to the moon. Their professed intention of taking it up has nothing object than to injure the prospects of the Toronto & Ottawa Railway, and only a few days ago their solicitor refused to accept the only terms on which the Belleville Council would agree to give assistance. Even if it were constructed, we would be still in the same position from which we are endeavoring to escape, as the Grand Trunk would control the freights, and we would still be at their mercy. We are informed that at the present time it is found cheaper to team freights from Campbellford to Belleville than to make use of the railway, on account of the excessive charges. We trust that none of our people will be deluded by this cunning attempt to induce them to oppose their own best interests. We should not be surprised if the cloven-foot of the Grand Trunk in this intrigue is made plainly visible within the next forty-eight hours, in the editorial columns of the only newspaper in Peterborough County accessible to such base influences as the Grand Trunk exerts in its opposition to the Toronto & Ottawa Railway.

THE COUNTY CORPORATION.

Mr. Collins moved, seconded by Mr. Sanderson, that the Clerk be instructed to procure a supply of ice, for the use of the court house in the summer months.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Golborne, seconded by Mr. Kidd, that whereas, it is understood that an order of the Court of Chancery has been lately issued to require the Lakefield dam to be lowered 11 inches below its present height; and whereas, such action would absolutely prevent navigation of the waters between Lakefield and Young's Point, this Council memorialize the Ontario Government to take charge of the said dam with a view of sustaining the navigation; and that this Council appoint a deputation to go to Toronto to present the same, and that the Warden name a committee to draft such memorial.—Carried.

They demonstrated the large measure of advantage taken of the Institute by the youth of the county, and the advantages which they derived therefrom. The application was referred to the Finance Committee.

That the Council apply to the County of Victoria to pay one-half the cost of the bridge at Young's Point, and that the Warden and Mr. Harvey be a committee for the purpose of waiting on the Victoria Council for that purpose, and that the Treasury Board of Victoria be requested to meet the Peterborough Board at Lindsay on Tuesday, the 17th inst., for the purpose of considering the matter.

Nays.—Messrs. McCarthy, Moloney, Walsh, McOliggott, Clark, Kidd, Oliver, Lang, Collins, Stewart and Fitzgerald—11.

The Irish Relief Fund.

Dublin, Feb. 1.

At a meeting of the Mansion House Committee last night, the Mayor presiding, it was announced that £33,000 had been received to date, and £15,200 disbursed. The chairman complained of the attacks made in America on the constitution of the Committee, and its mode of distribution, and read letters from Roman Catholic Bishops McEvilly, of Galway, and Duggan, of Clonfert, expressing astonishment at these attacks, and declaring that the Mansion House fund is administered solely with a view to the relief of the distress, and that the Committee enjoy public confidence. Archbishop French, of the church of Ireland, was present at the meeting, and joined in these expressions. It was announced that the Committee had received £2,000 additional from Sydney, making a total from the Australian colonies of £68,000.

A smash up on the Grand Trunk, near Duffin's Creek, occurred on Friday morning. Four cars laden with swine collapsed owing to a wheel having broken, and were badly wrecked, traffic on the road being delayed for about twelve hours consequently. No person is reported to have been injured, but a number of the hogs were killed.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Toronto & Ottawa R. R.—Memorial to the Ontario Government.

The Council held a special meeting on Tuesday morning at 10 a. m. Present, the Mayor, and Councillors, Cahill, Taylor, Smith, Paterson, Yelland, Toole, Menzies, Dunne and Robertson.

The Mayor explained that the meeting was called to answer to a requisition to consider a proposal by the Directors of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway to forward a memorial to the Ontario Government.

The Clerk read the report of the return to the Council of W. H. Robertson, to fill the vacancy in No. 4 Ward.

Mr. Smith introduced a report from the Finance Committee concerning applications for remission of taxes referred to by the Council.

Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Cahill, moved the adoption of the report.—Carried.

A communication from Thos. Hewitt was read offering to perform the duties of Street Inspector for the salary of $288.

A communication from the Mayor of Toronto was read asking joint action of the town of Peterborough in a memorial to oppose a bill introduced into the Legislature by the member for Monck with the object of taking away the right of towns to impose market fees.

Mr. Smith moved that Mr. Dumble be heard in reference to the proposed memorial to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway.

Mr. Dumble said no doubt they were aware that Mr. Scott, President of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway was making application to the Legislature for a grant in aid of the construction of the road. Every municipality along the proposed line of railway that has been asked to strengthen the hand of the Company in this application, by memorial had done so. The County Council at its recent session had forwarded a memorial to the Government asking for aid. The Council themselves had passed a memorial asking the Dominion Government for a grant to the Pacific Junction Railway. This was quite consistent, as it was done no doubt, in the expectation that the Pacific Junction would have a connection with an extension of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, and thus open up the country and extend the facilities for trade. They simply asked the Council to adopt the memorial and authorize the Mayor and Clerk to officially sign the same and forward it to the Legislature. The subject was so familiar to them all that he would not occupy their time.

Mr. Dunne did not see why they should pass this memorial when there was a requisition in circulation signed by over 200 people against the railway altogether.

Mr. Menzies said he would not sanction it. "Some of us," said he, "who have signed the requisition against the railway, would look well to pass this memorial." He would move, seconded by Mr. Denne that the petition be not received.

Mr. Robertson said he would like to have time to consider the matter. He could not see what need there was for any hurry with it. He would move that it be referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. Dumble explained that Mr. Scott had telegraphed him some three days ago, urging the passage of this memorial here as had been done elsewhere, to strengthen his application to the Government. It was just such a memorial as had been passed by the Council the other day in reference to a railway two hundred miles away, and he really couldn't see why there should be any hesitation or delay about it.

Mr. MaNaughton said the first thing he wanted to know was, will the memorial impose any expense on the town; second would it prevent the By-law from going before the people?

The Mayor said certainly not.

Mr. McNaughton then said he could not see why they should not adopt the memorial.

Mr. Smith said the motion of Mr. Robertson was a mere pretext for putting the matter off. No objection was made to the memorial asking the Dominion Government for aid to the Pacific Junction, and if they could pass that, he didn't see why they should not pass this. This matter had been before the people here for some years. It had been before the Council every year since he had been a member of it, and it was mere evasion for anyone to pretend to want time to consider it. Mr. Scott had put his time and his money in this enterprise for the benefit of the town, and he thought it was our duty as citizens to back him up, in a reasonable request like the present. Mr. Scott had told him it was his intention to put a by-law before the people some time ago, that the conditions had somewhat changed since the first by-law was granted, and some time had elapsed, and that it was only right that the people should have the right to pronounce on it again. He had prepared to do so two months ago when he was stricken down with illness. Just as soon as he was able to get away from his duties at Toronto it was his intention to present a new By-law to the people. They were well aware that Mr. Scott's illness was no sham, and that this was the actual state of the case. The passage of the memorial would not cost us a cent. It was simply a request that the Ontario Government should give aid. If we can ask the Dominion Government to aid a railway 200 miles away from here, we can surely afford to make this request of the Ontario Government for our own enterprise. They knew very well what outside influence was against the Toronto & Ottawa scheme, and it was reported that these influences were already being exerted in this town. They knew that the Grand Trunk had spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in attempting to defeat this scheme at Toronto and Ottawa, and they might expect the same kind of thing here in Peterborough.

Mr. Menzies asked if Mr. Dennistoun's opinion had been had.

Mr. Smith said it had.

Mr. Paterson said he did not see any reason why the memorial should not be adopted, but he favored delay, as he did not believe in forcing the thing through.

Mr. Dumble said it was a simple matter of asking aid from the Ontario Government for an enterprise of our own. It did not affect the town at all. The reason for urgency was that the West had been sending in a great many petitions for similar aid, and unless we pressed our claims, we would not be likely to get our share of the railway aid given by the Government.

Mr. Toole said he could not understand the movements of two or three Councillors in this matter. From the time of the first grant of $150,000, the sentiment of this town had always been favorable to this road. From that time to this we had never refused any request of the kind the company had made, and he did not see why two or three members should now attempt to embarass this request which would not cost the town a cent, and which was entirely separate from the By-law to be submitted to the people. Whatever might be the result of the deliberations of the committee in regard to the By-law, they would not be affected by asking the Government for aid. There was no possible risk of the interests of the town being jeopardized, and he could not understand why any Councillor should object to the Government giving a grant to this enterprise. The country west of Toronto was gridironed with railways largely built by Government aid, and the result was that land there a few years ago worth only $5 an acre was now worth $50.

Mr. Dumble happening to speak to Mr. Yelland, Mr. Denne said he should not be allowed to tell a man how to vote.

Mr. Yelland said he could tell Mr. Denne then no man could tell him which way to vote.

Mr. Cahill called Mr. Denne to order.

Mr. Toole continuing, referred to the great expenditure of Toronto in railways and the increased population and trade which resulted. Ask a man in Toronto to-day if they would take back their money and give up the advantages of those roads, and he would say not under any circumstances. We here were laboring under great disadvantages of locality. He dared say that Mr. Menzies, if he looked over his way-bills, would find that in some classes of freights he paid as much from Port Hope to Peterborough as from Montreal to Port Hope. Under this By-law the road would be compelled to carry freight from here to Montreal at the same rate as from Port Hope. We know the manner in which our railway scheme has been fought by the Grand Trunk at Ottawa and Toronto. He was told that the same kind of opposition was going on here, and for the past two months, it was rumored, that the Grand Trunk had paid agents at work in our midst against the Toronto and Ottawa. It looked rather singular to see two members of the Council come here this morning and oppose this simple request to ask the Ontario Government for aid as they had done. Perhaps revelations might be made before long that would make some people blush, and when the right time came, they might depend on it, these things would come out. (Applause.) They were not living here many years. People could see and understand what was going on.

Mr. Cahill asked for the opinion of Mr. Dennistoun.

Mr. Smith read the opinion which was, that if the legislation asked for by Mr. Scott were not granted, the Toronto and Ottawa charter would expire in June next. If it were granted, the charter would be extended till 1882, but it would be at the option of the town to renew their bonus.

Mr. Menzies explained that he was ticket agent for the Grand Trunk. He had sold tickets for the Grand Trunk for twelve years, but he opposed the road in the interest of his property, not of the Grand Trunk.

Mr. Smith—No person accused you. (Laughter.)

Mr. McNaughton said as the memorial did not cost anything, and did not affect the town in any way, he didn't see any reasonable excuse for refusing to adopt it.

Mr. Cahill said the town was not called on to vote a dollar, or to alter their attitude towards the By-law. They could pass the memorial and afterwards do as they pleased about the By-law. They only asked the Government to give to the Toronto and Ottawa railway the aid usually given to railways throughout the country. Heretofore the greatest portion of public moneys had gone to the western railways. The west was prosperous and the east was not. The difference was accounted for by the railways. They distributed a great deal of money in building, and opened up the country. There was no reason why the east should not be just as prosperous as the west by the same means. He did not believe that any Councillor at the Board would be carrying out the wishes of his constituents in refusing this simple request. The vote of $300,000 by the town and county showed, on the face of it, that the people were favorable to the building of the road, and yet some members of the Council would ask the Government not to give a cent towards it. As to wanting time to consider it, it was a ridiculous pretext. They had all been conversant with the matter for the past four or five years.

Mr. Yelland would ask the Mayor how it would affect us. He had heard partisan opinions on both sides, and would like to hear the Mayor's opinion.

The Mayor—I think Mr. Dumble has put the case very fairly. The passage of the memorial will not cost the town a cent, or prejudice its interests, and I think it would be very absurd for us not to ask the Government to grant aid to the road.

Mr. Yelland said he was opposed to the $150,000 By-law, but did not want to throw any obstacle in the way of the company.

Mr. Denne said this was like the $2,000 arrangement. There was something at the bottom of it. He objected to the "hole-and-corner" way of pressing the memorial.

Mr. Denne moved, seconded by Mr. Menzies, that the matter be left over to next meeting of the Council.

Mr. Robertson moved, seconded by Mr. Denne, that it be referred to the Finance Committee to report to the Council at its next meeting.

The two latter amendments were lost, only Messrs. Robertson, Denne and Menzies voting for them.

Mr. Smith's motion was then put and carried.

Yeas.—Cahill, Taylor, Smith, Toole, McNaughton and Yelland.

Nays.—Menzies, Dunne and Robertson.

The memorial was then authorized to be signed and sealed on behalf of the Corporation and forwarded to the Legislature.

The Collector asked the Council to extend the time for return of the roll ten days. The Council not having the power to do so, an understanding to that effect was had.

Mr. Hogan was heard in reference to his taxes. He wanted the Council to set off a portion of the sum due him from the town, which was under garnishee by Mr. Bradburn against his taxes. He denied owing Mr. Bradburn, and said the money would be all right.

Mr. Toole said they should be cautious in this matter, as the special grant, he understood, was exhausted. A good many errors had been discovered in the special audit, which affected the value of the report.

The matter was referred to the Finance Committee and the Council adjourned.

Firing a Revolver.—On Thursday evening last a man going down Water-street, between the Grand Trunk House and Hall & Osborne's, created some little excitement by firing off a revolver. Chief of Police Johnston was sent for, but not having seen him in the perpetration of the act, could not arrest him.

Runaway.—As Mr. B. Morrow's delivery waggon was proceeding up Charlotte-street last Friday, the front axle broke, the driver was thrown out on the road, and the horse started on lively runaway, in the course of which he succeeded in injuring his hind foot by striking against a broken whiffletree.

The Volunteers.—Three companies of the 57th Batt. turned out last Wednesday evening for battalion drill and made a route march through the streets, under command of Col. J. S. Rogers and Major Bell. They presented a very fine appearance in their new uniform and helmets, and marched very steadily.

The Fourth Ward Vacancy.—The nomination of candidates for the chair at the Council Board rendered vacant by the resignation of Mr. Stevens, was held on Thursday last. Mr. W. H. Robertson was nominated by Mr. Henry Deane, seconded by Mr. Griffith, and there being no opposition, he was declared elected by acclamation.

Sad Affliction.—On Sunday, the 25th ult., Mr. Wm. Ray, of Smith, had to perform the melancholy duty of consigning to its last resting place all that was mortal of his daughter Adelaide. Within the same week the dread messenger twice again crossed his threshold, and on Sunday last he was again a mourner, and this time at a double grave, that of his wife and their second daughter, Ann Eliza. Mr. Ray has the earnest and profound sympathy of all in his terrible bereavement.

Fire.—The new fire brigade had their first turn on Thursday evening last, in alarm being given at 4.35, the cause of which was a fire discovered in the wood-work about the stove-pipe in the residence of Mr. Joseph Hawkins, King-street. The Brigade turned out with creditable promptness, the engine being on the ground in 34 minutes, when it was found that the services were not required, active exertions at the scene of danger having succeeded in extinguishing the fire.

The California Minstrels which are to appear at Bradburn's Hall on Friday evening, February 6th, is, we understand, one the largest and strongest minstrel companies that have ever appeared here. They have secured the services of Cool Burgess at an enormous salary, and when we see in connection with the same such names as Mr. Henry Rice, Ned Wambold, Alf Lawton, Frank West, J. W. Norcross, the Weston Brothers, and Crimmins Brothers, besides numerous other artists, numbering thirty in all, we may expect a rich treat in the minstrel line, and an entertainment worthy the patronage of all.

Little Lake Cemetery Company.—The Directors of this Company held an adjourned meeting to receive the report of the committee appointed to consider the requisition respecting the appointment of a caretaker. The report having been read the following resolution was passed:—"That inasmuch as the requisition forwarded to the Directors with respect to the appointment of a caretaker, is found on examination, to comprise the names of only 26 stockholders, the large majority of whom, viz., 69, are owners of but one lot each, the Directors do not feel themselves at liberty to entertain the recommendation contained therein." A resolution was then adopted re-appointing Mr. John Kelly as Superintendent for the current year. A committee was appointed to ascertain on what terms some lots in proximity to the cemetery can be purchased, and another to superintend necessary work within the present boundaries.

Concessionary.—We learn from the New Westminster Herald, that Mr. G. H. Armstrong, formerly a resident of this county, died at New Westminster on Monday, January 5th, after a lingering illness, at the age of 38 years. Mr. Armstrong was a son of Mr. W. Armstrong, and a brother of Mrs. James [illegible], of this town. Another brother, Mr. W. J. Armstrong, is a member of the Local Legislature, and was formerly Minister of Finance and Agriculture for British Columbia. Mr. Armstrong was also distantly related to the family of our Mayor, Mr. Lundy. The Herald says that Mr. George Armstrong was among their earliest settlers, and was successful as a miner and contractor in former years. Fresh worn out as half mast in respect to his memory. The funeral took place on the 7th, the remains being followed to their last resting place in the Masonic Cemetery by a large number of citizens. Among the pall bearers was Mr. J. C. Hughes, formerly of Peterborough. The Yen. Archdeacon Woods performed the funeral services.—Review.

PETERBOROUGH HOSPITAL.

The great curling event of the season, the match for the silver cup, came off in the Hospital and Carlisle Rinks, on Tuesday and Wednesday last. The Orillia and Lindsay Rinks arrived on Monday afternoon, and the Toronto, Bowmanville, Newcastle, Port Hope and Cobourg Rinks on the 9.25 train on Monday evening. Shortly after their arrival, at a meeting of the Skips held in the Hoffman House, the following clubs were drawn to play against each other, viz:—Toronto vs. Orillia, Port Hope vs. Bowmanville, Newcastle vs. Cobourg, Lindsay, vs. Peterborough. The storm of Tuesday prevented the match coming off on the Little Lake, where the ice had, at a great cost of trouble, been prepared by the energetic committee, and it was therefore agreed that the play should come off in the Rink, where everything had been arranged in case of such unfavorable weather for outside play. At 9 o'clock the following clubs "opened the ball," and played till half-past twelve, with the following result, the Toronto and Port Hope clubs coming off victorious:—

TORONTO VS. ORILLIA.

E. Pauly, Skip.—17.	S. Burton, Skip.—18.	J. Gamble, Skip.—22.	D. Smith, Skip.—17.

In the afternoon the Newcastle, Cobourg, Lindsay and Peterborough clubs played, and resulted in victories for the Cobourg and Lindsay Rinks, the following being the score:—

NEWCASTLE VS. COBOURG.

No. 1.		No. 2.
John Renwick,	J. Carruthers.	Frank Nicholson,	W. Hargreave.
John Dickson,	J. Beaumont.	Jas. Kilbuck,	J. Greenwood.

LINDSAY VS. PETERBOROUGH.

D. Flavelle, Sp.—23.	J. F. Donaldson, Sp.—6.	S. A. McMurtry, Skip.—12.	Geo. Brown, Skip.—15.

At the close of the afternoon game, the visiting Curlers were entertained at a dinner in the assembly room in the Rink, when a spread highly creditable to the hospitality of the Peterborough Club was served.

In the evening, the chief attraction was the match between the Orillia and Peterborough Club's, for the Caledonian Club medal. After a very closely contested game, Orillia won by one point.

On Wednesday forenoon the winning clubs of the previous day played off as follows:—Cobourg vs. Lindsay, Toronto vs. Port Hope. Macnaughtan and McMurtry being Skips for No. 1 Rinks and Pratt and Flavelle skips for No. 2 Rink, of the first mentioned clubs; and Capt. Perry and John Gamble, Skips No. 1, and J. Riddell and E. Pauly, Skips of No. 2 Rink of the others. At the termination of the game at noon, the score stood as follows:—Cobourg No. 1, 9; No. 2, 17;—26. Lindsay No. 1, 19; No. 2, 22:—41. Toronto No. 1, 14; No. 2, 15:—29. Port Hope No. 1, 15 No. 2, 16:—31.

In the afternoon the Toronto and Lindsay Clubs played off for the cup, and when time was called, both had scored 20 points. They then played one head, which resulted in Toronto winning by 5 shots.

Altogether the Hospital passed off with eclat, and the managing committee of the Peterborough club have just reason to feel proud of their efforts. The Rink had been very tastefully decorated with bunting, evergreens, mottos and Chinese lanterns, and presented a really handsome and beautiful appearance.

Destructive Fire.

Shortly after 12 o'clock on yesterday morning the iron tongue of the town bell gave forth the ever-dreaded clamor of "fire!" and it was not long before an ominous illumination in the centre of the town gave evidence that the alarm was occasioned by a fire of a serious nature. Those first to arrive on the ground saw that the fire had broken out in the front part of Mr. W. W. Farley's store in the Dixon block, and had already gained such headway that it would be a miracle if it were confined to the limits of the building. The hose was promptly on the ground, but considerable time elapsed before a stream could be thrown on the building, owing to the difficulty of obtaining water. When the water was brought to bear, the store in which the fire originated, was in flames from roof to cellar, and the dense smoke issuing from the upper window of the store adjoining, occupied Mr. James Best, showed that it too was destined to fall a prey to the consuming element. Meanwhile the unoccupied store on the east side of the street was broken open, and the goods from Mr. Best's premises were, as far as could be, transferred thither, the work of removal only ceasing when entry to the burning building became worse than foolhardy. Indeed, the last arrival of goods had scarcely left the building when the roof fell in with a crash, completing the destruction of the block. Long before this the firemen had got a second stream playing upon the rear of the building and finally they succeeded in getting the flames under control, and preventing their further spread of the conflagration, which at one time seemed to threaten the utter destruction of the block from street to street. There is no knowledge of how the fire originated, but from its location, when first discovered, in the front of the shop, there is good reason to believe that incendiarism was the cause. The engine found its supply of water at the Simcoe St. bridge, and after it once got under way threw a splendid stream of water. The danger was over at half-past three o'clock, but water was kept playing on the wreck and, the adjoining buildings till 5 o'clock. The building occupied by Mr. H. Best was some what damaged by the exposure to the fire, but the loss will not probably be more than $105. It is owned by Mr. Stevenson, and carried an insurance of $3,400 in the London, Liverpool & Globe, and $1,200 in the Phoenix. The building occupied by Mr. James Best, was owned by Messrs. Stevenson & Rowe, and was insured for $2,600 in the Royal and $1,400 in the Canada Fire and Marine. Mr. Best's stock was insured for $4,000 in the Lancashire. Mr. Farley's stock was insured for $2,000 in the Citizen's, the building, which was also owned by Messrs. Rowe & Stevenson, being also insured in the Royal for $2,600, and in the Canada Fire and Marine for $1,000. The loss adjoining Mr. Farley's occupied by Mr. Oliver, owned by Messrs. Stevenson & Rowe, was insured for $2,600 in the Royal, and $1,200 in the Canada, Fire and Marine, but the damage was trifling. The North British and Mercantile have to account for $75 damage to Mr. Shortley's stock; $125 for damage to Mr. McFadden's furniture, and $44 for damage to Messrs. Rowe & Stevenson's building across the road. Mr. G. A. Cox's building was also damaged to the extent of $25. The total loss will probably be about $6,000 which is mostly covered by insurance.

Temperance at Ottawa.

The Rev. Mr. Scott, secretary of the Dominion alliance so far as is known, is a truthful man, and he deliberately informed the Dundas Banner, one of the best journals in that district, that while he was in Ottawa, the following members of the Dominion Cabinet were enrolled as members of the Alliance; Sir John A. Macdonald, Hon. J. C. Aikins, Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Sir Charles Tupper, Hon. James Mathewall, Hon. R. W. Wilmot, Hon. John O'Connor, and Sir L. Tilley. The Banner has the authority of the same gentleman for saying that the Chieftain has signed the pledge. This is exciting news. The Late James Miller.

At its session last week the County Council adopted the following resolution of condolence with the family of the late James Miller, ex-Warden of the County, and at the time of his death, Reeve of Otonabee:—

To the family of the late James Miller, Esq.:

It is with feelings of the deepest sorrow, that we, the members of and officials of the County of Peterborough have learned of the sad bereavement, you recently sustained by the lamented death of your highly esteemed and honored father, who was a member of this Council continuously since the year 1858. His good judgment and able assistance he rendered his colleagues in promoting all measures which concerned the welfare of the public at large, are indelibly impressed on the memory of this Council. We feel it a duty to express the loss which this Council has sustained. We and the people of the County, particularly the inhabitants of the township of Otonabee, in which township he so long and honorably occupied the position of Reeve, pay a humble testimonial to the deserving virtues of the divine deeds which rendered dear our late colleague and friend, and the memory thereof acknowledged. We desire to express to you as representative of the high esteem in which he was held by us, and of the manner in which he discharged the duties of the various offices he filled during his long and honorable career, and to assure you that the memory of many is expected, a the construction of the line Easterly from Peterborough to the city of Ontario, and also of the Eastern municipalities interested in the construction of the lines Southerly from Peterborough to the shores of the Bay of Quinte, will be held dear by the inhabitants of this County. In conclusion we tender to you, and to the members of your family our sincere sympathy in your bereavement, and pray that He who doeth all things well may sanctify the dispensation to your eternal good.

Mr. RUTHERFORD then spoke of Mr. Stevenson's services from his own knowledge in the past.

The motion was carried unanimously, and Mr. Stevenson, on taking possession of the chair, returned the Board the honor done him.

Mr. TOOLE moved, seconded by Mr. DEANE, That Messrs. Dundas, Wrighton, Meeston, Shaw and the mover be a Committee to settle standing committees.—Carried.

The Committee reported the following committees:—

The CHAIRMAN stated that the terms of that part of Dundas referred to at last meeting had mostly all been collected.

Mr. BURNHAM asked if a member of the Board were absent for three months, or resided outside the town, did the seat become vacant.

The CHAIRMAN read from the Statute bearing such to be the case.

After some discussion it was decided to direct the attention of Mr. Cox to the requirement of the law.

Mr. SHAW drew attention to the fact that they had overlooked the appointment of an Inspector.

Mr. SHAW moved, seconded by Mr. McCLELLAND,—That Mr. James Stratton be re-appointed Inspector.

Mr. TOOLE read a report of the Property Committee in reference to the appointment of Janitors, which recommended that the tenders for the position of Janitor be accepted as follows:—1st Ward School, W. James, salary $95; 2nd Ward School, A. T. McGregor, at $80; Central School, Geo. Tighe, $260.

Mr. WRIGHTON, seconded by Mr. MEEKINS, moved the adoption of the report.

Mr. MCCLELLAND thought it supposed to taking this course. He thought it was not fair to turn the old Janitors out at a moment's notice. He moved that the whole matter be referred to the Committee on Appointments.

Mr. TOOLE said it was a question of economy, to which the Trustees were pledged to the people.

Mr. MCCLELLAND thought the old Janitors were not allowed proper consideration.

Mr. SHAW said if the tender of the old Janitor of the Central School had been anything near the lowest tender it would no doubt have been accepted. It was necessary that they should study economy in every possible way, as they heard enough about the cost of the schools.

Mr. WRIGHTON said the old Janitors had put in no tender at all.

Mr. HUGHES believed in carrying out the principle of tender strictly.

The report was then adopted.

After some discussion a motion by Mr. RUTHERFORD appointing a a special committee to enquire into the advisability of reducing the number and expenses of the teaching staff was carried, amendments by Messrs. Toole and Shaw being lost.

On motion of Mr. TOOLE, seconded by Mr. WRIGHTON, the Assessors were authorized to take the school census.

The INSPECTOR reported that a number of desks to accommodate the increased attendance were required, and on motion of Mr. DUNDAS the Property Committee was authorized to supply the deficiency, after which the Board adjourned.

James and John McHatrie, of Beaverton, appeared before Lieut.-Col. McKenzie, Fishery Inspector, charged with illegal fishing during the close season by Deputy-Inspector Moffatt, of Orillia. Fine and costs $32, or each 20 days' imprisonment.

ONTARIO ASSEMBLY.

Ontario Legislature—First Session [illegible]

Session Jan 29, 1880

The Lieutenant-Governor [illegible] Thursday afternoon, and was received by the [illegible] of the city of Toronto [illegible] Lieutenant-Governor presented.

[illegible] were read, [illegible] Department, Municipal others were in connection with railways.

Mr. Mowat replied to Mr. Blake[illegible] said he would cause enquiry to be made concerning the construction of [illegible] and Northwestern railway tracks, but he could not introduce a Bill authorizing it this session.

Mr. Badgerow's Bill making statute labour compulsory in villages was, after some discussion, read a second time and referred to Special Committee on Municipal Act Amendments.

No more private bills being forthcoming Mr. Mowat moved an adjournment, the House not having no right to proceed with their orders on Monday.

In reply to Mr. Meredith, Mr. Mowat said Mr. Wood would be ready to introduce the budget on Wednesday.

TUESDAY, Jan. 27.

The Speaker took the chair at 3.10, and after routine,

Mr. Wood moved the second reading of the Agricultural College Bill. He said this institution was no longer an experiment. It had out-lived the prejudice against it, as that last session over 100 applicants had to be refused admission, and the Government had come to the conclusion to establish the institution by Act of Parliament. It had been visited by the English Commission, and by several committees of Grangers, and other bodies, and he had yet to learn of one unfavorable report, while it was largely considered as a most beneficial establishment for farmers and farmers' sons. The Bill he brought down would provide that this institution should be known as the Agricultural College. It would regulate the subjects to be taught, the length of the session, and provide for its affiliation with the University of Toronto, so that if the University has any honors in agriculture to confer, such should be open to the competitors of farmers' sons; also, it provided that the President and Professors of the College should be members of the Agricultural and Arts Association. He paid a high compliment to the-late President of the College as an able teacher and a man of rare tact and ability in dealing with difficulties. In his successor he believed the Government had found a man of equal ability. He moved the second reading of the Bill.

Mr. Lender did not think that the re-baptising of the College would make it a more valuable institution. At present the teaching was altogether too theoretical, and he hoped some change would be made.

Mr. French said that the farmers in his district did not derive much benefit from the College.

The Bill was then read a second time.

Mr. Crooks moved a second reading of the Bill to amend the Agricultural and Arts Act. He said the object of the Bill was to provide that the Association of Mechanics' Institutes, Ontario Mechanics' Institutes, Ontario Society of Artists and Schools of Art and Design be placed under the supervision of the Minister of Education instead of the Commissioners of Agriculture, and that the Educational Department shall have power to make rules and regulations for instruction in physical and practical science, to be given in evening classes and in Mechanics' Institute, and for the apportionment of sums of money out of any grants to be made by the Legislature for the purpose of such classes, and also for sanctioning the purchase of books for libraries of such institutes in other subjects than those expressly authorized by the Act, and that the purchase of any books or apparatus from the Education Department by Mechanics' Institutes shall be deemed as if purchased by public institutions. It shall be the duty of the Minister of Education to see that every Mechanics Institute, at least once in a year, is inspected and financial affairs thereof audited, and the standing of each Mechanics' Institute ascertained by public school inspectors, whose remuneration shall be regulated by the Educational Department, from time to time.

Mr. Young approved of the Bill, and hoped that the measure would stimulate young men to attend evening classes, which are so beneficial.

Mr. Hay approved of the Bill.

Mr. Meredith thought that the transfer of the control of the Mechanics' Institutes from the Commissioner of Agriculture to the Minister of Education was a good move, as it would enable the hon. gentleman to bring his industry and knowledge in educational matters to the benefit of the mechanics. He thought it would be well if some additional grants could be given out of the provincial funds for the erection of buildings for Mechanics' Institutes.

The Bill was read a second time.

The House went into Committee on the Attorney-General's Coroner's Inquest Bill. Some slight alterations were made at the Attorney-General's suggestion, and the Committee rose and reported.

The Attorney-General's Drainage Bill was so amended in Committee as to read "that drainage by-laws need not be published unless the Council, in the public interests, see fit to publish the same."

The House went into Committee of the Whole, Mr. Sinclair in the chair, on the Attorney-General's Ontario Judicature Bill, which was discussed clause by clause, without any important amendments, up to the 84th clause, when the House adjourned at 10.10 p.m.

WEDNESDAY, Jan. 28.

The Bill to amend the Act to amend the Incorporation of the North Simcoe Railway Company was read a first time.

The Premier in reply to Mr. GIBSON (Huron), stated that it was not the intention of the Government either to introduce or consent to any Bill during the present session having for its object the erection or setting apart of any new county or counties; and also that the Government had no intention to appoint an inspector of railways with powers similar to those of the English Railway Commission.

Mr. Morris' motion for the papers relating to the restraint imposed on ex-Aldermen Small, of Toronto, by the Attorney-General led to a lively discussion, which lasted almost up to the hour of adjournment. In speaking to the motion Mr. Morris complained that Mr. Small should have been directed by Mr. Mowat to choose between becoming a candidate for aldermanic honors and retaining his assistant-clerkship in the Court of Queen's Bench, when there was no general regulation on the subject of civil servants becoming municipal representatives. He agreed that they should abstain from taking part in political elections, and thought there should be a general regulation saying who should and who should not be in a position to do so.

Mr. Mowat, in reply, said that with regard to this case of Small it was quite reasonable that the mover of this resolution should refer to it, and he showed his gratitude in speaking a word for Mr. Small, who had spoken so many kind words for him. He (Mr. Mowat) was much surprised at seeing this notice on the paper, as he had believed that his friends would censure him for dealing so leniently with Mr. Small rather than that his opponents should seek to condemn him for his action. This gentleman was a [illegible] and had a position of great [illegible] and power. During [illegible] position as [illegible] Mr. Small's [illegible] position as [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

PETERBOROUGH, FEB. 12, 1880.

THE IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

For the first time for some years, the opening of the Imperial Parliament, which took place on Thursday last, was conducted by the Queen in person, a fact which lent additional interest to an event which other circumstances surrounded with a supreme importance. The critical relations of European diplomacy, the unsatisfactory condition of affairs in Afghanistan and India, and the terrible ordeal through which the Irish subjects of Her Majesty are this winter passing, combined to cause the royal speech to be looked forward to with anxious interest, as it was expected that some light would be thrown upon the somewhat mystic movements of recent British diplomacy. Yet the speech contained absolutely nothing calculated to explain the past or to indicate the future. The speech opened with the well-worn phrase expressing satisfaction that Her Majesty's foreign relations continue friendly. It refers to the fact that "much remains to be done" in restoring order in Turkey. It points out that the outrage at Cabul and the murder of the embassy, rendered the re-occupation of Afghanistan necessary, and praises the valor of the troops. Peace is announced to have been restored in South Africa, and a confederation of the British provinces on that continent foreshadowed. Reference is made to the Irish famine, and a proposal made to meet the exigencies of the period by advances on the security of the property administered by the Church Temporalities Commissioners. The speech has given great dissatisfaction in England, and elicited such marked expressions of disapproval, which will make the course of the Liberal party in the next elections all the more easy. It is apparent that the Government have resolved upon a policy of delay, in the hope that some specious success in Asia or Europe, in the war of diplomacy going on, may occur to enable them to recover the popular favor. The Irish leaders have already entered upon a renewal of their policy of obstruction, and the motion of Sir Stafford Northcote to go into committee to indemnify the Executive for the steps already taken to relieve the Irish distresses, has been met by an amendment by a Home Rule member, in condemnation of the Government. In the House of Lords Earl Granville deprecated the strong language of Mr. Parnell, and said he was utterly opposed to Home Rule, but thought reform in the Local Government might do much towards satisfying Ireland. Lord Beaconsfield defined Home Rule to mean dismemberment of the United Kingdom. He denounced the Liberal party for their sympathy with the Irish members, and said the abettors of Home Rule were traitors to their Sovereign and country.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

It is understood that Lord Alexander George Russell, now in command of the South Eastern Military District of England, will be appointed to succeed Major-General Selby Smith in the command of the Dominion Militia.

It is stated in the Welland Tribune that Mr. McCallum, M. P. for Monck, who owns three tugs and is a supporter of the Government, is allowed to bring in his coal duty free. It will probably be made the subject of Parliamentary enquiry.

At the meeting of the Victoria County Council the sum of one thousand dollars was appropriated for the improvement of the leading roads and bridges in the townships of Somerville, Bexley, Laxton, Digby and Longford, Carden and Dalton, Draper and Oakley, Ryde, Macaulay, Stephenson, McLean, Ridout, and the villages of Omemee, Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls and Bracebridge.

Mr. Whitehead, contractor for section 15, being in a tight fix both fall, and anxious to obtain favor with the Minister of Railways, consulted Dr. Schultz, M.P., who advised him to invest $15,000 in the Winnipeg Times, owned by Mr. Tuttle, "a friend of Tupper." Mr. Whitehead followed the advice, and now the plant of the Times has been purchased by Ald. Rowe, of Ottawa, for $10,000; Ald. Rowe's house has been purchased by Dr. Schultz for $12,000, and Mr. Whitehead has got 1-1-1

The Warden of Victoria in his inaugural address said: "In preparing the financial statement no account has been taken of the liability of the County of Peterboro for a share of the large expenditure undertaken by this Council during the last year in the erection of a new bridge across the north river, Bobcaygeon, the amount they will be required or may consent to pay, having not yet been ascertained. The probability, however, is that they assume the same liability as heretofore in regard to similar works, which will entitle us to receive the sum of $2,800 or thereabouts.

The Toronto Telegram "takes it for granted that no mere party considerations would induce Mr. Rose, one of our best known book publishers, to put forth a false statement regarding his business, and the upshot of what he says is that the N. P. has virtually ruined it, so far as the publication of books is concerned. The cost of all the raw material, as well as the type used in making books, has been increased by the adoption of the N. P., and the consequence is that the printed and bound book can now be imported at a lower price than it can be produced for here."

A SUGGESTIVE FEATURE of the report of the Inspector of Prisons of Ontario for the past year, is the fact that the chief cause of the commitments was intemperance, no less than two-thirds of the prisoners being reported as intemperate. This goes a long way to prove the contention of Vice-Chancellor Blake and other advocates of temperance, that if intoxicating drinks were banished from the land, our gaols would soon be emptied. The report, however, shows a gratifying decrease of crime, the committals in 1879 being 810 less than in 1878, and 2,261 less than in 1877; and we have no doubt that this fact, in the face of increasing population, is in a large measure, if not wholly, due to the temperance effort.

Proposed Church & Manse Fund.

As will have been seen by our report of the recent meeting of Peterborough Presbytery, Rev. Mr. Bennett submitted a scheme for a Church and Manse Fund, which is worthy of serious consideration by those interested. It proposes the following terms:—

The object of the Fund is that the strong may help the weak, poor congregations needing churches and manses. In the Minden field help is needed. Haliburton has no manse and a large debt on the church. Minden has a manse with a large debt. In Chandos, Barleigh and Apsley, there is neither church nor manse. Some settled charges also need help; several of these are very weak; several of them have no manses; some of them need new manses and new churches. To get these they will need help from some quarter. If we had a fund they could then get it at home. Many congregations within the bounds can give the needed help. Keene, Percy and Baltimore can do much more than they are now doing. Weak congregations are now giving in many instances, nearly twice as much per member as these strong ones are giving, unless help is provided, must in addition build their own churches and manses. A Church and Manse Fund for weak congregations will help the people to sustain their Pastor, many connot give Pastor or Missionary his full salary now, owing to a large debt on the church or manse. At Haliburton station $100 per annum is needed, because of the debt on the church; at Minden station from $30 to $40, because of the debt on the manse. These sums are just so much out of the stipend funds, and thus indirectly so much out of the General Home Mission Fund, because the grants received would be so much less, as is the indebtedness on church or manse. This will apply also to supplemented congregations. The evil is not removed when there is no church or manse, for then there is the rented hall or house for the Minister, which must be productive of one of two effects. Either the increase of the contributions of the people, or the decrease of the allowance for the Minister, and therefore a greater burden on the Home Mission Fund. The latter is the most probable effect. To establish a Church and Manse Fund would then be to form an auxiliary to the Home Mission Fund of the church. Our Presbytery Fund, again might be the beginning of a similar scheme for the whole church. I know it will be objected that to form another fund, would be to take away from the funds to which the people are now contributing. This would be true if every contribution had a fund at home for religious purposes. Of course in this case when the private and domestic fund is exhausted going for the time must cease, and until the fund is replenished. We know however, that such funds are not the sources from which our contributions usually come. Would that they did come from such a source. Would that every one had a fund in which would be deposited a percentage of all profits for the support of God's cause. The want of such a fund in each family is just the reason why the church has to come begging so often at the doors of our people. The objection again is evidently groundless, from the fact that those who now give the most, and the most frequently, are the most ready to give again. When the agitation began in Ireland on behalf of a sustentation fund, the same objection was made. When the time for trial came it was found that the result was the very opposite to what was predicted.

The N. P.

How it Affects the Agricultural Implement Business.

From the Toronto Globe.

Mr. F. W. Glen, M. P., well known as the Manager of the Joseph Hall Manufacturing Company at Oshawa was in the city the other day, and related his experience of the National Policy to a reporter of this paper.

"What effect has the N. P. had on your business generally?"

"Well," answered Mr. Glen, "the cost of our material has been largely increased although there has been no increase in our sales."

"What materials do you use?"

"Iron, steel, lumber, paints, oils, varnish, bolts, wire, and such goods."

"Do you import all these goods?"

"Yes, nearly all. Nine-tenths of the material we consume is imported, and we are therefore obliged to pay the extra duty on the same. The prices have risen considerable since 1878, as will be seen by the following figures—Bar iron, from $1.65 per hundred to $2.75; pig iron, $17 per ton to $27; sheet iron from 3c per lb., to 5c. The increase is not wholly attributable to the N. P., but a large proportion of it is. More capital is required in business now than formerly. The advanced duty requires a corresponding capital, and of course profit must be derived on the extra capital thus put into a business."

"How about the goods you buy in Canada?"

"Their prices have also increased. For them we have to pay the foreign price, together with the extra duty. For a sample, before the N.P. was introduced we bought malleable iron in Oshawa at 6½ cents per lb.; now we have to pay 7½ on the same terms. The same is the case with varnish, paints and oils. The home rates for these goods are raised just enough to keep us from importing them."

"What will the extra duty on material amount to in a year?"

"To between $5,000 and $6,000."

"Has there been any perceptible increase in business?"

"No. I am satisfied our sales are no better than they would have been had the N. P. not been adopted."

"Have you raised the price of your machines?"

"We are endeavoring to. We must either raise the prices or reduce wages. But we cannot adopt the latter course, as the demand for labor from the States is so great that we are obliged to pay good wages to keep our men."

"Then the farmers will have to pay higher prices for machines?"

"Undoubtedly they will. We must make $10,000 a year more than formerly in order to hold even as good for the increased cost of carrying on business under the N.P. It will depend on the crops whether we realize it or not. If the crops are good we will sell our machines; if the crops are bad we cannot sell them. So we are entirely dependent on the prosperity of the farmers to get our money back."

—Mr. Dobson gave his decision last week in St. John's Ward election case, Toronto. He finds for Alderman Piper on every point and gives costs of the whole case against Mr. Blackburn, the petitioner and candidate for Mr. Piper's place.

Norwood News.

Village Gossip—The Schools and Teachers—Long Year Tragedies—Amusements, &c.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Norwood, Feb. 9.

The immortal Daniel Webster is reputed to have "resigned this planning, anxious being" with the words, "I still live" on his lips. So say I in language equally eloquent, I'm not dead yet. What have I been doing this long time? To say the truth, I wouldn't tell if I could; and I couldn't tell if I would.

What a world of village history has transpired since I last wrote. We have had all the X'mas and New Year's excitement, municipal and school trustee elections, the annual October howlings, re re hiring school teachers, the opening of the skating rink, &c.

Speaking of schools reminds me that we have lost our head master, Mr. H. B. Henderson, who resigned [illegible] position to a comfortable crib at $1,000 a year. By the all hail hereafter, may joy go with him; he was a right good fellow. The changes in our school seem to give satisfaction; the young ladies are in ecstacies; the head master, Mr. McKay, is young, is witty, is distingue, and he skates. Then Mr. Fraser, the mathematical master, is so clever, and so attentive, and unmarried; and he skates too. Were ladies ever so favored since the days of Noah? Nor are the bachelors permitted to growl; for in Miss Laidlaw we have such a winsome lassie—Scotch of course—that 'tis well dwelling is forbidden; otherwise terrible results might follow; and then Miss Laidlaw—states. "Scotch ascendency!", mutters that Irish dominie, S. H. D., to himself as he marches to and from school daily. Bro. D., you must understand, is a Methodist.

Well, Mr. Editor, there has been a great many changes even in this small village since I last appeared before the public. Death has been here, ruthlessly carrying off some of our brightest blossoms, as well as many are aged almond trees. The links connecting the present with the early history of the country are snapping one by one, and soon the last recital of pioneer adventure will be given, and to the written page we'll have to turn for our information, rather than go to the eye-witness.

The golden wedding bells have been heard with greater frequency of late. Whether it was the ladies seeking greater protection, or the return of leap year, or the increased price of beard consequent on the rise of breadstuffs that brought about these results I cannot say, only I know it has been so.

Again we have any amount of skating, rinking, and carnivaling. Yes, we had a carnival! Though I blush for our village to tell, we had none of those engaging games and sports which so distinguish the civilized and intellivent people from the rude savage and the untutored barbarian. This thing must not occur again. With the view of assisting our people here to get up proper entertainments, allow me to suggest that being a rural place we must not attempt to rival Peterborough. If our rink managers would give us "the greased pig" on ice it would be so nice and so independent; or by way of variety "to grin through a horse-collar," &c.

Lest the people here should know who made these propositions permit me to change my name, and in view of my status to sign myself

R. V. W.

South Monaghan Council.

Centreville, Jan. 16, 1880.—The new Council met pursuant to the statute in that behalf at eleven o'clock, a. m. Present, Mr. Barnard, Reeve; Councillors Messrs. Lightfoot, McAllister, Riddell, and Wood. Each member subscribed to the declaration of qualification of office, filed, the same with the Clerk, and then took their seats. The Reeve in the chair. The minutes of last regular and special meetings were read and on motion confirmed. A communication was read from the department of Railways and Canals, acknowledging the receipt of a memorial from this corporation, asking that steps may be taken to ensure the opening of the Trent Valley Canal, and laid on the table. Accounts were presented from Robert Fair, quarter salary as clerk, 1879, $15; registering births, marriages, and deaths, $5.20; Election expenses, $14.50. On motion of Mr. McAllister, seconded by Mr. Riddell, the foregoing accounts were ordered to be paid. Mr. Lightfoot introduced a By-law to appoint certain Township officers, which read a 1st, 2nd and 3rd times and was finally passed. The officers appointed under the by-law were: For Clerk, Robert Fair; Assessor, Wm. Smithson; Collector, John Byers, Treasurer, John W. Hall; Auditors, Samuel Porter and W. A. Gate. The sum of ten dollars was granted for the relief of Thomas Irwin and placed in the hands of Doris Rood to be given him as he saw fit. The clerk was authorized to advertise for tenders for the furnishing of pine or cedar planks sufficient to cover Squirrel bridge, also for tenders at so much per yard to fill bridge or a portion thereof in with clay. The Council then adjourned until the third Monday in February.

The Lumber Trade.

Quebec, Jan. 31.—Gilmour & Co., have recently effected a sale of 500,000 pine deals to a Quebec shipping firm. The prices reported are $104 first quality, $68 for second, and $37 or $38 for third. Another firm in the city state they have already this season sold more lumber than shipped from this port last season.

Several vessels have been already chartered in England for this port for lumber cargoes for the approaching season at seventy shillings. This is an increase in rates of about ten shillings from last season.

Mr. Pell's Report.

Mr. Pell, M. P., who visited the United States to gain information of the agricultural interests has made his report. It is very voluminous, but treats mainly of the comparative condition of the farming interests of the United States and England, offering no satisfactory solution of the cause of the depression. It appears more like a studied effort to reconcile the English farmer to his lot than to attempt to show how he may better his condition. Mr. Pell dwells on the fact of British emigration to Mexico, and in a tone which would discourage such emigration. He concludes at length the relative merits of Canada and the United States and generally to the discouragement of the latter as a place of residence, and paints Canada's future in most glowing colours.

In the Present Age, when the life-battle is so fiercely fought, and when upon even the strongest the tear and strain of it tell so heavily, how necessary it becomes for us to provide for the keeping up of our reserve stock of mental and physical strength by the use of such a nerve-tonic and stimulating agent as Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. For Consumption, Scrofula, and all forms of Wasting Diseases, Chronic Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, and Throat Affections, it is unequalled, and as a remedy for Nervous Debility, Loss of Appetite, Sleeplessness, Mental Depression, and all diseases arising from Indiscretion or Overwork of Brain, it is unsurpassed. Sold by druggists at 50 cents and $1 per bottle. Manufactured only by Robinson & Co., Chemists, Toronto.

A Word to Butter Farmers.

No. 2.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Having shown how ice may be stored at a very small cost, let me again urge on our farmers not to rest till the time passes for securing a supply, as it is one of the cheapest and most necessary additions to a dairy farm. By the use of it you are enabled at all times to control the temperature of your milk during the time the cream is rising. On a warm day in summer, by placing a piece of ice on your cellar floor it will cool the air, keeping the milk cool. Farmers having twenty cows giving milk, would find it to their advantage to build a dairy house to be used in summer for their milk which in winter they could store their vegetables in, for we must keep both the fruit will also keep out the frost. The plan of a dairy room, I would recommend, is to build of brick, say 12 feet square with 8 feet walls, allowing it to be open up to the roof, on which shingles should be laid in mortar; have a verandah on each side of the house to place pans, &c., to air; cement the floor with water lime, using one bushel of lime to five of sand, this will make a floor easily washed; place double windows on each side of the house. Build your ice house at one end and run galvanized iron pipes through the ice into the dairy room—this will cool the air passing though them; a ventilator is placed in the opposite end of the building in the roof, closed by a trap or side door, to form a current of cool air. Milk rooms built on this principle will give you complete control of the temperature and add fully ten per cent to the yield of your milk. Canada has carried off the first prize for cheese at the dairy fair held in New York State, open to the world for the exhibition of dairy products, and it is now pronounced, by the United States authorities, to be the best cheese producing country in the world. It only requires the same energy to be displayed in the manufacture of butter to carry off the palm for that also.

A Question of Annexation.

To the Editor of the Peterborough Examiner:

Sir,—For some time past there has been a considerable discussion about the separation of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham. Port Hope and Newcastle claim to be the places where the County buildings should be erected for the County of Durham. It is not my intention at present to say which of the places, if any of them, should be the capital of Durham, but that separation will take place in due course of time is evident, and the sooner for Durham the better, providing that a central place can be selected which will be of easy access to the inhabitants of Durham. The north-western part of Durham has suffered much inconvenience from being so far from the

PETERBOROUGH, FEB. 12, 1880.

REFORM ORGANIZATION.

As is well known, at the first meeting of the Parliament elected in 1878, no meeting of the Liberal party was held for the purpose of formally electing a leader, Hon. Mr. Mackenzie acting in that capacity, simply as the responsible head of the Government which preceded the present. It was understood that there was a strong desire in the ranks of the Liberal members, more especially those of Quebec and New Brunswick, that Hon. Edward Blake should be entrusted with the management of the fortunes of the party for the future, and as Mr. Blake had at that time no seat in the House, the appointment of a leader was deferred. Now, however, Mr. Blake has again a place in Parliament, and it is understood that one of the first events of the session will be his formal recognition as the head of the party which he is pre-eminently fitted by his commanding ability to lead. Nor is this intended in any way as a slight upon Hon. Mr. Mackenzie, who, we doubt not, will cordially follow Mr. Blake as his leader, as he did in the early history of the Ontario Assembly. No one can doubt Mr. Mackenzie's ability, his honesty, his integrity, or his earnest desire at once to promote the interests of the country and to advance the welfare of his party. As a Minister of Public Works, it is safe to say that he has had no equal in the present or any former government. His untiring industry, thorough mastery of the multifarious duties of his department, and his faculty of organization, all united to make him a Minister whose services were of the greatest value to the country, as has been even cheerfully acknowledged by the Conservative leaders themselves. As leader of his party, however, he has not been so successful, and whether justly or unjustly, there is a feeling existing that with better counsel, and more judicious management, the party which entered on its five years' lease of power, so powerful, would not have met the fate which overtook it in 1878. At all events it is clearly in the interest of the party that the change should be made, and we believe that no one will be found more heartily in approval of such a step than Mr. Mackenzie himself. Another condition obtains also, which points to the desirability of Mr. Blake's selection as recognized head of the Liberal party. If the party is to acquire strength within the present Parliamentary term, it must necessarily be by the attraction to their views and their leader, of some of those members who now the government their support. There is no question that there would be a strong indisposition on the part of any Liberal-Conservative to enter the opposing ranks as a follower of Mr. Mackenzie to such a pitch have partisan animosities been carried. The same objections do not weigh in the case of Mr. Blake, and a member on the right hand of the Speaker, who might find his confidence in the present government impaired as no doubt many will, would not experience the same difficulty, nor incur the same opprobrium, y ranging himself alongside Mr. Blake. Perhaps the only thing in the way of Mr. Blake's acceptance of this responsibility, would be a delicacy towards Mr. Mackenzie. The same scruple prevented him from accepting the Premiership in 1873, when it was the almost universal wish that he should do so, and the party of which he is the natural leader, have not ceased to regret the result. It will be Mr. Mackenzie's duty, as we have no doubt it will be his pleasure, to remove any objection of this nature on Mr. Blake's part, and thus place at the head of that party whose principles are best calculated to promote the moral and material welfare of Canada, the man to whom the whole country looks as a leader of men, and who is destined to write a bright page, to the credit of the Liberal party, in the history of the country.

OUR subscribers, that is those of them who are in arrears, have by this time received statements of their accounts showing the amounts due in each case to the end of the current year. The sums are in most cases trifling, and it is therefore hoped that prompt settlement of the same will be thereby facilitated. We would remind those in arrears that the subscription rate of the EXAMINER, when not paid in advance, is $2.00 per year. Those who settle promptly, will, however, only be charged the advance rate of $1.50, notwithstanding the great advance in the cost of publishing which has resulted from the "them." Paper manufacturers, in January, notified us of an increase in the cost of printing paper of $05 per ton, and in the face of this, while we make no corresponding advance in our charges, we must insist upon the prompt payment of all still subscription accounts as are over due.

SHUFFLING OF PORTFOLIOS.

ON THE EVE of the meeting of Parliament we find the Government re-cast in the work of patching up the Cabinet. Hon. S. D. Wilmot, late President of the Senate, with a seat in the Cabinet, who was so unceremoniously kicked out of office by Dr. Tupper a few days ago, has been consoled by his appointment as Lt.-Governor of New Brunswick, in place of Lt.-Governor Chandler, who died last Friday. Hon. D. L. MacPherson, the great mathematical navvvist, has been appointed President of the Council with a seat in the Cabinet, while Mr. Boyd, of St. John, to whom Sir John sent his famous telegram that he had not promised protection but only "re-adjustment of the tariff," has been made a Senator, in return for smuggling Sir Sam. Tilley into a seat in Parliament under false pretences.

TORONTO AND OTTAWA RAILWAY.

The voting on the amended By-law, granting aid to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, in the County of Peterborough, will take place on Saturday, the 21st inst. The promoters of the undertaking have made no special effort to canvass the county to ensure the ratification of the By-law, believing, we think rightly, that the matter can safely be left to the good sense and judgement of the ratepayers of the county, and relying upon their appreciation of the vast importance of the success of this enterprise to the future of the county, and to the interests of every owner of property within its borders. We believe some effort is being made by emissaries of the Grand Trunk Railway to secure the defeat of the By-law, in the hope of killing off a scheme which, if carried to successful completion, will put an end to the Grand Trunk monopoly, which is now, and has been for years, robbing the farmers of the county of four or five cents on every bushel of grain brought into market. Every farmer understands that the freight on grain to Montreal is a charge against the value of his grain, and that as the freights are less, the rates paid by buyers are more in proportion. Every cent that can be taken off the cost of freight will be added to the price paid the producer. The Toronto and Ottawa is bound to carry freight to Montreal from Peterborough, at the same rates as the Grand Trunk charges from Port Hope, so that the buyer, saving the cost of carriage from here to Fort Hope, will pay exactly that much more for his grain on the market. Another consideration is that the By-law will ensure the immediate expenditure within the county of $300,000, which in itself could not fail to be a great benefit to every one in it. The stories circulated by the Grand Trunk emissaries, that we would have the Grand Junction railway anyway, must not be credited. Belleville has refused distinctly to accept the terms of the Grand Trunk, while an effort to get a meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Junction on Monday of last week, proved a tame, because not even a quorum of the stockholders could be drummed together. The Grand Junction scheme is a bogbear which the Grand Trunk have taken up to aid it in its efforts to kill the Peterborough road, and we believe there is too much good sense and discrimination among the people of the County, to be deceived into the sacrifice of their own interests, to the selfish scheming of the Grand Trunk monopoly, which has ever been hostile to the back counties, and has been, by its arbitrary and extortionate charges, the principal means of retarding the progress and development of this district.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

ON Monday last, J. J. C. Abbott, (the "my dear Abbott" of Pacific Scandal fame) and Dr. Christie, the late Reform member, were nominated for the vacancy in Argenteuil. The voting is in progress to-day.

IT IS UNDERSTOOD that Mr. Thomas Nicholson Gibbs, of Norman descent, (vide Morgan's Peerage), is to be next Lt.-Governor of Ontario. If this prove to be the case, Mr. Gibbs will have the honor of being the second miller who has represented Her Majesty at Government House, Toronto.

A Horrible Tragedy.

A terrible crime has been committed in Biddulph township, near Lucan, Ont. Five members of the Donnelly family were about Tuesday midnight murdered by a "vigilance committee" of over a score of masked men. The victims were father, mother, two sons and a daughter. The family have been in the township over thirty years, and were such a lawless set that they were the terror of the neighborhood. The father had been sentenced to be hanged for murder, but served instead seven years in the penitentiary. Barns and houses were burned, animals mutilated, robberies and other crimes committed, so that there is now little sympathy felt for them. It seems that on Friday night a gang of over twenty masked men assembled at the house, and armed with axes, spades, etc., forced their way into the house and killed the old man and woman, both advanced in years, a son of 25 and a daughter aged 23. They then saturated the bed-clothing with coal-oil and set fire to the house, which was burned to the ground. A little boy named Connors, living in the house, managed to escape, and alarmed a neighbor, but nothing could be done. Another part of the gang went to the house of William Donnelly, about three miles distant. John Donnelly answered their summons and was greeted with a volley of thirty slugs with fatal effect. The shocking affair has caused the wildest excitement. The authorities are taking energetic measures to bring the perpetrators of this horrible deed to justice.

PRESENTATION.—On Wednesday evening last, the 4th inst., about sixty of the friends of R. J. and Miss McCausus, "surprised" them at their residence and a very pleasant evening was spent. Immediately before supper was announced a purse containing about $17 was presented to Mr. McCausus, and one containing about $30 to Miss McCausus, as a token of appreciation of their long and valuable services in connection with the Methodist Choir of this village. An address was read to them also expressing the warm feelings of their numerous friends here, and regret at the near approach of their removal from the neighborhood.

TEA MEETING.—On Thursday evening, 5th inst., a tea meeting was held in connection with the Presbyterian church of this village, and was very largely attended. Tea was served in the Town Hall, after which an interesting and instructive lecture on "Why am I a Presbyterian," was delivered in the church by Rev. Mr. Ball of Peterborough. The meeting was enlivened by excellent music by the choir. Proceeds over $100. A social was held the following day when about $30 more were realized.

A Scottish Chapter will be opened in connection with the Lakefield District L.O.L., on Saturday, when a number of the Peterborough brethren are expected to pay us a visit.

CURLING MATCHES—THE SKATING CARNIVAL—GRADING OF SCORE—LIGHT UP, CHARACTERISTIC, &c.

The Skating and Curling Rink Company have entered upon a decidedly successful season, notwithstanding the capricious interference with its opening by the "glorious uncertainty" of Old Probabilities. A couple of weeks ago we had the first carnival of the season, which was, though not on as extensive a scale, as might have been expected, as pretty an entertainment as need be witnessed. Then followed the grand Curling Bonspiel, an event attended with the most unqualified success, and which won laurels for the Peterborough Club, if not in successes in the competition, at least in the perfect arrangements provided for the enjoyment of the votaries of the roarin' game from all parts of the district. Both these events, however, were eclipsed by the Skating Carnival of Friday evening last, which was in every respect the event of the season so far. The presence of Prof. Williams, the celebrated professional skater of New York, as a participant in the display of the evening, a knowledge of a probably close contest between some local amateur gliders of no mean repute, and probably a presentiment that the young ladies were preparing attractions of no ordinary style, brought together an unusually large assembly, so that by eight o'clock not only was the ice well filled, but the galleries as well were thronged by those who came to enjoy themselves as spectators. Considering the ravages of the bonspiel the ice was in very fair condition, and the scope afforded for the enjoyment of the skaters, as well as the beauty of the scene afforded the spectators, was enhanced by the throwing open of the curling ice during the evening. The decorations of the rink were of Chinese lanterns profusely hung, but the scene presented, when once the ice was occupied, needed no adventitious aid to lend it charms, and the celestial lights paled their ineffectual fires before youth, grace and beauty, exemplifying the poetry of motion, and typifying the artistic eccentricities of the Goddess Fashion, in all ages and among all races, except the unregenerate Zulus. To one at all impressible the kaleidoscopic view was simply bewildering. One could never comprehend how it was the Duke of Portland fell in love with a milkmaid, till he saw how charming a Milkmaid could be, nor understand how Joan of Arc overthrew the British arms till he saw how absurd it would be for any well-bred Englishman to attempt to "hold the fort" against the assaults of such a Maid of Orleans as graced the ice on carnival night. The stoutest-hearted temperance advocate would have given up his mission at once had he sufficient taste for frivolity to have witnessed how different is the genuine Barmaid from that frowzy-headed, bleer-eyed wench of his crooked imagination. One had to marvel how any one ever could be wicked enough to cut off the dainty head of Mary Queen of Scots, and at the strange infatuation of Ivanhoe in scorning the love of the Jewish Maiden. Nor was it difficult to understand the passion of Miles Standish for the Puritan Lady, or how it is that matrimony flourishes among the Quakers despite the quaint simplicity of the Quakeresses. Old Ladies too threw some light upon the problem of septuagenarian alliances, while the Queen of Hearts and the Queen of Clubs, in close proximity of the waist of a full hand. Those who cherished antipathy to foreign customs were compelled to admit that foreign costumes, at least, were very endurable, and found only a quandary in deciding which was the more tasteful and pleasing, that of the French Peasant or the Japanese Lady, or the Swiss Peasant girl, or the Bavarian girl, or—any other of the foreign costumes, to which the wearers lent additional attractions. Had Rabbie Burns been there he would have found two Highland Lassies, and might have said with Gay,

> How happy could I be with either,
> Were t'other kindest dear charmer away.

In the "garden of girls" there was a Bouquet of White Roses, among other floral attractions, that might have inspired Tennyson to yet another effort. Snowflakes and Winter were there appropriately sustaining the charms of the season, while Morning and the Morning Star made many young men regretfully reflect on the wasted hours of matutinal sloth. Stars and Stripes possessed our reporter (the single one) with a longing for a new Reciprocity Treaty, while yet apprehensive that Protection was his best motto in this bimetitle year. In fact the whole scene was a veritable fairy pageant which compelled the admiring on-looker to regard himself in all data bifurcated hideousness, and sigh for the good old days of slashed doublets and fine ruffles, and satin and velvet vanity, that he might take his place in so charming a throng.

If there was not diversity enough in the masquerade proper, the programme had other attractions, and the maskers themselves became spectators when Prof. Williams began to demonstrate how near a man could get to eternity, on skates, without fatal consequences. The amateur prize contest brought forward the following contestants: Mr. G. Geddes, of Millbrook; Messrs. E. J. Hartley, H Thompson, Wm. F. Shaw, and Chas. Shaw, of Peterborough; and their performances were certainly most creditable, and made it no easy task to the judges to determine to whom the palm of victory belonged. The contestants handed their examination at the really excellent exhibition by beauty and well-deserved applause. The hurdle race, wheelbarrow race and barrel race, were all well contested and the boys deserve credit for the promptitude way in which they risked their necks to increase the hilarity of the festival. The judges were Mr. Jackson, Master of Ceremonies; the Rev. T. Clarke, Vice-Col. H. C. Rogers, Dr. Beeston, and Mr. G. R. Shaw, and finally Mr. Chamberlain, who put the award as follows:—

MISS LADIES' COSTUMES.

Miss Dollie Ullyott,—first prize, as "Joan of Arc."

Miss Georgina Burnham,—second prize as the "Snow Shoe Club Girl."

Miss Alberdina Loch,—third prize as the "Floral Queen."

MISS GENTLEMEN'S COSTUMES.

Mr. John C. Robertson,—first prize, "Knight of the Round Table."

Mr. S. B. Laidlaw, of Lindsay,—second prize, costume that of a "Highland Chief."

SKATING PRIZE CONTEST.

Mr. G. Geddes, first prize; Mr. E. J. Hartley, second prize; Mr. H. Thompson, third prize.

RACE-DRILL.

The following prizes were awarded in the racing contests:—hurdle race, Harry Connors; wheelbarrow race, Marty Huston; barrel race, John Harvey.

The Peterboro Fire Brigade Band discovered sweet music in their usual excellent style during the evening and added muscle to the enjoyment of the occasion. Much credit is due to the President of the Company, Mr. J. F. Dennistoun, the Judges, and the Committee for their admirable arrangements, and as the assembly departed about eleven o'clock, and Comus midnight crew, disappeared, they unanimously resolved, whenever the club is ready to favor us with another like entertainment, to be on hand with their sisters and their cousins and their aunts.

Funeral Sermon.

On Sunday last, at Lakefield, at the Presbyterian Church, Rev. Mr. Clarke preached the funeral sermon of the late wife and daughters of Mr. Wm. Rae, of Smith, who was taken away under such melancholy circumstances, as follows:—

"They were lovely and pleasant in their lives, and in their death they were not divided."—2 Samuel, 1, 23.

We meet together this evening under peculiar circumstances—in some respects painful, in others pleasant. As there is no cloud without a shadow, so there is no circumstance so mysterious as not to impart a gleam of light. It is always painful to see those whom we have learned to love and esteem taken away; it is pleasant to see them die with a good hope of a glorious immortality. It has never before been my lot, and we speak with a degree of certainty when we say, that it is not the experience of many in the ministry, to perform so painful a duty as to bury three out of the same house in the limited space of a week, except in case of epidemic—that mother and daughters should pass within the vail, and leave a once cheerful, but now desolate home, without a female form to grace it, without an angel voice to speak words of sympathy, without a tender hand to soothe in sickness the fevered brow of a husband and father, a son and brother. Two hearses are not often seen crowding each other at the same door, and moving in the same cortege as if anxious to bury the remains to the silent tomb. Grace fully their plumes waved in the winter wind, yet they are the emblems of sorrow and death. The one with raven blackness proclaims the fact that the remains of the aged are being borne to the grave; the other, with snowy whiteness, declares with peculiar solemnity to the young, that another of your number has passed the bourne from which no traveller ever returned. It is none the less peculiar that one sermon should do the other, one hand wreath for the brow of each. Early in autumn, accompanied with a student missionary, we visited the sick in the now mourning family, after a pleasant and, I trust, profitable interview. My friend remarked to me on the way home, "There are three funeral sermons for you to preach at no distant period." We felt the force of the remark yet hoped it were not so. We continued to hope against hope. He was correct as to time, wrong as to number. They were three in one. When this evening was selected as the time for preaching the funeral sermon of the younger, we did it deliberately, thinking it would include the two sisters, but little suspecting it would include the mother also. So close and completely identified were they with each other, that the life and happiness of the one was bound up in the other. "In life they were pleasant and lovely, in death they were not divided." This is a poetic expression, significant as it is beautiful. It is an elegy by David over the death of Saul and Jonathan. It implies a beautiful life. The question that meets us at the outset is, what are the factors or characteristics of such a life? The question, "Is life worth living?" has been raised and answered by an English divine. The answer contained in the negative not the goal. To the Lakefield town hall is on the concession of this question. The infidel feels that life is worthless, and sighs for the good old days of slashed doublets and fine ruffles, and satin and velvet vanity, that he might take his place in so charming a throng.

What can I say of the deceased ones. The days of their sickness were the most beautiful. In health they shed lustre over the once happy, but now sombre home. In their kindly greeting, the stranger felt himself at home. By their kindly spirit, the one with the other, the angel of peace ever brooded over. In sickness and distress they especially shed the glory of Him who had called them from darkness into his marvellous light. God wisely ordered that the weaker should be called first. Like a tender plant her constitution would not endure the shock produced by the death of mother and sister. To the stronger His grace was sufficient, as in weakness His strength was perfected. The graces in her like perfumes, the more they were pressed by affliction, the sweeter they smell; or like the alabaster box of precious ointment, when broken fills the house with fragrance. For having endured, she like her sister passed away with texts of scripture on her lips,—that life perfected could breathe the prayer, "Come Lord Jesus, come quickly." They are gone, but only gone before; they are not dead, but sleepeth. Husband and father, son and brother, daughter and sister, hear the silent and solemn eloquent voice coming from the tomb, saying, "Weep not! Be ye ready! Meet us here! For > "Friend after friend depart;

> Who hath not lost a friend?
> There is no union here of hearts
> That hath not here an end:
> Were this frail world our only rest,
> Living or dying none were blest.
>
> There is a world above,
> Where parting is unknown;
> A whole eternity of love,
> Form'd for the good alone;
> And faith beholds the dying here
> Translated to that happier sphere.

THE TOWNSHIP OF OTONABEE.

Containing 198 Acres. There are between 60 and 70 Acres (Cleared and in a high state of cultivation; the remainder is Bush. On the premises there are a good Dwelling House, Frame Barn, Stables, Sheds and necessary out-building, with a never-failing spring well of excellent water. There is also over an acre of a good bearing Young Orchard. The Farm is well improved and is acknowledged to be one of the best Farms in the Township. Terms and Conditions of Sale will be made known on application. Looking beyond you see too hideous form of the executioner opening the door to admit the lions, whose fiery eye-balls are seen glaring as if eager for the prey. They who are constantly drawing from the fountain Christ Jesus, look in compassion upon their fellows, and are ready to throw the mantle of charity over their imperfections and short comings. There is a story told in classic history of the artist who was painting the portrait of Alexander the Great. The conqueror had a large scar on his right temple from a wound received in battle. In order to give the exact picture and yet not show the scar, the artist painted him leaning on his elbow with his finger over the scar. So should we place the finger of charity over the christian's tears, received in his battle with sin; and not as too many seem to do, shout "Glory, glory, I've found another fault." This, the one, who coming up out of much tribulation, and knowing the severity of the conflict, is ever ready to do. In so doing, he is attaining to the perfected likeness of Him who was meek and harmless, undefiled and separate from sinners. Such a life is beautiful. Such a life is worth living,—and to such a life death is only beginning to live.

"Life is real, life is earnest,
And the grave is not the goal.
Dust thou art, to dust returnest,
Was not spoken of the soul."

What can I say of the deceased ones. The days of their sickness were the most beautiful. In health they shed lustre over the once happy, but now sombre home. In their kindly greeting, the stranger felt himself at home. By their kindly spirit, the one with the other, the angel of peace ever brooded over. In sickness and distress they especially shed the glory of Him who had called them from darkness into his marvellous light. God wisely ordered that the weaker should be called first. Like a tender plant her constitution would not endure the shock produced by the death of mother and sister. To the stronger His grace was sufficient, as in weakness His strength was perfected. The graces in her like perfumes, the more they were pressed by affliction, the sweeter they smell; or like the alabaster box of precious ointment, when broken fills the house with fragrance. For having endured, she like her sister passed away with texts of scripture on her lips,—that life perfected could breathe the prayer, "Come Lord Jesus, come quickly." They are gone, but only gone before; they are not dead, but sleepeth. Husband and father, son and brother, daughter and sister, hear the silent and solemn eloquent voice coming from the tomb, saying, "Weep not! Be ye ready! Meet us here! For

A Positive Fact.—Nervousness is the unstrung nerves, or the lack of stability of the nervous system, as distinguished from the rest of the body. It is necessarily a disease, and is more frequently amongst the Northern and Eastern part of the United States and the Dominion of Canada than in any other part of the world. We will not stop to say why the Yankee race, but we do say positively say the Yankee race, but we do say positively say the Yankee race, but we do say positively say

The widow of Sarepta's store, though scanty

When 400 the Prophet's wants supplied, be-

Her meal and oil; and if we would like her

A double blessing, likewise, we the needy must ...relieve.
God can and will supply the needs of His own

He grants this privilege, that all may help who

What tho' His cake is giv'n He will a thousand

But have we self-denied to have the more to

How and the contrast from the saints of Mace-

Deep did rank wonders to sustain their suff'ring

Though deep in poverty. But learn—the secret
...lay in this:
They first themselves gave to the Lord, then
...all they had was His.
Beauty'as grand; but yet we have a higher ...pattern still
In Him who said, "Twas His delight to do His

Who rich, for our sakes poor became, that

In riches of His Kingdom. Then as heirs of glory
...we,
If He for us laid down His life, will for our

What would enable them to be partakers with

By kind deeds love will show itself, and sacri-

Thus, can a Christian ever grudge to give for
...Jesus' sake.

How watchful lest these threat'ning words to

Should on us be pronounc'd, and God, in anger
...just, withhold
From us the light. Of such a state, no surer
...sign can be
When people cry, "This constant give, what
...profit is it to me."
But let us seek to win the praise of her who ...fainted not—
While laboring was patientful, and good of
...others sought.
Thus I we oft dishonor God, relying on our own
...Way of devising means, instead of trusting
...Him alone.
The gold and silver he commands, His hand is ...ever still,
And if we confidently cry, He will His word
...fulfil
To us, and willing hearts dispose, the gifts in

Into His treasury will pour with cheerful readi-

True sympathy lends succor as it cries the

And if all these would give to feel, who such

What happy fruits through agus all, would from

And if to give more blessed is than to receive,
...now unveil
To join the anthem glorious, "How beautiful

Of them who tidings good do bring," thus would
...their joys increase.
When timely aid a welcome gives the mes-

Prince Bismarck is working with extraordinary vigor.

Some weekly and provincial newspapers have for some weeks past asserted that Lord Lytton was coming home directly, and they have made various nominations of his successor in the Vice-Royalty, including Lord Dufferin and the present Under-Secretary of State for India. The Times semi-officially asserts that there is no truth whatever in the reports that Lord Lytton is desirous of leaving India, and hence it follows that there is no question of choosing his successor.

MY DEAR DOCTOR:—A few weeks since I had a conversation with my janitress as to a paralytic brother-in-law. He was stricken paralytically two years ago; the right side entirely paralyzed, including the right arm and the right leg. He had not earned a penny during the time; at my request he purchased and used a bottle of your Iodide of Ammonia; before the bottle was one-half used, he could raise his arm and control his leg. He continued the application until he had used a second bottle, and is now earning two dollars a day, and keeps up his work well. Use this certificate as you please. Very truly. GEO. G. SICKELS, 111 Nassau St. N. Y., March 4th, 1876. Dr. WM. M. GELSE, 451 Sixth Ave.

DANCING AND DRESS.—In the course of a recent lecture at Ottawa, Dr. Logan made the following sensible remarks in regard to dancing and dress. PETERBOROUGH, FEB. 19, 1880.

PROTECTION FROM FIRE.

The question of fire protection has been brought very forcibly before the attention of the people of this town by the disaster of the 6th inst., and we are brought face to face with the unpleasant fact that the facilities afforded for extinguishing fires are totally inadequate to affording like security. It is, indeed, almost providential that the conflagration at the Dixon block was confined to its limits, extensive as the loss was even then, as had the night been attended with high wind, the destruction must have involved the best portion of George Street. The case was very fairly and forcibly placed before the Council last week by Mr. Stevenson, and it is to be hoped that the Council will, in some measure at least, follow out the suggestions made on the occasion. We must do the Chairman of the Fire Committee the justice to say, that he has repeatedly endeavored to induce the Council to take action in the direction now contemplated, but has been met with such discouragement that nothing has resulted. Now, however, circumstances have forced the matter before the Board in such a shape that we may hope for some prompt and prudent action. The Fire Committee have been instructed to consider the whole question of fire protection and advise the Council thereon, and we have no doubt that the Committee will perform their duty very thoroughly. What is needed, most evidently, is, first, additional hose; secondly, a hose tower; thirdly, uniform couplings, and fourthly, a reserve engine to be used in event of an extensive outbreak, or in such an emergency as is liable to arise at any moment, as the dissabling of one engine. It is hardly necessary to dwell upon the necessity of the immediate acquisition of at least 1,000 feet of additional hose. The want of a hose tower is equally apparent. As it is, the hose has to be left wet upon the roofs where it rots by the damp, and thus the corporation property is squandered by this improvidence, and what is more dangerous, the hose is liable to burst at any moment, perhaps in the critical stage of a conflagration, leaving the efforts of the firemen powerless. The purchase of a second engine would afford security which we do not have now. An accident is liable to happen at any time to disable the engine, no matter how great the care, and we might thus be left without any means of offering opposition to the progress of destruction. With two engines the danger of such a disaster would be avoided, and the means of checking fires would be so increased that much less time would be required to overcome a fire, and the loss and damage would, in all cases, be greatly reduced. In this way the cost involved, which is not great at the present time, owing to the competition between manufacturers, would be returned, under ordinary conditions, in a few months. We trust the Council will weigh these considerations well, and not allow the costly economy to rule, which, for the saving of a few hundred dollars, is annually losing thousands. It is to be borne in mind, too, that the cost of insurance is based upon the degree of security afforded by the means of prevention, and with thorough system and appliances, we have no doubt this heavy tax upon householders and owners of property would be materially reduced. The proposition of Mr. Stevenson, that George Street, should be protected by water works, constructed by the levying of a special rate, is a good one, but it is outside the question as it has been considered by the Council. If water can be laid down the length of George Street, at the cost, as stated, of $14,000, which would involve a tax upon property on that street for interest and sinking fund, of some $1,000 a year for 21 years, we have no hesitation in saying that the saving in insurance rates alone would pay for the necessary expenditure. But this would only benefit that street, and would afford no protection to the rest of the town. We hope to see the Council at its next meeting deal with the question of fire protection, when it comes up for consideration, in an intelligent and liberal manner, and deal with it promptly.

TOWN FINANCES.

No doubt those who pay the town taxes have a natural curiosity to know what becomes of their money, and how the town finances are managed. We have therefore taken the trouble to ascertain the various sources of income and expenditure, and to prepare a statement of the amount received and expended during the year 1879, which is given below :—

This statement gives a total expenditure of $41,266.65, against receipts amounting to $42,143.79, showing a balance to carry forward to this year's account of $1,256.94. The Council of last year are entitled to the credit for prudent management which kept the expenditure so creditably within bounds, and we have no doubt that in this respect the present Council will follow their example. The item for printing purports to be $231.84, whereas in reality the cost of the ordinary printing was only $136; the difference beings accounts paid from last year, and bill posting. The item for police court income and expenditure, affords food for reflection. The total receipts from 1874 to 1876 inclusive, were only $966.90, while the receipts for 1879 alone were $968.13. In 1877, the year in which the present Clerk of the police court was appointed, they amounted to $566.46; in 1878, to $616.47; and in 1879, to $968.13. Thus the fees of the police court alone, last year, paid Mr. Macdonald's salary, $150 as Clerk of the Court, and $800 as Clerk of the town, leaving to the town a balance of $818.13, or $76.43 more than the total receipts for 1874. This shows in a very convincing manner the advantage of having a police court clerk to collect the fees imposed by the magistrate, instead of leaving them, as was formerly done, to find their own way into the town treasury.

THE POULTRY SHOW.

Midland Central Poultry Association.

FOURTH ANNUAL EXHIBITION—SUCCESSFUL SHOW—LIST OF PRIZE WINNERS—SPLENDID DISPLAY OF FINE STOCK.

The Midland Central Poultry Association held their fourth annual exhibition in this town, opening on Tuesday last, and closing on Thursday evening. The "birds" arrived in town on Monday evening and Tuesday morning, and during the whole of the latter day up to 3 p. m., Messrs. John Taylor, Jas. Scalter, and John McClelland were as busy as beavers in the work of unpacking, assorting and classifying the fowls, and arranging them in the proper shape for display, upon which work being completed, the doors were locked and the room left to the judges, Mr. Sharp Butterfield, of Sandwich, Ont., and his assistants. At 10 o'clock on Wednesday the doors were thrown open to the public. The exhibit, as a whole, was most creditable, the entries being numerous, each class being fully represented, and each up to a high standard of merit. The most gratifying feature to those who take an interest in promoting fine poultry breeding, was the marked improvement apparent, especially in the local exhibits, as compared with the show of last year, showing that the work of the Society is already beginning to produce good results, and auguring well for the future. Those who raise fowls at all are beginning to recognize how much more profit there is in securing superior stock, and we doubt not, before many years, the work of this society will not only be perceptible on our markets, but in the pockets of poultry raisers. The number of entries was 194 divided among the following classes :—

Brahmas	26
Cochins	25
Dorkings	8
Spanish	5
Plymouth Rocks	24
Leghorns	21
Houdans	8
Games	7
Hamburgs	21
Polands	15
Bantams	13
Ducks	3
Geese and Turkeys	7
Canaries	11
	194

The best exhibits were in the lines of Brahmas, Cochins and Leghorns, and in all three classes, especially the last, there was a very evident improvement on last year's show. The display of Brahmas and Cochins was especially excellent, and that of Polands was particularly good. In Brahmas, R. Hall, J. McClelland, Isaac Dormer, Messrs. Hope and Charlesworth of Toronto, W. Hall of Newcastle, and J. Howden of Millbrook, showed some very fine stock, and gave the judge no little difficulty in deciding where to place the 2nd and 3rd prize cards. The chicks were splendidly developed and showed fine points of breeding, especially in the case of those shown by J. McClelland and Wm. Hall. The pairs of fowls shown by Robert Hall and J. McClelland were greatly admired, particularly the fine pair of light fowls shown by Robert Hall, in which he took first prize both last year and this. The class of Cochins was, if any thing, superior to the Brahmas. A pair of buffs, by J. McClelland, showed superior breeding, as well as a pair of buff chicks by Mr. Pratley. A pair of partridge chicks by J. Scalter, were beautifully pencilled, and white fowls and white chicks by Mr. Charlesworth, who was a large exhibitor in this class, were the objects of much encomium. J. Graham of Cavan, and Messrs. Hope, Harper and Montgomery also contributed fine birds to the display of Cochins. In Dorkings, Mr. Charlesworth showed a fine pair of silver gray chicks, as also Mrs. Glover of Ashburnham and Jas. Baptie, who took 2nd and 3rd prizes. Mr. Baptie's colored fowls and Mr. McClelland's colored chicks were greatly admired. In Spanish, Mr. Baptie had a handsome pair of fowls, and Mr. G. M. Roper, of chicks. Jas. Fullerton, editor of the Strathroy Poultry Review, showed a pair of Plymouth Rocks, which showed thorough breeding, and Mr. Scalter had a good display in the same line. The latter had also a very fine pair of White Leghorn chicks. In this class the veteran breeder, A. Stohlschmidt, of Preston, had an extensive and very fine display. Messrs. Ballen, Charlesworth and Graham showed some handsome birds. In Houdans, S. F. Allan took a first prize for chicks, and a splendid pair were shown by Mr. T. E. Bell, opinion being divided as to which was the superior of the two pairs. In Games, J. McClelland had a superior lot of birds, taking three prizes, 1st in Black Reds, in which line also Mr. O'Brien took 2nd in a well-bred pair. Wm. Hall, of Newcastle, showed largely in this class, taking 1st prize in Black Red Chicks and Pile Chicks, the stock showing very fine points. In Hamburgs, J. Graham, of Cavan, came to the front with a fine display of Golden Spangled Fowls and Chicks, taking 1st and 2nd in both lines. Wm. Hall's Pencilled Fowls and Chicks were also superior and took 1st and 2nd in both classes. James Baptie in Silver Spangled Fowls; H. G. Charlesworth in do. Chicks, J. Scalter in Pencilled Fowls and Chicks, Mrs. Glover in Black Fowls; and Geo. Hope in Black Fowls, had specially fine exhibits. In Polands, Mr. Geo. Hope, of Yorkville, took the lead with a splendid display, taking first in all classes except Golden Spangled Chicks, in which H. Ballen captured 1st prize. Ralph Richardson, of Millbrook, and Mrs. Glover had some good stock in this class. Mr. Charlesworth's Bantams attracted much attention, and a creditable display in the same class was made by Dr. Harvey, Geo. Hope and Maxwell Hall. A pair of Pekin Ducks, by Mr. Charlesworth, were worthy of special mention, as also a pair of Turkeys by T. E. Bell, of Smith's Some very handsome and finely-bred Canaries were shown by J. H. Roper, Rev. Mr. Greene, Mrs. Glover and John McClelland. The exhibition was a most successful one and to those not in immediate charge of the show, and despite the "barbarous dissonance" which would have driven St. Peter to distraction, and made no conjecture that Old Father Noah must have had a rough time of it in the ark, the hall was well filled with visitors during the time the stock was on exhibition. The Committee, which consisted of R. Hall, President; John Taylor, Vice-President; Jas. Scalter, Sec'y-Treasurer, and Messrs. J. McClelland, H. Nesbitt, T. E. Bell and I. Dormer, are to be complimented upon their excellent arrangements, and the success which attended their efforts. The following is the

GOVERNMENT AID TO RAILWAYS.

Elsewhere will be found an account from the Globe, of an interview between the Premier of the Province, and an influential deputation asking aid from the Government for the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, from which it will be seen that the views urged on Mr. Mowat by Messrs. Dumble, Blezard and others were favorably received. Mr. Scott, owing to the fact of his illness, which we all regret, was not able to be present, but the claims of the enterprise upon the assistance of the Government were fairly and forcibly set forth by gentlemen representing the country from Lake Huron to Ottawa. We believe there is good reason to hope that the Government will see the importance and the justice of coming to the aid of an undertaking which so vitally concerns the welfare of a section of the Province which heretofore has received only a very small share of the large public expenditure on account of railways. Keeping this in view, it would be the heighth of folly for the people of this section, where the project had its inception, and who are chiefly interested in its success, to throw cold water upon it at so critical a juncture, as they are asked to do by the advocates of the monopoly to free us from which the Toronto and Ottawa scheme was set on foot. We have no doubt that the By-law now before the county will be carried by a large majority, but we would urge upon the attention of the ratepayers, that a very pronounced and decided opinion expressed at the polls on Saturday, will go far to warrant the Provincial Government in making a liberal grant towards the construction of the road. Before going to the polls, each ratepayer should reflect that the success of the road means 1st, the immediate expenditure within the borders of the County of $300,000; 2nd, reduced freight on shipments of produce and importations of goods; 3rd, a proportionate reduction in the selling price of merchants' stock; 4th, an advance of some THE CENTS in the selling price of every bushel of grain sold on Peterborough market. The better the vote given on Saturday for the railway by-law, the more certain will be the prospect of liberal aid from the Government, and the sooner we may expect to see the road under construction.

THE DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

The second session of the present Parliament was opened with the usual formalities, on Thursday last. The programme of the Government, as embodied in the Speech from the Throne, which will be found elsewhere, is literally, as Mr. Mackenzie suggested, a Lenten bill of fare, and suggests nothing in the way of promise of legislation, that can be regarded with anything but apprehension, not diminished by the public knowledge of the reckless manner in which the Head of the Government is ever ready to plunge into radical change, whenever political expediency comes to be considered. The speech opens with a reference to the abundant harvest—for which the Government certainly have cause to be grateful, as only that saved the Taxation Tariff from a full demonstration of the nefarious robbery of the industry of the people involved in its effects. The allusion to the "returning prosperity," in the face of the daily parade of starvation before the very doors of the Ministers, was singularly incongruous, and was not at all needed to suggest a reason to the House of Commons for a liberal grant to aid the sufferers in Ireland. The references to the question of immigration and to the Pacific Railway contracts, we shall reserve for more extended consideration. In regard to the tariff, the Government announce that its effect in developing industries has been "on the whole" very satisfactory, but that they contemplate making some amendments. That the tariff has been even in any measure successful in promoting industries, we utterly and absolutely deny. If we except the, Redpath Sugar refinery, a monopoly which is said to have made a million of dollars of profit since the institution of the new tariff, there is no industry in Canada that has been benefitted. On the contrary the most important of them all, the manufacturers of the various classes of agricultural machinery and implements, have been subjected to a grievous impost in the increased cost of their coal and raw materials, which, but for the splendid harvest and good prices, would have had the effect of shutting the doors of almost every implement factory in the country. It is regrettable that the Government have considered to rob their tariff of the only merit to which it could attain, by announcing their intention of tinkering with it as the very first session after that which put in force. It is hardly necessary to bring argument to prove that the most essential feature of a fiscal policy in any country is permanency, and that those who embark their means in trade, and take risks based upon an existing condition of affairs, ought not to be subjected to the disturbing influence of a changeable tariff. Yet here we find that we have a tariff which cost the country $6,000 for advice alone given to the Finance Minister, and which was presented to the House of Commons last year, as the result of mature consideration, undergoing the process of "modification." What that modification will be, we know not; but it is clear that it will rather be in the way of creating new monopolies than of relieving the people from their intolerable burden of taxation. But it is in the promise of new legislation that we find the greatest cause for alarm. From what we have seen of the present Government, we know that re-organization of the civil service, means pensioning upon the country the hard-up shiftless and needy poor relations and hangers-on of the Conservative party, at the expense of all public servants who do not bow the knee to our political Baal. The work of Yankeefying our public service, entered upon last year is, it appears, to be completed, and such obnoxious officials as cannot be decently dismissed will doubtless find their 'usefulness' removed by the political legislation of this model Government. The proposal to legislate concerning currency, is perhaps even more to be deprecated than that to disorganize the public service. "Grit" officials may be replaced by Conservatives, and, beyond the principle involved, the interests of the country may not suffer; but when it comes to tampering with the questions of banking and commerce and currency, interests of far greater importance than the welfare of any party are involved, and the country may well view with apprehension the handling of such, delicate and difficult subjects by people of so reckless disposition as has governed the present Ministry since their accession to office. It may be that the sober good sense of the House of Commons, in the face of measures of so critical a nature, will assert itself superior to that blind partizanship which has sanctioned so many unwise and imprudent acts on the part of Sir John Macdonald; but the leniency evinced by the Finance Minister towards the dangerous notions promulgated by Mr. Wallace, give us reason to view meddling with the question of currency, by the present Government, with unmixed alarm.

Bible Christian Anniversary.

The services of the above anniversary were held on Sunday and Monday last. In the morning the Rev. E. Roberts preached a suitable sermon founded on the concluding paragraph of the prayer offered by Solomon at the dedication of the Temple at Jerusalem, and in the afternoon the Rev. W. C. Beer addressed a large and highly appreciative audience on the "Relationship, dignity and inconceivable glory of the Son of God" and at night the Rev. gentleman enforced the duty of "Individual christians letting their light shine as a means of blessing humanity and honoring God."

On Monday the annual tea was held. The provision was ample, and excellent, and the attendance good. After full justice had been done at the tables the audience repaired to the church above where under the direction of the Pastor a very successful meeting was held. We gathered from the report read the following facts. There was about a year ago an indebtedness in the entire property of $6,000. There was a loan effected in England of $3,000 at 6 per cent per annum which enabled the Trustees of the church to pay off $3,000 borrowed in Canada thus saving sixty dollars yearly in interest. Immediately after last anniversary the Trustees were resolved to pay off the $1,000 that was still borrowed at 8 per cent. $630 was then paid and the year's accounts show that a further reduction is now possible. Total expenditure during the year $210; receipts $450; leaving $240 to be applied to reduce the debt. This congregation is to be congratulated on the gradual extinction of its debt; and the increasing favourable circumstances that surround it, and as the pews in the church are rented at the rate of one dollar a year for each individual, none need be deterred from attending the house of God and especially as there are a large number of seats that are free to all and to which any whose circumstances will not permit of renting are most cordially invited.

The speakers of the evening were the Rev. Messrs Starr, Torrance and Bear, who gave short practical and eloquent addresses, that were interspersed by a selection of anthems rendered by the Church Choir in their best style. The speeches and singing elicited the hearty approbation and thanks of the meeting that was closed in the ordinary manner. Proceeds of the anniversary about $65.

Vengeance at Cabul.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Gen. Roberts reports from Cabul that before Nov. 12th about seventy-three men were executed, viz:—the magistrate and six others for dishonoring the bodies of the officers of the British Embassy; seventeen convicted for attacking escorts to the Embassy and having property of the Embassy; forty-nine for proved murders of camp-followers and implication in the attack on the British Residency. Since Nov. 19th nine men have been executed for attacking the Residency, and fifteen more were sentenced to death for killing wounded soldiers, and implication in the attack on the Residency.

The "Myrtle Navy" tobacco is not burdened with the usual costs which swell the price of most articles to the consumer. The firm employ no travellers whatever, their orders come to them instead of being sought by them. The merchant does not require to keep a large stock on hand swelling its price with interest, for the factory is an immediate source of supply to him, at the cost of a postal card or at most a telegram. He loses nothing, therefore from being overstocked. The article is a staple one for which there is no constant a demand as for wheat or flour, and the merchant can, therefore, sell it at the minimum rate of profit.

THE HORSE.—Of the great number of animals under the control of man, the horse is unquestionably the most serviceable;" but is it not strange that so many who own horses, and who are dependent on their labour for a living, should suggest to give them that care and attention which their own interest no less than the safety and comfort of the horse demands? The best remedy for horses is "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy;" of this these can be no doubt. It is safe and easily given. Remember the name, and see that the directions of Read & Co. in on each package, Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medicine dealers.

THE PROPOSED CONSOLIDATION.

Meeting in North Monaghan—The By-law Endorsed.

On Monday evening a meeting of the freeholders of North Monaghan was held at the town hall, when a large number of the principal farmers of the township were present. Mr. Henry Collins, Reeve of the township, occupied the chair, and stated briefly the object of the meeting.

Mr. DUMBLE, on being introduced, rehearsed the history of the Toronto and Ottawa enterprise, pointing out that though it had originally been intended to make Toronto the western terminal point, it had been, after the failure of Toronto to pass its bonus, thought advisable to have the road terminate at Peterborough, leaving Toronto to make a connection if it chose. It was by many thought an advantage to have the road terminate here, as more likely to develop the trade of the town, and as the real object to be attained by building the road was to get a direct outlet for our grain and produce, and cheap rates of freights. These would be afforded when the line was opened to Ottawa, making the connection with the road to Montreal direct. This would leave the money voted by the town and county to be all spent between Peterborough and the eastern border of the county. This alteration in the project made some slight changes necessary in the By-law granting aid to the road, and it was the object of this new By-law to effect such changes. He indicated the changes, which were not of any great moment. The million dollar clause would have to be dropped, as the road not being carried to Toronto it was not necessary to have a million voted. It was a senseless condition any way, and had only been inserted to facilitate the work of getting bonuses east. It had accomplished its purpose and was of no further use. No such condition was in any of the other By-laws granting aid. They had, however, got $630,000 in bonuses. What we want is to get the road built; if that was secured, we need not care what amount of bonuses the road got. It was not reasonable to place such a condition upon the Company. He explained the manner in which the money voted would be paid. Three trustees would be appointed, one by the Government, one by the heads of the municipalities which vote the bonuses, and one by the Company, and these would see that the money was paid out according as the Company complied with the conditions under which aid was given. Under the old bill these trustees were to dispose of the debentures "under the directions of the Company," but in the bill lately passed those words were struck out, to prove the good faith of the Company and their willingness to leave the interests of the county secure in every direction. He pointed out the advantage this road would be to the farmer. They understood that in order to turn their produce into money, it was necessary to find a market for it. The cost of getting it to market comes off the grain. It now cost, he believed, four cents a bushel to take grain to Port Hope, before it started on its way to Montreal. This road would give the same freight rate from here to Montreal as from Port Hope, and if the four cents a bushel could be saved it would go directly into the hands of the farmers. He believed there had been some 6,000 bushels of grain sold on the street to-day. If they had the road the Ottawa built, the farmers who sold it would have exactly $240 more money in their pockets. Looking at the cost of the bonus, he explained that on an assessment of $6,000, which was fair average, the rate would be $0.60 a year for 20 years. Supposing the farmer raised 1,000 bushels of grain—a low estimate—the saving of freight, which would be added to the selling price of his grain would be exactly $60, giving him nearly $30 of clear profit, without taking into account the other benefits they would secure from the railway. It was the farmers in fact who would be the real stockholders and draw the dividends of the road. He referred to the sudden and suspicious interest which certain people had all at once manifested in the welfare of the people, and thought it peculiar that it was Grand Trunk ticket and other agents who were so anxious that this By-law should be defeated. He would go for that class of men rough shod, and he believed they had one of them in the audience. This enterprise had had to meet Grand Trunk money and influence everywhere, and it was showing its hoof in this county now. The Midland railway was opposed to the road too because they were going to lose the four cents a bushel for freight which the farmers were going to gain, and that would explain why they were so much afraid lest this By-law should be passed. He referred to a document being circulated by the parties opposing the road purporting to be an opinion by Mr. Jas. Dennistoun. He had a great respect for Mr. Dennistoun, but this opinion was a mere string of words calculated to mislead and deceive the public. He analyzed the document, showing that it contained nothing but what was set forth in the By-law, except in the last clause respecting the indemnity bond. This seemed to imply that if the Grand Junction secured the $75,000 voted them nine years ago, of which there was not the slightest probability, the county would have to pay both the $75,000 and the $150,000. This was folly. The fact was the Company had given the bond of indemnity and it was in possession of the county. They had not even asked for the issue of debentures as yet, and had in every respect dealt honestly, fairly and squarely with the county in the matter. Mr. Dennistoun's opinion did not go far enough. He of course was giving answers to a series of questions asked by the Grand Trunk agents, for which he was paid, but had he been asked further, he would have said that the Court of Chancery would restrain the Company from receiving more than $75,000 if the Grand Junction ever succeeded in getting the $75,000.

Mr. MENZIES said they were using the county anyway, and Hector Cameron said she could collect it.

Mr. DUMBLE said Mr. Bethune had argued the case in the Court, and told him that Chief Justice Hagarty laughed as the claim presented.

Mr. WM. CLUXTON was called on, and said what they had to consider was whether the road would benefit them or not. He would give them a few facts that might help them to make up their minds. This question had come up at a meeting in town a short time ago and it was said then that the road was for the benefit of the farmers and let the farmers build it. For his part he believed that anything that benefited the county benefited the town too. There had long been a feeling that we ought to have better railway facilities. The monopoly of the Grand Trunk had been a great hindrance to the business of the county. The Toronto and Ottawa would enable us to save the cost of freight to Port Hope. The freight on 50 bushels to Port Hope was four cents a bushel, or $2. If this railway was built, that $2 would go into the pocket of the farmer. As it is, the buyer has to take this 4 cents off the price of the grain. The price of wheat at Peterborough is four cents less than at Port Hope, because of the freight that has to be paid to get it to that point. If they were able to save the cost of freight it would be clear that the farmer who sold 1,000 bushels of grain, would get exactly $40 more for it. The Grand Trunk discriminated in its freight charges greatly to the disadvantage of the back country. He had known wool to be shipped from Port Hope to Toronto and re-shipped from there to Boston because of the cheaper rates offered to through than to local traffic. Probably if he consulted his own interests he would not be there to oppose the Grand Trunk, as he was a large shipper over that road, but he believed it to be in the interest of the county that the road to Ottawa should be built. They could see what benefit competion would bring about by the rate of freight in the summer when navigation was open. Then, the Grand Trunk charged 5 cents a bushel from Port Hope to Montreal, but the minute navigation was closed it cost 20 cents per cwt. or 15 cents a bushel. If this railway was built, that couldn't take place, and he would be able to give 10 cents a bushel more for the grain he bought. They should remember too, that the low summer rates were no benefit to the farmer, for it is in the winter when the rates are high that the grain is sold. He considered that the building of this road would be worth at least $5 to the farmers on every load of grain they took to market. Compared with the small sum this bonus would impose in the way of taxes, they would then receive a very large return in the enhanced prices of grain and produce. By having a competing line to the seaboard, the Grand Trunk would be compelled to abandon their arbitrary and extortionate charges, by which freights were sometimes cheaper from Chicago to Liverpool than from Port Hope to Liverpool. This road would place Peterborough as near the market as Port Hope, and would no doubt be a very great and direct benefit to every person in the county.

Mr. MENZIES asked how much wheat was exported in a year?

Mr. CLUXTON said, taking flour and grain, there were 800,000 bushels exported last year. If by securing this competing line they were to save ten cents a bushel on this output, the County would gain in one year $80,000, or one-third the entire cost of the railway to them.

Mr. MENZIES said he had been told that the export of grain was only 250,000 bushels.

Mr. CLUXTON said Mr. Menzies was either misinformed or wanted to deceive the people.

Mr. MENZIES said he had been told so at the Midland Railway. He proceeded to state that he was ticket agent for the Grand Trunk for eleven years, and of course he got paid for his work, but he opposed this By-law because he didn't want to see any more taxes put on. They were told about Grand Trunk money, but he had never got a dollar and had never even got a letter from the Grand Trunk about the matter.

Mr. DUMBLE said it was clear that Mr. Menzies went to the Midland for his inspiration. He had hired an agent to hawk around a petition against the By-law, and had gone to Toronto with a petition with three names on it. Of course he was doing all this out of his own pocket! (Laughter.) He never got a dollar or a letter from the Grand Trunk—of course not! But his friend, the white-headed boy of the Grand Trunk, the editor of the Times, received long envelopes with G. T. R. on them, and the money found it way around somehow.

Mr. CLUXTON thought it singularly bad taste on the part of Mr. Menzies, occupying the position of Grand Trunk agent, to make his opposition to this railway so conspicuous.

Mr. MENZIES—What's the use of going to Ottawa? You'll be stuck when you get there. That won't take you to Montreal.

Mr. CLUXTON said Mr. Menzies must be ignorant of what railways were in existence, or else he wanted to deceive them. He ought to know very well that the Toronto and Ottawa would join the Occidental, now built from Ottawa to Montreal, making direct communication with the market for export.

Mr. MENZIES said he was not so much opposed to the railway, but he wanted the Company to build it themselves. If they would let him alone he would never attend another meeting or say a word against it.

Mr. Collins then addressed the meeting briefly, after which he asked them in the usual way for an expression of opinion. Only two hands were held up against the By-law, one of them being the head of Mr. Menzies, which was greeted with great applause.

On motion of Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Cluxton, a vote of thanks was given to the chairman.

Mr. John Burnett moved, seconded by Mr. J. Dunlop, that a vote of thanks be given to the gentlemen from Peterborough for their addresses, and the meeting adjourned. North Monaghan is sound on the railway question and will give the By-law a strong vote.

THE TORONTO AND OTTAWA RAILWAY.

Opinion of Mr. C. A. Weller, County Attorney.

C. A. WELLER, Esq.,

SIR,—I herewith submit to you the By-law of the County of Peterborough, passed in November, 1875, granting aid to the Huron and Quebec, now the Toronto and Ottawa Railway Company, and the new By-law now before the electors, and request that you will answer the following questions:

1st. In reference to the claim of the Grand Junction Railway Company against the County for $75,000, is the position of the County in any way altered or affected by the new By-law now before the people, and is the old By-law affected at all as to the Grand Junction claim by the new By-law?

2nd. In case the claim of the Grand Junction Railway Company, which is now before the Court, is decided against the County, would the County be compelled, under the old or new By-law, to pay over to Trustees for the Toronto and Ottawa Railway Company the whole $150,000, or would the Trustees be compelled to pay over to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway Company the whole of the $150,000?

3rd. If the new By-law fails to carry, does the old By-law continue in force?

Yours truly,
D. W. DUMBLE.

Peterborough, Feb. 18, 1880.

D. W. DUMBLE, Esq.,

SIR,—In answer to the first question which you have this morning submitted to me, I am of the opinion that the question between the County and the Grand Junction Railway Company can in no way be affected by the new By-law referred to. The rights and remedies of that Company remain as they are to-day.

As to the second question the rule is that a party who seeks equity must do equity. Therefore, I am of the opinion that if the County is required to pay the $75,000 to the Grand Junction by reason of the Toronto and Ottawa failing to make good their contract of indemnity, the Trustees would be at liberty to apply so much of the $150,000 as might be necessary for such indemnity, and that the Toronto and Ottawa could compel them to pay only the balance remaining.

As to the last question, if the new By-law fails to carry, obviously matters remain precisely as they were before it was submitted.

C. A. WELLER.

The first approaches of consumption are so insidious that thousands remain unconscious of its presence until it has brought them to the verge of the grave. The immediate use of "Byrne's Pulmonic Wafers" upon the first appearance of the cough, pain or soreness of the throat or chest, would generally preclude a fatal result; therefore, when you take a cold, use "Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers," and thus prevent the necessity for taking them in more dangerous complaints. To be obtained of all druggists and country dealers at 25 cents a box.

Thrashing by Steam.—On Friday last our reporter found his way to the residence of Mr. Jos. Redmond, in the township of Otonabee, where there was a large gathering of the principal farmers of the township, attracted thither by the operation, unwonted in this part of the country, of a threshing mill working by steam power. Mr. Redmond's farm is situated some six miles from town on the Keene road, and is easily reached as yet approach, by the evidences of thrift which are apparent everywhere. Clean land, good fences, a general aspect of tidiness visible everywhere, and a handsome two-story brick dwelling, surrounded by capacious barns and outbuildings, afford convincing proof of what thrift and industry is able to extract from the soil of this Canada of ours. Mr. Redmond's horses are well worth a six miles' drive to inspect, so any person at all interested in agriculture, and the admirable arrangement of his cattle stables, in which some 65 head of stock are kept up, shows that he understands the true economy of liberal expenditure in first-class stock, and first-class provision for them. The principal interest on Saturday, however, was centered in the threshing mill, where there was at work one of those new machines which have at the West almost wholly supplanted the old-fashioned threshing-mill. The "Grain Saver" is a machine manufactured by L. D. Sawyer & Co., of the Hamilton Agricultural Works. It is totally different, both in appearance and construction, from the ordinary threshing mill. The cylinder has teeth on every bar, instead of every other bar, the teeth being curved instead of straight. The grain, on a sheet being fed into the machine, drops directly into the separator, and the straw instead of being carried forward on canvas is carried off over an "agitator" by which the straw is thoroughly shaken up, and every particle of grain detached. The work of the separator is simply perfect, and not only Mr. Redmond but several other veterans threshers unqualifiedly gave it as their opinion that the "Grain Saver" was the best machine they had ever seen at work. The construction of the mill is singularly simple. There are only four belts about the whole machine, and in this respect we may observe that on that account it requires one man the less to work it. There being none of that elaborate "gearing" which on the ordinary machine is to one man's work to attend to. The capacity of the machine is 120 bushels an hour, and an average grain it turns out 1000 bushels a day with the greatest ease. It is estimated that from the superior manner which the machine performs its work, and the perfectness of its separating, its use saves more than grain enough over the ordinary thresher to pay for the work, and from the opinions passed by old threshers at Mr. Redmond's we do not doubt but that such is the case. With the "Grain Saver" there was also one of these celebrated "Fire-proof Champion" engines manufactured by Watrous & Co., Brantford, specially for barn-yard use. This engine is so constructed that it is absolutely impossible for the smallest spark or cinder to escape from the smokestack. Over the top of the pipe through which the smoke escapes is an iron cover like an inverted basin, one eighth of an inch above a chamber filled with water. The smoke escapes easily, but all sparks and cinders are forced into the water. The method is simple but is ingenious, and what is better, works perfectly. The engine is strongly and durably built, is easy of management, and is so constructed that it is impossible for any accident to occur. The engine at work at Mr. Redmond's was a twelve horse-power, and did its work with the greatest ease. The value of engine power as compared with horse-power, is that no horses could work a thresher of the capacity of the "Grain Saver," while the steadiness of the power precludes the "bolting" of grain which occurs so frequently with horse-power. Another advantage too is that farmers can get their grain threshed in the fall for the early market without taking their teams from the work of ploughing and seeding. Mr. Redmond says the engine only consumed half a cord of stove-wood a day during its work at his place, and pronounces himself highly pleased with both the "Grain Saver" and the "Champion." We hope to see the machine and engine at work at Mr. Redmond's purchased by some of our Otonabee neighbors, and venture to prophesy that whoever has the enterprise to first make the investment, will be the most successful and prosperous thresher in the county. The machines were exhibited by Mr. Kirkland of Sawyer & Co's, and Mr. Benson of the Watrous Works. Mr. D. McLeod is resident agent for both machines.

POLICE COURT.

On Saturday last the irrepressible Lafayette F. Carpenter was up before the Cadi as complainant against John Kearns, whom he charged with assaulting him. The evidence showed that Carpenter had used some pretty unorthodox language, for which the Magistrate sharply approved him. The assault being proven, however, Kearns was fined $5.00 and costs.

On Monday a couple of Sunday drunks were adjudicated upon, John Powers and Hugh Riley being recognized by Chief Constable Johnson with having been drunk and disorderly on the public streets on the previous afternoon. Both parties, who had slept in the cooler, and appeared sober and sorry for it, pleaded guilty. Powers, having previously been convicted a number of times, had a fine of $5.00 or 21 days recorded against him, it being understood that he was to quit the locality before the 1st March. Riley, who had a better record, was let off with a fine of $1.00.

Henry Lee, a lazy lout, was up on Saturday, charged with vagrancy. He was sent up to the Central Prison for six months.

Personal.

—Mr. S. H. Henderson, for some time manager of the business of Parley & Co., whose store was burned out a short time since, left on Saturday for Toronto. Mr. Henderson's many good qualities had won for him many friends here, who view his departure with regret.

—Messrs. Dumble and Lyady returned from Toronto on Saturday.

—Mr. Burk, of the Norwood Register let the light of his countenance in upon our sanctum last week.

—Mr. D. A. O'Sullivan, barrister, who is now very seriously ill, is here under the care of his brother, Dr. O'Sullivan.

—Mr. Blezard, M.P.P., was among the guests at Government House, Toronto, at the official dinner of last week.

Surprise Party.

On the evening of Tuesday, the 6th, the residence of Rev. Mr. McDowall, Methodist clergyman at Fraserville, was taken possession of by a large number of gentlemen and ladies belonging to the congregation, who being provided with a comfortable supply of the good things provided by the ladies for such contingencies, comforted themselves and Mr. and Mrs. McDowall at a hearty supper, on the conclusion of which the proceedings were explained by the following address which was read by Mr. A. J. H. Strike, who also presented the purse which contained the snug sum of $20. Rev. Mr. McDowall and family are about to remove from Fraserville at the expiration of his present term, and the presentation was designed to mark the esteem in which both he and his amiable lady are so deservedly held by the community, especially among those of the church in which he ministers:—

ADDRESS.

DEAR MRS. MCDOWELL.—On behalf of the members of the Methodist Church and congregation at Fraserville, we avail ourselves of this opportunity of giving expression to the deep sense of obligation under which we have been placed by your earnest and unremitting efforts to promote the spiritual interests of our Church, and the social interests in particular, during your stay with us.

It is but in accord that your zealous and self-sacrificing labors in the interests of our church work are most highly appreciated by us, and we sincerely regret your removal from the sphere which has been the scene of your labors.

We are reminded, however, by the rapid flight of time, that your present relation to us, during which we have enjoyed so much of your love and sympathy, is fast drawing to a close; and as a matter of course, we can only manifest our appreciation of your services by a token of our esteem, which we now present, and which we trust will be a source of pleasure to you in your future labors.

We hope that you will join in saying to our esteemed Pastor, Rev. Mr. McDowall, our deep appreciation of his services as a minister of the Gospel, as well as a friend and brother.

[illegible] we commend you to the care of our Heavenly Father, and pray that you may be abundantly blessed in your future labors.

Signed on behalf of the congregation,

[illegible]

Mrs. McDowall then, on behalf of herself and husband, thanked the congregation for their kindness in a few appropriate words, and then your Mrs. [illegible] to work in the vineyard of the Divine Master. Which was responded to as follows:—

REPLY.

I feel deeply grateful to you, dear friends, for this very tangible expression of your appreciation of my very humble services in connection with the church in this place. If I have in any slight degree added to the interest of the worship of God, and to the welfare of the church, I feel that I have only done my duty and myself have derived real benefit and pleasure therefrom. So far as the church is concerned we have got almost more completely together and in our intercourse with each other no jarring strings have been found to mar the harmony of our [illegible] concerning the general [illegible] matters. In the spirit of love pervading the Ministerial system to which as a church we are committed will ever our aim be with each and every one of you wherever our lot may be cast. Thank you again most heartily for your kind wishes towards me and mine, and trust when earth's meetings and partings are o'er we shall all unite in the song:

Where the glorified throng,
In the midst of heavenly joys,—
Join all the glad choirs,
Hearts, voices and lyres,
And the burden is "Mercy Divine."

Signed, S. McDOWELL.

RESCUED TO DIE.—A young man by the name of George Hedson, bricklayer, Lindsay, while on his way home across the river Saturday night met with an accident which resulted fatally. He was found about three o'clock Sunday morning by Messrs. Maher and McCausland, who were aroused by his cries for help. When discovered, he was holding on to his canoe, the ice being open in places, and it is generally supposed that he drew the canoe after him wherever the ice was good, and paddled across the open places, and that while getting in he lost his balance. When rescued he was almost dead. Medical aid was summoned but arrived too late, as the poor fellow died shortly after being found.

The horses drawing the covered sleigh in which they rode ran off, the driver was thrown from his seat, and the sleigh was dragged on its side a distance of four hundred yards. Fortunately the side-decamp's sleigh was in advance, and the occupants of it courageously stopped the runaway animals before any serious harm was done. Her Royal Highness sustained several painful bruises, put is in a fair way towards recovery. The drawing-room was of course postponed.

Stolietoff, and that when Shere Ali quitted Afghanistan in December, 1878, he issued a firman to the authorities at Herat declaring Stolietoff had written him as follows:—"The Emperor desires that you should not admit the English into your country, and, like last year, you are to treat them with deceit until the cold weather passes away, then the Almighty's Will will be made manifest to you; that is to say, the Russian Government will come to your assistance, either by diplomatic action, which will entirely cut of all English communication and interference with Afghanistan, or events will end in a mighty and important war."

TORONTO AND OTTAWA R. R.

The Matter Before the Government.

ENCOURAGING INTERVIEW WITH THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

Saturday's Globe gives a report of the proceedings of the deputation which waited upon Hon. Mr. Mowat on the previous day, to urge upon the Government the advisability of granting aid to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway. The deputation was composed as follows, all being M.P.P.s., except Mr. Dumble:—Messrs. Deroche, Dumble, Paxton, Blezard, Bankerville, Chisholm, Gibson, (Hamilton), Boulter, Hawley, Metcalf, Merrick, Monk, Parkhill, Cook, Robinson, Caldwell, Calvin, McMahon, Morgan, Laidlaw, Awrey, Bell, Richardson, Broder.

Mr. Deroche introduced the deputation to the Attorney-General. He stated that the scheme of building a railway from Ottawa to Toronto, had been under discussion for some time, and that the matter had gone so far that bonuses to the amount of $937,000 had been granted by the municipalities along the purposed line. About 140 miles of the route had already been located. The project was an important one, as it would open up a very good section of country, parts of which were rich in minerals. It would also open up another means of communication with Boston and Portland.

Hon. Mr. Mowat—About what amount of money would you expect from the Government?

Mr. Deroche could not answer the question definitely, but Mr. Dumble possessed the necessary information.

Mr. Dumble alluded to the illness of Mr. Scott, who was more conversant with the whole matter than perhaps any member on the deputation. But the merits of this proposed railway were so thoroughly well known that they had merely to be stated to be recognized. At the time of the building of the Grand Trunk it was seriously proposed to build the road on a route just about where it was now proposed to build the new road, and he considered that that would have been a better location than the one which was finally adopted by that road. The people along the line thought that they would get back every cent that was granted to the Toronto and Ottawa road in the increased value of everything they produced. A line like this was necessary for the perfect development of the agricultural and mineral resources of the counties the road would run in. As the Attorney-General was well aware, the whole of the Province of Ontario lay north of the Grand Trunk line, and it was absolutely necessary that the Provinces should be intersected through its centre by railway lines. Merchants to the east of Toronto either had no facilities whatever, or had to depend entirely on the Grand Trunk. This was not a state of affairs that should exist long. There were six lines coming into Toronto, and yet there was only one outlet for them to the east. With a fair grant from the Government, and the bonuses from the municipalities, the scheme would be successfully floated, and would be a boon to that section of country, and even the Province at large.

Hon. Mr. Mowat asked how much per mile it would cost to build the road.

Mr. Dumble believed that $15,000 per mile would build a good road, for though the road at some parts ran through a rough country, yet the route was a favourable one, and would not be difficult to construct. Twenty miles of the proposed route would also be passed over by the Grand Junction Railway, so that for that space the same roadbed would serve the two railways. He trusted the Provincial Government would look on the scheme with favorable eyes.

Mr. Paxton was certain that the people in the section of country through which the railway would pass desired strongly to enjoy the railway facilities which this road would give them. Although he was against the wholesale granting of aid to railway projects, he believed that this case was an exceptionally meritorious one.

Mr. Blezard endorsed fully all that Mr. Dumble had advanced, and called the attention of the Attorney-General to the fact that the section of country in question had little or no Government aid for schemes of any kind.

Mr. Beakerville also warmly presented the views of the deputation.

Mr. Chisholm said that he was a railway man, and from his experience he believed that the Toronto and Ottawa road would be a successful one. It would of course be a competitor with the Grand Trunk, but he was sure there was traffic enough for both. When it was considered that persons shipping to the seaboard would be enabled to send a bushel of wheat or barrel of flour to the points of embarkation by the proposed line at very cheap rates it would be seen how advantageous to the general country this project was. The entire people would reap the benefits of the competition. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Gibson (Hamilton) said that the people in his constituency were much in favour of the construction of this road. He thought that this line would be an important adjunct to the railway system of the West.

Mr. Boulter said that in the East Riding of Hastings there was at present not one foot of railway line. The present railway service of that section of country was not adequate to the mining at present in operation. Were the Ottawa and Toronto line constructed the iron ore, which is at present shipped by the Grand Trunk into the United States to be smelted there, might be more cheaply shipped to Toronto, and he believed that this facility might be the means of encouraging the establishment of smelting works here. It would be for the Government to decide how much it would be wise to grant to the scheme.

Hon. Mr. Mowat, on being told that complete information concerning the project was contained in the documents which he had received, informed the deputation that the whole matter would receive the earnest consideration of the Government.

The deputation then left.

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

No sleighing, no news, no business, and no money.

The carnival at the rink on Friday night was not so successful as former ones, but was owing in a great measure to the bad state of the ice, which deterred many who had provided themselves with costumes from turning out. As it was, some twenty-five made quite a scene, some of the dresses being very good. Mr. Secord, by request, will have another shortly, when if the ice is good, a large turn-out will reward him for his trouble in trying to provide amusements for our young people.

The young gentlemen who got rotten-egged some time ago for his shameful conduct has got himself in a scrape which will likely end in the "grist mill." Last Saturday evening he thought he had discovered the gathers of the former affair, so he laid in wait to return the compliment; but he mistook his victims, and a young Smithtown school teacher and a lady companion who were returning home from the rink, were treated to the missiles. We understand the young man intends to treat him to an interview with our Codi.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Fourth Parliament—Second Session.

Opening of the Session—Speech from the Throne—Programme of the Government—Notices on the Paper.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

OTTAWA, Feb. 17, 1880.

For some weeks past there has been the usual semi-occasional flutter, in anticipation of the medieval harvest which comes once a year to cheer the otherwise forlorn fate of this bankrupt and out-at-the-elbow community. Hotel-keepers and boarding-house-keepers have laid aside their long faces and given up dodging the water-rates fiend, and the city which has been under a cloud commercially and financially for so long, begins to present a cheerful and holiday aspect. On Thursday last there was a pretty full attendance of members, though all have not yet arrived, and a great many strangers were in the city to witness the opening ceremonies. At three o'clock their Excellencies proceeded in state to the Senate Chamber, escorted by the P. L. Dragoons. Their Excellencies were accompanied by Lady Polly, the Hon. Mrs. Langham, Mrs. De Winton, Captain Chater, Captain Collins and Captain Earbard. Colonel McNeill, Colonel Gzowski, Lord Grosvenor and the Hon. Mr. Bigot were also in attendance.

On the floor of the Senate Chamber, the seats of which were occupied by a brilliant array of ladies in full dress, were the members of the Ministry, in Court costume, the Judge of the Supreme Court, Senators, etc. His Excellency took his seat on the Throne, the chair beside him being occupied by the Princess, who wore, I may say for the information of the ladies, a two-shade grey satin panier, and train, trimed with grey lace, and magnificent tiara and necklace of diamonds. The Governor-General having commanded the attendance of his faithful Commons, made known to them his reason for calling them together in the following

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I have great pleasure in meeting you again for the despatch of the business of the country. The abundant harvest with which Providence has blessed Canada is a cause for the deepest thankfulness, and I heartily congratulate you on the evidences which surround us of a recovery from the commercial and industrial depression which has so long weighed down the energies of the people.

Our returning prosperity should, I think, direct our attention to the less fortunate circumstances of our fellow-subjects in Ireland, where so much destitution prevails, and I invite your consideration of the best means of showing our practical sympathy with their distress.

We have reason to congratulate ourselves on the number of settlers who have during the past year come into the North-West from Great Britain and the United States, as well as from the other provinces of the Dominion. The visit of members of the Royal Commission on the agricultural distress in the mother country, and the favorable reports of the tenant farmers, who, at the instance of my Government, have examined into the farming capabilities of the Dominion, will, it is believed, largely increase the number of immigrants during the present year. Preparations must be made for their reception, and your attention will be especially called to this subject.

Every effort has been made to hasten the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway from Lake Superior to the Red River, and no doubt is entertained that the railway will be opened for traffic between these important points within time specified in the contracts. Under the authority given by Parliament last session, nearly one hundred miles, from Red River to the Western boundary of Manitoba, has been placed under contract, and tenders are about being asked for, for the construction of another hundred miles from the boundary westward. The completion of these two sections will, at an early day, afford railway facilities through two hundred miles of the most fertile land in the North-West. After an exploratory survey of the line from Port Superior to the Pine River Pass, and through the Peace River country, it has been decided to adopt the location of the line to Berrard Inlet, and contracts have been awarded for one hundred and twenty-seven miles of the railway between Emory's Bar, on the Fraser River, and Savona's Ferry. This work will be vigorously proceeded with so soon as the spring opens. Its construction will complete the most difficult portion of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and secure connection by steam of the fertile district of Kamloops with the capital of British Columbia.

The adoption of a rigid system of economy in the management of the Intercolonial Railway has, without impairing the efficiency of its working, effected such a diminution of expense as to warrant the belief that the country will in future be relieved from any considerable burden in connection with its operation.

In consequence of the entire failure of the usual food supply of the Indians in the North-West, a large expenditure has been necessary to save them from starvation. It is hoped that the efforts which are now being made to settle the several bands in the Reserves, and to induce to betake themselves to the cultivation of the soil, may prevent the necessity of similar calls for relief in the future.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The estimates for the ensuing year will be laid before you. They have been prepared with all due regard to economy.

You will be pleased to learn that the effect of the tariff of last session in the development of the varied industries of the country has, on the whole, been very satisfactory. The experience acquired since it came in operation in March last, has suggested the expediency some amendments to which your attention will be directed.

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

Bills for the better organization of the Civil Service, for the consolidation of the Inland Revenue laws, and for the amendment of the Acts relating to the Dominion Lands, to the Public Works, to the Indians of the North-West, and to the Mounted Police Force, will be laid before you.

The Acts incorporating the Banks of the Dominion will expire next year, and the present would seem a favorable year for a full consideration of our banking system, and of the subject of the currency as connected with that system.

The subject of the [illegible] in this country will doubtless engage [illegible]

ONTARIO ASSEMBLY.

Fourth Legislature—First Session

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

TORONTO, Monday, Feb. 9.

In the House to-day, after routine and advancing a number of bills a stage, Mr. Ross moved for a return showing the amount of indebtedness by debentures of each municipality in the Province, and after some discussion the motion carried.

Mr. Badgerow moved for a return respecting the Toronto University, which with a similar motion respecting Upper Canada College was carried.

A motion by Mr. Badgerow, ordering a return of the minutes of the Senate of the University for the past year, was also carried.

A Bill by Mr. Sinclair to provide that the statute labour of non-residents should be expended in the division where the property was situate, also to give the Council of every municipality the power to reduce or to abolish statute labor, was carried.

Mr. Hardy's Jurors' Act Amendment Bill was read a second time and the House adjourned.

TUESDAY, Feb. 9th.

Mr. Hardy moved the second reading of the Bill to extend the jurisdiction of Division Courts. He said that it was proposed to increase the jurisdiction of Division Courts from $100 to $300 in that class of cases where promissory notes, mortgages, or other written agreements had been signed by the debtor. Ordinary cases of tort and replevin were increased from $40 to $60. In order that the character of the Court might as far as possible be preserved it was provided that cases involving claims of over $100 should be placed at the foot of the list, unless in special cases. Where an agreement had been made to pay at a certain place, the case might be tried in the division in which that place of payment was situate, subject to a change of venue being made on application of the defendant, and upon his showing that the case can be more conveniently tried in the division in which he himself resides. But by consent of both parties the case might be tried in any division. Where the suit was against a clerk or bailiff the case might be tried in an adjoining county, as the judge, having confidence in his clerk or bailiff, would not care to sit upon any case in which either was defendant. In cases involving claims for more than $100, the judge might in his discretion direct a fee of $5, or not in any case more than $10, to be paid to the attorney of the successful party. In cases where the claim exceeded $100 an appeal would lie, but it would be found in practice that such appeals would be very few in number. Upon a certified copy of the evidence being filed before the Court of Appeal the trial on appeal would be held before one judge of the Court of Appeal, who would sit weekly, and the total amount of costs, excluding actual disbursements, was not to exceed $15. The Bill provided also for the duties, powers, etc., of the Inspector of Division Courts. This officer had been appointed under John Sandfield Macdonald, and he was to be regarded as a useful and necessary officer. There was in each county from four to twelve clerks appointed; and it had been thought while the officers under the judges of the Court of Appeal were appointed by the Government, that there was no reason why the appointment of the various clerks and bailiffs in towns, cities, and villages should not be vested in the Lieutenant Governor. The appointments would then be made by a Government responsible to this House and to the people. It was thought that in outlying districts less accessible to the Government it would be well to leave the appointment in the hands of the judges. Section 21 and subsequent sections proposed to make certain changes in the jury laws of the Division Courts. It was not proposed to do away with juries in these Courts, but to provide that those who were called on these juries from year to year should receive reasonable remuneration for their services. It was provided that each juror should receive one dollar per day. It was proposed to establish a jury fund by imposing a tax on all cases coming up for trial. By fixing a tax of say five cents on all cases involving sums between $20 and $60; on sums from $60 to $100, ten cents; and on all sums over $100, twenty five cents: by this means a jury fund would be formed of about $3,500. While it might be fairly conceded that better justice could be obtained in County Courts than in Division Courts, nevertheless there were other advantages in connection with the latter—such as speedy justice, less distance to travel and less expense—which make them essentially a poor man's Court. While, by the resolution increasing the jurisdiction to $300, the old functions of the Division Courts would be to a very large extent changed, the new Act provided that the new class of cases admitted should not be taken up until the others were disposed of. He thought the Bill would ameliorate the jurisdiction of these Courts, and yet not effect too radical a change.

After a lengthy discussion the Bill was read

WEDNESDAY, Feb 11.

[illegible] moved the second reading of the Public Schools Act by [illegible] the mid-summer holidays, which gave rise to considerable discussion and was finally withdrawn.

Several other Bills were referred to the Municipal Act Amendment Committee.

Mr. Graham's Bill respecting public offices was lost on a division.

A number of Private Bills were passed through committee and reading.

Mr. Mowat's Bill respecting the law of real estate was approved by Mr. Meredith and passed a second reading.

Mr. Mowat moved the second reading of an Act respecting the incorporation of cemetery companies by letters patent. As the law now stood it stipulated that at least twenty persons should be required to form a cemetery company, which was often found to be inconvenient and the Act proposed to reduce the number to ten. It also sought to remove another difficulty by enabling persons to establish a company by contributing money or land, as the case might be.

Mr. Hardy' Juror's Act was passed without amendment.

The House then went into Supply, and voted $27,182.56, Miscellaneous; $5,000 for Agricultural Commission; $4,500 to aid in establishing a market for Ontario manufacturers, $20,000 insurance, &c, after which the House adjourned.

THURSDAY, Feb. 12.

After routine, a number of unimportant private bills received third reading.

Mr. Wood introduced a Bill to provide for the removal of prisoners from county gaols. The Bill proposed to appoint Provincial bailiffs to perform this work, whereby the cost of the service would be reduced from $16,000 to $5,250.

Mr. Mowat moved the second reading of the following Bills: To make further provision respecting supplementary drainage by-law. To amend certain particulars in the law of real property. Respecting the incorporation of cemetery companies by letters patent.

Mr. Crooks moved the second reading of a Bill respecting certain amendments to the Public School Act.

Mr. Mowat moved the second reading of a Bill respecting companies incorporated under the Imperial Statutes. It was found that in certain cases these companies required legislation to enable them to exercise their full powers in this country. The Bill empowered the Governor-in-Council to grant letters patent in such cases.

The House then went into supply and voted $5,400 for the School of Practical Science.

After a brief discussion as to whether Concurrence should be taken up or not, the House concurred in the following items under Civil Government:—

Government House	$ 4,580
Executive Council and Attorney-General's office	14,670
Department of Education	20,999
Public Works	15,173
Agriculture	1,600
Secretary and Registrar's office	25,625

The House adjourned at six o'clock.

FRIDAY, Feb. 13.

Mr. Monk introduced a Bill to exempt lodger's effects from seizure for landlord's rent.

The Victoria Extension and other bills were read a first time.

Mr. Mowat stated that the Government proposed to take steps to place the rank of Provincial Q.C.'s beyond the region of dispute.

A couple of additional bills were referred to the Municipal Act Amendment Committee.

A number of private bills passed through committee, among them the Midland Railway bill.

The bill respecting the Toronto & Ottawa Railway Company, by Mr. Scott, was read a second time.

Mr. Pardee moved the following resolution:—"Resolved, That the patentee, his heirs or assigns, of land hereafter sold under the Free Grants and Homestead Act shall be entitled to be paid out of the Consolidated Revenue of the Province on all pine trees cut on such land subsequent to the thirtieth day of April next after the date of the patent, and upon which dues have been collected by the Crown, the sum of twenty-five cents on each thousand feet board measure of saw logs, and three dollars on each thousand cubic feet of square or waney timber.

After some discussion, Mr. Meredith moved in amendment that the motion be not concurred in. The Opposition resolution was voted down on a division of 31 yeas to 34 nays.

Mr. Hardy's bill respecting Division Courts was advanced a stage in committee, and the House adjourned.

The Most Valuable Gift—Restoration of the Health.

During the past ten years the Great Shoshonees Remedy has faithfully redeemed every promise and guarantee made to the public. Alarming and apparently hopeless cases of Lung diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Affections of the Kidney and Chronic Complaints of every description, including Scrofula and Skin Diseases of life-long duration, have been permanently removed and eradicated. Those who volunteered their testimony to the efficacy of the Remedy are not beggar people in unheard-of localities in foreign countries, but respectable citizens of this country, easy of access and open to question, upon whose verbal recommendations we are willing to rest the reputation of the Great Shoshonees Remedy. If you are afflicted, do not delay until medicine may be powerless to aid you. No injurious effects can possibly follow the use of these Indian Remedies, as they contain no minerals, by which the fate of the invalid is so often sealed under the form of some temporary sedative or stimulant. These Indian Remedies are widely known and still possess the public confidence, after the lapse of sufficient time to test their efficacy.

The Shoshonees Vegetable Sugar Coated Pills have won for themselves the most favorable reputation of any pill before the public. Their efficacy has been fully proved as a remedy for billiousness, Sick Headache and inactivities of the stomach. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles, $1; Pills, 25 cents a box. Sold by all medicine Dealers.

Mitchell's Hellandsan Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Ochanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one of the greatest healing medicines ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plaster they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service that a hundred of the ordinary kin. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn constantly to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TIC DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it to be [illegible] by the electrical qualities which [illegible] possess, and which is [illegible] thus restoring them to a [illegible]

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS, PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST; and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Many even tell us they believe they were cured of the use of them of a long-standing COLD.

The Toronto [illegible]

The following is a copy of the memorial to the Government asking aid for the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, adopted by the Council last week:

To His Excellency, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council:

The Memorial of the Council of the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough, humbly sheweth:

That freights on short lines of railway running from rear townships and from the rear of the counties, fronting on Lake Ontario, to the Grand Trunk, are nearly as great as the freights from Montreal to the points of exchange on the Grand Trunk Railway, and thus the produce of the back country pays nearly double freight to reach Montreal. The construction of a second trunk line through the back country would be a vast advantage in affording a cheaper outlet to market and in serving the back country from the monopoly of the Grand Trunk Railway—a monopoly which manifests itself in a striking degree in the difference between the winter and summer rates of freight, the navigation of Lake Ontario affording a competition.

Your memorialists submit that the link between the railways entering at Ottawa and Toronto should be completed by the construction of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway. This railway has been approved of by the entire country as a necessity for the effective working of the railways now constructed and under construction; and that these should not be dependent upon a company which is more jealous for its own advantage, than for the prosperity of the country.

Your memorialists submit that the construction of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, besides perfecting the railway system of the country, will be of great advantage to that large section of country through which it passes—a country rich in resources, but as yet incapable of development without the construction of this railway.

Your memorialists, while approving the general railway policy of the Government, respectfully submit that the eastern section of the province has, as yet, received but a small amount of Government aid towards railway construction, and while they have observed sections of the country already well supplied with railway facilities, reserving the public monies of the province for the construction of additional lines, they and venture to submit their claim for aid as just and reasonable. Your memorialists have voted one hundred and fifty thousand dollars for the construction of this railway, and the county of Peterborough has voted a like sum, while other municipalities along the line have at various times signified their sanction of and desire for this railway by voting thereto bonuses to the amount of nearly one million of dollars.

Your memorialists venture to suggest that the development of the mineral and other resources of the country along the line of this railway, and its influence as a colonization road will bring back to the Treasury fair and speedy returns for any expenditure the Government may make towards its construction.

Your memorialists therefore pray that the Government will be pleased to afford aid to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway Company, to assist them in securing the early construction of this much desired road, and your memorialists will ever pray.

Opinions of the Press.

The Guelph Mercury says of Mr. Scott, M. P. P., of Peterboro', "he is regarded by both parties as the ablest man on the opposite side of the House."

Mr. Robt. Romaine, for many years proprietor of the Peterboro' Review, has been appointed stationery clerk of the House of Commons, a position rendered vacant by death. Mr. Romaine is well qualified to discharge efficiently the duties of his office, and his appointment is creditable to the government and to the party whose cause he has long advocated.—Lindsay Post.

Says the St. Catharines News. Here is the whole plot too plain for any cavil. sworn to by Mr. Mackintosh himself. An honorable man, Mr. Mackintosh; A Tory editor—one of the chiefs of the brigade as honest as the rest of them! Mr. Mackintosh conspired to rob the Government, and did rob the Government, and put $12,000 of Government money in his pocket, and went into the witness box, and after kissing the Sacred Book related the whole conspiracy without a blush.

In regard to the Irish relief the New York Herald makes an excellent suggestion. It appears that some Irish organization in the United States, according to its own report, has accumulated a fund of from eighty to ninety thousand dollars, which is known as the Skirmishing Fund. The object for which it has been collected is to attack Great Britan after the Fenian fashion. The Herald suggests that the fund should be devoted to the relief of the Irish sufferers.

It is stated that the reason the Government did not ask for the vote for the new Parliament buildings is that they have slightly modified the original plans, and but in the supplementary estimates they will ask for $80,000 for repairs. With the sum they will no longer use the present buildings that they will last for four or five years, when the present site can be sold to a combined railway system, costing on the Ottawa, for enough to enable the erection of new Parliament Buildings, about Ninety thousand dollars.

EXAMPLES OF PROFITS.

No. of Policy.	Kind of Insurance.	Sum Assured.	Annual Premium.	For 1876. Cash	For 1876. Bonus	For 1877. Cash	For 1877. Bonus
1	Life	$10,000	$238.50	$74.65	$217.65	$238.50	$738.00
7	10 Payment Life.	5,000	206.45	112.10	297.00	150.00	330.00

It will be observed that these results are not only very handsome, but are also Equitable. If this Association distributed the Profits on the ordinary PRINCIPLE PLAN, allowing a bonus of 2½ per cent., payable at death, then the profits would have been as follows:—

Policy No. 1. For 1877. Cash.....$97.50. Bonus.....$288.00.
" 7. " ..... 63.25. " ..... 126.25.

It will at once be seen that such a system as this last cannot commend itself to persons who will take time to consider it, as it not only does injustice to persons paying by a limited number of Premiums, but it gives only the same profits after a person has paid a score of Premiums.

The above profit-results, which place the Confederation Life in the van of Life Companies in Canada are attained by

PETERBOROUGH, FEB. 26, 1880.

WORKING OF OUR NEW FISCAL POLICY.

It will be remembered that in his campaign throughout the country in the summer of 1878, Sir John Macdonald was profuse in his pledges that the introduction of the so-called National Policy, would be the signal for an immediate revival of trade and restoration of the financial stringency, and from the emphasis and earnestness of his utterances, we are inclined to believe that he had persuaded himself that such results would follow. At Strathroy and at other places, he stated that so soon as the new tariff would be announced, "bank stocks would rise, confidence would be restored," and general prosperity at once set in. Even had his policy been calculated to produce those results, it would not have been reasonable to have expected at once the developements so sanguinely predicted. But now that the policy has had by lapse of time a fair trial, after its effects have been felt fully by all industries and enterprises, we can form a deliberate and candid judgment upon the position of affairs and we find them to-day, under the N. P. A comparison of the value of financial investments at the present time, and at the time when the Liberal Ministry gave up the seals of office, is shown in the following statements of bank stock quotations on the 15th September, 1878, and the 17th February, 1880:

	15 Sept. 1878.	17 Feb. 1880.	decrease.
Montreal	171	159½	11½
Ontario	85	72	13
Consolidated	76	Suspended	—
Exchange	104	99	5
Molson's	90	80	10
Toronto	140½	132	12½
Jacques Cartier	60	54	—
Merchants'	90	87½	5
Eastern Townships	120	106	14
Union	85	76	—
Commerce	113½	117½	—
Hamilton	85	80	—
Exchange	73	40	33
Ville Marie	62	—	—
Federal	190½	187	3½

These figures are taken from the stock exchange reports, as they may be found in the Mail or the Montreal Gazette, and the lesson they teach is one of experience uncoloured by any partizan influences; and it shows that instead of prosperity, there has been brought about an enormous shrinkage of values, calculated to startle and alarm every man who will reflect upon this state of affairs without prejudice. In the face of this we have to consider that the public debt of the Dominion has been increased from $174,967,268 in 1878, to $183,974,753 in 1879. And still the Parliament of the country is now asked to sanction the letting of enormous contracts, entered into by the Government without the authority of Parliament, to build 127 miles of railway on the other side of the Rocky Mountains, to benefit a handful of people not numbering, all told, one-fourth the population of the County of Peterborough. Can we point to anything in the increase of our wealth and population, or in the prospects of the country for the next ten years, to justify this reckless increase of our already appalling burden of debt? We know that here in the town and county of Peterborough, there has been no revival of trade, no new enterprises, no increase in wealth or revenue, and that in fact trade is at as low an ebb to-day as it has been for years. Nay, had it not been for the abundant harvest with which Providence has blessed this section, and the higher prices for produce resulting from the failure of the crops in Europe, every business man in the county knows well that the present winter would have been the most unfavorable for trade and the "hardest" experienced for many years. And we believe the same has been the general experience throughout the country. Looking at these facts from a sober, unprejudiced and non-political standpoint, we cannot but deplore the improvident, not to use a harsher term, conduct of the Ministry in piling an Ossa of new obligations upon a Pelion of public debt, already greater than the resources and energies of the country can permanently endure. And meanwhile—while these enormous obligations for works which can be of no benefit to that part of the Dominion which has to defray their cost, and which must for years remain a serious burden for working expenses when completed, are being imposed upon the people,—the Government are compelled to refuse aid to public enterprises of comparatively small cost, whose importance to the commercial prosperity of the country ovsd they themselves have admitted, and which would at once and permanently benefit the trade and commerce of the Dominion. Enterprises like the Pacific Junction Railway and the Trent Valley Canal are strangled, in order that the money of the taxpayers of this Province may be worse than squandered for the benefit of a handful of people in the wilds of British Columbia.

THE WESTERN BOUNDARY OF ONTARIO.

One of the most serious questions now before the public, in Canadian politics, is that which concerns the western boundary of the Province. It will be remembered that after a tedious negotiation and investigation, it was decided that the question in dispute between the Dominion and the Province as to the determination of the western boundary, should be referred to a Commission, by agreement between the two Governments, for arbitration and decision. That commission, composed of Chief Justice Harrison, Sir Francis Hincks and Sir Edward Thornton, British Minister at Washington, after a lengthy, searching and painstaking investigation, made their award, under which the Province became entitled to an extensive acquisition of territory, her undoubted right, upon which the Government, in the interest of the people, is anxious to enter, to take measures for its organization, development and speedy settlement. With that view, in 1877, the Legislature of Ontario confirmed the award, and it has since been and still remains for the Dominion Parliament to ratify the same, to complete the title of the Province to the important territory awarded to it by the arbitrators. This, however, at its session last year, Parliament failed to do, the Government taking no action. This session, however, the matter was brought up by a bill of Hon. Mr. Mills to confirm the award, and the Government, forced thus into some line of action, have apparently determined to burk the matter, and so deprive the Province of its best rights, or prevent her indefinitely from entering thereon. A motion was brought up in the House of Commons by a Government supporter, Mr. Dawson, proposing to re-open the whole question, and to refer it for investigation to a special committee. The members of the Government energetically supporting Mr. Dawson's motion, makes it clear beyond all doubt that they connived at its introduction, and have determined to defraud this Province of its just due. The committee to whom this important matter has been referred is composed of Messrs. Robinson, DeCosmos, Royal, Trow, Caron, Brecken, Mousseau, Geoffrion, Waldon and Dawson. It will be observed that on this committee there is not one leading Ontario Liberal; only three members are selected from Ontario, two of whom are hostile to the award, three members from Quebec, one from Prince Edward Island, one from New Brunswick, and one from British Columbia. Aside from the gross injustice to this Province of postponing the occupation and settlement of territory awarded to it as of right, the glaring outrage of committing a re-consideration of the solemn award of the highest and most disinterested authorities, to a hostile committee of mediocre members of the House of Commons, shows too plainly the antagonism of the Government to the interests of this Province, and the incratitude of the leader of the Government for the large support which this Province afforded him—a support which there is already too much reason to fear its people will have bitter reason to repent.

THEIR FIRST YEAR.

The Dominion Government signalized their accession to office by loud promises of immediate prosperity and economy of administration. They pledged themselves to decrease the expenditure and to keep it within the revenue. They proceeded to carry this project out by imposing a grievous burden of taxation upon industry, and have learned, as they were warned by Sir Richard Cartwright, that excessive duties means decreased revenues. Sir Sam. Tilley has had the pleasure of laying before Parliament the fact that in their first year of fiscal management the "National Policy" has left the country with A DEFICIT OF $1,900,000. And in the face of this appalling fact, the Minister of Railways announced that just previous to the calling to gether of Parliament, without warning for the authority of the people's representatives, he had signed contracts for the construction of 127 miles of railway in British Columbia, at the enormous cost of $9,-163,680. Let the reader think well upon these facts, which cannot fail to alarm the sober judgement of the country.

PARK ACCOMMODATION.

Some time previous to the close of the last Council, Mr. Deane drew attention to the valuable property of the town along the river, sequestrated by private individuals, and which it was desirable to open up to public use. We do not know if Councillor Deane has overlooked the matter, but we trust not, as he at that time took a step in the right direction, which we hope to see him follow up. In the absence of an extensive park, the property alluded to is admirably adapted for use as a public resort in the summer, and could, with a little trouble and at trifling expense, be made a charming promenade. Such a place is sadly needed in Peterborough, and we can assure Mr. Deane that he will have the thanks of the whole community if he pursues the question of opening up the town property along the river front, to the conclusion indicated by him when he brought the subject before the attention of the Council.

Unchristian Parsimony.

We take the following from that excellent religious periodical the Presbyterian Record, published by the authority of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, at the absurdly low price of 25 cents per year:—

It is interesting to notice how the "Law of Compensation" works, even in such trivial matters as the circulation of a magazine published at the price of 25 cents per annum. In a certain flourishing town that shall not be named, one of the two Presbyterian congregations, finding themselves too heavily burdened, resolved to curtail their expenditure. "The line must be drawn somewhere," and they decide it should be drawn here, by repudiating their indebtedness to the Presbyterian Record for two years supply, and stopping it for the future! The other congregation, of its own motion, has recently sent us an order for three times the number it formerly circulated, and the consequence is that twice the number of Records go to that town than did formerly. The editor of the Canada Presbyterian lately heard of a Presbyterian in good standing, who walked three miles to tell his elder that he could no longer afford to take the Church Record at the cost of a quarter of a dollar per annum, because he was preparing to buy another farm! "What in the name of absurdity," adds the editor, "could such a man mean by calling himself a Christian?" Thanks, good brother, for the well administered rebuke, though we fear it may not be appreciated at its full value in some quarters, for you know it has passed into a common saying that some people cannot see any farther than their nose; and that others, in their short-sighted policy, would even part with their nose to spite their face. We have still a few copies of the January number on hand. Intending subscribers should lose no time in forwarding their orders.

Unchristian Parsimony.

Butter Buyers everywhere are refusing to take white, lardy looking butter except at "grass" prices. Consequently nothing but gilt-edge butter, such as we have to-day, can command a ready sale at a remunerative price. Insolvency Repeal.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

Will you kindly permit me space to say a few words on the above subject, which, no doubt, is of the greatest importance to honest traders. How this unjust law has stood so long, to the great injury of the honest so that the dishonest may flourish, is a mystery to me; but no doubt the great influence of the business centres of wholesale houses has upheld that which is, no matter in what aspect you look at it, immoral and demoralizing, inviting those of weak dispositions, to make use of such a licentious means of robbery and plunder. One would naturally suppose that wholesale houses would suffer the most from such transactions, but such is not the case, as the honest trader is at his mercy, and he has to suffer for all the mischief done to the former. That many such honest men have to succumb when their next door neighbor sells goods at prices for which the former is unable to buy his goods, even suppose he pays cash, is so apparent to every one that bankruptcy in the end inevitably follows I am far from making complaint of any competition, as I hold that healthy competition is indispensable in trade if progress is to be made; but at the same time I cannot but strongly condemn such a system as is carried on by wholesale men, setting up peppets without brains or capital, or any inclination to honest toil or to work for an existence, but to live and fatten on the hard endeavors of the honest working men who have by hard work attained a precarious position, to hold, if he can, his own. Look around in our own community and you have plenty of cases to illustrate what I state; men having failed several times and still allowed to go on; take for instance a firm from our midst compromising twice, and the third time a smash up, paying 10 cents on the dollar as a closing scene in a career of nine years' business. That this taxes all one's energies to the greatest tension to hold one's own, can surely not be doubted, particularly when such times as the last four years are considered, together with the shrinkage in values. How such journals as the Monetary Times and Trade Review, otherwise first class papers for sound reasoning, can stand up in defence of retaining the insolvency law or amending it, I can only account for by the influence of the wholesale houses. It strikes the key in its 13th of February number when it says, it does not appear clear that any large, intelligent, mercantile men favor repeal; it is being forced upon them by a strong feeling in rural constituencies. Just so, after so long a period of suffering and mischief, the ire of the honest traders is aroused to an effort to throw off the burden under which they have labored so long. Then it goes on to say, that the Board of Trade of Toronto and Montreal have passed a resolution deprecating repeal. No wonder at that, as they represent the wholesale houses, or in the Trade Review's own expression, the minority of the intelligent mercantile men who live and thrive on the honest trader, who has to pay for the losses the former sustain by the dishonest ones. Nothing but absolute repeal of the Insolvent Act will cure the evil of over-trading and unsound competition. Recklessness in trade has produced even greater evils than the ones stated, and have come before the public with the most glaring results, by the recent failure of banks, that wholesale houses have built up their credit on puppets of their own making, to endorse paper for them so that they could rob not only their creditors, but the public at large, amongst their victims being widows and orphans. Thanking you Mr. Editor for the space occupied,

I am yours, &c.,
W. LECH.

DISTRICT NEWS.

Millbrook.

NEARLY DROWNED.—On Monday of last week two little girls were playing with a sled in a pond near the station. While in the act of leaving the ice, a little girl about four years of age, daughter of Mr. John O'Connor, Bookkeeper at Messrs. Wood & Wells, fell backward over the sleigh, going through the ice, headforemost. The little girl in charge drew the other child up on to the ground, and tried to rescue the little one from the water. Finding she could not do it, she hasted to the house and gave the alarm. Young Eakins rushed to the spot, and observed the poor little one under the ice, with its feet against the ice. He plunged in and drew it up, and had some difficulty in getting out. Taking it to the house, every effort was made to resuscitate it, while others went for Dr. Turner. After considerable time, it was brought to, and is now little the worse of its terrible experiment. Had another minute been allowed to elapse, the child would have been beyond recovery.

Port Hope.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.—About 2 45 on Wednesday morning fire was discovered in the cabinet and furniture factory of Mr. John Walker. The fire brigade was shortly on the ground, and after working hard for a considerable length of time got the flames under control. The fire originated in the store room, immediately about the boiler, but how is not known. The fires were drawn at five o'clock on the previous afternoon. The entire east end of the building is burned, and the stock, consisting of chairs, &c., rendered totally useless. The machinery is soaked with water, but the damage will not be great. The loss will be about $2,000. No insurance.

THE LUMBER TRADE.—Mr. Irwin, of the firm of Irwin & Boyd, with Mr. Gettman, of Oswego, passed through here on a visit to his shanties in Anstruther. They also paid a visit to Messrs. Ullyott & Sadlers shanty.

Mr. J. W. Smith, the Government agent from Peterborough, was up recently paying visits to all parties who were taking cut logs, to see that no gouging was being done in the measurement.

FRANK LESLIE'S SUNDAY MAGAZINE.—The March number is promptly on our table, taking precedence of all its contemporaries. It is, in every respect, a most admirable one; a religious, pure and moral tone pervades its pages, and still they abound with articles which appeal to all tastes and all classes, and from the perusal of which the reader cannot fail to derive both entertainment and information. There are so many good things that it is difficult to select the most notable features. An admirable article on the late Frank Leslie, by the editor (with illustrations), is a handsome tribute to the artistic and personal worth of the deceased. There are also a great number of well-executed illustrations of current events, both at home and abroad, and the frontispiece is a fine engraving of "Queen Victoria's Jubilee." The publishers are Messrs. Frank Leslie & Co., 53 Park Place, New York.

REPORT ON PENITENTIARIES.

The report of Mr. Moylan, Inspector of Penitentiaries, was laid on the table this afternoon. He states that the administration of this branch of the public service is about the same as in previous years. The number of convicts has increased by 150 over the preceding year, but this he states is due to the fact that there are so many persons unemployed. He urges the utilization of prison labour, and the establishment of reformatory schools. He deals at length with the first of the two last questions, and urges its claims principally on the ground that it would ensure better prison discipline.

PETERBOROUGH, FEB. 26, 1880.

TORONTO AND OTTAWA RAILWAY BY-LAW.

On Saturday last, the By-law to award the original By-law granting aid to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, was voted on by the freeholders of the County of Peterborough. The result fully bears out the confidence expressed by us last week in the course which the intelligence of the majority of the ratepayers would lead them to take, and shows a handsome majority in favor of affording such facilities to the Company as will enable them to proceed with the construction of the road this year. The matter was left almost entirely to the uninfluenced vote of the electors, and in fact it had not been contemplated by the Directors of the road to interfere in anyway, though the false reports industriously circulated throughout the County by the opponents of the road, led to the calling of a few meetings previous to the voting, at which Messrs. Dumble and Clarkson, Mr. Toole and Mr. H. H. Smith, ably set forth the advantages to be derived from the road, and exposed the fallacies advanced by those who were seeking to induce the people to combat their own best interests. The result of the voting is given below:

We can congratulate the County upon its action in this matter, believing that they have taken a step which will secure an early commencement of this important undertaking, and which will, moreover, be a substantial argument with the Government in favor of a liberal grant to the Toronto and Ottawa road, out of the railway funds of the Province. Those who voted against the By-law, and most of those who were active in opposing it, did so, we have no doubt, from an honest conviction that they were pursuing the right course; but we have no hesitation in predicting that before another twelve months, they will be led to see that they were in error, and will find cause to congratulate themselves and the County that their efforts did not prevail on Saturday last.

THE MIDLAND RAILWAY.

The stock and bondholders of the Midland Railway Company are to be congratulated upon the very favorable report, not only of the operations of the past year, but of the present position and future prospects of the road, which the Directors were enabled to submit to them at the annual meeting on the 17th. The business of the road has been augmented, its equipments improved, rolling stock increased, facilities of connection extended, running of trains re-arranged for the mutual advantage both of the Company and the public, and its financial obligations consolidated and placed on a more favorable basis. That such a vast improvement has been accomplished in so short a period, affords the best proof of the efficiency of the staff of officers, and the good judgment of the Board of Directors; but in an eminent degree this gratifying position of affairs is due, as was acknowledged by resolution at the annual meeting, to the ability, energy and untiring industry of the President, Mr. Geo. A. Cox, which have been unremittingly and successfully applied to the management of the road. We have no hesitation in predicting that within a short time the Midland will take its place in the front rank among the most affluent "common carriers" of the Dominion. We regret that lack of space prevents our publishing the full report of the annual meeting this week. It will be found in next week's issue.

THE LATEST "GRIT OUTRAGE."

Details furnished in an item of the expenses of the official visit of the Lt.-Governor to the newly-acquired eastern territory of the Province of Ontario—out of which the Dominion Government is now trying to defraud the Province—a visit made for the proper and necessary purpose of examination and report upon its resources, and the best means of its organization and preparation for settlement, —have been made the subject of a hypocritical howl from the Opposition press, which would lead the public to believe that the Province had been asked by the Government to pay, as the Mail so deliberately put it, for "a month's debauch" of the Lt.-Governor and his friends. It appears that, on examination in the Public Accounts Committee, bills for liquor supplied for the Lt.-Governor's party, to the amount of $191 were exhibited, to which exception was taken. This bill for liquors, with other items of luxury, amounted in all to some $280. As will be seen by the report of the proceedings in the Legislature, which appears elsewhere, on these items being criticized, the Lt.-Governor sent his cheque for $560 and withdrew from the account all the items objected to, so that it is no longer fairly a matter for public discussion. No doubt, had the details of these accounts been known to the Government, they would not have appeared in the Public Accounts; but the expenditure of the trip was left, in pursuance of former precedents, in the hands of the Clerk of the House, and it was not the part of the Government to act as spies upon His Honor's scullery, nor did they do so. We have our own opinion upon the conduct of the Lt.-Governor in allowing expenses of this nature, which were purely personal, and for which it was an outrage to expect the public to pay, to have been charged among the legitimate expenses of the trip, and thus involving the Government in an unfair responsibility for an expenditure which they could by no circumstances justify; but as he has withdrawn them to his private account, it is not the duty of the public to criticise his taste. So far as the Government is concerned these expenses in no way reflect upon them, nor do they cost the Province a cent. As so much misrepresentation has been indulged in, however, we refer our readers to the speeches of Hon. Messrs. Mowat, Fraser, Wood and Hardy, by which they will see how much cry and how little wool there is, in the exaggerated charges of the Opposition press. Our contemporary the Review, copies at great length from the Mail, its garbled version of the accounts. It is only fair to say that the evidence of Col. Gilmour before the Public Accounts Committee, contradicts the statements which appeared in the Review. Col. Gilmour testified:

"The whole amount paid for liquor during the trip was $191.39, and that included everything drank on the way; soda water, etc., $11.30; tobacco and cigars, $78.75. They had bought 850 cigars instead of 1,000 as stated by the Mail; 28 bottles of ale instead of 168; 6 bottles brandy instead of 12; 101 bottles of soda, seltzer and apollinaris instead of 120, and 74 bottles of whiskey instead of 138."

This shows how grossly false was the statement which appeared in the Review, and that the average expenditure for liquor during the trip of 30 days, among nine persons, was not quite 71 cents each per day. We point these facts out, not to justify the character of the expenditure, with which, it having been paid by the Lt.-Governor, we have nothing to do, but to show the absurdity and falsehood of the tales being circulated by the Opposition press, and our local contemporary in particular. We would further observe that in the disinterested and crooked account given in its report of the Public Accounts Committee, it is careful to suppress the following portion of Mr. Langmuir's evidence:

He said he remembered an occasion of 1871, when an entertainment was given in both Toronto and London Lunatic Asylums to the Convention of Medical Superintendents of Asylums, under instructions from the Attorney-General of that time. The accounts for the supplies furnished were then read, among the items being the following:

3 cases Sillery champagne	$36 00
2 gallons sherry	17 00
1 case champagne	12 00
2½ doz. Sauterne	15 00
2 cases Moselle	24 00
3 gals. sherry	15 00
2 " brown do	10 00
1½ gallons rum	6 00
12 jellies	9 00
6 blanc mange	4 50
6 whipped creams	4 50
3 trifles	4 50
4 tipsy (cut) cakes	4 00
4 large tarts	1 60
12 doz. small do	3 00
6 Charlotte Russe	4 00
4 square fruit cakes	3 20
3 tyre-slory ornamented fruit cakes	6 00
1 three-story ornamented fruit cakes	1 75
10 lbs. assorted biscuits	17 50
5 macaroons	2 50
6 lobster salads	9 00
6 gals. cream	24 00
6 raised pies	12 00
3 fancy sponge cakes	4 50
6 lbs. best mottoes	20 00
5 " rock candy	1 25
6 " fruit drops	1 20
5 " peart wine drops	1 25
5 " mixed gum drops	1 25
5 " chocolate cream drops	1 25
14 " French loaf cake	3 50
1 lady cake	2 00
4 lbs. jellies	2 00

Among the other accounts were one of $84 for cab hire, one from the Great Western Railway for fares amounting to $382.60; Tecumseh House, London, $84.50; seats in Pullman cars, $22.50; bills at hotel, London, $7.35; cab hire, Toronto and London, $4.50; do. $12.25. Witness proceeded to say that these and other bills, amounting in all to $1,137, had been paid out of the public moneys of the Province. He had also been on the "Chicora" trip, which had been organized in 1871 by the Government of that day. It had lasted 17 or 18 days and there were between 150 and 200 persons in the party, consisting of 60 or 70 members of Parliament, and a number of outside parties. A band and piper accompanied the expedition. Anything wanted in the way of drinks was provided at the public expense—beer, wine and spirits. They had brandy, sherry, claret and champagne.

Such are some of the expenditures for which the Government of Sandfield Macdonald compelled the Province to pay, and in the enjoyment of which Mr. Lauder and other gentlemen, who now say aloud and spare not over the account of $280 which Lt.-Governor Macdonald has paid out of his own pocket, participated. We do not recall this conduct of the Conservative members of the Legislature on the ground that two wrongs make a right but to show the utter hypocrisy of the clamors of the Review and its co-workers in the cause of defaming Mr. Mowat's Government. Although it is their duty to loyally defend the Lt.-Governor as head of the Executive, yet we would advise the Ministry, to paraphrase the words of the Psalmist, "put not your trust in Lt.-Governors," in the future, and especially that they be careful, in view of the action of the Opposition in this matter, that the next Lt.-Governor of the Province is not given similar facilities for throwing unmerited odium upon them.

By a simple system of Personal management, Dr. Tarrant of Rochester, can tell which of their workmen smoke, chew or use pernicious plug of their employers. He can tell the orderly which contained in his breast, should any temptation be found in any plug. Therefore, they are all careful to buy plug tobacco, and the result is that 20,000 hands—who in many factories would be smoking cigars—use in this system, twelve to fifteen hundred pounds of tobacco per day, or 300,000 plugs turned out.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Simeon Wood of Belleville, claims to be the "father of protection," and is certainly one of its most prominent advocates. In the Senate last week, on Hon. Mr. Scott was pointing out the unfair discrimination of the Taraiff against the English manufacturers, and the unpatriotism of a policy which aimed at the mother country without benefitting ourselves, Senator Read interrupted him with the remark: "England's necessities are Canada's opportunity." It is of such patriotic material as this Senator that the prophets of the N. P. are made!

The Ontario Government on Tuesday, submitted a scheme for the construction of Government Buildings at Toronto. The design will be the pointed English architecture of the 13th century, after Sir Gilbert Scott's design of the Government offices in London. The stone, brick, slate and lime, are all to come from Canadian quarries. The area will be 600 by 300 feet, and it will comprise a central block for the Legislature, with two wings for Government offices. It is proposed to set apart $500,000 out of the surplus moneys, forming part of the Consolidated Revenue of the Province to defray the cost; and against this is to be placed the proceeds of the sale of the present site, and that eighty acres of land near the Andrew Mercer Infirmary. This account to be known as the "Parliament Building Construction Fund, 1880." It is expected the total cost to the Province, after the sale of the present site is realized, will not be more than $300,000. It will now be in order for the Review to take back its wild-cat charges of a short time ago about "squandering a million dollars" etc., in Government Buildings.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

SYNOPSIS OF LAST WEEK'S PROCEEDINGS.

From our Special Correspondent.

OTTAWA Feb. 23

I gave you in my last the Speech from the Throne and the introduction proceedings of the session.

On Friday 13th the debate on the address was opened by Mr. Ritchie, who moved it, and Mr. Houde who seconded it. Mr. Mackenzie commented on the meagreness of the sessional programme, and proceeding, condemned the mismanagement characterising the present operation of the Intercolonial Railway. The subject of the exodus from Canada to the United States; the appointment of agricultural instructors to the Indians in the North-West, the morals of several of whom were decidedly questionable; the claim of the Government that trade had revived and commercial depression was disappearing, received notice at the hon. gentlemen's hands. Sir. A. T. Galt's appointment afforded him the opportunity of lashing the Premier a little on the fact that his conduct had some years ago been warmly denounced by the gentleman whom he now delighted to honor. An allusion to the Argenteuil election by the seconder of the Address afforded ground for a reference to the Ontario general elections, and the condemnation of the N. P. by the electors of the province. In conclusion he twitted the Premier with having in Senator MacPherson a colleague who had vigorously denounced the Pacific Railway scheme.

Sir John Macdonald replied defending the Government.

Messrs Bunster and DeCosmos condemned the government for adopting the Burrard Inlet terminus of the C. P. R.

Mr. Blake spoke next. His rising was the signal for a speedy filling of seats. His address was extremely logical, and forcibly presented. He could not reconcile the Government's conduct in appointing Sir A. T. Galt as Canadian Minister in England to watch Canadian interests with a view to extending Canada's foreign trade, with the Government's protective policy, which aimed at the extinction of that trade. He threw out as a suggestion worthy of consideration the appointment of an agent at Washington to watch Canadian interests there. Much amusement was created by his reading extracts from a letter by Sir A. T. Galt boldly condemning the Pacific Scandal Ministry. Alluding to the Pacific Railway contracts just accepted for the Yale-Kamloops branch, he claimed; first, as the English mission which had failed was the foundation of the scheme of which the contract-letting without submission to Parliament was a part, the Government should now submit the contracts to Parliament; secondly, the Premier had admitted that this was the proper course under ordinary circumstances to pursue, therefore he should pursue it, especially as the contracts were not let or had not been up to within a few days of the opening of Parliament.

The address was carried after recess after some debate.

On Monday 16th both Mr. Bechard (Liberal) whose Repeal of the Insolvent Law was carried last session, and Mr. Colby (Conservative) introduced bills for the repeal of that law.

A Speaker's warrant for the appearance of John A. McDonnell son-in-law of Tupper) for misconduct last session was issued.

Sir. Chas. Tupper announced that the government could give no aid to the Pacific Junction Railway.

In answer to Mr. Blake it was elicited that the government had entered into $3,100,000 of C. P. R. contracts in British Columbia without authority of Parliament.

Mr. Cockburn asked for papers connected with the discontinuance of the Georgian Bay Branch contract.

On Tuesday Mr. Blake asked whether there is any correspondence between the Canadian and Imperial Governments, or any report showing the result of the resolution of last session, whereby the Government was authorized and directed to use its best efforts to secure the co-operation of the Imperial Government and to obtain further aid, by guarantee or otherwise in the construction of the Pacific Railway, and whether any such correspondence or report will at an early day be laid before Parliament.

Sir. John A. Macdonald—I beg leave to state that there has been confidential communication with the Right Hon. the Secretary of the Colonies on the subject of Imperial aid, which it is not in the public interests to lay before Parliament. There is no report on this subject, and no aid has been promised by the Imperial Government.

Sir. John A. Macdonald presented a message from His Excellency the Governor-General, recommending to the House of Commons the propriety of granting $100,000 for the relief of the present great distress in Ireland.

On Wednesday Mr. Mills introdoced a bill to confirm the Ontario boundary award.

Mr. Dawson moved for a commission to take evidence regarding the boundary between Ontario and unorganized territory.

Mr. Macdonald, Minister of Justice, thought Parliament ought to consider the question. The country ought not to relinquish such a vast piece of territory upon the words of one or two men, however competent and honorable.

Mr. Blake contended that the Ontario Government, when he was Premier, would not consent to negotiating the Boundary Commission on the Mowat-Cauchon Administration proposed it should do; that the solution of the matter was delayed till, 1878, when the Mackenzie Administration agreed that the Commission should be held on this side of the Atlantic; that when the Dominion Government refused to Parliament its opinion in the matter, no action was taken, by votes or vote by the then Conservative Opposition, nor even up to the date of their return to power; that now assisted the Dominion Government had no policy on the question, but this was simply a question of fact, and the Government should produce the papers and let the House decide for itself. The Government should produce the papers and let the House decide for itself. The Government should produce the papers and let the House decide for itself.

On Friday morning the horse was found tied up on the Market Square, the party who hired him having disappeared. The night was intensely cold, and the poor brute, which was closely clipped, was left shivering all night without covering. Mr. Morgan does not know the fellow, but would like to have about fifteen minutes' interview with him.

February, 1880.—In some important features the present month of February will not be paralleled in many years. In its twenty-nine days it counts five Sundays. It is the only February which this generation will ever see which begins and ends with a Sunday. The circumstance of its being Leap Year is not very remarkable, but as the month contains but twenty-nine days every in Leap Year, it can only have five Sundays, and this only when the first day of the month is Sunday. It will be seen, therefore, that February's chances of having five Sundays is very small. In three of each four years it is impossible, and on the fourth it is extremely improbable. February may commence on Sunday in other years, but it will end on Saturday. People who are so fortunate as to be alive and in good health this month should make the best of it. No clergyman now living will ever again preach on five different Sundays in February.

Civic Dignity Outraged.—On Monday evening, as the Town Council were in Committee of the Whole, Mr. Menzies in the chair, one John Nichols made himself conspicuous by a running fire of ejaculation bearing reference more or less obscure to the proceedings of the Council. Finally after having over the bar, and giving the gentleman undoubted proof of an aggravated catarrhal affection, he coolly proceeded within and sat down in the seat at the Board vacated by Mr. Menzies. He was about to address the Committee, when the eagle of Mr. Bauvis fell upon him. The latter, with every unnecessary quivering with horror and contempt, ruthlessly ran the presumptuous intruder, and would have hauled him forth with a violence that might have resulted in lugubrious bodily harm, but for the fact that the belligerent subsided in the nick of time. He was, however, by dint of exertion the indignant Boniface of the Council finally ousted it, running the offender out in fine form amid the enthusiastic merriment of the onlookers.

Police Court.—The first sitting of the First Division Court, since the recent holiday, was held on Friday last, when a number of cases of indebtedness were disposed of.

Many Furniture Bankers.—Attention is directed to the advertisement of R. J. Stevenson & Co., who have purchased the Furniture business lately carried on by T. & W. McKee. The stock has been replenished and is complete and first-class in every respect. We wish the new firm every success. 2-13m.

Undertaking.—At a public meeting at the Capitol in 1878, a prominent Conservative was eloquently deploring the injustice to be given to all kinds of manufactures by the Mackenzie Policy, when he was suddenly nonplussed by the simple enquiry of what business he was engaged in. He was a manufacturer of coffins. While we are not anxious to see any special evidence of "the hand" in this branch of manufacture, still it is necessary to know that we have the facilities at hand for the decent and comfortable interment of the dead as may be consistent with our means, be they great or small, and with the respect we desire to manifest towards the departed. All who may have this melancholy but imperative duty to perform will find a load of responsibility taken off their by entrusting the ordering of affairs to Mr. A. Comstock, who has every requisite at the most moderate charges. 2-13m.

PROCTOR REVELLING AGAIN.

A couple of weeks ago, Mr. Howard alias Proctor alias Stewart alias Rowbald, bigamist and dramatist, with Henry Walker a respectable young man of this town, hived rips from Mr. Davis, Ivory stable keeper, here, to go to the country to peddle patent medicines, agreeing to return in three days. He did not turn up, however, and about a week after words one of the rigs was sent home to Mr. Davis. Mr. Davis, naturally getting uneasy about the other, telegraphed on Saturday to Mr. O'Brien, hotel-keeper at Belleville, asking information about the alleged Howard. On Monday Chief Johnston received a telegram from the Belleville Chief, stating that Howard was under arrest, and asking instructions as to Walker. Word was sent to Belleville that there was no charge against Walker, but subsequently in the evening Mr. Davis telegraphed to Belleville to have him detained. The following from the Police Court report of the Belleville Intelligencer of Monday, gives a further insight into the doings of the festive peddlatory bird:—

"Henry Howard was charged by Thomas Ritchie with having obtained from him a quantity of carpets, blankets and other goods to the value of $300.00 by false pretences.

The defendant, who was represented by Mr. Anderson, prior to the coming of the latter, said he would prefer to have his case heard before a jury.

The representations, as presented to the Magistrate, were that the defendant went to the store of Mr. Ritchie and stated that he was an agent for mining lands, and was in the employ of the Ottawa Government. He said that he was well known in Ottawa, and intended to furnish a house here, and to that end was now purchasing the necessary goods. The purchased goods were delivered, he had promised to pay for the goods on Tuesday, but Mr. Ritchie telegraphed to Ottawa to ascertain if the statements made by the defendant were true. A reply was received that the Government did not have such a person as he in their employ, and hence he was not known there. On the strength of these telegrams, Howard, after a Gilbert search, was arrested on Saturday evening by Detective Hayes. The case was enlarged for a week, the Magistrate offering to take bail in two sureties of $200 each and defendant in $1,000. The defendant is a large muscular looking man, is of English origin, and gives evidence of having a good education.

Henry Walker was placed in the dock charged with horse stealing. It appears that the accused, who needs no introduction Howard, came to this city in company with the latter and brought a rig with them, which they had taken care of at O'Brien's hotel. Instructions was received here on Saturday night that a horse had been stolen from some one in Peterborough, and the chief, deeming he had good grounds for a case, had the defendant arrested. Mr. Anderson, who defended Walker, asked for his discharge, as there was no evidence against him. The accused was held until three o'clock, at which time, if there was nothing new developed, he would be discharged."

The Belleville authorities do not appear to be aware that the "muscular looking man of English origin" is an ex-penitentiary convict, and a professional bent and swindler of the worst description. If he gets his deserts there, he will have the opportunity of playing "Convict Life in Canada" before more appreciative audiences than he found in Peterborough.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Disposing of Petitions—The Question of Fire Protection—Water-Works Recommended—Reducing Licenses—Passing Accounts, etc.

The Council met on Thursday evening. Present.—Councillors Cahill, Taylor, Smith, McNaughton, Peterson, Dunford, Yelland, Dumphe, Woods, Menzies and Tooke.

In the absence of the Mayor, Councillor Dumphe moved, seconded by Councillor Douglas, that Councillor Smith take the chair.

The minutes of previous meeting were read and confirmed.

ACCOUNTS, PETITIONS AND COMMUNICATIONS were received and disposed of as follows:—

On motion of Councillor Cahill, seconded by Councillor Taylor, the petition of W. A. Morgan, asking to be allowed remission of taxes charged him, but due by another party, was referred to the Finance Committee for investigation.

A notice from James Hogan, of assignment of his interest in the amount due him for special audit, was filed.

A petition from Mr. Larin, stating that he had paid $2 of his taxes and asking for time, and to be allowed to pay the balance ($2.30) in work, was on motion of Councillor Patterson, seconded by Councillor Dumphe, granted.

J. McClennan's petition asking time to pay his taxes was referred to the Finance Committee.

The petition of W. G. Nicholson, asking leave to place a two-plank crossing across Hunter street at his own expense, was on motion of Councillor Tooke, referred to the Streets and Bridge Committee with power to act.

The commemoration of the Fire Brigade Band, asking for the usual annual grant, was referred to the Finance Committee.

In reference to the petition from the officers of the Peterborough Rangers, asking a grant of $200 to assist in the purchase of helmets,

Col. J. S. Rogers was heard. He stated that there were 385 volunteers in the town and county, and the cost of the helmets was $1.85 each, or a trifle over $700 in all. They had appealed to the County Council for aid and had been granted $250, which the county considered its fair proportion of the cost, and the town was asked to give the balance or $450. The officers and men of the Battalion, he said, had taken a great deal of trouble to bring the volunteers of the county into a state of efficiency second to none. These helmets would be a credit to the appearance of the volunteers, and would last a good many years. They had not applied for assistance for a number of years, and he hoped the Council would consider the present request favorably. They were organized for the public benefit, and were, he thought, entitled to encouragement.

In answer to Mr. Dunford, Col. Rogers stated that other municipalities—which he mentioned—had granted aid to the volunteers for the purchase of these helmets. The Government had also granted them new clothing but had made no provision for head covering. Formerly the Government issued shakos, but now they gave only the forage cap.

On motion of Councillor Menzies the communication was referred to the Finance Committee.

The petition of Thomas Bradburn, asking remission of taxes paid twice on the same property, was referred to the Finance Committee.

The application of J. R. Bodner, asking for re-appointment as Town Engineer, was referred to the Committee on Appointments.

A petition from Geo. Chamberlain was read, stating that he had been compelled to pay taxes on two stores, wherein he only occupied one, his neighbour, Mr. Bell, who had been similarly situated, had been relieved by the Council of a portion of the taxes, and he asked the same consideration.

Councillor Dunford thought they ought to deal with this matter. It seemed hard that while the party must clear should get off Mr. Chamberlain should be compelled to pay double. The matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

W. Hamilton's account of $5 for repairs to fire engines was ordered to be paid.

An account of Dr. Harvey for examining W. Lankin, a lunatic, $5, was referred to Finance Committee.

T. Montgomery's account, $3.45, for county lunatics, was also referred to the Finance Committee.

An application of Wm. Kennedy, concerning boys alleged to have broken into his little shop, was on motion of Councillor Tooke referred to the Chief Constable.

On motion of Councillor Tooke, the Finance Committee was instructed to enquire into and report upon Mrs. Ouellette's petition for remission of taxes.

Councillor Patterson moved, seconded by Councillor Douglas, the adoption of the following

FIRE, WATER AND GAS COMMITTEE REPORT.

We having considered the question of providing cisterns or ponds for engines, and also of water supply, find that a pond for engines will be required, in the East Ward, and a cistern in the West Ward. We therefore submit the further consideration of the question of an engine and hose-house in the East Ward, on Murray street, and on Hunter or any other point the Council may determine upon, on the east side of Stoke's property, also for the purchase of hose, and that the Town Solicitor be instructed to prepare a By-law to be submitted to the ratepayers, to borrow money to issue debentures to cover the cost of the same, say $20,000, and in order to save time that the Clerk ask for sealed tenders for the consumption of said water-works as soon as the Council have determined upon a site.

That a hose tower be constructed in the rear of our present engine house at a cost not to exceed $600, and that the Town Engineer prepare plans and specifications for the same, and that the Clerk ask for tenders for the construction of the same.

That 250 feet of rubber hose with couplings, and a Siamese connection, to suit the same, be purchased as soon as possible.

Councillor Dumphe thought the report ought not to be put through to-night. It was a very important matter and they should take time to consider it. He believed with the Committee that water-works were the best means of protection from fire, but he had certain opinions as to the method of carrying it out, and others no doubt had their opinions. He would prefer to leave the matter over till next meeting so that they might have time to give the report due consideration.

Councillor Dunsford thought the matter required a great deal of consideration. He thought it might be found advisable to take water from Rogers' dam. There was a possibility that the village of Ashburnham might be induced to join in a system of water-works which would lessen the expense. A main down Hunter street would be preferable to Murray street.

Councillor Patterson said if we were going to have water-works we should take the necessary steps at once. The object of the report was to place the matter before the ratepayers for their decision at the earliest moment. If the ratepayers would not consent to grant debentures of course they could not go on, and the matter was at an end. The Committee had no desire to push the matter through, their only object being to expedite matters, if water-works were resolved on.

Councillor Tooke thought it proper that the whole matter should be referred to Committee of the whole Council. The Fire Committee seemed to have taken it upon themselves not only to consider the question of fire protection but to adopt a system. He thought the matter should be considered by the whole Council, when they might unite upon some plan.

Councillor Patterson asked if they would be willing to adopt the balance of the report.

Councillor Tooke thought not. It recommended the erection of a new hose tower. They might find it advisable to utilize the old market building.

Councillor Patterson said the report limited the cost of the hose tower to $300. It would cost half that to take the old building down.

Councillor Cahill asked if the Committee had a By-law prepared.

Councillor Patterson said no.

Councillor Cahill said if they had he would have moved the first reading of it. He would like to strain a point to accommodate the Fire Committee if he could. They had devoted a good deal of time and trouble to their duties, not only in the present instance but for the year past, and it was certainly not very pleasant for them to make recommendations to the Council, which were not dealt with. However, as the Council had to meet at an early day he did not think any time would be lost by considering the report in Committee of the whole Council. He would move that the Committee meet at the call of the Chairman of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee.

It was accordingly resolved that the report be referred the Committee of the whole Council to meet at the call of the Chairman of that Committee.

FINANCE REPORT.

Councillor Dumphe, seconded by Councillor Tooke, moved the adoption of the report of the Finance Committee, recommending payment of the following accounts:—R. W. Ball, $8; J. R. Stratton, when certified to by the Clerk, $12; R. Walton, when certified, $1; E. C. Chamberlain, sheep killed by dogs, $30.

THE MARKET.

Councillor Dunsford read the report of the Committee on Market Tolls, and moved the adoption of the report.

The report approved of the action taken by the Clerk in advertising for tenders for the market tolls for 1880, and reminded the Council that the tenders should be opened and the award made during the present week.

Moved by Councillor Dunsford, seconded by Councillor Cahill,—That the action of the Market Committee taken by them in advertising for the market tolls be ratified, and that said Committee do let the tolls for the ensuing year. Carried.

Councillor Dunsford moved the adoption of the following

LICENSE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

The Committee reported that they had taken into consideration the propriety of reducing the licenses of the shop and tavern-keepers of the town, and having taken the view that as formerly high rates were imposed for the purpose of suppressing the then too numerous places opened for the sale of intoxicating liquors, and that now, under the law now in force, this is regulated according to population, it will be no longer necessary, they consider that a high tax levied on one class of the community in preference to any other to be unjust. They would therefore recommend that for the ensuing year a license fee of $200 be imposed on shop and tavern keepers, instead of the late amount charged of $150.

They recommend the amendment and consolidation of the several laws now regulating these licenses.

The report also drew attention to the fact of rumors which existed that some of the licenses had been sold.

Councillor Dunsford said that the unpaid licenses referred to were not those of hotel or shop-keepers, but of livery, hack and carters' licenses.

Mr. Beavis was called on for explanation of unpaid licenses and said steps had been taken for their collection.

The Council went into Committee of the Whole, Councillor Menzies in the chair, on a By-law to fix licenses fees.

On a motion to fix tavern and shop licenses at $150,

Councillor Sawers thought the amount was excessive, and more than was exacted in other towns. He read a statement of the taxes paid by some of the principal hotels:—Huffman House, $400; Croft House, $324; Phalen, $288; Cavanagh, $288, etc. He thought these people could very badly taxed, and moved that the license fee be fixed at $100.

The motion was lost on a division by 5 to 4 and the amount fixed at $150.

A motion to fix the license for billiard tables, etc., at $50 was lost and the fees fixed at $30.

The By-law was then passed through Committee, reported, and read a third time and adopted.

A motion by Councillor Cahill, seconded by Councillor Taylor, to authorize the Street and Bridge Committee to have the stone of the Opera House broken in such manner as they see fit, the object being to provide employment, was carried.

On motion of Councillor Tooke, the Auditors to whom special duties were assigned were instructed to examine the special audits of Messrs. Hogan and Mills, and to fix a value on the same.

On motion of Councillor Tooke, seconded by Councillor Menzies, the Mayor, Chairmen of the Finance Committee and Clerk were authorized to engage Mr. J. F. Donnelson, to prepare such amendment to the law regulating the imposition of fees by Police Magistrates as they may deem advisable, and to sign and affix the corporate seal thereto and forward to the Attorney-General at Toronto.

The Council then adjourned for two weeks.

Missionary Services.

A missionary service was held in the George Street Methodist Church on Monday evening, and was very fully attended. Rev. Mr. Fletcher occupying the chair.

After an anthem by the choir and a brief address by Rev. Mr. Harper, Rev. Mr. Cullen gave an interesting account of the work of Home Missions. He contrasted the bloodless conquests of Christianity and their beneficent results with those consequent upon warfare, and deprecated a certain degree of irreverence of conduct in the House of God, which seemed to be growing up.

The choir gave "Watchman tell us of the Night," Mr. Davis singing the solo part with admirable effect.

Rev. Mr. Cochrane, of the Japanese Mission, was then introduced and gave an address both eloquent and instructive. He stated that he had sailed in June, 1873 from San Francisco, in company with Dr. McDonald, for Yokohama, Japan, as the first missionary to that empire from the Dominion of Canada. After a year spent in that city to acquire a knowledge of the language, they started for their station, one hundred miles inland, to begin their mission work, and on Christmas day 1874 he baptized his first convert. He gave a history of the efforts to introduce Christianity into the Island since 1557. When he first landed in Yokohama there was a chapel with 11 members, and when he left the island last year there were 44 well-organized churches, 100 missionaries and 1,173 baptized members professing the Christian religion and receiving communion.

A duet by Misses Huston and Wells was given in a manner deserving of every praise, after which a subscription, headed by Rev. Mr. Harper with $120, was taken up, amounting to $308.00, and with the collections of Sunday and Monday, to the handsome sum of $985.

A vote of thanks was given to the committee of ladies who collected for the missions last year, and they were re-appointed, Mrs. John Carlisle being added to the list. Mr. Heathfield presided at the organ with his accustomed ability, and the choir, under the leadership of Mr. Claxton, contributed greatly to the enjoyment of the evening. The meeting was closed in the usual manner, Mr. Cochrane pronouncing the benediction.

Parlor Social.

A very pleasant social entertainment took place on Thursday evening last, at the residence of Geo. A. Cox, Esq., and although the weather during the day was sufficient to make people feel like remaining at home, yet the house was well filled. The entertainment was first class, being opened with the instrumental solo, "Clayton's Grand March," which was played with taste and style, by Miss Cox, and was followed by a vocal duet, by Messrs. Elliott and Davis. This combination is a strong one, and we heartily congratulate our boys on their first effort. The solos by Miss Stratton and Miss Walsh, and readings by Messrs. Jaffers and Grullet were all unexceptionally good. Altogether the evening was a most enjoyable one, and we are sure those who were present will only be too glad to respond to the announcement of another entertainment of a like nature at the same place.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—Mr. John Kincaid met with a serious accident in his mill on Monday afternoon last. In front of the platform of the shingle-cutter is the button saw, used for cutting the bolts into proper lengths for shingles. Mr. Kincaid was engaged at this work. In throwing the blocks to the platform one of them rolled back on the saw, which, revolving at a terrific rate, threw the block with tremendous force, striking Mr. Kincaid on the hip and knocking him senseless. He was immediately taken home and his injuries attended to by Dr. Norris. The hip is badly bruised.

An Open Letter. It Speaks for Itself.

WEST TOWNSHEND, Vt.

MR. EDITOR.—Having read in your paper reports of the remarkable cures of catarrh, I am inclined to tell "what I know about catarrh," and I fancy the "cuff" and "inhaling-tube" makers (more dollar grabbers) would be glad if they could condemn a stealing cure in the papers. For 26 years I suffered with catarrh. The most passive became annoyed and closed "fire." Many times I "inhaled" and "sticks," wouldn't work, though at intervals I would sniff up the so-called catarrh snuffs, until I became a valuable patron of such medicines. I gradually grew worse, and no one can know how much I suffered or what a miserable being I was. My head ached over my eyes so that I was confined to my bed for many successive days, suffering the most intense pain, which at one time lasted continuously for 60 hours. All sense of smell and taste gone, deaf and hearing impaired, body shrunken and feeble, and I was hawking and spitting seven-eighths of the time. I prayed for death to relieve me of my suffering. A friend spoke to me in favor of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Indeed not to purchase a package, and use it with Dr. Harvey's Pulmonic Wafers, which opened the remedy by hydrostatic pressure, the only way communicable with the nasal organs. Well, Mr. Editor, in less than one mo in three-fourths of a month, using one box per month, but in less than eight months I was relieved, and in three months entirely cured, and have remained so for over sixteen months. While using the Catarrh Remedy, I used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to purify my blood and strengthen my stomach. I also found my liver active and bowels regular by the use of his Pleasant Purgative Pellets. If experience will induce others to use the same means of relief, this letter will have answered its purpose. Yours truly, with the [illegible] of the Lieutenant-Governor, the Chief Justice, and the Chancellor of Ontario, to proceed to the Parliament Buildings for the purpose of receiving a visit of His Honor to the [illegible] Assembly, by the sum of $500, which [illegible] appears to be more than sufficient for every one of said expenses that might be contributed personal."

Hon. Mr. Morris asked if a private communication to the Premier was sufficient to base a formal motion upon. This point involved a no important constitutional question. He characterized the course adopted by the Government as a cowardly one, and they should have shrunk from placing Her Honor in so false a position.

Mr. Speaker said that he could not say the motion was based upon any letter.

Mr. Meredith thought it would be much more creditable if the Government, instead of as it did the confidence of three-fourth of the people of the province, had stood upon the merits of their action rather than place themselves behind the back of a gentleman whom they could not attack. With regard to the expenditure by the Dominion Government on trips of this kind, no parallel could be drawn by what would be proper for the Dominion and what would be proper for the province. He denied that any public advantage had been gained by the visit of the Lieutenant-Governor to the Northwest, and no justification could be given for it. As soon as the elections were over, without having in any way submitted the question to the representatives of the people, the Government made an appropriation of $5,000 to defray the expenses of this trip. The hon. gentleman opposite would have to justify the expenditure upon its own merits before the House and before the country, and the House would be called upon to vote on the question at a future time.

Mr. Mowat said he was perfectly willing to have a vote on the question. The Government had always been willing to have its public acts submitted to the House and to the people for their approval. Last session they were told by the hon. gentlemen opposite that the people could not be misled, but the result was that they were returned by an increased majority. (Applause.) They did not desire to shirk any part of their responsibility. They had desired that these particular items should not be charged to the public treasury, and he presumed they had a perfect right to do so. His Honor had merely said that so far as these items being made a charge upon the public treasury was concerned he desired that they should not occupy that position. The hon. member for East Toronto had spoken of the grave constitutional question involved. His hon. friend had been for a long time a member of Parliament and he should recollect that this was not the rule at all. The Governor-General constantly communicated with the House through his Ministers. He (Mr. Mowat) frequently received communications from the head of the Government by writing, and he generally expressed them verbally to the House. The hon. Gentleman chose to belittle this official visit to the North-west and to convey the idea that it was not in accordance with the feeling of this country in regard to that territory. Possibly it was to the interest of hon. gentlemen opposite to belittle that territory at the present time, but he believed the feeling throughout the country was pronounced as to the importance of that territory. (Applause.) It dwelled our power, our extent, our population, and our importance in every way. And they were in a position in reference to that whilst they had a lawful right to the territory, that right was withheld from them by the party to which the hon. gentleman belonged. (Applause.) The extent of that territory had been for a long time the subject of investigation and discussion, and at length it was left to be decided by three gentlemen who were probably as competent as could be chosen for the work. There was an exhaustive examination of the matter, and evidence of such a character was taken as fully demonstrated their right to the territory. It was the broadest duty of the Government at Ottawa to recognize this decision, and yet that duty had not been performed by appropriate legislation. And further, he had that day received a despatch announcing the intention of the Government at Ottawa to dissolve the legislation of the House for the administration of justice. The Act was passed in the House by the consent of all parties. There was no question as to their right to pass such an Act. No suggestion was made that it was beyond their powers, but now it seemed that they were not to be permitted to administer justice. It was important that it should be thoroughly understood by those who had influence at Ottawa that the people of this country attached great importance to the North-west Territory, and whatever could be done to bring out that sentiment it was proper to do. There was nothing which was so fitted to call public attention to that country as this very trip which His Honor had taken. Hon. gentlemen opposite had taken great credit to themselves for having brought this matter of $300 before the public. He had no doubt if they had come down to the House last session and asked a vote of $5,000 for this purpose, hon. gentlemen opposite would not have opposed it. What they charged against him, and what they were so fierce about, was always in reference to matters in which they were foremost when they had the opportunity. He would be very glad, as a matter of payment testing, that the policy of all parties should be such that the expenditure on trips of this kind should be more moderate; but it was a practice obtaining not only in the Dominion, but in the old Province of Canada, and they were in a measure officially bound to follow it. He did not see any reason why hon. gentlemen should withdraw any portion of their confidence and bestow it on hon. gentlemen opposite.

Mr. McMaster said that through this agitation, raised by the Opposition, the North-west Territory was receiving an excellent advertisement. The Government, in resorting to this subterfuge to wipe out their political sin, had made a mistake which the people of the country would not regard with favor. Though the Opposition were not very strong in the House, yet they represented very nearly as large a number of voters as did the supporters of the Government. He would suggest to hon. gentlemen that in future they had better not allow such expenditures as the one under discussion to be incurred again, as this one would most certainly meet with public disapprobation. Ex-Governor Robinson, of New York, had stated in his memoirs that every improper expenditure was a violation of the eighth commandment; and he hoped that the hon. the leader of the Government, who had passed before the country as a Christian politician would not discard that rule in future expenditure for whiskey, ales, cigars and other luxuries of that kind.

Mr. Hardy said the last speaker had treated the matter before the House in a very jocular vein, instead of doing as the leader of the Opposition had done—getting into a white heat over this terrible violation of constitutional principles. He thought that on the whole the country would incline to follow the example of the hon. member for Glengarry and not treat the matter seriously, like that hon. gentleman's leader. The hon. member for Glengarry had referred to the boundary award and he (Mr. Hardy) believed that it struck the House generally, as it had struck him, that the tone and the manner of the hon. gentleman showed that his sympathies on the question were to put it mildly, strongest [illegible] with the Province of Ontario. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. McMaster said the hon. gentleman had misapprehended his views entirely. (Oh, oh.)

Mr. Hardy said he accepted the hon. gentleman's statement, but he had certainly inferred that from reasons which they could all imagine—from his early associations and from his present constitutions—his sympathies were in another direction—[cheers, hear]—that in fact the award recently came to was not a [illegible] to the hon. gentleman's views. [illegible] engaged had been supplied in cake and beer, [illegible] and right; that, in fact, [illegible] Government of New York, [illegible] liberal hospitalities to their [illegible] the Province of Ontario. (Hear, hear, and laughter.)

Mr. McMaster—There was nothing in my remarks—[hear, hear and cries of "That's so"]—to justify the hon. gentleman in making that observation.

Mr. Hardy said that evidently the matter was not so foreign to him as to the hon. gentleman a few minutes ago. The hon. member would [illegible] New York; he would go as an hon. M.P.P. from Quebec—he begged his pardon from near Quebec—and he would be interviewed by the New York Herald as an authority on matters of interprovincial hospitality in the country. What did not that hon. gentleman take a position on this question which they could all understand? Why did he not discuss it on its merits? (Hear, hear.) The matter resolved itself into this—Who was responsible for the expenditure being incurred? not when partook of the wine and the ale and the cigars and the Apollinaris water; if you had given me, an old bachelor, a chance to show myself beside that enchanting ladies Maiden, Minnie He, He; the thing would have been all right." (Loud laughter). He (Mr. Hardy) took the ground that the visit was an eminently proper one. The Province of Ontario had had a hard fight to acquire their new territories in the North-West, and a fight in which the Attorney-General had been complimented by members of the Opposition for the stand he had taken; and they had obtained from a solemn tribunal an award which had doubled the extent of their territory, and which had added 1,500 miles to the province. They had taken steps to establish their rights to that newly acquired territory, and no single question which had come up at the last election had taken a stronger hold of the people of this province than the establishment of their rights to that vast area. [dear, hear.] The people were bound that if necessary the Government should wrest it from those who tried to withhold their rights. The Crown Lands Department had been delegated with applications for settlement on the Rainy River—many of them coming from the constituency of the hon. member for London—and what could have been a more proper or better time than the visit of the chief of the Executive to that country, accompanied by men of experience and intelligence, directing, as it had done, the attention of the people to its wonderful resources in agriculture, minerals and timber—showing how much of it was habitable and arable, and how much of it was not. The trip could not fail to be productive of the greatest benefit to the interests of that country and the province at large. The people at various points along the route had been addressed. At Fort Simpson a body of Indians numbering [illegible] had been delayed was provided with supplies by the Lieutenant-Governor, and what could have been better calculated to propitiate these people? He went on to point out that expenditure similar to the one under discussion had been incurred under the Administrations of Lord Monck, Lord Rigby, Baron Lisgar, and Earl Dufferin, and the present was the first case in which Parliament had proceeded so far as to ask for details of these expenditures. They had not done so in the case of Governor Lord Lorne in which [illegible] had been supplied on the occasion of the celebrated Chicora trip, because their beverages had been supplied in casks and barrels, and, by the way every one of them came back empty. [Loud laughter.] The account read "refreshments, refreshments, refreshments, etc.," all the way down, and pretty much all they knew about it was $4,178 84, and that according to the public accounts that expenditure had been incurred in developing colonization roads. [Laughter] The whole affair had falsehood written on the face of it. Reformers might be right or they might be wrong in the view they took of these matters, but they had too much respect for themselves to descend to the work of public scavengers, and go into the Lieutenant-Governor's kitchen and pick up petty details for the purpose of making a point against their opponents.

Mr. Lauder argued on the authority of May, that it was unconstitutional to refer to an opinion of the Sovereign in order to influence the votes of the Legislature. The Lieutenant-Governor being the representative of the Sovereign, the same constitutional rule applied.

Mr. Fraser said he would begin by referring to the high constitutional ground assumed by the member for East Grey. That hon. gentleman was sensibly astray, he would not say intentionally, because that was unparliamentary, and when he tried to be logical he generally succeeded in being non-sensical. (Laughter.) He had quoted May to show that Her Majesty's name should not be introduced into Parliament to influence a debate. The ex-Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba was one of the leaders or deputy leaders of that hon gentleman, and he wished to point out that the friends of the hon. member for East Toronto in Ottawa had taken the ground that a Lieutenant-Governor was not the representative of Her Majesty in this country; that these officers, in no sense whatever, represented Her Majesty in their respective provinces. He (Mr. Fraser) took the opposite ground, that on towards this House the Lieutenant-Governor took the place of Her Majesty the Queen; but it would be well to enquire how the constitutional principles laid down by the hon. member of East Grey applied to the case before the House. Not only was the opinion of Her Majesty exercised in the House, but actually in respect [illegible] be introduced without her consent. The fact of the matter was that the Opposition were not so much troubled about this expenditure, or how it was incurred, as they were over the fact that they had lacked a cause over a want of confidence motion, and they had found themselves out-generalled. They took the constitutional ground that the money was wrongfully spent, and that was based on the fact that the Lieutenant-Governor could refuse to recommend the wrongful expenditure of any public money. Supposing that His Honor had discovered before the Estimates came down that this was a wrongful expenditure, it would have been his duty to say that he could not have recommended to this particular appropriation.

Mr. Meredith—But he did consent.

Mr. Fraser—Yes, and that proves my argument correct. The hon. gentleman, in order to make his position sound, had to prove that between the Lieutenant-Governor recommending this appropriation he had full knowledge of all these items. Where was the proof of that? Supposing Her Majesty the Queen were placed in the position in which these hon. gentlemen had placed the Lieut.-Governor of Ontario. Would anybody imagine that her consent would be regulated by such considerations these which had been quoted from May. Would she not say, "I decline to have my name dragged into the House in this way?" Would she not do as the Lieut.-Governor had done in this case? (Hear, hear, and loud cheers.) They had heard the words "contemptible" and "cowardly" flung at the Government by hon. gentlemen opposite, but he would like to know if these epithets did not apply very forcibly to hon. gentlemen who attached a man who had not said here no words to defend himself. He liked a man who hits fair, he liked a man who struck it at once who was not afraid to strike it openly and shoot himself. (Laughter.) They were in a thousand times better position to Opposition benches, from the [illegible] character of Manitoba delegation, [illegible] going there, who had been wined and dined and [illegible] such a line as that. The Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba was not the representative of all that he thought the constitutional powers and rights; that, in fact, [illegible] Lieutenant-Governor of New York, [illegible] hospitalities to their [illegible] the Province of Ontario. (Hear, hear, and laughter.)

Mr. Hardy—There was nothing in my remarks—[hear, hear and cries of "That's so"]—to justify the hon. gentleman in making that observation.

Mr. Hardy said that evidently the matter was not so foreign to him as to the hon. gentleman a few minutes ago. The hon. member would [illegible] New York; he would go as an hon. M.P.P. from Quebec—he begged his pardon from near Quebec—and he would be interviewed by the New York Herald as an authority on matters of interprovincial hospitality in the country. What did not that hon. gentleman take a position on this question which they could all understand? Why did he not discuss it on its merits? (Hear, hear.) The matter resolved itself into this—Who was responsible for the expenditure being incurred? not when partook of the wine and the ale and the cigars and the Apollinaris water; if you had given me, an old bachelor, a chance to show myself beside that enchanting ladies Maiden, Minnie He, He; the thing would have been all right." (Loud laughter). He (Mr. Hardy) took the ground that the visit was an eminently proper one. The Province of Ontario had had a hard fight to acquire their new territories in the North-West, and a fight in which the Attorney-General had been complimented by members of the Opposition for the stand he had taken; and they had obtained from a solemn tribunal an award which had doubled the extent of their territory, and which had added 1,500 miles to the province. They had taken steps to establish their rights to that newly acquired territory, and no single question which had come up at the last election had taken a stronger hold of the people of this province than the establishment of their rights to that vast area. [dear, hear.] The people were bound that if necessary the Government should wrest it from those who tried to withhold their rights. The Crown Lands Department had been delegated with applications for settlement on the Rainy River—many of them coming from the constituency of the hon. member for London—and what could have been a more proper or better time than the visit of the chief of the Executive to that country, accompanied by men of experience and intelligence, directing, as it had done, the attention of the people to its wonderful resources in agriculture, minerals and timber—showing how much of it was habitable and arable, and how much of it was not. The trip could not fail to be productive of the greatest benefit to the interests of that country and the province at large. The people at various points along the route had been addressed. At Fort Simpson a body of Indians numbering [illegible] had been delayed was provided with supplies by the Lieutenant-Governor, and what could have been better calculated to propitiate these people? He went on to point out that expenditure similar to the one under discussion had been incurred under the Administrations of Lord Monck, Lord Rigby, Baron Lisgar, and Earl Dufferin, and the present was the first case in which Parliament had proceeded so far as to ask for details of these expenditures. They had not done so in the case of Governor Lord Lorne in which [illegible] had been supplied on the occasion of the celebrated Chicora trip, because their beverages had been supplied in casks and barrels, and, by the way every one of them came back empty. [Loud laughter.] The account read "refreshments, refreshments, refreshments, etc.," all the way down, and pretty much all they knew about it was $4,178 84, and that according to the public accounts that expenditure had been incurred in developing colonization roads. [Laughter] The whole affair had falsehood written on the face of it. Reformers might be right or they might be wrong in the view they took of these matters, but they had too much respect for themselves to descend to the work of public scavengers, and go into the Lieutenant-Governor's kitchen and pick up petty details for the purpose of making a point against their opponents.

Mr. Lauder argued on the authority of May, that it was unconstitutional to refer to an opinion of the Sovereign in order to influence the votes of the Legislature. The Lieutenant-Governor being the representative of the Sovereign, the same constitutional rule applied.

Mr. Fraser said he would begin by referring to the high constitutional ground assumed by the member for East Grey. That hon. gentleman was sensibly astray, he would not say intentionally, because that was unparliamentary, and when he tried to be logical he generally succeeded in being non-sensical. (Laughter.) He had quoted May to show that Her Majesty's name should not be introduced into Parliament to influence a debate. The ex-Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba was one of the leaders or deputy leaders of that hon gentleman, and he wished to point out that the friends of the hon. member for East Toronto in Ottawa had taken the ground that a Lieutenant-Governor was not the representative of Her Majesty in this country; that these officers, in no sense whatever, represented Her Majesty in their respective provinces. He (Mr. Fraser) took the opposite ground, that on towards this House the Lieutenant-Governor took the place of Her Majesty the Queen; but it would be well to enquire how the constitutional principles laid down by the hon. member of East Grey applied to the case before the House. Not only was the opinion of Her Majesty exercised in the House, but actually no money Bill could be introduced without her consent. The fact of the matter was that the Opposition were not so much troubled about this expenditure, or how it was incurred, as they were over the fact that they had lacked a cause over a want of confidence motion, and they had found themselves out-generalled. They took the constitutional ground that the money was wrongfully spent, and that was based on the fact that the Lieutenant-Governor could refuse to recommend the wrongful expenditure of any public money. Supposing that His Honor had discovered before the Estimates came down that this was a wrongful expenditure, it would have been his duty to say that he could not have recommended to this particular appropriation.

Mr. Meredith—But he did consent.

Mr. Fraser—Yes, and that proves my argument correct. The hon. gentleman, in order to make his position sound, had to prove that between the Lieutenant-Governor recommending this appropriation he had full knowledge of all these items. Where was the proof of that? Supposing Her Majesty the Queen were placed in the position in which these hon. gentlemen had placed the Lieut.-Governor of Ontario. Would anybody imagine that her consent would be regulated by such considerations these which had been quoted from May. Would she not say, "I decline to have my name dragged into the House in this way?" Would she not do as the Lieut.-Governor had done in this case? (Hear, hear, and loud cheers.) They had heard the words "contemptible" and "cowardly" flung at the Government by hon. gentlemen opposite, but he would like to know if these epithets did not apply very forcibly to hon. gentlemen who attached a man who had not said here no words to defend himself. He liked a man who hits fair, he liked a man who struck it at once who was not afraid to strike it openly and shoot himself. (Laughter.) They were in a thousand times better position to Opposition benches, from the [illegible] character of Manitoba delegation, [illegible] going there, who had been wined and dined and [illegible] such a line as that. The Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba was not the representative of all that he thought the constitutional powers and rights; that, in fact, [illegible] Lieutenant-Governor of New York, [illegible] hospitalities to their [illegible] the Province of Ontario. (Hear, hear, and laughter.)

Mr. Hardy—There was nothing in my remarks—[hear, hear and cries of "That's so"]—to justify the hon. gentleman in making that observation.

Mr. Hardy said that evidently the matter was not so foreign to him as to the hon. gentleman a few minutes ago. The hon. member would [illegible] New York; he would go as an hon. M.P.P. from Quebec—he begged his pardon from near Quebec—and he would be interviewed by the New York Herald as an authority on matters of interprovincial hospitality in the country. What did not that hon. gentleman take a position on this question which they could all understand? Why did he not discuss it on its merits? (Hear, hear.) CONFEDERATION LIFE ASSOCIATION.

EXAMPLES OF PROFITS.

No. of Policy.	Kind of Insurance.	Sum Assured.	Annual Premium.	For 1878. Cash	For 1878. Bonus	For 1877. Cash	For 1877. Bonus
}	Life	$10,000	$288.30	$77.40	$217.80	$80.85	$230.25
10 Payment Life.	5,000	205.5	77.40	108.90	80.85	115.20

It will be observed that these results are not only very handsome, but are also Equitable. If this Association distributed the Profits on the ordinary PERCENTAGE PLAN, allowing a bonus of 2½ per cent., payable at death, then the profits would have been as follows:—

Policy No. 1. For 1877. Cash ..... $97.50. Bonus ..... $2893.00.
" 7. " " ..... 65.00. " ..... 125.00.

It will at once be seen that such a system as this last cannot commend itself to persons who will take time to consider it, as it not only does injustice to persons paying by a limited number of Premiums, but it gives only the same profits after a person has paid a score of Premiums. The above profit-results, which place the Confederation Life in the van of Life Companies in Canada are attained by

Not paying more for business than it is worth. Adopting a High Standard of Valuation from the outset. Giving 90 per cent. of the profits to Policy-holders.

The expenses of care and economy in the conduct of the business. And employing a Mode of Division, just in its results, giving to each in the proportion in which each has contributed to profits

CATARRH.

Constitutional Catarrh Remedy Cures Catarrh.

T. J. B. HARDING, Esq., BROCKVILLE, ONT.

DEAR SIR.—It is now two years since your "Constitutional Catarrh Remedy" was introduced to me. I have watched this long to see if the cure would remain permanent before writing you, but am glad to say, to-day, I am as free the happy effects seemed to me to be—for good to be true.

I was afflicted in my head for years before I succeeded to be Catarrh. I had tried in vain for your Cure, but I saw my case decided to more permanent. The terrible "dryness" from the head has entirely left me, I recommend, and a shifting sensation often prevented me from lying down at night, but now I can lie down to be consoled to sit up in the bed. My hearing and sparkle many sentences is cleared. When I first came to Toronto to in August 1877, I noticed there hearing before I had used your Catarrh Remedy, but one of our bottle I found decided relief, and after I had used two bottles I found a perfect cure. I have recommended your remedy to many friends, and will continue to do so. I have taken many for a cold in my head.

A word of duty on my part to you. I have been a great sufferer for many years from Catarrh, and have tried many remedies without relief, but your Catarrh Remedy is the only one that has done me any good. I am a well man now, and can recommend your remedy to all sufferers from Catarrh.

Yours truly, T. J. B. HARDING.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 4, 1880.

THE SUPREME COURT.

Some time previous to the session an article, bearing every appearance of inspiration from a higher source, appeared in the Toronto Mail, in which a direct attack was made upon the character and constitution of the Supreme Court of Canada. The article created no little sensation, as the subject was pursued with animus by most of the Conservative press—as it appeared to indicate that the Government, heated with the work of political iconoclasm, contemplated the subversion of an institution which is, by the Confederation Act, as much a part of the Constitution as Parliament itself, and which it is of supreme importance to the welfare of the country should be preserved from assaults by the transient passions of politics, and firmly [illegible] that disturbing spirit which has, since September 1878, worked so many rash and dangerous interferences with the machinery of Government. It was well known that Sir John Macdonald did not forgive the members of the Court the offence of having been appointed by a Liberal Government, and that his dislike was increased by the Imperial confirmation, against his efforts, of the finality of its jurisdiction, and whetted by the rapacious demands of his followers from the Provinces of Quebec. It was feared that, as he had not even offered "coy submission and sweet, reluctant, amorous delay," to the dictation of Mr. Langevin's faction in their outrageous demands to dispute the solemn decision of the arbitration upon the Ontario boundary question, he would be found only too willing to bow to Quebec dictation in the contemplated effort to abolish the Supreme Court. However, it seems that a lingering sense of decency, or a wholesome fear of too greatly arousing public opinion, by going too far in reckless tampering with the established institutions of the country, has impelled him to stay his hand, and on motion of Hon. Mr. Blake, Mr. Keeler's bill for the abolition of the Court, was "hoisted" by a vote of 148 to 29—the 29 members being all Tory representatives from Quebec, excepting Messrs. Keeler, Little, Rykert and White of Ontario, Kaulbeck of Nova Scotia, and Wallace of New Brunswick. But if he dared not go the length of his inclinations in action, Sir John had no scruple in his speech, which was well calculated to prejudice the Court before the country, and pander to the feelings of, and hold out a hope in the future to, his Quebec masters. He said: "They could not shut their eyes to "the fact that by some accident or mis-"fortune this Court had not commanded "that confidence in the country which "they might expect such a tribunal to "command." The "accident" was, of course, that he did not happen to be in power when the Court was constituted; and the "misfortune," that the judges were not named by him. That dissatisfaction should exist in the Dominion would not be wondered at after the systematic attacks and mis-representations of the Tory press, and the assaults made by the Quebec Tories in Parliament, and it speaks volumes for the wisdom, impartiality and utility of this Court, that all the attempts to work up a public prejudice against it have signally failed, and that it stands to-day more firmly entrenched than ever in the confidence of the people as an essential safeguard of their private and public interests. The speech of the Minister of Justice, which was frank, manly, and candid, afforded a striking commentary upon the tone of Sir John's remarks. Hon. Mr. Macdonald bore ready testimony to the efficiency and utility of the Court, and the high standing of its members, and stated emphatically that "to abolish it would be a great calamity to the country."

PARLIAMENT HUMILIATED.

A case which occupied the attention of the Commons last week serves well to illustrate how little regard Sir John Macdonald is possessed of for the dignity and privileges of Parliament. It will be remembered that towards the close of last session one John A. Macdonell was introduced to the floor of the House by a courtesy which is sometimes extended to distinguished persons. In the course of the debate Mr. Macdonell addressed the remark to Hon. Mr. Huntington that the latter was "a liar, a thief and a scoundrel." The offender was promptly ejected from the Chamber, but the Government, specially charged by their position with the protection of the dignity of the House, and enabled by their majority to enforce any measures necessary to that end, shamefully ignored the outrage, and it was only when attention was directed to the matter by Mr. Mackenzie that a Speaker's warrant for the appearance of the offender to answer for his conduct at the bar of the House was caused to be issued. Macdonell, however paid no attention to the summons, and the matter was left over till the present session. Again the leader of the Government showed his sympathy with the offender and his willingness to pass over the outrage without comment, by taking no steps to vindicate the dignity of the House, until Mr. Mackenzie again brought the matter forward, when Macdonell made his appearance and pronounced a carefully prepared "apology" which was in reality an aggravation of the offence, as it contained not a word of retractation of the scandalous language used by him, or a word of apology towards the member of the House whom he had so grossly insulted. Nevertheless, the so-called apology was accepted by a strictly partizan vote, and Macdonell, with ill-concealed contempt for the farce, was allowed to depart. The conduct of the leader of the Government throughout in this matter, [illegible] too plainly that he was willing to sacrifice the highest privileges of Parliament to the gratification which he felt at the insult put upon Hon. Mr. Huntington. There is no point on which British precedent and Parliamentary practice are more clear than that which regards it as an offence of the most serious gravity, that the deliberations of Parliament shall be in any way subject to interference by persons not qualified to take part in its proceedings as peoples' representatives, or that Parliament, or any member thereof, shall be confronted with insult or intimidation when in the discharge of their solemn duties, and this outrage is all the more glaring when we consider that the ruffian who has so grossly violated those privileges, and who has been let off with a bastard apology which is in reality an additional insult, is the secretary of the political organization of the Government, and the son-in-law of the Minister of Railways. Had he not stood in those relations to the Government, we have no doubt he would have been subjected to a term of confinement which he so richly deserved, and the failure of public duty by the Government is all the more conspicuous from the intervention of these considerations, and the fact that the member insulted was a member of a minority of the House. So far as Hon. Mr. Huntington was concerned, he can well afford to overlook the question of apology from a drunken rowdy, which he might have felt called upon to exact from a gentleman. It is Parliament alone which has been insulted, and which has by the voice of its majority, swallowed the insult and degraded its dignity. The public will well understand the vindictive malice with which those on the Ministerial side of the House regard the member for Shefford, and the cause of those feelings which found a fitting mouth-piece in the secretary of the U. E. Club. Ever since the day when Mr. Huntington, from his place in Parliament, confronted the perjured stewards of the people with the proofs of their perfidy, when he lifted the mask which showed to the people the leader of a Government sordidly trafficking in the honor and interests of the country for gold with which to corrupt the very citadel of their liberties, the member for Shefford has been the subject of unremitting, systematic, unscrupulous slander, which has sought to fasten upon him some of that odium of which Sir John Macdonald received so full a share in 1874. Nothing that ingenuity could suggest to malice has been left undone to defame the public and private character of Mr. Huntington, more especially among the people of this Province, where he is less known. Yet all that concentrated malice, aided by every instrument and seeking every avenue of slander, has been able to effect, has not been sufficient to fix the slightest blot upon the character of a man who is most respected where he is best known, and whose career, both in public and private life, has been one of honor and integrity. The name of Lucius Seth Huntington will long be remembered after his traducers have been lost in oblivion, as a statesman who served his country with ability and fidelity, and who in an hour of peril, when the guardians of the public welfare were treacherously conspiring against the interests of the State, rescued the reins of Government from hands that were guiding it to ruin and disgrace.

"There are no party issues involved in the Toronto and Ottawa railway enterprise All political parties see its necessity; and all join in urging the Government to come to its assistance. It is not in the remotest sense a sectional undertaking, for every part of Ontario west of Toronto is in favor of it, as furnishing a new outlet eastward."—Toronto Tribune.

"It may be pertinently asked, in view of this reply, what does this evident trifling with the rights and interests of Ontario mean? Do the Cabinet officials at Ottawa entertain grave doubts as to the justice of the decision given by arbitration? Behind all this, is there an intention to dispute or set aside that decision? Are Sir John and his colleagues so beset by party exigencies that, to stave off the evil day, they are reduced to the miserable expedient of temporizing in order to weary out the patience of their troublesome and importunate partizans? Is it only this and nothing more?" St. Thomas Journal.

MIDLAND RAILWAY OF CANADA.

The Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Midland Railway was held in the Company's office, Port Hope, Feb. 17th, 1880.

The President took the chair, and on motion, Mr. Read was appointed secretary.

The minutes of meeting of the shareholders and bondholders held on the 18th February, 1879, were taken as read.

The report of the President and Directors for the year ending 31st Dec., 1879, was read, as follows:—

REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS.

To the Proprietors of the Midland Railway of Canada:

PORT HOPE, Feb. 17th, 1880.

The Directors beg to submit their report for the year ending 31st December, 1879, with the usual accounts and statements.

The gross receipts have amounted to $230,236.77, against $246,238.90 for 1878, showing an increase of $10,997.87.

Although not large, this increase is the more gratifying, when it is remembered that in July we had a decrease of $19,136.04 to contend against, showing that we have during the last half year had an increase of $29,518.87 over the corresponding period of the previous year. The first half of 1879 was marked by a continuation in the depression of trade which has so seriously affected this, as well as the other Canadian Railways, during the past few years; and severe snow storms in the early months tended still further to hamper our trade. Towards midsummer, however, a general improvement in the business of the country took place. Lumber, the most important staple, began to revive, and an excellent harvest in coarse grains, combined with an average wheat crop, assisted to give an impetus to trade.

The working expenses, or rather the amount charged to revenue account for the year, amounted to $221,585.67 as against $188,339.38, in 1878, an increase of $33,246.29, but particular attention is directed to the fact, that this increase occurs altogether in the improvement of the property, no less than $121,563.72 of this amount having been expended in renewals and repairs, representing many important and substantial improvements to both the road and rolling stock, that might fairly be charged to capital account.

The percentage of the actual working charges upon receipts was 86.86 against 40.16 in the previous year.

An agreement was entered into on the first of June, with the Whitby, Port Perry and Lindsay Railway, to divide the gross earnings of the two companies, in the proportion of 79 per cent. to the Midland Railway, and 21 per cent. to the Whitby Company. This had the effect of doing away with the ruinous competition in the Lindsay district, and must result beneficially to both lines. During the months of July, August, September, October and November, the Midland earned more than its proportion by $800.42, while during the months of June and December, the Whitby Company earned $637.95 more than its proportion, thus showing a difference of only $237.53, for the seven months, which indicates that the basis of the agreement, may, for the present at least, be considered satisfactory to both Companies.

The agreement is for twenty years with a re-adjustment of divisions and the privilege to either Company of terminating it at the end of three years.

An agreement with the Northern and Hamilton and North Western Railway, has been entered into for equal rates, between competition points during 1880. This, as well as the pool with the Whitby Company, will avoid competition, and it is hoped result in improved rates.

Our relations with the Grand Trunk Railway, are of a cordial and co-operative nature, but the pool with the W. P. P. & L. Company cause the latter to receive from and hand to the G. T. R. at Whitby, a considerable quantity of Midland R. R. traffic to and from the west, which we formerly interchanged with them at Port Hope. This, however, is fully recognized by the officers of the Grand Trunk Company.

We are working in perfect accord with the Victoria Railway, and doing all we can to co-operate with that Company for the development of its mineral and forest products, and an agreement as to rates and division of rates with it for 1880 is now being completed.

The probable early construction of the Ontario and Pacific Junction Railway from Gravenhurst (a point of 22 miles distant from our line at Orillia, but connected therewith by the Northern Railway, over which we have running powers) to Lake Nipissing, the proposed eastern terminus of the Canada Pacific and Sault Ste Marie branch will, it is believed, form an important connection for this line.

Your directors in entering upon their duties in February last, were not altogether unacquainted with the difficulties that had to be encountered, but it soon became evident that they had been entirely under-estimated. Upon the opening of spring, an examination of the line revealed the fact that far more extensive repairs than was at first anticipated, were most urgently required, and without which it would be impossible to keep the line open, while the rolling stock was in an equally bad state of repair, and totally inadequate to the demands upon it. These difficulties were further augmented by the heavy floating debt, and the large number of creditors, many of whom were pressing their claims, and several of them being of a preferential nature, had to be promptly dealt with.

The legislation of 1878 authorised (subject to the approval of the bondholders) the creation of $100,000 of first preference bonds, conditional, however, upon the unsecured creditors being previously arranged with. The first duty was, if possible, to comply with that condition. Efforts were made in that direction with very considerable progress, but it was soon found that it would be necessary to go back to the Legislature to have that condition removed before any financial result could be obtained from that source.

There was no other alternative, therefore, but to face the difficulties for another year with such personal assistance as the Directors could afford. Notwithstanding these untoward circumstances, the progress that has been made in the completion, renewal and equipment of the line will, it is hoped, be satisfactory, to the proprietors.

The contract awarded to Mr. Meyers for the erection of the bridge over the Wye River, and to Messrs. Dixon and Gibson for the construction of the road from that point to Midland City, were both completed in a satisfactory and substantial manner, inspected and approved of by the Government Inspector, and the line opened for traffic on the 15th of July, too late, however, to secure any important addition to our business from that source for the year just closed.

During the year eighteen miles of steel rails have been laid between Port Hope and Millbrook; the best of the iron replaced by steel has been re-laid on other portions of the road. About seven miles between Peterborough and Millbrook, not previously done, has been thoroughly ballasted. Fifty-nine new bridges and culverts have been placed on the track, three iron miles of new fencing has been constructed, and various other renewals made, adding very materially to the safety and improved condition of the line.

Two new passenger coaches, twenty new platform cars, twenty-five new boilers for platform cars (that were before entirely useless), and other extensive repairs to the rolling stock, has enabled us to more promptly meet the requirements of our shippers, and added to the convenience and comfort of the travelling public. Notwithstanding these improvements, very much still remains to be done.

Our line has at last reached its terminus on one of the best harbours on the Lake Huron waters, but before any important advantage can be derived therefrom a large outlay will have to be made in the erection of elevators and other terminal facilities, large additions to our rolling stock, and heavy renewals to the line, the nature and extent of which are more particularly referred to in the accompanying report of Walter Shanly, Esq., C. E. who has recently made an examination and report upon the property.

The importance and necessity of these improvements, and the beneficial results to be derived from them, your Directors think can scarcely be over-estimated, but which, unfortunately, for the present, rests entirely with the proprietors.

The legislation of 1878 has been so amended during the present session of Parliament as to enable the bondholders to create the preferential securities necessary to do so.

Anticipating the consent of the bondholders to the creation of the new securities, it was thought advisable to enter into a contract for four thousand tons (say 50 miles) of steel rail before the rapidly advancing prices should place them beyond our reach; and it is gratifying to be able to report that they were secured at a price some $72,000 less than they could now be purchased for.

In connection with the new bonds, attention is also directed to the expense and difficulty of carrying the floating debt, and the impossibility of much longer postponing the payment of municipal and other preferential liens.

In regard to some of the advantages likely to accrue from the completion of our business facilities and the renewal and equipment of our line, we cannot do better than make the following quotation from the report of the Northern Railway, a Company very similarly situated to our own, so far as that trade is concerned.

The Directors of that Company in their report for 1873, say:—

"It will be observed that the earnings upon "through traffic have in 1873 increased from "$36,845.31 to $51,784.19, being an advance of "$14,938. The satisfactory results "of the through connections for the past year "have warranted the Directors in strengthen-"ing their relations in that respect; and they "regard with much hopefulness the efficient "connections already secured for 1874, which "will secure to this Railway a substantial "share in the growing traffic of the Georgian "Bay and of the Great North-western Provinces "as well as a fruitful participation in the "carrying trade between the Western States of "the American Union and the Atlantic coast.

Their report for 1879 is not yet published, but their expectations, have, it is believed been fully realized, and there is no reason why the Midland Railway with proper facilities should not enjoy the same advantages.

The Directors have much satisfaction in reporting that during the past year, the respective heads of departments, officers, agents and employees, have fulfilled the duties entrusted to them in an efficient and highly satisfactory manner.

In conclusion, your Directors feel justified in congratulating the proprietors on the improved position and prospects of the line, the revival in our lumber trade, and other evident indications of returning prosperity to this country, and venture to express the hope that 1879 may also be recorded as the date of the returning prosperity to the Midland Railway for many years to come.

MISDIRECTED ECONOMY.

While we have no doubt whatever as to the excellence of the motives of those members of the School Board whose action of Tuesday evening has led to the resignation of two of the principal teachers of the Board, and may lead to others, and while we fully share with them their appreciation of the necessity for economy, we cannot but regret the course which it took. It is exceedingly doubtful if the result will prove any saving whatever to the town, and indeed we rather apprehend that experience may prove the so-called economy to involve an actual loss of money, as well as of the prestige of the schools. Not only have we to consider that the Government grant which is based upon the standing of the Institute and the work performed, may be decreased, but there is a danger also of the Town losing the County grant of $750, which was given expressly in recognition of the standard of efficiency represented on behalf of the School Board when the grant was applied for. We have every reason to apprehend that the efficiency of the teaching staff will be materially affected, when the change comes into effect and we are compelled to resort to inferior capacity at smaller salaries, and that under such a changed condition the County Council may not feel justified in continuing the grant. It is unfortunate, too, that the change should be made when the Board was just begining to realise the benefit of superior organization and efficiency, in the rapid and steady increase in the amount of non-resident pupil's fees, which had increased from $76 in December to $111 in February. This increase is due entirely to the successful work of the teaching staff, and interference calculated to lower its efficiency can hardly fail to affect unfavorably that source of income. It may be that the expenses of the schools might be reduced without impairing the status of the Institute, but the wiser method would be to consider the practicability of reducing the number of the teachers and redistributing their duties. We cannot refrain from expressing strong regret at the action taken by the Board and the hope that further consideration of a subject which is of the gravest importance, may induce the Board to amend the resolution of Tuesday, and to seek some other and wiser channel for their desire to practice economy.

INCREASED REVENUES.

One of the strongest arguments advanced against the imposition of excessive duties, so-called protective, was that once when a certain limit was passed, the duties would have the effect of reducing revenue by checking importations, and offering increased inducements to illicit trade. It is a common fallacy to allude to the tariff in force under the late Government as a Free trade Tariff, whereas it was essentially a Protective tariff in its highest and best sense. When the late Government took office they found a tariff of 15 per cent. in force. In order to meet the obligations to which their predecessors had pledged the country in the matter of public works, it was found necessary to increase the tariff, which was done in such a shape as to protect as far as possible home industries, and the tariff raised from 15 to 17½ per cent. It was contended by Mr. Cartwright, who in that argument followed the maxims of the oldest English political economists, that to go beyond that standard would be to shut out importations upon which revenue was raised, and to open the door for illicit trade, by giving a substantial object to the smuggling industry. The experience of the present Government with their high pressure tariff, has demonstrated fully the wisdom of the counsels which Mr. Cartwright and his colleagues implored the Government to be guided by. Perhaps no tariff ever in force in Canada has been so strictly enforced as the present. The most stringent rules and regulations have been adopted to check abuses which formerly existed, and new measures have been put into force, calculated to check undervaluation in every shape and to exact to the uttermost the duties laid upon imported goods by the tariff. And in this connection we may say that if the Finance Minister has been disappointed in the results, it is not attributable in any manner to the Minister of Customs. "Barring his politics," as the saying is, it is only justice to Hon. Mr. Bowell to say that since his occupancy of that office, he has developed an aptitude and ability for dealing with the complex duties of the Customs department which, perhaps, his best friends had not expected, and which, had he to deal with a tariff based upon sound economic principles, would make him, perhaps, the most successful Minister of Customs we have had since Confederation. As it is, Mr. Bowell has to make the best of a bad job, and it is due him to say that there are less complaints to offer against the department presided over by him, than against any other branch of administration. Yet, with all the advantages of the strictest interpretation of the revenue laws, and with all the safeguards which the Minister of Customs has been able to devise, the fact remains that the country is collecting less revenue under the present tariff than was collected under the moderate protective tariff of Mr. Cartwright.

THE HUM AT OTTAWA.

The Ottawa Free Press says :—"Ottawa has between six and seven hundred vacant houses and the number is steady increasing. Starving workingmen are parading our streets and hundreds of families are preparing to emigrate in the spring. 'Silent be! It is the Hum!'" Such is the state of affairs at the very door of the Minister who congratulates Parliament upon the evidences which exist, in his mind, of returning prosperity! The following resolution passed a few since at a meeting of the unemployed, in Ottawa, needs no comment :—

Moved by James Bennett, seconded by George Burness, "That whereas the present Administration by their most solemn promises made to the people of this Dominion previous to the General Election of 1878, and at various times and places since, promised better times, more particularly to the working class did they promise steady and fair wages; and whereas the scarcity of employment at the present time is unprecedented, the low rate of wages has had no parallel, the purchasing power of which is reduced fully 25 per cent., if not more, through the high rate of duty levied on the common necessaries of life, are grievances which the working classes ought not to submit to in silence. Be it therefore resolved, that as the Government of the country has proved recreant to their most solemn pledges, they are therefore unworthy of the continuance of the support of the working class of this country, a support obtained through false pretences; that their policy is to make the rich man richer by adding to the burdens of the working class, instead of diminishing them. We therefore call on our fellow-workingmen of this Dominion to punish the Conservative party now in power by the only weapon of defence which we possess, viz., the free and intelligent exercise of the franchise in the interests of yourselves and families, which interests have been basely ignored by the part now occupying the Treasury benches." Carried unanimously.

OUR FARMERS.

Agricultural Enterprise in Peterborough County.

A few days ago our reporter being in the bucolic vein, wended his way down the gravel road, with the assistance of an able-bodied horse and buggy, to the farm of Henry Collins, a name familiar to all who frequent our agricultural exhibitions as a successful prize-taker in many lines of farmer's products. Mr. Collins' farm is situated about three miles from the town on the gravel road, and except for the fine site occupied by his residence, does not present a very pleasing aspect to the passer-by. The portion of the lot fronting on the road is sandy soil of very poor quality, and as different from the balance of the land worked by Mr. Collins, as chalk is from cheese. A brook divides this part of the farm from the portion tilled, which is of a rich loam, on high uplands lying nicely to the south-east, and admirably adapted for grain raising. A handsome brick residence situated on an eminence commands attention, as you approach, surrounded by capacious barns and out-buildings. After enjoying Mr. Collin's hospitality at a substantial dinner, our reporter paid a visit to his farm yard, where he had the pleasure of seeing as handsome a collection of Durhams as one is likely to come across, and other kinds of stock, which bore testimony by the superiority of breeding ensured by Mr. Collins' enterprise in securing first-class stock, and his skill in feeding and breeding. A look at the pens, wherein was confined the abomination of the Jews, showed us some very handsome stock in thoroughbred Berkshires, a youngster of some eight months exhibiting dimensions that would paralyse the suffering Irishman who might be asked to make room for him in his cabin. A visit to the sheep pens brought us in contact with some Leicesters, which showed their thorough breeding, not only by their general appearance, but in the long, flossy wool which makes the fleece of the Leicesters so valuable as a marketable commodity. Mr. Collins prides himself upon having stock of every description first-class of its kind, and from the Dorkings to be seen about the yard, and the great white geese, which would have most decidedly eclipsed any competitors had they been shown at the Poultry Fair, to the huge animals who occupied the cattle sheds, everything betokened superior breeding. Every animal in Mr. Collin's stock-yard is registered in the Canada Herd Book, a boast which very few of our best farmers are able to make. To give the pedigrees of the fine herd of Durhams to be seen there, would occupy more space than we have at our disposal. Lifford Chief, a beautiful animal familiar to most of our farmers, heads the list. Daisy, a milker of repute and a splendid specimen of the thoroughbred Durham, with her sister Jenny Lind, are to the eye of the butcher or the breeder, fair to look upon. Lady Franklin has an immense carcase upon which good feed and treatment is storing up abundance for the Easter knife. Lady Eden, a two-year old by Victor, out of Red Rover, is a superb animal and gives fine promise of maturity. Rosebud, a splendid three year old out of Rosy, by Victor, is a fine animal, as is also Bleacher out of Moss Rose, by Duke of Newcastle. Minnie May, out of Mayflower, by Canton Duke, a splendid bull now owned by James Elliott, is a superb two year old, as is also Cherry by the same sire out of Lady Franklin. Lord Lorne is a thrifty yearling from Jenny Lind, and Friday is a sturdy beast by Lifford Chief, out of Daisy, and showing all the points of excellence which distinguish his sire. Another very handsome animal is Crown Prince, got by Lifford Chief. Taking these animals throughout, they show in a remarkable manner the advantage of thorough breeding. In every respect of quality, their superiority over ordinary stock is apparent, while Mr. Collins informs us that the cost of feeding is much less than with grade or common cattle. We would strongly advise the buyers for the Easter markets at Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal, who are accustomed to rely upon Guelph for their supply, to pay a visit to some of our stock farms around Peterborough before purchase, and we undertake to say that they will be pretty hard to please if they are not suited with the class of stock which Mr. Collins has in Monaghan.

[On Sunday the Superintendent of Police in St. Petersburg delivered to the Chief of Artillery six Shrapnel shells found in a tramway car. The Chief discovered a lot of ammunition stored in the district. Thirteen shells are missing.

The Public Accounts show that "My "dear Abbott" got $2,000 for a trip to England over the Langevin business, besides his travelling expenses; and also $700 for helping to examine into the Inselvanny Lave lost session. It is a good thing, evidently, to have won the head mayor's warm side by participation in the Pacific Scandal.]

Forestry Anniversary.

On Friday evening of last week Court Peterborough, No. 66, of the Canadian Order of Foresters, celebrated their first anniversary by holding an open Court at their hall on Water Street. There was a large gathering on the occasion, the fair sex being liberally represented. The attendance of members of the lodge was very full, most of them being attired in handsome and picturesque costumes of the order, re-calling the times of Robin Hood and his merry men who held high court in the forest of Sherwood, with purposes quite the reverse of benevolent. The proceedings were opened by Chief Ranger Lesk, who called upon the choir of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church, which was present to assist in the celebrations, to sing the Forester's Opening Ode. The ritual set apart for such celebrations was then gone through by the court, after which the presiding officer called upon Rev. G. G. McRobbie, High Chief Ranger of Canada, to address the meeting.

Mr. McRobbie expressed the great pleasure which he experienced at being able to be present at the anniversary celebration of this court, and he was glad also to see the large assembly present to show the sympathy they felt with the aims and objects of Forestry. He traced the history of Forestry, which was an old society, formed many years ago across the waters, and which was looked upon with esteem by the highest nobility of the mother country. Years ago it had been instituted in America as a branch of the parent order, but it was found that there were many things connected with the order which were suitable to the old country but not to this, and it was thought desirable to make some changes. Consequently the Independent Order of Foresters was instituted, embodying all principles of the parent society, but engrafting thereon new provisions, among which the benefits to members stood out prominently. The Independent Order was based on the principles of the old society with the addition of the principle of insurance. The principles of the order "Benevolence, Concord and Liberty," had found favor in Canada until some 40 lodges had been formed in this country, under allegiance to the American High Court. For many reasons it was found desirable to separate from the American order and to form the Canadian order. There were naturally many divergencies of taste and feeling between Canadians and citizens of the United States, and there were besides many regulations concerning the society which were not agreeable to the Canadian members. They had, for instance, no control whatever over the Widow's and Orphan's Fund which was paid over to a foreign country. Then the celebrated Griffith steal came up, by which the society lost about $22,000. He believed most of the money was paid back again, but the occurrence shook the confidence of the members of the order in Canada. Two years ago he (the speaker) was elected to the position he now held of High Chief Ranger in Canada. There was a strong feeling in favor of separation, not only in Canada, but in many of the American States. Illinois had separated from the High Court, and Ohio was asking for the same privilege. The Canadian Courts did not wish to secede, but they asked the privilege of looking after their own widows and orphans, and of having control of the funds set aside for that object. He believed that this request would have been granted but for the fact that other States would have demanded as a right what they asked as a privilege. The favor was not granted and they had a meeting in London at which the Canadian Order of Foresters was formed. That order had existed ever since, and he was glad to say was prospering. There were some American Courts still remaining in Canada and he believed they were prospering. He wished them success. He had a good deal of sympathy for them, for their practical objects and aims were the same as they themselves followed, but as Canadians we had privileges which we would never give up, privileges for which our fathers had fought and bled and died. The speaker enlarged upon the three cardinal principles of Forestry—Benevolence, Concord and Liberty—enlivening his remarks by humorous anecdotes. He contrasted the true liberty which Canada enjoyed with that which was called liberty in the United States, but which was not true liberty, but license, or rather too great liberty to do that which was wrong. Without concord there could be no true happiness. Without it life was not worth living. These three principles were those which they followed and which they desired to inculcate and spread throughout the land. Of course Forestry was a secret society, and some objected to that, but it was necessary in any such organization, that there should be order and good government. Both in affairs of church and state it was necessary to have an organized system of government, and it was equally necessary in an institution like this, to keep the brethren together and to enable them to enjoy fully the privileges which it was the object of the Society to place within their reach. Many even in the short history of the Canadian Order of Foresters had occasion to bless the Society for those privileges, and for the provision which the Society made for them in time of need. Ladies did not like the Society because it was secret, but their secrets were not of a very formidable kind, and and if the ladies knew them they would be astonished how little there was in them. They were only such as were necessary for the proper regulation and government of the Society. It was the duty of men to provide for the weaker sex, and this was one of the means by which they were provided for. In some respects he thought they were wrong in excluding women from participation in the work of the Society, and he described at length the beneficial influence of female intercourse upon young men, pointing out that there was too little sympathy extended to young men, and that from lack of it they were driven to baneful associations. He explained the working of the benevolent funds of the order, showing that the aid given to a deserving member out of work or incapacitated by illness was not a charity, but a provision which the member had made for himself by his contributions to the funds of the order. In case of sickness the member received an allowance sufficient to keep want from the door, and in case of death $30 was paid to defray funeral expenses, or $20 in case of death of a members wife. But the most beneficial thing connected with the order was the life insurance. By paying 50 cents a month the member's life was assured for $1,000, in which his family got the benefit in case of his removal. Some would ask how they were enabled to do this, when they took into account the high fees charged by Life Assurance Companies. It was done by being careful, by strict economy, and by causing the assured to be subjected to strict medical examination. There were no agents, doctors, or manager's fees, and every cent paid in went to the fund. He mentioned several cases in which members had been called away without leaving any provision for their families, and showed how the $1,000 furnished by the Society had been the means of saving the widows and orphans from want. He concluded by a humorous allusion to the number of bachelors in the Peterborough Court, and said every true Forester should have a wife, as there was nothing more despicable in life than an old bachelor. If the young ladies present were not eligible to become members of a Foresters' Court, they could at least become Foresters' wives.

At the conclusion of the lecture a vote of thanks was moved by Mr. I. H. Brock, seconded by Mr. Robinson, V. C. R., and carried unanimously, Mr. McRobbie acknowledging the vote in appropriate terms.

Dr. Rasmond, D. D. H. C. R., moved a vote of thanks to the choir, which motion was warmly seconded by the High Chief Ranger, and supported on behalf of the audience by Mr. S. Johnston.

By request the choir repeated their rendering of "Evening Bells" followed by the Foresters closing ode. The Chief pronounced a benediction and the meeting broke up, everybody being highly pleased with the evening's entertainment.

Later in the evening the High Chief Ranger was entertained at dinner at Bro. J. Morgan's hotel, by members of the Lodge, some thirty Foresters and their guests sitting down to a beautiful repast provided by the host in a style that spoke volumes for the capabilities of his cuisine and the efficiency and good taste of his domestic economy. A vote of thanks was tendered by Chief Ranger Lesk, having on his right the guest of the evening, the vice-chair being occupied by Bro. Rasmond. The usual loyal and other toasts were duly honored, and responses to that of "Our Guest" H. C. R. Bro. made a happy reply, in which first he bodied some admirable advice to the Peterborough Court. Speeches by Bros. Rasmond, Watson, Mitchell, Kingdon, Foote, Toker, Thompson, Stratton, and others, and songs by Bros. Bithray and other musical members of the court, filled up the evening. The company separating shortly after 12 o'clock all well pleased with the admirable manner in which host Morgan had catered for the occasion, and with that "feast of reason and flow of soul," so liberally bestowed by the High Chief Ranger.

Institution of a New Court at Lakefield.

(From our own Correspondent.)

LAKEFIELD Nov. 3rd.

Last Thursday, the Rev'd G. G. McRobbie, of Tilsonburg, H. C. R., accompanied by Dr. Rasmond, D. D. H. C. R., of Peterborough paid a visit to Lakefield for the purpose of starting a new Court of the Canadian Order of Foresters. The meeting was held in the Council Chamber, but the attendance was not so large as it would otherwise have been, had the hour and object been more generally known. Rev'd Mr. McRobbie gave an address explaining the aim and object of Forestry, and the cause which led to the formation of the Canadian Order. After answering numerous questions put by parties present, he asked for the names of those willing to enter the Order. Twelve responded, and he proceeded to organise the Court, which will be known as "Court Lakefield, No 46." The following officers were then elected and will be installed on Thursday night by the D. D. H. C. R., Dr. Rasmond.—C. R. W. O. Sanders; V. C. R. John Clarin.; R. S. Wm. Graham; F. S., Dr. Bell; Treas, Rob't Graham; S.W., John McWilliams; J.W., David Arnott; S.B., Chas. Payton; J.B., John Baladon; Physician, Dr. Bell. The Court will meet the second and last Thursdays in every month. Several have since handed in their names for membership, and quite a number have signified their intention of joining as soon as the Court is in thorough working order, so that there is every prospect of future success.

Board of Education.

The Board met on Tuesday evening. Present the Chairman, Mr. Jas. Stevenson, and Messrs. Dumble, McClelland, Shaw, Deane, Cox, Burnham, Menzies, Wrighton, Toole, Best and Rutherford.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

Mr. Shaw enquired if the janitors had entered into contract.

Mr. Wrighton believed they had, except Mr. McGregor whose wife was performing the duties.

Mr. McClelland drew attention to the fact that McGregor or his wife had made no application for the place of janitor. The application had been made by McGregor's brother-in-law, who was really performing the duties.

The Secretary stated that the fees last month amounted to $111, $96.25 from the High School and $13 from the Public Schools. The fees for January were $96.50, and for December $76.56. He also explained that there were no notes against the Board, all having been paid and that there was still an unexpended balance.

Mr. Toole thought that that should be husbanded as the Council would likely reduce the grant.

An account from Wm. Hamilton for $17.75 was referred to the Property Committee, to settle if found correct.

A communication was read from Alex. Mills, Secretary Collegiate Institute, Brantford, asking statement of salaries, paid to the Principal and teachers of the Collegiate Institute. The Secretary stated that he had forwarded the necessary information.

The Principal's report showing average attendances at the schools was received.

A petition was read, asking for the reinstatement of Samuel Johnson to the position of janitor of the Central School, and that the appointment of John Tighe be revoked. The petition was on motion of Mr. Toole, seconded by Mr. Dumble, received.

Mr. Shaw presented a report of the Finance Committee, recommending payment of accounts of Toker & Co, $17.95, Ormond and Walsh, $19.60, and C. Green. They also recommended an allowance of $24 to Miss Preston, and $25 to Mr. Braden, expense of substitutes during illness, and that in future no such claims be allowed.

Mr. Toole said he had been told by a ratepayer that if this drawback was allowed to the teachers, he would sue the Board. They should see whether they were acting within the law.

Mr. McClelland believed the law left them no option.

The Chairman said the law certainly left them no option, but they had the right to dismiss the teacher if they saw fit.

Mr. Dumble thought a teacher was entitled to some consideration, and he believed the provision made by the law was a good one.

Mr. Toole said it was reported that Mr. Braden had employed his sister to take his place during his illness, and that she was not qualified.

Mr. Shaw did not see why a teacher should be treated with any more consideration than a mechanic or any other person who contributed to the expenses of the school.

Mr. Cox agreed with Mr. Toole, that the Principal should be held responsible for the efficiency of a substitute, but thought the Board should exhibit consideration towards a teacher who might be afflicted with illness.

The Chairman stated that he had been informed by the Principal that Miss Braden had not sought the work of filling her brother's place, but had been pressed to do so, and that she was perfectly competent.

Mr. Dumble read the report of the School Supervision Committee, recommending the acceptance of the tender of Wilson & Davis for stationery. The report was adopted.

Mr. Shaw read the report of the special committee appointed to consider the status of the teachers of the school, which was received.

The special committee appointed at last meeting, reported against any reduction at present in the staff of teachers, but recommending that after midsummer, salaries of form No. 2 be $500; form No. 5, $1,000, and of head teachers of the ward schools $400 each. They also recommend the discontinuance of the German class.

A deputation of pupils of the Collegiate Institute was heard, asking for a week's holiday at Easter, and on motion of Mr. Shaw the prayer of their petition was granted.

Mr. Toole moved the adoption of the special committee report, seconded by Mr. Wrighton.

Mr. Dumble moved that the report be not adopted so far as it affected salaries. He believed that the people did not favor the kind of economy suggested by the report. He referred to the action of the Council in reducing the bonuses of hotel keepers and nigger-show people, and did not think they ought to be asked to make up the $800 thrown away thereby, from the meagre salaries of the teachers. They might get teachers, perhaps, to take the places of some they now had, but it would be a very questionable kind of economy, and they might regret it afterwards.

Mr. McClelland seconded the amendment. He thought the report was an undeserved reflection upon the teachers aimed at. Where such action had been taken in other places it had been subsequently regretted. Had the committee recommended a reduction of a certain percentage all round, he could have understood it, but where they reflected upon three teachers alone he did not believe in it. Such a course would not be popular with those who supported the schools.

Mr. Shaw expressed regret that the means of teachers should have been approached. It was the opinion of the people that they were not receiving their due at present, and that was not the way to encourage them. He did not refer to any teacher in particular, but to the system generally. He was quite satisfied with their work, but the work could be done for less money. He hoped the matter would be discussed to-night, as it was not desirable that this matter should be brought up every time a new member made his appearance at the Board.

Mr. Deane said he did not agree with Mr. Dumble in singling out two or three teachers for reduction; they should make a general thing of it. He therefore moved, seconded by Mr. Menzies, that after the 1st September next, the salary of the Principal be fixed at $1,100; the salary of the classical teacher at $900; the salary of the master in second form at $650, and the salaries of the head teachers in all ward schools at $540.

Mr. Toole said the question of cutting down salaries was a delicate one, but was one which concerned the ratepayers, whose agents they were, and their wishes should be carried out. It had not been intended to single out any teachers invidiously, but it was thought that the salaries were not uniform. He thought in these hard times, when the people's little household goods were being sold out to maintain the teachers in comfort, that they should consent to practise a little economy. All things considered he would vote for Mr. Deane's amendment.

Mr. Rutherford thought there was a good deal of force in the remarks of Mr. Dumble. He thought the recommendation of the report was not just or equitable. He believed it was desirable to reduce the salaries in the Collegiate Institute.

Mr. Cox said he was taken a good deal by surprise by both report and amendment. He thought it was a pity that the schools should be subjected to the disturbing influence proposed. The course proposed would only save $600, and would create lack of interest in the schools and a good deal of dissatisfaction among those who sustained them.

Mr. Dumble referred to the mistaken idea that teachers did nothing, and bore testimony to the arduous labors of the teachers.

Mr. Shaw said Mr. Dumble's motion would, he believe, cover all the ground required, and did not think that for the sake of the trifling saving proposed it would be wise to interfere with the salaries of the teachers.

The vote was then taken and Mr. Deane's amendment was declared carried:—

YEAS.—Messrs. Best, Rutherford, Toole, Wrighton, Menzies, Dr. Burnham, and Deane—7.

NAYS.—Messrs. Dumble, McClelland, Shaw and Cox—4.

Mr. Jeffers said he had brought with him the report of the Minister of Education, showing the standing and work done by all the Collegiate Institutes of the Province, and he stated that Peterborough stood head and shoulders with any of the Institutes. He said the teachers felt greatly injured by the action taken by the Board and they would rather have offered in their resignations, than have had a vote passed by the Board which was calculated to reflect upon their professional reputations. If the action of the Board could have been delayed, he himself, and he could also speak for Mr. Dixon, would have been willing to allow the Board to make any arrangement they chose after the holidays. He said that during all the time this agitation had been going on for the past two or three years, the teachers had made no effort to create a feeling in favor of themselves, not even having recourse to the newspapers for that purpose. He had retained his position, not from any consideration offered by the salary, but because of the interest he had felt in promoting the work of the school and maintaining the position it had achieved, as well as from the pleasant association he had formed. He did not blame the Trustees for the course they had taken as no doubt they believed it a right one, but he wanted them to distinctly understand that the passage of the resolution involved his resignation from the post he held.

Mr. McClelland regretted very deeply the action taken by this vote.

Mr. Stevenson said it meant the breaking up of the Grammar School.

Mr. Dumble urged reconsideration of the motion. He moved that the matter be reconsidered.—Lost.

Mr. Shaw moved that the Chairman be authorised to borrow $5,000 from the Bank of Montreal for current purposes, until the Board be placed in possession of funds.

Mr. Deane moved, seconded by Mr. Menzies, that the motion reducing the teachers' salaries was not intended to cast any reflection up the efficiency of any of the teachers, but for strict economy.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 4, 1880.

The Mills.—P. Hamilton's agricultural works are again running on full time in anticipation of Spring orders.

Vital Statistics.—Eighteen births, one marriage and three deaths were registered with the Town Clerk during last month.

Peterborough Abroad.—Mr. J. C. Kennedy, of Morris, Manitoba, formerly of this town, has been appointed a J.P. in that Province.

For the West.—Brig. Walton and John Robertson intend trying their fortunes at Grand Forks, Dakotah, where tempting offers have been held out to them.

Arrived.—Dr. Seward, the eminent Gaelist and Artist, of whom mention was made in these columns a short time since, has arrived at the Chemic House, and may be consulted professionally by any person having need of his services.

Medical.—Dr. J. W. Gray, M. D., late of Williamsburg, Cartwright, has assumed his practice in Bobcaygeon, formerly held by Dr. King, now of this town. Dr. Gray comes to his new sphere of labor highly recommended, and we hope will receive a liberal patronage.

Ashburnham.—Monday evening was the regular meeting night of the Ashburnham Council, but there being no business to transact the members present discussed the times, the weather and the railway question, and separated to meet at the call of the Reeve, when the affairs of the village should require their attention.

The Caledonian Association of 1880.—The E. A. McDowell Co., at Bradburn's Hall, Friday, March 5th, in the great Political Satirical Pinafore, entitled "H.M.S. Parliament, or the Lady who loved a Government Clerk," with a full newspheroon of M voices from New York. Seats on sale at Bradburn's without extra charge. Reserved seats at Wilson & Davis' without extra charge. 1t

A Bundel.—We have received a letter from "Grainger," Lakefield, in which he denies the statement in the correspondence of the EXAMINER and Review, in reference to an alleged dance said to have interfered with an alleged prayer meeting. "Grainger" dodges Lakefield and Denny Grange over hold a dance at all, and attacks personally the correspondents referred to. The denial we give with pleasure, but the personal reflections we are unable to find room for.

Sad Fatal Accident.—On Sunday afternoon one Edwards, an apple tree agent from Port Perry, left Millbrook about four o'clock with a friend named Kelly to drive home. While passing a dangerous place in the road about two miles from there, the night being very dark, the buggy by some means upset, and the occupants were thrown into the ditch. Edwards fell underneath, striking his head against a stone, and was instantly killed. Kelly escaped with a few trifling bruises.

The Farmers' Loan and Savings Co'y.—This Company is now prepared to make advances on the security of improved real estate, for any period not less than 3 or more than 20 years, on terms hereafter unknown in this country, and the mode of repayment so arranged as to suit the convenience of borrowers. Applications for loans will be received by Mr. Jas. Hogan, of this town, who will give prompt attention in all cases, and act accordingly. Money at cheap rates is a want that has long been felt in this vicinity. 1-1n.

Midland Railway.—Change will be noticed in the time-table of the Midland Railway. The trains for Millbrook, Port Hope and the Grand Trunk leave Peterborough at 7.00 o'clock a. m. and 6.00 o'clock p.m. and for Port Hope at 10.00 o'clock a.m.; for Millbrook and Lindsay at 7.00 and 10.00 o'clock a.m., and 6.00 o'clock p.m.; for Westbourne at 7.00 and 10.00 o'clock a.m.; for Millbrook at 10.00 o'clock a.m. and for Lakefield at 11.45 a.m. The 3 o'clock p.m. train has been taken off. The time between Peterborough and Port Hope has been shortened half an hour by increase of the speed.

School Entertainment.—A very successful entertainment was held on Friday evening last at the School House of Section 14, Otonabee, where tea was provided under the auspices of the ladies of the section. After ample justice had been done to the bounty set forth, the chair was taken by Thomas Johnston, Esq., who addressed the audience in an appropriate speech. A resolution by a class of pupils followed, after which Peter Clephane gave a recitation. One of the classes then gave a song followed by a recitation by Miss Laing, and one by Henry Hatherly. "The Moses," an entertainer dialogue, was then given by James Henderson, John Hancock and James Cummings. Miss Laing gave the "Swiss Toy Girl," succeeded by recitations by Hannah Hatherley, Miss Laing and Archie Shearer. The dialogue "The Wonderful Scholar," was loudly applauded and deservedly so, those who took part in it—H. Cummins, Alfred Shearer and Miss Laing performing their work in first-class style. Recitations very well given by Miss Girvan and Agnes Shearer were followed by another song by Miss Laing, after which came more recitations by James Girvan and Hannah Cummings, Peterborough, being conducted by a song by Miss Laing. The entertainment passed off in a very enjoyable manner.

Consumption Cured

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility, and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, N.Y.

Serious.—In our report last week, of the Methodist Missionary meetings, we inadvertently gave the Rev. Dr. Harper credit for a liberal subscription to the mission funds, which should have been credited to the Rev. Mr. Fletcher. Mr. Fletcher very generously gave $130, and we feel sure that Mr. Harper neither desires the credit of the donation, nor perhaps, the pleasure of paying it over. At any rate the very liberal subscription should be accredited to the proper party, to Mr. Fletcher, and we hasten to make the necessary correction in that end. The source whence we obtained particulars was somewhat ambiguous, and in this way, taking one reasonable meaning, we happened to take one not according to the real facts of the case. If there are other inaccuracies they are of less importance than the one referred to above. In this, is a revelation of knowledge "out of an impure fountain you cannot draw the pure liquid." The source of the stream of knowledge cannot safely be disregarded.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Special Meeting.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held on Friday evening last, to pass a By-law consolidating the various licenses by-laws into one, Present.—His Worship the Mayor and Councillors Smith, McNaughton, Paterson, Dansford, Yelland, Toole, Menzies and Robertson.

The reading of the minutes of last meeting were dispensed with.

The By-law was then read a first time, after which the Council went into Committee of the Whole on the second reading. Councillor ROBERTSON in the Chair.

Mr. THOS. BRADBURN was heard before the Council in reference to the licenses imposed on shows in his Hall. He contended that the licenses now imposed was injurious to the business of the Hall and asked for a yearly license. He produced letters from the manager of the Grand Opera, Toronto, the Music Hall, Hamilton, and a number of others. In Toronto, the licenses was fixed at $500 a year; in Hamilton, $200; in Brantford, Whitby, Port Hope and Brockville no license was imposed. He said he paid taxes on an assessment of $32,000 for the Hall, besides ground rent, and thought the Council should in fairness release the Hall of any license or make it a nominal sum for the year.

The Council thought Mr. Bradburn should be encouraged as he had gone to a great deal of expense in building a Hall of which the town might well feel proud, and at a later stage of the meeting granted a yearly license for the sum of $60.

The Livery Stable licenses were fixed as follows :—$20 for five horses and under, and $2 extra per horse for each over five. Hacks drawn by one horse, $5; drawn by two horses, $8. Carters, $2. Resident Auctioneers, $20 per annum; non-resident, $40 per day. Pedlars, $5. Circuses and Menageries, from $20 to $100. Shows, from $10 to $25. Dancing saloons from $10 to $15. Jugglers and exhibition of animals, from $5 to $10. Lecturers where admission fee is charged, from $2.50 to $50.00.

The rates to be charged by cab drivers and carriers were fixed as follows :—Cab fees, adults, 25 cents; 15 cents for children when accompanied by parents and guardians. Carters, 15 cents for quarter mile and under; 20 cents for half mile; 25 cents for three-quarters of a mile and 30 cents for any distance over that to any part of the town.

The Committee then rose and the By-law received its third reading and was finally passed and ordered to be printed.

The Council then separated.

A DREADFUL FATALITY.

On Thursday morning last a terrible and fatal accident occurred at the furniture factory of McKee Bros., on the Otonabee River. Work had just been started in the factory for the day, the only persons in the lower flat of the building being Mr. Bagsley, who was working at a lathe used for turning chair bottoms, and a youth named Andrew Fowler, 17 years of age, who had only been a short time in the employ of McKee Bros., and whose duty it was in the morning to oil the main shaft. While engaged in so doing young Fowler displaced the belt from a driving pulley on the shaft. Had the lad carried out his intention [illegible] not to attempt to adjust a belt, nothing further would have occurred, but the poor boy, no doubt in zeal to repair [illegible] he had created, undertook to replace the belt. Unaccustomed to the operation, and being on the wrong side of the shaft, he succeeded only too fatally. His hand was drawn in under the belt, and in a moment his body was turned upon the shaft with fearful velocity, the shaft making at the time 125 revolutions a minute. Mr. Bagsley, whose attention was drawn to the accident by overhearing a slight scream, rushed upstairs to turn off the water power, but young Fowler was beyond human aid. It seems the poor lad clung to the shaft until his strength gave out, when his body pulleting to the centrifugal force, fairly thrashed the ceiling at every revolution. Both feet were torn off above the ankles, and the hand which had been caught in the fatal grip of the belt severed from the arm. The body, a bleeding and mutilated mass, was next seen a pile of embodied woodwork, almost every bone in it being broken. By some singular chance the youth's face was preserved from disfigurement. Work was at once shut down at the factory, and Coroner Kincaid being summoned, as soon as the Jury had viewed the body, the remains were decently laid out and placed in the casket of which the light-hearted boy had little dreamt as he wended his way to the scene of his death in the morning. Word was at once despatched to his parents, who live in North Monaghan, and the remains were taken to his home and interred on the following day, being followed to the grave by a very large number of the friends and neighbours of the afflicted family. An inquest was held on Friday evening, when the evidence of Mr. Bagsley, the only person in the room at the time of the accident, was taken, being substantially to the above effect. Evidence was also given to show that the firm had maintained the usual precautions against accident, and that he had been cautioned against attempting any effort to adjust the belts, as no blame could be attributable to Messrs. McKee or to the regulations of the factory.

The jury which was composed of the following :—Mr. Wm. Langford, foreman ; Messrs. H. Jacobs, Geo. W. Hall, Jos. Griffin, W. J. Rombough, W. W. Long, Wm. Cook, George Brown, Wm. Davidson, E. J. Hartley, John Irwin and James Montgomery, returned the following verdict :—

"That the deceased, Andrew Fowler, came to his death by being accidently caught on the shaft from the water-wheel in Messrs. T. & W. McKee's furniture factory in Peterborough, County of Peterborough, on the 29th day of February.

"The jury also find that the said accident was caused by the deceased endeavoring to readjust the belt on the wheel of the lath machine on his way to oil the shaft from the water-wheel, and therefore that no blame can be attached in any case, as the deceased had not been ordered to perform such duty."

PROCTOR THE REVELLER.

We take the following from the Belleville Intelligencer :—

"Henry Howard was charged on Monday with having on the 26th ult., in this city, obtained one dinner set and other goods from F. H. Rous & Co. by false pretences.

Mr. W. J. Diamond appeared for the prosecution and Mr. G. D. Dickson for the defendant.

Mr. F. H. Rous affirmed that the accused came to his store on the 12th February, and on the strength of a representation made by him that he was employed by the Ontario Government as Inspector of Mines he procured a quantity of goods on credit. Mr. Rous, on learning that Howard's statements were false—which information was obtained by telegram from the Hon. C. F. Fraser—went with the Chief and got his goods, which were given up the defendant's wife. The value of the goods obtained from Mr. Rous was $41.75.

William Edwards, secretary of the Public Works Department at Toronto, deposed that Howard was not in the employ of the Ontario Government.

Chief McMahon gave evidence to the effect that he saw the prisoner near his house on the first ult., but did not recognise him then. On his remonstrating with Mrs. Howard she consented to give up the goods procured from Mr. Rous and others.

George Davis testified that he first became acquainted with the defendant five months ago in Peterborough under the name of Proctor; his father's name is Newbold; the accused left there three weeks ago to peddle medicines. The defendant hired two horses and rigs from him (the witness) and sent one horse and harness back from Fenboro; witness found the other here.

James Byrne gave evidence that the accused's name was [illegible], but that he also went by the name of Proctor.

The further hearing of the case was adjourned until Tuesday, when Howard appeared on command charged with obtaining a variety of goods from Thomas Ritchie to the extent of $232.

Evidence was adduced to the effect that the accused bought the goods and that he made representations similar to those made to Mr. Rous when he was in employ of the Dominion Government instead of the Ontario Government.

At the close of the evidence His Worship committed the prisoner for trial at the next court of competent criminal jurisdiction.

(From our own Correspondent.)

LAKEFIELD Nov, 3rd.

The late mild weather has had the effect of breaking up the shanties; nearly all the men and teams employed have returned. The winter has been a favorable one for lumbering operations, and a large amount of logs and timber has been got out, which if the present prices hold will yield a handsome return to our lumbermen.

The village Council meets next Monday evening in the Council Chamber, and the School Board meet in the same place on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Chas. N. Bell, of H. M. customs, Winnipeg, Man, paid a brief visit to his brother, Dr. Bell, of Lakefield, last week. He describes everything as flourishing in the Prairie Province, and anticipates a large emigration during the coming summer. Over 18,000 went in last season.

About a week since, the wife of Mr. Thomas Spencer, on the Burleigh road, gave birth to triplets—two boys and a girl. All are doing well, and will claim the "Queens bounty." Mrs. Spencer has not been four years married, and has had twins and single birth before, six children in all, and all alive and healthy.

I mentioned in my last that we had to lengthen three hearses here. Now we have an individual who proposes to rent McIlmoyle's shop, which has an old bake-oven attached, and start a crematory in opposition to the hearses. Who says we are not up to the age?

We had just been congratulating ourselves on our increased postal facilities, which are such a boon to our business men, when the President of the Midland R. The road between Lakefield and Peterboro is in a horrible condition, especially between here and Nassau, still the trains were an accommodation which will not now be the case.

RECAPITULATION.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 4, 1880.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Fourth Parliament—Second Session.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

OTTAWA, Monday, Feb 23.

Mr. Casey withdrew, on the ground of informality, the petition against Mr. Hooper, M. P. for Lennox, and presented a new petition to the same effect.

Several Bills were introduced; among the number was one by Hon. Mr. Blake for the more effectual prevention of crime, aiming especially at the punishment of old offenders and supplying machinery to assist in their recognition by the police authorities.

Mr. McCarthy introduced a Bill for the establishment of a Railway Commission to adjudicate upon such disputes as that between the Credit Valley, Grand Trunk, and Toronto Corporation.

The Premier was forced to make a second humiliating admission in reply to a query by Mr. Blake, and announced that the North West Land Commission scheme which was to provide funds for the construction of the Canada Pacific Railway had fallen through.

The Minister of Inland Revenue informed the House, in reply to Mr. Oliver, that the Government had intended to refund to the dismissed Inspectors of Weights and Measures the amounts they have contributed to the Superannuation Fund.

Mr. Thomas White, hoping to score one for the N. P., moved for a statement of the quantity of tea imported into Canada direct from the countries of production, either by the River St. Lawrence or in transitu through the United States. Hon. Isaac Burpee very properly directed attention to the fact that last year it was claimed that the St. Lawrence River was to be the great highway for the direct importation of tea, but now the Ministerialists relied on importations through the United States.

The next discussion of general interest occurred on a motion by Mr. MacDonnell (Inverness) for a return showing the number of dismissals and appointments in connection with the fishery protection service in Inverness. The mover quoted several instances of unjust dismissals and unnecessary appointments which had come under his personal observation.

The Minister of Marine and Fisheries said that there was no objection to the motion, but he claimed that all the dismissals made were defensible.

Mr. Plumb's annual motion relative to the depth of water at the mouth of the Kaministiquia River was the next subject debated. The mover indulged in his usual reckless charges, and thus led Mr. Mackenzie to aptly describe him as a retailer of slanders and falsehoods. Mr. Dawson endeavored to support Mr. Plumb's extravagant statements, but they were amply disproved by Mr. Mackenzie, who cited several facts demonstrating the superiority of the Kamistiquia over all other harbours in that vicinity, and by Mr. Trow, who spoke from personal knowledge and observation.

The remainder of the evening was occupied in adopting some twenty-five motions for returns, the whole of which were disposed of without discussion.

TUESDAY, Feb. 24.

A number of Bills were introduced, dealing principally with matters of purely local interest. The most important exception was a motion brought down by Sir Leonard Tilley, proposing certain changes in the law affecting the security given by officers of the Dominion of Canada. It is intended to register all such securities in the Department and to see that new security be given in the event of the original becoming impaired in value.

Sir John Macdonald made a formal motion adopting an address to the Governor-General respecting the sum voted to relieve the distress in Ireland.

Mr. Mackenzie, in seconding the motion, availed himself of the opportunity to urge upon the Government the necessity of seeing that no person is disfranchised as was contemplated by the Imperial Government in their Relief Bill.

Among the returns laid on the table were the supplementary papers re the dismissal of Mr. Letellier.

The next order of the day, and one which excited considerable interest, was "that Mr. John A. Macdonnell do attend the bar of the House." The circumstances respecting the disgraceful conduct of this young man last session of Parliament towards the Hon. Mr. Huntington are well known. This afternoon when the order was called he appeared in the custody of the Sergeant-at-Arms at the bar.

Before Mr. Macdonnell's entrance Mr. McLennan expressed a desire to read an apology on behalf of Mr. Macdonnell, but this the House could not very well permit, it having commanded the presence of the offender against its privileges. On the arrival of Mr. Macdonnell the old formula was observed in every particular, save that the young man was not forced to kneel. By motion of Mr. McCarthy he was commanded to make any apology or explanation of his conduct he desired to do, and the wish of the House being conveyed through the Speaker he read an apology.

Mr. Kirkpatrick next moved that as Mr. Macdonnell admits the use of the language ascribed to him, he be declared guilty of having committed a breach of the Privileges of Parliament. A discussion ensued as to the sufficiency of the motion, during which the treatment received by one Opposition member disclosed that a certain section of the Ministerialists were apparently under the impression that rowdy conduct contributed to the dignity of the proceedings.

Mr. Kirkpatrick's motion having been adopted, the whitewashing process was continued by Mr. McCarthy in a motion the purport of which was that the House under the circumstances did not feel called upon to proceed further in the matter. The best comment on the absurdity of the motion is to cite Mr. Mackenzie's biting sarcasm, wherein he asked whether or not it was the intention of the House to apologize to Mr. Macdonnell.

Dr. Cosgrain entertained the opinion that the apology offered was insufficient, and he moved in amendment that Mr. Macdonnell be commanded to apologize also to Mr. Huntington.

Mr. McCarthy, speaking to the amendment, questioned the right of Parliament either to bring Mr. Macdonnell to the bar, to detain him in custody, or punish him, and he criticised somewhat the contrary contentions advanced by Mr. Holton, the member preceding him.

Mr. Blake, who, being absent last session, did not feel called upon to interfere at a previous stage, in a caustic manner completely disposed of Mr. McCarthy's contention respecting the powers of Parliament by quoting ruled by $50,000 the House would be consulted. The Engineer had been at much pains to ascertain the cost of buildings recently erected, and all the statistics which they could procure comprised their estimate.

The ground taken by the Opposition was that the country had not been consulted on the question; that repairs could be efficiently done; that it was dangerous to the health of the lunatics to reduce the space around the Lunatic Asylum; and that the estimates of the value of the properties to be disposed of were fancy.

The debate dragged on until 12.55 a.m., when Mr. Meredith's amendment was lost by 55 to 25, and the resolutions carried on the same division. The Bill was then read a first time, and the House adjourned.

THURSDAY, Feb. 26.

A considerable portion of the morning was taken up this afternoon in the discussion of [illegible] prepared to introduce to the Game Bill as its chief sending, which, after some amendments being made, was passed.

The Bill to amend the Municipal Act was read the second time.

On the order being called for the motion to go into Committee of Supply, Mr. Morris rose to a point of order, which was debated some time, and was disposed of wrongly to him, the debate, as might have been expected from the length of the interval during which Mr. Creighton has had the floor, was as flat as anything could be, hardly a new idea being thrown out to justify its continuation. The debate was adjourned.

FRIDAY, Feb. 27.

Mr. Lauder, with the consent of the House, withdrew a motion he had had for some time past on the notice paper looking to the disqualification of members contracting with the Government for the purchase of Crown lands or timber.

Mr. Pardee declined to allow the motion to be withdrawn without an expression of opinion on so absurd a proposal, the more especially as it had emanated from a man who formerly voted against motions condemning the practice of members holding positions of emolument under the Crown.

After a number of Bills had been advanced a stage a division was taken without further debate on Dr. Widdifield's motion to reduce the item for the Lieutenant-Governor's trip by the amount of the bill for "luxuries," which was carried by a majority of 55 to 25. Subsequently a motion of Mr. Meredith's condemning the expenditure was voted down by 53 to 27, and a motion by Mr. Rose declaring that in all future official trips liquor bills should not be charged to the Province was carried by 53 to 25. The last two motions were voted on in Committee of the Whole, and they therefore dispose finally of the matter.

ONTARIO ASSEMBLY.

Fourth Legislature—First Session.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

TORONTO, Monday, Feb. 23.

Mr. Hardy presented the report of the Engineer of the Public Works Department and other papers relating to the erection of Parliament Buildings.

Mr. Lyon moved that the fourth report of the Standing Committee on Private Bills be referred back to the Committee, with instructions to declare the preamble of Bill (No. 53), Municipality of Neebing as proven. He remarked that in making this motion he wished to state to the House that this was a Bill to separate certain townships from the municipality of Shuniah and form these townships into a municipality to be called the municipality of Neebing. After some discussion the motion was lost.

Mr. Fraser moved that the House would on to-morrow resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole to consider certain proposed resolutions respecting new buildings for the Provincial Legislature and Public Departments.—Carried.

The Attorney-General's Bill respecting Niagara Falls and the adjacent territory was passed through Committee.

The House went into Committee and resumed the consideration of Mr. Hardy's Bill to extend the jurisdiction of the Division Courts and to regulate the offices of said Courts.

Mr. White moved that the clauses providing for the imprisonment of judgment debtors be struck out.

Mr. Fraser pointed out that under the Act as it stood every possible protection was thrown around the debtor, for imprisonment could only take place when the debtor admitted his dishonesty out of his own mouth. He thought it was desirable that there should be some means of reaching the man who was deliberately dishonest. The clause was carried.

Mr. Meredith drew attention to the abuses existing in reference to appeals in cases of claims for wages. He found that in many instances the time of the County Court was occupied for days in trying a claim for a trivial sum, entailing great cost upon the county and litigant alike. He was in favor of removing the jurisdiction from the County Court to the Division Court.

Mr. Hardy said he would introduce a clause to that effect in his Bill.

The remaining clauses of the Bill were adopted without amendment.

Mr. Hardy also proposed several other amendments which were adopted, after which the Committee rose and reported.

TUESDAY, Feb. 24.

The School Bill was read a third time and passed, as were also the Bills relating to the Grand Junction and Toronto and Ottawa Railway, and the Bill authorising the Minister of Public Works of the Dominion to take steps for the formation of a pleasure ground in the neighborhood of Niagara Falls.

Mr. Wood introduced a Bill based on the report of the Committee on Proposed Amendments to the Municipal Act, and on his motion the Bill relating to the Reformatory for Boys at Penetanguishene was after a brief discussion read a second time. The Bills providing for the abolition of priority among execution creditors and amending the law respecting the collection of taxes in the new districts were passed through Committee.

Some debate took place on the motion for the second reading of the Attorney-General's Bill respecting municipal taxation and exemption. His explanatory speech was followed by a somewhat carping one from Mr. Meredith, and a very able discussion of the whole subject by Mr. Ross, whose speech was heartily cheered when he sat down. Objections from various points of view were urged against certain features of the Bill by Messrs. Morris, Bell, Calvin and Creighton, while Mr. Sinclair urged the abolition of the exemption enjoyed by clergymen on their residences. After a few remarks by way of reply from Mr. Mowat the motion for the second reading was carried without a division.

Mr. Fraser's Bill providing for the erection of new Parliament Buildings in the Queen's Park was read a first and second time by special consent, the understanding being that the discussion on the measure would take place on the motion to go into Committee of the Whole on the resolutions.

Additional estimates of expenditure to the amount of $75,871 were brought down, accompanied by a message from the Lieutenant-Governor. The items of chief interest are $11,563 for the maintenance of the Mercer Reformatory for Females, which will be ready for occupation in a short time; $2,400 of a special grant to the Ontario School of Art and Design; $20,000 for the relief of distress in Ireland; and $1,500 for the distribution of emigration pamphlets.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 25.

After routine, Mr. Mowat replied to Mr. Young that the Government intended to take action to vindicate their claims to the territory under the Boundary Award.

The first important business was the Liquor Licence Amendment Act of Mr. Gibson (Hamilton.) This was discussed at considerable length, the Government thinking it went a little too far. Upon the Provincial Secretary's promise to consider these and other suggestions, and incorporate them in a measure next session, the Bill was withdrawn.

Mr. Paterson's Railway Act was thrown out on a division on its second reading.

The Division Court Bill and routine occupied the house, after which, and the House had gone in Committee the new Parliament building resolution came up.

Hon. Mr. Fraser said in 1863 these very buildings had been condemned as inadequate. In 1868 departments were accommodated outside. Now, of the six departments, three were accommodated outside (Education, Works and Attorney-General), together with portions of the Treasurer and Secretary's departments. The buildings were needs, especially from fire; and they were unsightly. If a new Crown Lands Department were created on the [illegible] would mean an expenditure of $500,000, and would do the Government to the detriment so that that the value of the site would have to be added, and then the cost price would be $700,000. The legislative outcome of erecting one new department would be the erection of other buildings until all were new. By selling the present site they would realize $250,000, and by selling eighty acres at the Asylum they would realize $150,000. But he did not wish to take such figures, and was willing to consider the sum to be derived from these sales at $200,000, which would leave $140,000 as the cost of the buildings. The Government were satisfied that they could erect the buildings for $500,000, and if that sum were in danger of being exceeded they would ask the Government to 31 Vic., cap. 23, which conveys to the Parliament of Canada the rights and privileges enjoyed by the members of the Imperial Parliament. The reply was so complete and crushing that no Ministerialists vouchsafed a response.

Mr. Macdonnell (North Lanark) made his maiden speech, which was well received although somewhat out of harmony on this question with the views entertained by his Liberal colleagues. The amendment was lost on a division and the motion carried. The determination arrived at by the House was made known to Mr. Macdonnell by the Speaker, and that party was liberated from custody.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 25.

The Commons' address to His Excellency on the Irish distress was agreed to.

In the Commons the case, of Mr. Hooper was brought up by Mr. Casey. On request of Sir John Macdonald and Mr. Blake, the matter was allowed to stand over while the petition was printed.

Mr. Girouard's Bill legalising marriage with a deceased wife's sister was read a first time.

After considerable business of little general interest Mr. Fleming moved for a copy of an order in Council prohibiting the landing of immigrants at Halifax who were not possessed of $30, upon which considerable discussion ensued, lasting until recess.

The Act repealing the Insolvency Act was considered in Committee and reported.

M. Bolduc's election bill was thrown out on the second reading by 71 to 69.

THURSDAY, Feb. 26.

A large number of private bills were introduced.

A reference, on motion by the Premier was made of the whole printing scandal charges to the Committee on Parliamentary Printing, with instructions to investigate the same and report on the best means to prevent such occurrences in future.

Mr. McCarthy introduced two public Bills, the first for the purpose of giving the Supreme Court of Canada the power of amendment, not at present enjoyed by it, and the second removing from the Quarter Sessions the power of trying cases of homicide or any charge of attempt to murder.

Mr. Fleming's motion for a copy of the Order in Council prohibiting the landing of immigrants at Halifax who are not possessed of $30 in money was carried without debate.

Mr. Keeler's Bill proposing to abolish the Supreme and Exchequer Courts of Canada was moved for the second reading. The debate was long, and allowing for recess occupied five hours.

For hours the debate dragged along, the speaking being almost confined to members who speak rarely, but about half-past eight there was a general rush of members to their seats on the word being passed that Mr. Blake was addressing the House. The member for West Durham delivered by far his ablest speech so far this session. He dealt with the question of expense, demonstrating that a great saving had been effected by retaining the appeal in Canada instead of taking it to England; on the ground of increasing the efficiency of the lower Courts, because the judges therein knew there was a revising power above, he claimed the Supreme Court should be retained. His matter-of-fact reasoning was momentarily enlivened by a gleam of humor when he said that while representatives from Quebec expressed themselves as perfectly satisfied with their Provincial Courts, yet the bulk of Canadian appeals to the Imperial Privy Council were a few years ago from that Province, and he added that it still maintained a similar reputation in the Supreme Court of Canada. In conclusion, he moved in amendment a six months' hoist. The yeas and nays were taken on Mr. Blake's amendment, and it was carried on a vote of 148 yeas to 29 nays, the majority against the Bill being 119.

The public are becoming interested in Sir Samuel Tilley's forthcoming budget speech, and this afternoon Mr. Mackenzie enquired of the Government when the financial statement will be made. Sir Samuel evidently did not like the question. He appeared confused, and apologetically said he was waiting until certain returns asked for by the House could be laid on the table. The earliest possible day that the speech can be delivered now will be next Friday, the beginning of the fourth week in the session, whereas under the late Administration a week to ten days earlier was the rule.

The Most Valuable Gifts—Restoration of the Health.

During the past ten years the Great Shoshonees Remedy has faithfully redeemed every promise and guarantee made to the public. Alarming and apparently hopeless cases of Lung diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Affections of the Kidney and Chronic Complaints of every description, including Scrofula and Skin Diseases of life-long duration, have been permanently removed and eradicated. Those who volunteered their testimony to the efficacy of the Remedy are not begun people in unheard-of localities in foreign countries, but respectable citizens of this country, easy of access and open to question, upon whose verbal recommendations we are willing to rest the reputation of the Great Shoshonees Remedy. If you are afflicted, do not delay until medicine may be powerless to aid you. No injurious effects can possibly follow the use of these Indian Remedies, as they contain no minerals, by which the fate of the invalid is too often sealed under the form of some temporary sedative or stimulant. These Indian Remedies are widely known and still possess the public confidence, after the lapse of sufficient time to test their efficacy.

The Shoshonees Vegetable Sugar Coated Pills have won for themselves the most favorable reputation of any pill before the public. Their efficacy has been fully proved as a remedy for billiousness, Sick Headache and inactivity of the stomach. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles, $1; Pills, 25 cents a box. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Mitchell's Belladonna Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is all of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one of the greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plaster they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kin. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn constantly to effect a cure; but with them it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TIC DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and are sure for WEAK BACKS, PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST, and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long-seated Consumption.

Prepared by GEORGE E. MITCHELL, Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists. 49-19 o o w.

Health is Strength.

To prevent or conquer disease is one of the greatest attainments ever aimed at by man, and "Hyson's Pulmonic Wafers" will so cure coughs, colds, tickling in the throat and pulmonary complaints, as sure and pastimes will destroy. Severe colds, if not attended to, sooner or later lead to incurable consumption, and the strength of the strongest soon fails if neglected. The readiest and best means known for the cure of these complaints is "Hyson's Pulmonic Wafers," which have been thoroughly tried for the last twenty years, and have never been known to fail. Singers and public speakers will also derive great benefit from the use of them. Sold by all medicine dealers at 25 cents per box.

A Good Horse.

"There is much pleasure and profit in the service of a good horse, and but very little of either in a bad one;" "no person from choice will retain a bad horse; many, however, are in possession of such who need not be. We think there are few horses so bad but that their condition can be improved and rendered more valuable and useful for their owners, to effect which, there is nothing equal to Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy; it has effected astonishing results in thousands of cases. CONFEDERATION LIFE ASSOCIATION.

EXAMPLES OF PROFITS.

No. of Policy.	Kind of Insurance.	Sum Assured.	Annual Premium.	For 1876. Cash	For 1876. Bonus	For 1877. Cash	For 1877. Bonus
1	Life	$10,000	$293.20	$76.40	$217.50	$80.60	$252.60
7	10 Payment Life.	5,000	252.45	112.10	297.60	120.00	333.00

It will be observed that these results are not only very handsome, but are also Equitable. If this Association distributed the Profits on the ordinary PERCENTAGE PLAN, allowing a bonus of 3½ per cent., payable at death, then the profits would have been as follows:—

Policy No. 1. For 1877. Cash..... $67.93. Bonus..... $252.00.
" 7. " " ..... 46.20. " ..... 126.00.

It will at once be seen that such a system as this last cannot commend itself to persons who will take time to consider it, as it not only does injustice to persons paying by a limited number of Premiums, but it gives only the same profits after a person has paid a score of Premiums.

The above profit-results, which place the Confederation Life in the van of Life Companies in Canada are attained by

Not paying more for business than it is worth. Adopting a High Standard of Valuation from the outset. Giving 90 per cent. of the profits to Policy-holders.

VOLUME XXV. THE PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER, THURSDAY, MARCH 11, 1880. NUMBER 11.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH [illegible] 1880.

OUR LOCAL INTERESTS.

Our contemporary the Review seems very anxious to create the impression that the Ontario Government has acted during the session, in a manner not only hostile to the interests of the Province but also to those of this section, and has been careful to couple the name of Mr. Blezard, the member for East Peterborough, with the votes on which it bases that charge. Mr. Blezard is charged with having sanctioned extravagance on the part of the Government by voting to indemnify it for the $4,500 expended in the exploratory trip to the new western territory of the Province, which our contemporary unfairly and falsely calls a "trip to Winnipeg, Chicago," etc. It suits the Review's malicious purpose to make an unscrupulous statement, but it knows very well that no trip was undertaken for examination of a new and valuable territory awarded to the Province [illegible] interests of the Province. Mr. Blezard is fully prepared to sustain his vote on that subject, which will be endorsed by every right-thinking man in the riding he represents; but we would like to hear a word from the Review on the subject of that same territory, and the action thereon towards the Province of Ontario, of its friends of the Dominion Government at Ottawa. Does our contemporary endorse the action of the Ottawa Government in seeking to set aside the award of the arbitrators by which this territory was made the property of the Province, and attempting to defraud the people of Ontario out of their just rights? Is it prepared to condone the conduct of Sir John A. Macdonald in yielding to the demands of the ravenous soudons from the Province of Quebec, who have compelled him to keep the people of this Province from entering upon their lawful heritage? The Review is silent upon this outrage, and seeks to cover up its infidelity to the interests of its constituents by attacks upon Mr. Blezard, based upon the misrepresentations to which we have alluded. Again our contemporary attacks Mr. Mowat's Government and Mr. Blezard, because a scheme for granting aid to railways was not brought down by which a bonus could be given to the Toronto & Ottawa project. We have no doubt whatever that it is the intention of Mr. Mowat to aid this important undertaking, and that at the proper time the company will be fully assured that assistance will be forthcoming, but [illegible] existed which rendered it impossible for them to take action this session. They had to consider not only the claims of this road but of other roads seeking public aid, and to consider what would do justice not only to this section but to all sections of the Province. Many of these schemes were late in being brought under the attention of the Government, and, indeed, it was not until the close of the session that the Toronto and Ottawa Railway Company was placed in a shape in which it could fairly claim provincial aid. Under these circumstances the Government decided not to act hastily, but to defer the final conclusion as to all these roads till next session, when they will be dealt with, we believe, so far as the Toronto & Ottawa is concerned, not only with a full measure of justice, but with generous consideration for the interests of the people all along the proposed line. It is time enough for the Review to abuse the Government of Mr. Mowat when it has refused that aid to this enterprise to which it is entitled. But our contemporary, while condemning Mr. Mowat for what he has not done, has not a word to say concerning the treatment of the interests of this section by the Government at Ottawa. On the treatment of the Pacific Junction Railway, (to which the Ontario Government has, by the way, granted $6,600 a mile,) and of the Trent Valley Canal, its motto appears to be "Silence be, it is the hum!" In its intense anxiety to trace some evidence of that hum, it does not see its political patrons at Ottawa placing a debt on these Provinces of $10,000,000 for the benefit of British Columbia, while they refuse encouragement to the enterprises we have mentioned. It is all right with our contemporary that 10,000 people in British Columbia should be given $10,000,000, while nearly three millions should be refused the trifling grant of $3,000,000 to open up a commercial highway through the heart of this Province, which would build up the trade and enhance the commercial prosperity of the tax-paying portion of this much-taxed country. We would like to have an expression of the views of our wide-awake contemporary on these subjects, and if it has as little difficulty in defending the conduct of its political leaders towards these enterprises, as Mr. Blezard will have in justifying his votes in the Ontario Legislature, it will have to exercise a little more ingenuity than is generally evinced in the flying of its editorial kites.

THE WAY THE MONEY GOES.

In the Committee of Public Accounts at Ottawa last week, Mr. Oliver moved for the details of the expenditure of $7,000 in connection with the arrival of His Excellency the Governor-General, and Her Royal Highness in the country. This sum was not spent upon the reception of the illustrious visitors, but was for the expenses of the members of the Government and their friends, who made a trip from Ottawa to Halifax. We extract the following from the Mail's report of proceedings:

"Mr. Oliver said the items included $625 for train from Prescott to Ottawa, $1,250 train hire on the Grand Trunk, and $1,250 paid by Mr. C. J. [illegible].

Mr. Bunville.—That was for champagne."

The Government refused to give the details in ignorance of how much of the $7,000, acknowledged by Mr. Bunville to have been expended in champagne, was [illegible]

COUNTY COUNCIL.

Special Session—Third Reading of the T. & O. R. R. By-law—Resignation of Warden Burnham—Election of Mr. Sanderson as Warden—The Grand Junction Suit, &c.

Pursuant to notice in the EXAMINER a special session of the County Council was held at the Court House here on Thursday last; present, the Warden, J. Burnham, M. P., and Councillors Sanderson, Fitzgerald, Collins, Stewart, Lang, Bork, Burgess, Pearce, Kidd, Oliver, Strickland, Walsh, Moloney, McCarthy, and McCliggott.

TORONTO & OTTAWA RAILWAY

The Warden explained that the meeting had been called for the purpose of passing the third reading of the Toronto & Ottawa R. R. By-law voted on by the ratepayers as required by the statute. He read the certificate of the Clerk, Edg. Pearce, Esq., setting forth that the By-law had been duly submitted to the qualified ratepayers, and that according to the returns of the Deputy-Returning Officers, the majority therefor was 404.

The By-law before the Council having been verified, it was moved by Mr. Collins, seconded by Mr. Pearce, that it be read a third time and passed, and the corporate seal affixed thereto.

Mr. Walsh stated that the number of votes cast for the by-law at Norwood appeared to be greater than the number of freeholders on the roll. He asked Mr. Pearce for explanation.

Mr. Pearce said he was not Returning Officer, and was not aware of any such discrepancy. It might be that tenants having the right of freehold vote, had voted.

The Warden said there was no manner in which the Council could look into the matter, as they could not examine the ballots.

Mr. Moloney thought they ought to take the voters' lists and compare them with the assessment roll.

The Warden thought it was not in the power of the Council to constitute themselves a court to examine into such a question.

Mr. Collins thought a matter of this kind was not within the jurisdiction of the Council. There were some tenant-farmers who were freeholders in the village of Norwood.

Mr. Walsh said in many cases those who owned lands in different wards of a township had voted in each township. He did not think this was according to the law.

The motion for third reading was carried unanimously, and the by-law duly signed by the Warden.

THE COMPANY RETURNS THANKS.

On motion of Mr. Collins, seconded by Mr. Oliver, Mr. D.W.Dumble was heard.

Mr. Dumble said he thought it was becoming on behalf of the Company to thank the Council for the very honorable and fair manner in which the Council had dealt with the Company throughout, which action had been so handsomely endorsed by the ratepayers of the County. He would say that because the Government had taken no action towards granting aid to the Company, it was not to be understood that they had refused aid altogether. The matter had been deferred because of the great pressure brought to bear upon the Government on behalf of the railway, and which had induced Western members to press similar applications for western railways, and as it was approaching the close of the session the Government had deferred their decision. He would add that notwithstanding that the Government had not given aid this session, the Company had hopes that they would be enabled to commence work on the railway before July.

Mr. Collins moved, seconded by Mr. Lang, that this being a special meeting, the Council proceed to transact any further business before them.—Carried.

RESIGNATION OF THE WARDEN.

The Warden said he had a few words to address to them. They were aware that it was much against his will that he had consented to fill the position at the January meeting. Occupying the position he did as member for the county, he had come to the conclusion that he could not devote that attention as Warden to the interests of the county which he desired, and he had further thought that having filled the position for so long a period, it was not doing justice to the other members of the Council that he should continue to hold it. He had, therefore, placed his resignation in the hands of the Clerk, which he requested to be read.

Mr. Pearce read the resignation as follows:

Edg. Pearce, Esq.,
County Clerk, Peterborough.

DEAR SIR,—I desire to resign the office of Warden of the County and I take advantage of this meeting to do so, as it will enable the Council to elect my successor without calling a special meeting.

I take this step as I consider that I cannot give that attention to the interests of the County or the duties of the office as is necessary, owing to my position as member of the House of Commons, and I also because I feel that I am monopolizing an honor to which other members of the Council are entitled.

I thank you for the confidence the Council have shown me by electing me so often to the Warden's chair.

Yours truly,
JOHN BURNHAM.

Mr. McCarthy was very sorry that the Warden had felt compelled to take this course, and would urge him to consent to fill the position for the balance of the term.

The Warden said he had no doubt of the feeling of the Council, as it had been expressed at the beginning of the year.

Mr. Lang expressed the hope that he would remain in office till the end of the year.

Mr. Sanderson was sure that no injustice would be done to the interest of the County if the Warden would consent to remain in office.

Mr. Collins was taken by surprise at the proposition of the Warden and thought no duties would come up for performance during his absence that might not be properly attended to by other officers. He also hoped the Warden would agree to hold office till the end of the year.

Mr. Fitzgerald would ask the Warden to withdraw his resignation and retain his place till the end of the term.

The Warden said he was unwilling to do so. He had changed his mind at the beginning of the year and afterwards regretted it. He was not willing to do so again.

Mr. Pearce said the Warden would have no doubt as to the feeling of the Council, but in deference to his wishes he would move, seconded by Mr. Bork, that the resignation be accepted, which was carried.

Mr. Burnham then took his seat at the Board.

NEW WARDEN ELECTED.

Mr. Pearce moved, seconded by Mr. Burnham that Mr. W. Sanderson Reeve of Smith, be elected Warden for the balance of the term.

No other nominations being made, the motion was put by the Clerk, Mr. Pearce, and carried unanimously.

Mr. Sanderson having subscribed the necessary declaration, was conducted to the chair by Councillors Pearce and Burnham, and installed in the robe of office, when he briefly returned thanks for the honor done him.

Mr. Collins moved, seconded by Mr. Stewart that Mr. Burnham's name be placed on all committees in place of that of Mr. Sanderson.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. Burnham the Warden was requested to name a member to fill the place vacated by him on the special committee on the Bobcaygeon Bridge.

The Warden accordingly named Mr. Moloney to fill the vacancy on that Committee.

COMPLIMENTARY RESOLUTION.

Mr. Pearce thought it was due to the retiring Warden that the Council should place on record their appreciation of his services while he filled the chair, and moved, seconded by Mr. Burgess "that this Council regret that Mr. Burnham had deemed it his duty to tender his resignation as Warden of this County, and cannot allow him to retire from the position without placing on record their high sense of the efficient manner in which he has discharged the duties devolving upon him as Warden for over three years."—Carried unanimously.

Mr. Burnham thanked the Council for the expression of appreciation conveyed in the resolution. He had the consolation in leaving the chair that he still remained a member of the Board, and that he would be able still to render any service to the County in that capacity which might be in his power.

THE GRAND JUNCTION SUIT.

He drew the attention of the Council to the matter of the Grand Junction Railway which had sued the County for the amount of the bonus, the conditions of which the railway had not carried out in any manner, from the very beginning. The case had been argued a week ago, and judgment would be given in a few days. He had been advised by Mr. Bethune that he had strong hope of a decision in favor of the County, but that it would be desirable in case it resulted otherwise to appeal the case to a higher Court. He stated that while at Ottawa, he had been advised by telegram from Mr. Scott that the Grand Junction had introduced an ammendment to their bill, empowering them to utilize the Cobourg road, and to come on the County for the whole bonus. He had telegraphed the Attorney-General as Warden, asking that the interests of the County be protected against such legislation, and was subsequently notified by Mr. Scott that the attempt of the Grand Junction had been thrown out by the Railway Committe. He moved seconded by Mr. Collins that in event of the suit of the Grand Junction Railway being decided adversely to the County, the Warden be authorized to appeal the case in behalf of the County to a higher Court.

GENERAL BUSINESS.

On motion of Mr. Lang, seconded by Mr. Stewart, it was resolved that hereafter no By-Law Memorial or Address, be read more than twice in the same day.

On motion of Mr. Pearce all accounts before the Council were referred to the Finance Committee.

On motion of Mr. Burgess, seconded by Mr. Kidd, the Council then adjourned till 10 o'clock the ensuing day.

FRIDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

The Council met again on Friday, the Warden in the chair; all the members present but Messrs. Clark and Golborne.

After some discussion upon the new rule of order enacted the previous day, on motion of Mr. Lang, the minutes of Thursday's sitting were passed.

Mr. Kork tendered his resignation as Trustee of Norwood High School.

On motion of Mr. Pearce the resignation was accepted, and Mr. S. J. Griffin was appointed to the position, the corporate seal being affixed to the resolution to give it the force of a By-law.

PAYING THE PIPER.

Mr. Pearce read the following report of the Finance Committee:

The Committee on Finance beg leave to report, recommending that the Returning Officers for taking the vote on the By-law amending the By-law granting a bonus to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway Company be paid as follows: $3.50 for use of room in which the vote was taken; $3 to each Returning Officer; 5 cents per mile for travelling to make the necessary declaration; municipal Clerks per 10 names of voters' list 6 cents, and 25 cents for each list certified; T. Burke, advertising By-law, $21.50; W. H. Robertson & Co., advertising By-law, $21.50; Toker & Co., advertising By-law, $21.50; J. R. Stratton, printing, $121.36.

On motion of Mr. Pearce, seconded by Mr. Burgess, the report was adopted.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

Mr. Kidd drew the attention of the Council to the action of the School Board of the town, whereby according to the statement of the Chairman of the Board, the condition of the Collegiate Institute would be seriously impaired. The County had granted $750 to the school upon the representations of its standing by Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Jeffers, and it seemed that now the Board were going to break faith with the Council. He moved, seconded by Mr. Collins, the adoption of a resolution deprecating the action of the Board.

Mr. Moloney thought it better not to interfere with the affairs of the school.

Mr. Collins said the County contributed $750 to the school, and they had a perfect right to pass a resolution requesting that the conditions under which that money was granted should be maintained.

Mr. McCarthy thought the Council had no authority to interfere.

Mr. Kidd did not think there was no interference contemplated. It was a motion simply expressing the wish of the Council that the standing of the school should be maintained.

Mr. Lang said the Board had got our money now and could do as they pleased. Next year they could help themselves by withholding the grant.

Mr. Kidd withdrew his motion saying, that perhaps this discussion would be brought under the notice of the Board, and have the desired effect.

On motion of Mr. Burgess, the Council then adjourned over till the next session.

Distress in Ireland.

The accounts from Ireland represent a pitiful state of affairs. Three hundred thousand people are reported to be on the verge of starvation. Months must intervene before a new harvest can bring relief, and in the meantime these people will die if not relieved from abroad. The English Government looks on with characteristic apathy. If one of the Irish landlords had been forcibly prevented from collecting his rents the Government would speedily move to his relief, but it has no sympathy with the tenants reduced to beggary by the exorbitant demands of landlords. In the present distress the landholders of England and Ireland should be the first to come forward with relief. It is the exactions of the landholders that have impoverished the laboring class and now, when the earth is less generous in her returns, the surplus which the landlord has collected in the past should be freely distributed. The right of a nation to maintain a land system which reduces her working people to beggary, and forces them to appeal to other nations for help may well be questioned. England concerned herself a deal about our slave system in other days, and we have an equal right now to concern ourselves about a land system which keeps the tillers of the soil in a condition of mendicancy. Our gifts are voluntary, and are made with the most kindly feelings toward the unfortunate people whose necessities we relieve but we cannot help thinking that the British Government is remiss in its duty in taking no measures to remove the cause of all this suffering. We do not pretend to interpret the feelings of an Irish landlord who collects thousands of pounds sterling a year from these starving tenants, or from others but one remove further from starvation; but we have a tolerably correct idea of the opinions of other people have of him. *N. SCHOOL EXPENDITURE.

Our daily and evening contemporary makes a very unfair attack upon the County Council, in connection with the Board of Education of the town, and seems to be desirous of provoking hostility between the Board and the Council. In a second article on the subject of the schools, the Review intimates that there is a "breach" between the teachers of the Institute and the Board; that the County Council has been attempting to "dictate" to the School Board; and that the result is that there can be no "compromise." All these assertions and insendos have not a particle of foundation in fact. So far as the relations between the teachers and the Board are concerned, the latter by resolution distinctly disclaimed any intention of reflecting upon the teachers, while on his part Mr. Jeffers expressed his sense of the motives by which the Board were actuated. No one has any doubt about the motive of the majority of the Board, and it was a very laudable one; but we are quite sure there is not one member of the Board, unless it might be the member for the Review, who regards the teachers or any of them with "hostility," or who considers that there is any "breach," as our contemporary insinuates, or even any difference of opinion of an irreconcilable nature. The action of the County Council was as far from an attempt at "dictation" as it is possible to conceive. When the County Council met in January, the Chairman of the School Board, Mr. Stevenson, and the Principal, on representation of the existing staff of teachers and standard of efficiency, induced the Council to grant $750 towards the maintenance of the Institute. Not long after, the members of the Council read, in the report of the School Board proceedings, of action which the Chairman of the Board characterised very strongly as likely to be injurious to the standing of the school. Surely the Review will not deny the right of the Council, under these circumstances, to express a hope that the Board should maintain the status of the school upon which their grant was based! Nor will the members of the School Board recognise, in such an expression, any attempt to dictate to them. We might as well deny the right of the Board itself to make a recommendation or representation to the Department of Education, or to another School Board, as has often been done. We should be very sorry to believe for a moment that the Review designs to stir up discord between the Board, the teachers and the county; but the manner in which it deals with the question is well calculated to have that effect. An anonymous writer in the Review, over the signature of "A School Trustee," makes some unwarrantable reflections upon an article in last week's EXAMINER. We expressed our view of the action of the Board, and the effects of which might result therefrom, in a fair, moderate and candid manner. We presume we have the right of our opinion, and the right, too, to express it; and we did so in a manner that could not offend the Board or any member of it. When we have occasion to do so in any other manner, to sneak behind anonymous correspondence, or to resort under such cowardly cover to petty malice or insinuation, it will be time enough to consider the acquisition of the kind of talent developed in the letter we have referred to. That occasion is not, however, likely to occur. We apprehend that the members of the Board—for we can hardly credit any member of it resorting to that method of expressing his views—recognise that we did full justice to the motives of those with whom we differed in opinion on the subject under discussion, and accorded them the measure of respectful consideration due to them; and we believe, moreover, that mature consideration will lead them, in some measure at least, to coincide with our views. We are quite certain, at all events, that those who principally support the schools—and the fact was strongly shown in the only election last January in which this question was at issue with the electors—while approving the spirit of economy, do not approve the direction which it seems to have taken.

As will be seen by advertisement in another column, in accordance with the instructions of the Council, the Mayor has called a public meeting of the ratepayers, for to-morrow, (Friday) evening, at the Town Hall, to consider the question of waterworks and fire-protection. We hope to see a large attendance and an intelligent and thorough discussion of this important question, so that the Council may know, once for all, what steps the means necessary to be adopted to protect the property of the town from fire, shall take.

THE WARDENSHIP.

In the special session of the County Council, the members were somewhat taken by surprise by the announcement of the resignation of the Warden, John Burnham, M. P. Mr. Burnham's reasons for taking this course will be found in his letter of resignation in another column, and they are such as best regard only for the interests of the county, and were moved by no disposition to evade any of the duties of the office. His position as member of Parliament requires his presence at Ottawa during three months of the year, and he no doubt felt that this would not permit him to devote that attention to the business of the county which he desired, and which he has been accustomed to give. During his long occupancy of the Wardenship, Mr. Burnham has applied himself industriously and conscientiously to the discharge of the duties of the position and the forwarding of the interests of the county. He has presided over its deliberations with dignity and firmness, and facilitated business by preserving harmony and orderly procedure. He retires from the Chair with the good will of every member of the Board, and a feeling of regret that circumstances should have determined him upon such a step. The resolution passed last Thursday was not a mere formality, but an expression from every member of what was due to Mr. Burnham, and to his services during a lengthy period as presiding officer. In selecting his successor, by so unanimous a vote, the Council did the right thing in acknowledging long and faithful services as the Board, which we believe should always be an important consideration in the bestowal of the highest honor within its gift. Mr. Sanderson's record at the Board is a guarantee that he will, in the Chair, fully justify the confidence which placed him there, and we have no doubt that when he in turn comes to retire, he will relinquish his office with the same expression of respect and feeling of regret in the Council, with which Mr. Burnham closed his career as Warden of the County.

We are glad to see Mr. Geo. Hilliard, M. P., looking so well on his recent visit home; the atmosphere at Ottawa seems to agree with him and he had all the air of a man satisfied with himself and the rest of the world-one of the effects, no doubt, of the beneficent action of the N. P., now that it has had time to work. has passed from the embryonic condition, and is diffusing its blessings like gentle showers on the dry ground. Mr. Hilliard's air of satisfaction might not be so complete if he heard some of the muttered curses around our street corners from some of the working men who have hardly had a day's work all winter. We suggest to Mr. H. to come home soon, and to empower us to call a mass-meeting of working-men and mechanics in Bradburn's Hall, in order that he may set forth the beauties of the N. P., and demonstrate to their satisfaction the immense boon Protection has been to them, and prove satisfactorily that we are in the middle of the great promised flow of prosperity that he and others promised us. He might ask the Review interviewer to take a tour around and gather some information for him as to our present prosperity, on which to found his forthcoming lecture.

Tract Society.

The annual meeting of the Peterboro' Branch of the Book and Tract Society, was held in the Bible Christian Church on Monday evening. In the absence of the President, Col. Haultain occupied the chair. The Rev. Mr. Roberts opened the meeting with reading the scriptures and prayer. Mr. W. C. Nichols read the annual report and report of Treasurer, showing a small balance on hand for the year. Rev. Mr. Mathers moved the adoption of the report, which was seconded by Rev. Mr. Fletcher. Rev. Mr. Bone, missionary of St. Catharines, and agent of the society delivered a very interesting address showing the nature, extent and progress of the work of the Society along the Welland Canal and vicinity, and gave incidents of the success of the mission proving its usefulness and claims on public favor. A collection was taken up in favor of the funds of the society, when the Rev. Mr. Roberts pronounced the benediction.

Reports from the Medora and Marmora iron and gold mines are of a very satisfactory character, work being carried on vigorously and good yields are generally reported. At the Seymour mine drifting for another vein is being carried on.

The heavy rain on Thursday night, which so raised Smith's creek that part of the Midland track was washed away, did a great deal of damage in the township of Hope. Several bridges were washed away, and large gullies washed in the roads in several places that are completely impassible.

PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT.

Resumption of Last Year.

THE MORTGAGE OF TOWNS TO BE CONSIDERED AT LARGE.

LONDON, March 8.

In the Commons to-day, the Chancellor of the Exchequer stated that the Queen had been advised to dissolve Parliament at Easter.

Immediately after the announcement of the dissolution, Parnell was telegraphed to re-appear. The news of the dissolution of Parliament has caused great excitement in the provinces.

Lord Beaconsfield has sent the following manifesto to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland:—

"Measures respecting the state of Ireland are about to be submitted for the Royal assent. The acts of the agitators have been defeated by liberal and prudent measures, which Parliament, almost unanimously, sanctioned. During the six years of the present Administration the improvement of Ireland has much occupied the care of the Ministry, and they may remember with satisfaction that they have solved one of the most difficult problems connected with its Government and people, by establishing a system of public education open to all classes. Nevertheless, a danger in its ultimate results, scarcely less disastrous than pestilence and famine, distracts the country. A portion of its population is attempting to sever the constitutional tie which unites it to Great Britain. The strength of this nation depends on unity. The immediate dissolution of Parliament will afford an opportunity for the nation to decide the course, which will materially influence its future fortunes. The power of England and the peace of Europe will largely depend upon the verdict of the country. The doubt inseparable from popular election arrests the country's influence, and is the main reason for not delaying the appeal to the national voice."

On the foreign question, Lord Beaconsfield says the Liberals having attempted and failed to enfeeble the Colonies by their policy of decomposition, now recognise in the disintegration of the United Kingdom, a mode which will not only accomplish but precipitate their purpose. The ineffable blessing of peace cannot be obtained by the passive principle of non-interference. Peace rests on the prevalence, not to say ascendancy, of England in the councils of Europe.

KEENE NEWS.

Sales and Weddings—The Schools—Weather and etc.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Auction Sales and Weddings are the only interesting occurrences in this vicinity at present. The former have been so numerous of late that Farm Implements, &c, are now selling at very low prices; parties selling out are chiefly bound for Dakotah and the North-West.

Among the recent Weddings have been those of Mr. Geo. McCartney of Millbrook, to Miss. Lizzie McNeil of this village; Mr. Thomson of Bowmanville, to Miss. Maggie Barr of Keene; and Mr. J. Ashburn of Mather's Corner's to Miss. Kate Harris of Brotherson's Corner's. Several others are on the tapis. Our Ministers are reaping quite a harvest of marriage-fees.

The changeableness of the weather and the bad roads are the subject of much comment.

Miss Thompson the very popular teacher of the Junior Department of our Public School, has been, we regret to report, unable to attend to her duties for over a week on account of illness; her sister, Miss. Bella Thompson, is supplying her place.

Mr. J. C. Brown, I. P. S., visited our School last week, and expressed himself as being well pleased with its condition.

Bridgenorth.

On Tuesday evening, District Worthy Chief Templar Nesbitt, and Messrs. Stratton, Adams and other Templars from town, visited Bridgenorth with a view to reanseitate Oak Leaf Temple. A meeting was held in the Town Hall, which was reasonably attended by temperance friends in the neighborhood.

The Temple was reorganised by appointing officers, &c. Officers elect:—W. C. T., Bro. J. W. Mann; W. Y. T., Sister A. Dean; W. S., Bro. J.H. Dean; W. Treas., Bro. J. Stubbs; W.F.S., Bro. I. Stoney Lake.

Propagating the Species—Extraordinary Profitless—Serious Accident.

(From an Occasional Correspondent.)

It is seldom that anything of importance transpires in this locality, but the N.P. has taken such decided influence here of late that its effects are very noticeable, and that in a very peculiar way. The number of births has exceeded anything that has ever taken place in this neighborhood, as there has been twelve or fifteen in a radius of a very few miles. The wife of Mr. Thomas Spencer, of Burleigh, presented him with three very fine babies about five weeks ago, all of which are living and doing well; and the wife of Mr. William Crow, of Dummer, presented him a few days ago with three also at one birth, one of which has since died but the other two are doing well. If that is not National Policy with a vengeance I do not know what is.

A very serious accident happened on the 4th inst., by which Richard Parks, son of Nelson S. Parks, of the township of Methuen, got one his legs so badly broken by a fallen tree, he and his father were cutting down, that it was necessary to amputate the leg a little below the knee, which operation was performed by Dr. Tourez, of Warsaw, and Dr. Bell, of Lakefield. He is a young man about twenty-one years of age. Hopes are entertained of his recovery.

ONTARIO ASSEMBLY.

Fourth Legislature—Third Session.

Last Week's Business—Visiting at the Session—The Prorogation—The Speech from the Throne, etc., etc.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

TORONTO, March 1.

Among the bills read a third time were those to protect the goods of lodgers and boarders against distress, and for rent due to the superior landlord—Meek.

Respecting ditching water courses—Robinson (Kent.)

To prevent the spreading of Canada thistles—Hay.

Mr. Ball moved that, in the opinion of this House, it is expedient that the Government of Ontario take into consideration the question of the location of the Pacific Railway through this Province, in relation to its effects on the prosperity of the southern portion of Ontario, and particularly on the towns and cities on Lake Ontario.

Hon. Mr. Pardee said that the building of the Pacific Railway was wholly within the Province of the Dominion Government, and it was a matter with which this House could not interfere.

The motion was then withdrawn.

Mr. Hay, in the absence of Mr. Ballantyne, moved the second reading of the Bill to prevent Inspectors of Public Schools taking part in elections. Read a second time.

Hon. Mr. Pardee moved that the resolution to the effect that this House resolve itself into Committee of the Whole, to consider certain proposed resolutions relating to railway aid, be discharged. He said that this Province had more railways to the amount of traffic carried than any other country. He believed the feeling was that the House should adopt a more Conservative railway policy. He himself would be in favor of extending aid at least to those lines which have already received municipal bonuses, but the feeling of the country and the feeling of members of this House was strongly opposed to further aid at present, therefore the Government had determined not to bring down any railway policy this session.

The debate lasted till recess.

After recess, the following supplementary estimate was brought down:

Towards bearing any expenses which may be incurred in maintaining the right of the Province to the territory recently awarded, and in maintaining the constitutional rights of the Province in other matters, $10,000.

The Attorney-General moved a resolution of sympathy with the Governor-General and Her Royal Highness the Princess Louise, on their escape from their late accident.

Mr. Meredith seconded the motion, which was carried.

The Attorney-General moved the second reading of the bill to make further provisions respecting estates of persons confined in asylums, also respecting the administration of justice in the districts of Algoma, Thunder Bay and Nipissing.

The Municipal Act was passed through Committee of the Whole with amendments.

TORONTO, March 2.

After routine, Mr. Crooks moved the ratification of an Order-in-Council directing certain payments from the Permanent Fund of Upper Canada College and Royal Grammar School. The Committee of the Senate of the University control the College, and they have ordered the expenditure of $30,000 in additional boarding school accommodation. By the Act of last session such orders must now be ratified by the Assembly. In moving the ratification of the present order, Mr. Crooks eulogised the institution and its record for fifty years. The members of the Government party from the rural constituencies took the matter up, and were generally against the motion to ratify. The debate was adjourned.

Mr. Crooks moved the ratification of an Order-in-Council authorising certain resolutions of the Senate of the University respecting proposed arrangements between the Province and the Corporation of Toronto, for the erection of Parliament buildings in the Queen's Park. Carried.

In concurrence on amendments of the Division Court, an amendment extending the $200 limit to all matters wherein $100 obtains, was defeated by 46 to 19.

When the House was in Committee on the Municipal Act, Mr Harcourt moved that every appointment by a Sheriff should be subject to ratification by the Lieutenant-Governor, which was carried. Mr. Meredith protesting that this gave the power of appointing jailors to the Government with a divided responsibility.

A number of clauses of the Exemptions Bill were passed through committee and reported.

Mr. Mowat said he hoped the House would prorogue on Thursday.

TORONTO, March 3.

After some unimportant business, Mr. Hardy moved the third reading of the Division Court Bill. Mr. White moved an amendment to strike out the section allowing the taxation of lawyer's fees, which was defeated by a majority of 41 to 24. An amendment by Mr. Meredith, condemning the taking away from the county judges of the right to appoint clerks and bailiffs, was defeated by a majority of 44 to 22, and a third amendment, also by Mr. Meredith, to enlarge the jurisdiction in certain cases of the court liquidated, as well as in those where it is ascertainable by the signature of the defendant, was voted down by 49 to 28. The third reading was then carried.

After the Municipal Bill had been read a third time and certain returns ordered, Mr. Crooks withdrew his motion to ratify the Order-in-Council authorising the expenditure of $30,000 out of capital for boarding house extension in connection with Upper Canada College.

The House then proceeded to concur in the items of supply previously allowed to stand over, the Opposition insisting on divisions on seven different items, all of which were carried by large majorities, the average being about 26.

On the motion to go into Committee of Supply for the purpose of appropriating $10,000 for the payment of expenses that may be incurred in establishing the claims of Ontario to the disputed territory, Mr. Meredith moved an amendment which was lost by a vote of 44 to 24.

Mr. Mowat moved the resolution he had placed on the notice-paper respecting the boundary award, which after reciting the facts connected with the case, expressed regret at the position taken by the Dominion Government, and instructed the Government of Ontario to take steps to make good the claim of this Province. After some discussion a division was taken, when the resolutions were carried by a majority of sixty-four to one, the sole discontent being the member for Muskoka and Parry Sound.

TORONTO, March 4.

The Speaker took the chair at 11 a. m. On motion to read the Bill to abolish priority among exemption creditors a third time.

Mr. Meredith moved in amendment that where a debtor makes an assignment, any goods in the sheriff's hand's on an execution, shall be released by the Sheriff to the assignee on payment of his fee.

The amendment was lost, and the Bill was read a third time.

The House went into Committee on the Municipal Exemption Act.

The Attorney-General moved in amendment that personal property of railways, gas, water and road companies shall be exempt, but that income from shares be taxed.

Mr. Meredith moved in amendment to the amendment that the dividends be exempt and the real and personal property taxed, with the exception of banks and railways, the personal property of which shall be taxed.

The amendment to the amendment was lost, and after some further amendment the Bill was reported, and the House adjourned at one o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Speaker took the chair at 3.15 p.m.

The discussion on the Bill providing for municipal exemptions was resumed, and the Bill was read a third time and passed.

The Bill for supply was passed.

The Bill for the establishment of justice in the districts of Algoma, Thunder Bay and Nipissing passed through the committee, and was read a third time and passed.

The Attorney-General said he would withdraw the Indictments Act Bill, and introduce it early next session.

The following public officers was read a third time.

The House was adjourned at 4.30 until three to-morrow, when it will be prorogued.

TORONTO, March 5.—The Speaker took the chair at two o'clock.

Mr. Meredith asked if it was the intention of the Government to invite architects to submit plans for the new Parliament buildings. The work was an important one, and he wished to know if the Government intended to invite competition among architects for the plans.

Mr. Mowat said they intended to consult architects other than those of the Department on the matter, but he did not know whether they would call for plans in the way his hon. friend proposed. He would not say positively that they would not do so, but such was not their present intention.

Mr. Mowat introduced a Bill respecting municipal assessments and exemptions. In passing a former Bill on the same question one of the provisions respecting the personal property of incorporated companies was expressed in such a way as to be the very reverse of what was intended. The hon. member for London agreed with him that the Bill as it stood was exactly the reverse of the intention of the House. The new Bill would be precisely the same as the old one with that exception. The Bill was read the first, second and third time and passed.

At three o'clock the Lieut.-Governor arrived and duly prorogued the Assembly, delivering the following

SPEECH:

Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

I am glad to be able to relieve you from further attendance upon your Legislative duties and to thank you for the careful consideration you have given to the many useful measures to which I have today been called upon to assent.

It gives me great pleasure to know from the action you have taken that my Government will have your cordial and loyal support in asserting the just claims and rights of this province, more especially in their efforts to sustain the Award of the arbitrators by which the northerly and westerly boundaries of Ontario have been determined, and I have to acknowledge the promptness with which you have placed at the disposal of my advisers the necessary funds for that purpose.

It is gratifying to me to observe that the subject of providing new and increased accommodation for the Legislative Governmental Departments has engaged your attention. I trust that, without exceeding the estimated cost, buildings will be erected fully equal to the demands of the public service and in all respects worthy of this great and wealthy province.

The readiness with which you have voted a sum of money for the relief of our suffering fellow-subjects in Ireland will, I am sure, be warmly appreciated by them, and afford a fresh proof of the common sentiments of interest and sympathy which unite the people of the many widely-separated portions of Her Majesty's Dominions.

The Bill incorporating the Agricultural College, which has just become law, shows the sense entertained by you of the importance of that institution to the farmers of Ontario, and I have no doubt your views thus expressed will be shared to a constantly increasing extent by all classes of the people. As the utility of this institution is further demonstrated by experience, steps will be taken by my Government to give early effect to the proposition to appoint an Agricultural Commission, and to secure for any outlay so incurred the most practical and beneficial results.

The extension of the jurisdiction of the Division Courts will tend to secure to a large number of suitors a more ready and less expensive means for enforcing just demands, while other amendments in the law sanctioned by you will add materially to the efficiency of these tribunals.

The important amendments in the Municipal law resulting from your deliberations, more particularly those which reduce the number of statutory exemptions and effect certain changes in the incidence of local taxation, cannot fail to be great public benefit.

While the subject is surrounded with considerable difficulty, it may reasonably be expected that your enquiries as to the best means for providing security against accidents to brakesmen and other railway servants will in due time result in the attainment of that most desirable object.

The measures to prevent the wasteful destruction of pine timber on free grant lands, to bring Mechanics' Institutes under the cognizance of the Minister of Education, to abolish priority of claims among execution creditors, to check the unnecessary holding of coroner's inquests, and to introduce an improved system of management into the Reformatory for boys at Penetanguishene, all demonstrate the lively regard of the Legislative Assembly of Ontario for the good government and welfare of the province.

I thank you for the supplies you have voted for the public service. They will be expended with all the regard for economy that is consistent with efficiency and the public requirements.

In addressing you probably for the last time in my official capacity, I cannot help giving expression to my earnest desire for the future prosperity of the Province of Ontario and the permanence of those institutions by which its present prosperity and happy position has been largely secured. May Divine wisdom ever guide the counsels of its statesmen, and a blessing attend the industry of the people.

The Provincial Secretary then said: Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly,—It is his Honor's will and pleasure that this Legislative Assembly be prorogued, and this Legislative Assembly is accordingly prorogued.

Luckily Mrs. Tully, in falling, caught some cedar bushes, by which she managed her self till her cries for assistance brought Mr. George Brown and Mr. Rose to her aid, when she was rescued from her unpleasant and perilous position.

Moving off West.—On Tuesday morning Messrs. D. Brodie and family, and John Graham and family, all of Smith left this town for Oregon, where it is their intention, if the country suits them, to take up land and settle. They while our paternal Government at Ottawa is spending princely sums in encouraging proper immigration, the pioneers of the country are being driven out of it by the burdens of the N. P.

Irish Relief Fund.—One or two errors and omissions occurred in transcribing the names and donations from the Committee's Books last week. Mr. D. A. Morrow did not receive credit for a donation of $5.00, and Judge Dennistoun and Mrs. Dennistoun for $5 each. A friend" in Messrs. Doran and Hackett's list was credited with $2, which should have read $4; and Mr. A. Mercer, who gave $2 was only credited with $1.

Printed Envelopes.—The deputy-postmaster was interviewed at Toronto the other day by a Globe reporter and furnished an interesting column about blunders in addressing letters and postal cards. He said the little direction often printed in the upper left-hand corner of the envelopes of business men will sometimes save much trouble, and oftentimes money, in furnishing a clue to the sender. The direction in the well-known form: "If not called for in ten days return to A. B. Jones' dealer, etc., Peterborough, Ontario." Envelopes in various sizes and shades and from the cheapest to the finest qualities in stock at EXAMINER Office, and printed at low rates.

"H. M. S. Parliament."—Her Majesty's Ship Parliament sailed into the Port of Bradburn's Hall on Friday evening, but, unfortunately, owing to the various rumors about the condition of the Hall, was not received with as large a demonstration of her Majesty's loyal subjects as would otherwise have been the case. The Hall was but moderately filled with those who had contracted to take the supposed risk, but those who were present were unanimous in their opinion of the excellence of the play—that it was the most successful and enjoyable piece presented on the boards here since the opening of the Hall. The literary merit of the play has been somewhat exaggerated, though inferior productions have achieved considerable reputation; but where it is lacking here, it is made up in the crisp humor of the political hits, the happiness of the situations, and the capital adaptation of the characters introduced to, the run of the rollicking play of which it is a capital parody. The play itself it must admirably does justice to by the dressing, make-up and stage management of the Company, and elicited continued applause during its presentation. Mr. [illegible] as the Governor Clark, was in true-to-the-life portrayal of the average occupant of the "Chair for the Destitute," as it is called at Ottawa. Charles Alexander was unmistakable "Sir John," and Sir Sam. Sibley, Sandy MacDonald-ite, Tom. Stout, Britannia, Canada, were all admirable characters. Mrs. McDowell made a charming Angelina, and seems to have acquired fresh graces since her last visit. We trust the Political Pinafore will meet with the financial success elsewhere which it deserves, and which it would have achieved here, but for the unfortunate reason to which we have alluded.

Don't Give Up.

What if you have tried different "pat up" medicines in vain. Have you not been equally disappointed in some physicians? Do not conclude your case incurable until you have made a thorough trial of Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines. Composed of pure, concentrated strength, and have come into general use by reason of their great merit. In cases of dyspepsia and nervous debility, complicated with liver complaint, blood disorders, or consumption, the Golden Medical discovery is a speedy and positive cure; while thousands of cases, who had for years been bed ridden, have by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription been restored to perfect health. The former will positively cure nine-tenths of the cases of chronic catarrh in the head, no matter of how long standing. Sold by druggists. Pamphlets sent on receipt of three stamps. POLICE COURT NOTES.

Business, which had been languishing for an interval, was again resumed before Mr. D. G. Stetson, P.M., on Friday last, when Alex. LaPlante [illegible] for the violation of the bailiwick ordinance of stealing a pair of boots from the store of E. Stinson & Son. Having nothing to say, and the theft having been proved, the prisoner was committed to the county gaol for thirty days, with hard labor.

C. G. A. Keith charged John and William Hill, of Otonabee, with having committed an aggravated assault upon his person, on the night of Feb. 27th, contrary to the statute in that case made and provided. The Otonabee constable who put the assault made by John was of that degree known as "common," and he was fined $5 in addition to $2.50 which he was requested to contribute to the widow's and orphan's fund of the justice mill. William Hill's assault had received the respectable dimensions of aggravated, and he was therefore fined $20 and $1.50 costs.

On Saturday morning Sidney Andrews, a despondent of the mature age of 12 years, was charged with having unlawfully bleeding the eye of Adelaide Vinette, by throwing stones at her. The boy admitted that the injured fair had called him names, but the Magistrate said he was evidently the assistal out of which the had old men are made, and that though he would let him off with the lowest prescribed penalty, $1.50 fine, and 50 cents costs, he entered him that the [illegible] was awaiting for him in the future if he did not see the error of his ways, be a good boy and obey his parents, and go to Sunday School.

Charles Browning [illegible] who has been [illegible] his Worship several times already, was again before him yesterday morning, charged by P. C. McGhee with being drunk and disorderly on the streets. It appears that Brownlee, who has been working in the woods all winter, came into town yesterday evening, and immediately got drunk and commenced raising a row at the Stewart House. As soon as he heard of it P. C. McGhee ran him in, and he was fined $5.00.

Peterborough Protestant Home.

The Annual meeting of the Peterborough Protestant Home was held on Tuesday, 2nd instant instant, at the Home. Present.—Mrs. Rosales, President; Mesdames Waller and Jeffers, Vice-Presidents; Mrs. Gilmour, Treasurer; Miss Roger, Secretary; and Mesdames Clements, Hastiz, Dennistoun, A. Smith, J. F. Dennistoun, T. A. Hall, G. E. Shaw and F. W. Hamtain.

The meeting was opened with reading the Scripture and prayer after which the Secretary read the following

ANNUAL REPORT.

OFFICERS.—President, Mrs. Rosales; Vice-do, Mesdames Wallis, Jeffers, Templeton Brown and Weller; Treas., Mrs. Gilmour; Secretary, Miss Rogers; Committee, Mesdames Dennistoun, Roger, T. W. Robinson, Wallis, F. W. Hamtain, Clements, W. G. Thomson, Pennette, R. Hall, C. Ormond, T. G. Hastiz, J. F. Dennistoun.

The Committee of the Peterborough Protestant Home in once more presenting their report to the people of Peterborough, desire first, to thank God for His continued goodness to them in that portion of his work which has been committed to their trust, and for the measure of health and strength granted to those under their care.

There are now in the Home eight persons, old and young; of these, two are aged and infirm, two are middle aged, the others are children. One boy who has been with us for a number of years is apprenticed to a cabinet-maker, who pays his board in the Home.

One death occurred early in the year, of a young woman who was dying when taken in, whose last hours were soothed by the ones and nursing she there received. One little boy of two years was taken by a farmer's wife to bring up as her own.

At least forty-two families have during the year, received assistance both in food and clothing. Twenty-two families have already been helped this winter.

It is a matter of regret that so many of these who formerly subscribed so liberally to the funds of the Home should leave that institution depend so entirely upon the "Hall Treat." By the Treasurer's report given below will be seen how much we are indebted to the Trustees, and how little, comparatively speaking, has been contributed otherwise.

We cannot close the year without expressing our grateful appreciation of many years a very active and disinterested worker and member of Committee. We can ill afford to lose such friends.

Thanks are due to those friends who so kindly visit the inmates and engage in religious exercises with them, which services are highly valued; to the medical men, who are ever ready when called upon; to the editors who kindly insert advertisements, lists of donations, etc., free of charge; and to the editor of the Review in particular, for a number of the paper regularly delivered.

Respectfully submitted,

ISABEL ROGER,
Secretary F. P. H.

Mr. Smith, from the Finance Committee, reported as follows:

The Finance Committee beg leave to recommend the payment of the following accounts:—Dr. Harvey, $17; Examiner, [illegible]; that the rendering of tenders be accepted; that the application of Mr. McGhee to purchase a part of the road in front of his house be granted; that the petition of Alex. Fraser, for a grant to the bend be granted, and that the sum to be granted be not as was granted last year, and be paid in the same way; that the application of George Chamberlain be granted, providing the Collector can legally return the taxes in question against the property, and we are advised that the Collector be authorized to take legal advice in reference to the matter; and lastly we recommend that the sum of $300 be granted to Lieut.-Col. Rogers to assist in the purchase of helmets for the volunteers.

The report, on motion of Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Paterson, was adopted.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Mr. Smith, that the Street and Bridge Committee be authorized to advertise for lumber for streets and bridges for the current year, and to award the tender for the same—Carried.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Douglas, that the Treasurer be authorized to pay money to Messrs. Madden & Boulton, on account of wood contract, on order of the Mayor.

Mr. Robertson asked when it was the intention of the Council to make the appointments for the current year.

The Mayor asked if Mr. Toole could give any information upon the subject.

Mr. Toole said the Committee had intended to report to the Council to-night but certain circumstances led them to alter their decision. Matters were now before the special audit for report, and the nature of that report might materially affect the conclusion of the Committee. He expected they would be able to report at the next regular meeting of the Council.

Mr. Paterson said before the Council adjourned, he would like to have something done with that part of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee's report before the Council, which had reference to the purchase of hose, etc. The hose was urgently needed, and he wanted the responsibility taken off his shoulders and assumed by the Council, in case a fire should occur and hose be required.

Mr. McNaughton would like to know what the hose would cost. They were spending too much money.

Mr. Paterson said it was evident the people didn't want waterworks, and the getting of additional hose was a necessity.

Mr. Robertson thought if the hose were required they should be procured without delay.

Mr. Toole said the Fire Brigade would require another engine if waterworks were not procured, but what would procure and equip two engines would cost within a few thousand dollars of the expense of constructing waterworks. The question of waterworks had occupied the attention of the people many times, and some appeared to think that the feeling was so strongly against waterworks that the Council should not take action. He did not think so, however. He believed that most of the property-owners on George street were desirous of securing protection from fire by waterworks, and were willing to tax themselves for that purpose. If the people who had accumulated the greater portion of the wealth of the town in that part of it, were desirous of paying a special assessment for the better protection of their property, he did not think they ought to be prevented. He would be willing to call a public meeting of the freeholders interested, where the whole subject could be considered, and if it was desired to have waterworks the Council could proceed. A great many appeared to be under the impression that if waterworks were constructed for a portion of the town, the whole town would have to pay for them. This was a wrong impression, and by considering the matter at a public meeting, such wrong impressions could be removed.

Mr. Yelland thought it would be a good thing if we could get waterworks, provided we could get some one to build them and take over the $16,000 the railway owes us.

Mr. Toole said Mr. Yelland did not seem to be aware that by an Act of Parliament that fund was set aside to meet our indebtedness to the municipal bon fund settlement. He believed, however, that the town had a fund of $30,000 set aside for a special purpose, to meet a debt that did not come due till 1883. That money had to be paid to the Commissioners next month. He had no doubt the Commissioners would let us have a loan till we could get an Act enabling us to borrow.

Mr. Paterson said he believed there was already an Act enabling the town to borrow for waterworks purposes.

The Mayor said it would be better to call a meeting of the people and let those who are going to pay for the waterworks, if we have them, be consulted.

Mr. Paterson thought the first thing to be done should be to ascertain whether the people would give the Council the power to issue debentures.

Mr. Cahill thought it would be the wisest plan to let the people meet and discuss the thing among themselves. If those interested wanted waterworks and were willing to pay for them, there was no reason why they should not be allowed to do so. If the people met and settled among themselves in favor of waterworks, it would be the duty of the Council to submit a by-law.

Mr. Robertson would move, seconded by Mr. Menzies, that the Fire, Water and Gas Committee should be authorized to get 500 feet of hose and the necessary couplings.

Mr. Smith thought it would be better to go into Committee on the report of the Committee, and the Council went into Committee accordingly, Mr. Deane in the chair.

On the clause regarding the hose-tower, Mr. Toole said he would like to see that clause amended so as to utilize the tower in the old town hall, if it was found available.

Mr. Paterson said the proposed tower would only cost $900.

Mr. Cahill said if we had to have a hose-tower built, he would like to see a good substantial one. He would prefer not to tie the hands of the Committee to any particular sum.

Mr. Yelland said it would be necessary to build a hose-tower of brick. We ought to observe our own fire by-laws.

Mr. Paterson said the people would never be so insane as to get a new fire-engine when they could get waterworks at so trifling an additional expense.

Mr. Smith thought the whole matter might safely be left in the hands of the Fire Committee, composed of some of the best and most economical members of the Council.

The Mayor suggested that it would be well to leave the matter over till the waterworks question was decided. The delay would be very trifling.

Mr. Paterson said he had no desire to press the matter. If the waterworks question was to be considered at once, a few days of delay would not be material.

On motion of Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Smith, the Fire, Water and Gas Committee were authorized to procure 500 feet of hose, and the necessary couplings, with a siamese connection.

Mr. Toole moved, seconded by Mr. Douglas, that the Mayor be requested to call a public meeting at an early day to consider the question of waterworks.—Carried.

The Mayor stated that he would call the meeting for Friday or Monday evening.

The Council then adjourned.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 11, 1880.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Last Week's Proceedings—Notes from our Correspondence—Political Gossip from the Parliamentary Corridors.

OTTAWA, March 5, 1880.

Parliament has now been a session over two weeks and but one Bill has been introduced by the Government, and that not a very important measure. It is becoming more and apparent, day by day, that the Government, although having a large majority in the House, do not lead it. Sometimes they are driven by their majority and at other times they are dragged at its tail. In the speech at the opening, the Insolvent Law was mentioned as likely to engage the attention of Parliament; it was reasonable to expect from this that the Ministry would have been prepared to assume the responsibility of all legislation on so important a matter; but no, they let a private member introduce the Repeal Act, while they sit quietly and look on, taking but little interest in the fate of the Bill. There now appears some doubt as to whether the repeal—"pure and simple"—will pass. It is felt that the country should not be without a general liquidation or distribution Act. Having separate Acts in the different provinces is not thought desirable, as they would, no doubt, differ somewhat in their provisions, and a General Act for the whole Dominion is demanded. After last session's experience one would have thought the Government would have considered the whole question, as they were in duty bound to do, and have come down with a policy.

Mr. Blake's great legal attainments are almost daily displayed, and he is beyond doubt head and shoulders above any member of the House, in his knowledge of constitutional law, as well as in the common law of the land, and when the House is led by him, as it will be sooner or later, business will be managed differently from what it is now, and scenes will take the place of weakness almost amounting to imbecility. As yet the estimates have not been brought down—they are promised this week—nor has it been definitely announced when the budget speech would be delivered. Nobody outside the charmed circle appears to to understand the cause of the delay. People are wondering if the figures are so unsatisfactory that Sir Samuel—beg pardon, Sir Leonard—has no stomach for the job. The N. P., which was to have at once made the country prosperous, has had some time to work and should bear some fruit by this time. The good crop of last year did make an improvement in the times, but that was the crop. Timber interests are looking up, and the remunerative will no doubt make money this year, in spite of the burdens thrown on them by the N. P., but what we want to see is some prosperity that can clearly be shown to be the result of the N.P. So far as this locality is concerned the N. P. has not improved business matters one whit.

There has been no indication as to what is intended to be done about the bank charters. There are whispers abroad to the effect that the Government intend to take the circulation into their own hands. It is even said that at the present time Sir A. T. Galt and some of the Bank of Montreal officials are engaged in hatching out a scheme. This may be the cause of the delay in the the delivery of the budget speech. The scheme, will of course, look to the borrowing from the public through the increased circulation, and would have a bearing on the budget. If I am correct we will not get the speech until after Sir A. T. Galt has incubated. It is a knotty question. Whatever amount of the circulation of the Banks has to be withdrawn the banks will have to collect from their customers to enable them to pay it off. The circulation by the banks has always been in ratio of the business being done in the country, as it is the business that puts the money into circulation. If the banks are to day in the enjoyment of facilities through circulation of doing business on credit to the extent of some millions of dollars and that privilege is taken away, they must pay their creditors, the bill holders, and they can only do this by collecting the amount from their debtors in turn. Another indication that some change is to take place is that there is a new bank note printing company about to commence business here. They have rented expensive premises, at a rental of $1,500 per annum, and I am informed that they expect to employ 200 persons. The ostensible parties are from New York; they are the men who furnish the business knowledge and the capital. There are a number of parties said to be interested who will furnish the needed pressure to manipulate the thing and share the profits.

There has been some little talk here about what may be called the Ontario cockscrow matter. We smile here at the manner of the parties who managed the thing. They evidently had but little experience. They should have consulted our Charlie. They would have learned how to make all that look take a much more innocent name, and even the cockscrows would have gone out of sight.

Many returns have been asked for in preparation for the Budget speech, and when we get them all sifted up, as they and they and the speech undoubtedly will be, some idea of the financial position of the country can be formed, and the blessings of the N. P. will be shown up. Every elector should give the budget speech and the reply thereto very careful consideration. If it can be shown that the N.P. is good, let us cling unto the N.P.; but if, on the other hand, it can be shown that the N. P. is a policy favoring the rich against the poor, the few against the many, then let each elector resolve that at the earliest day possible it shall be swept away.

The Anti-Chinese Association of British Columbia have sent to Mr. Dewdney for presentation to Parliament a petition asking a measure to prevent the increase of the Chinese population of the Pacific Province. A petition will also be submitted from the Corporation of Victoria.

The Public Accounts Committee have passed a number of motions for returns on different subjects.

Mr. Rose (Middlesex), moved for bills and vouchers for the sum of $8,943 paid to the Citizen Printing Company for printing a catalogue for the Parliamentary library, also for a statement of $44,000 salaries and contingencies of the Senate.

Sir Richard Cartwright moved that the Accountant of the House should appear at next meeting and give evidence relative to the $143,914 salaries and contingencies of the House of Commons for the year ended 30th June, 1879.

Mr. Oliver moved for a detailed statement of $7,000 train hire, &c., in connection with the reception of His Excellency the Governor-General and the Princess Louise on their arrival in this country.

The Ministerialists objected to the motion as disrespectful, while the Opposition held that it was not disrespectful to their Excellencies, as the expenditure had been made by the Ministers.

Mr. White (Cardwell) moved the rejection of the motion, and Mr. Robertson (Shelburne) moved an amendment to the amendment that all accounts of public moneys were proper subjects of investigation by the Committee. The amendment to the amendment was carried, and the difficulty then temporarily got rid of.

The following is the continuation of report of proceedings of the House from last week's issue:

FRIDAY, Feb. 27.

After routine business, Mr. McCarthy introduced a Bill to extend the operation of the principle contained in Sir Hy. Bysard's Bill, adopted several years ago, in which persons charged with common assault were made competent witnesses.

The debate on resuming the report of the Committee of the Whole on the resolutions respecting the better administration of justice in British Columbia, was resumed by Mr. Blake, who addressed himself at some length to the cost of judicial administration in the Pacific Provinces. By reduction from official sources he made out a strong case against any increase in the number of judges, and showed conclusively that the judges already appointed were insufficiently employed. The Minister of Justice, however, failed to be convinced by the arguments advanced, and after remarks had been made by several British Columbia members the resolutions were concurred in, and a Bill embodying the same introduced.

Sir Samuel Tilley's measure respecting the security to be given by officers of Canada was read the second time.

Up to the present time the Government measures before Parliament are confined to mere amending proposals, and Mr. Mackenzie, commenting on this circumstance, pressed the Government to state when the promised Banking Bill would be introduced. The Finance Minister was unable to mention a date. When will the Budget Speech be delivered?" was the next query. To this Sir Richard Cartwright received no satisfactory reply. Sir Samuel apologized the second time for the delay, on the ground that it was necessary that certain returns asked for by the House should be brought down first; but this excuse was disposed of by the Opposition expressing their willingness to proceed without the returns.

The Insolvency Law Repeal Bill was again under discussion, and an amendment by Mr. Blake was lost on a division. The Government in the afternoon assented to Mr. Blake's amendment relative to banking and insurance companies but after recess the Premier said that as some objections to/froze at the time had been raised to the amendment, the Bill as amended had better stand for consideration until Tuesday next.

The consideration of Mr. Mackenzie's motion, that the bringing down of certain fiscal returns at the beginning of each session shall be a standing order, was resumed. Sir Samuel Tilley opposed the motion, and positively refused to bring down a portion of the returns—although twice this session he has excused his delay in delivering the Budget Speech on the ground that it was absolutely necessary the House should have these very returns before discussing the financial statement. The motion was withdrawn.

A debate sprang up on the second reading of the Bill legalising marriage with a deceased wife's sister, which was adjourned and the House rose at 10.45 p.m.

MONDAY, March 1.

A debate, which continued several hours, unexpectedly sprang up on a motion by Mr. Casey for a return showing the list of inspectors and assistant-inspectors of weights and measures appointed under the existing Act, and a list of those whose services have been dispensed with. The discussion took a wide and varied range, and embraced almost every dismissal made by the present Administration. Members from Nova Scotia participated and exposed the wholesale dismissals made by the Government, the injustice done, and the greed for patronage and power displayed. The Government were not slow to defend their conduct, and Sir John Macdonald had the boldness to request that the name of a single employee in any branch of the public service dismissed for political reasons be named; but Mr. Anglin casually mentioned the name of Mr. Ellis, ex-Postmaster of St. John, N.B., and the Premier's boasting collapsed. A noticeable feature of the debate was the announcement by the Minister of Inland Revenue that no dismissed Inspector or Assistant Inspector of Weights and Measures had applied for a gratuity or allowance. If this be so, it is unlikely that he will be able to make that statement very many days hereafter. The debate was prolonged after recess, when the motion was adopted.

References has been made several times within the past few weeks to the jobbery perpetrated by the Government in the interest of Conservative supplicants who had filed petitions of right in the Exchequer Court, by removing such cases from the jurisdiction of the Court, and submitting the same to a single arbitrator, before whom the strongest case for the Crown was not presented, and consequently substantial amounts were awarded the suppliants. An interesting debate took place on a motion by Mr. Guthrie for a list of all such suppliants. The mover referred to a few of the cases in which complaint is made, but Sir John Macdonald denied that any such cases had occurred under the present Government. Mr. Mackenzie, however, refreshed the Premier's memory, and gave the details of the Government's questionable conduct in regard to the Murray-Oakes case. In which a petition of right was removed from the jurisdiction of Mr. Justice Fournier just on the eve of his giving a decision, which it is believed would have been in favor of the Government, and submitted the whole case to a single arbitrator, who was not made acquainted with the strength of the case on the part of the Crown, and consequently an award of $100,000 was made to the petitioners. He also recited the case of Marshal Wood v. the Queen, which was actually submitted to the Exchequer Court several years ago, and a decision in favor of the Crown given, but now the Government reopened the case and sent it before a single arbitrator. The award had not yet been made public. Sir Charles Tupper was very indignant that his conduct in the Murray-Oakes scandal should be viewed as suspicious, and he read from an official report to shelter himself and his co-adjutor behind the Deputy Minister of Justice. The debate was continued by the Minister of Justice, also by Mr. Kirkpatrick and the Postmaster-General on the Government's behalf, and by Messrs. Cameron (Huron), and Guthrie of the Opposition. Hon. John O'Connor before entering the Cabinet was counsel for Murray & Oakes, the suppliants in the main case under discussion and his speech in the House was so characteristic of the special pleading peculiar to a client's counsel that Mr. Mackenzie hit Mr. O'Connor sorely in directing the House's attention to the circumstance. Mr. Anglin spoke at some length, condemning the Government's conduct in regard to the Murray-Oakes jobbery, and the motion was carried.

TUESDAY, March 2.

In the House of Commons during routine, Mr. Casey presented another petition from the electors of Lennox attacking the seat held by Edmund Hooper.

The consideration of Mr. Colby's Bill to repeal the insolvency law was resumed, and on the Minister of Justice agreeing introduce a Government measure in the direction of Mr. Blake's amendment respecting the winding up of insurance and other incorporated companies the amendments were withdrawn. A minor amendment was, however, made to the Bill in Committee of the Whole, and afterwards concurred in by the House.

Sir Samuel Tilley's Bill respecting the security to be given by officers of Canada passed through the final stages.

The House concurred in the Address prepared by the Senate congratulating the Governor-General and the Princess Louise on their recent escape from a serious, if not fatal, accident. The Premier in making the motion rather surprised the House by his remarks relative to the consequences of the accident and the continued illness of the Princess. Mr. Mackenzie seconded the motion. Messrs. Langevin and Cauchon spoke on behalf of the French Canadians. The address was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Robertson, moved the second reading of a Bill to amend the law relating to criminal procedure, but the Minister of Justice said that he would only agree that the Bill should pass the second reading, so that the House could retain any part it desired to in Committee and reject the greater portion. Mr. Mackenzie spoke at length against the Bill, and moved the six months' hoist. The debate was adjourned on a motion by Sir Alexander Campbell.

After recess private business occupied the business of the House and a number of returns were moved for.

A motion by Mr. Hooper for a copy of the correspondence of the proposal of the Corporation of the town of Stratford to donate a site for the purpose of erecting a post office had to a long debate. The motion was carried, as were a number of others, dealing principally with matters of local interest.

The House adjourned at 11.35.

WEDNESDAY, March 3.

Mr. McLellan, the Conservative member for Glengarry criticised Sir Charles Tupper's railway policy. The Minister of Railways and Canals in replying quietly scathed Mr. McLelland by saying it was desirable that the debate on the Pacific Railway should be confined as much as possible to the consideration of the estimates for that public work when brought down, and then he succinctly added that the Government was much pleased to receive in advance the hon. mover's valuable suggestions and criticisms. In corroboration of the announcements made in the Globe several weeks ago, he intimated to the House that the main line of the Pacific Railway would cross the Red River at Selkirk, and the existing link of sixteen miles to connect with the main line further west constructed. Forgetting momentarily the abuse that was lavished by the Tory press on Mr. Mackenzie because he did not proceed rashly with the construction of the Thunder Bay Branch, Sir Charles admitted that it was not until some time after he was appointed Minister of Railways and Public Works that he believed the information collected justified him in soliciting tenders for the construction of the work. Mr. Mackenzie, continuing the debate, dwelt at some length on the question of changing the route of the main line in Manitoba from through the Narrows to south of Lake Manitoba, which change he condemned on the ground of it enormously increasing the cost of construction, the cost of working, and the length of the line. He had not finished speaking when the Speaker left the chair.

After recess, several Private Bills were advanced a stage.

Mr. Hooper read a statement, in which he replied to the allegations, contained in the petition attacking his seat. He claimed that the matter was still sub judice, and he denied all knowledge that there was any deficit in his account as treasurer for the county. He appealed to the political sympathies of the majority by claiming that he was being martyrized because of his political convictions. The Ministerialists applauded him liberally, and he withdrew from the Chamber. Cries of "Leet" greeted Mr. Cossey as he rose and spoke on behalf of the motion referring the petition to the Committee on Privileges and Elections. He dealt with Mr. Hooper's denials seriatim, and pointed out the inaccuracies and quibblings with which they were permeated. Messrs. Kirkpatrick, Ives, and Cameron (Victoria) spoke strongly against the motion, contending that the proposed reference was unprecedented, that there were not sufficient facts before the House to justify it, that the matters complained of were purely municipal in their character, and finally that the hon. member should had denied in toto the truth of the charges. The latter gentleman moved an amendment to the effect that the reference should not be made as the petition did not disclose any facts attacking the hon. member's right to his seat, and because the hon. member denied the allegations. Mr. Cameron (Huron) quoted a number of precedents in support of the original motion, and Mr. Casey spoke in favor of the amendment claimed that the House had no right to pronounce judgment either on the sufficiency or insufficiency of the charges until it had inquired into them. Mr. Macdougall based an argument on the election of Mr. Cooper as a proof that he was then respected. The foolishness of the comparison caused much laughter. At Mr. Anglin's suggestion the last seats of Mr. Cameron's amendment was eliminated, and the amendment was carried without a division. The House adjourned at 10.30 p.m.

THURSDAY, March 4.

Mr. Blake moved the second reading of the Bill providing for the more effectual prevention of crime. The Government apparently did not possess courage to take the initiative in in asking the House to reject the Bill merely because it was introduced by the member for West Durham, so it was delegated to Mr. Baker, ex-Solicitor-General of Quebec, to move the six months' hoist. Mr. Baker went out of his way to attack Mr. Blake because of the manner in which, when Minister of Justice, he exercised the Executive clemency in cases of convictions for crime.

The Minister of Justice spoke in support of of the amendment, on the ground that the changes were too sweeping to be adopted by the House without further consideration, and he promised that in the future he would give the matter some consideration.

Mr. Blake defended the various features of the Bill, and commented on the circumstance that although the Minister of Justice failed to endorse any of the provisions in the Bill introduced by Mr. Robertson (of Hamilton), yet he thought it should be referred to a Select Committee, while his (Mr. Blake's) Bill, with many of the provisions of which he agreed, he wished to be rejected on the second reading.

Mr. Holton favored sending the Bill to a Committee, while Mr. Anglin stated that the Bill was opposed merely because it emanated from Mr. Blake, who could expect little courtesy from the other side of the House. After recess, Dr. Casgrain and Mr. Cameron (Huron) both supported the Bill, after which the amendment was carried on a division.

Mr. Blake briefly remarked that while many arguments advanced at a later stage in the debate had not been answered by him, yet it must not be supposed that they were unanswerable. While he could reply to the arguments advanced by the Minister of Justice, yet there were 150 arguments he could not answer. This covert allusion to the Government's strength in the House elicited much laughter.

The discussion on the second reading of the Bill by Mr. Girouard (Jacques Cartier) to legalise marriage with a deceased wife's sister was resumed, the Bill being defeated by 140 to 20.

FRIDAY, March 5.

Papers were presented in the printing contract, and Toronto harbour of refuge.

The time for receiving Private Bills was extended for six days.

Sir John Macdonald's Bill for consolidating and amending the laws of the North-west Territory was read a first time, as was Mr. Fleming's Bill amending the Immigration Act.

Mr. McCarthy's Bill to amend the Supreme Court Act, was read a second time, as were his Bill regarding criminal procedure, and his Bill on common assaults.

His Excellency's reply to the address of congratulation was received.

Sir Charles Tupper promised, for Sir L. Tilley, the estimates on Monday and the Budget Speech on Tuesday.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL! WHAT IS THE THING FOR WHICH IT IS GOOD.—Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured an old running cough. It positively cures catarrh, deafness and croup. Fifty cents worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity home tank of eight years' standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which, we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most sceptical:—J. Guilford of Sparta, Ont., writes, "Send me a dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, have sold all I had from you, and want more now, its cures are wonderful."—Wm. Maguire, of Pembroke, writes, "I have sold all the agent left, it sells like a charm—it will clear at first, but takes admirably now."—S. Cole, of Ingersoll, writes, "Please forward me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, I am nearly out; sold a small bottle to——." Bedford, Thorneville, writes, "Send me at once a further supply of Eclectric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well and give such satisfaction." —J. Thompson, Bloomfield, writes, "Send me three dozen more Eclectric Oil, I have sold entirely out. Have taken 150 in——." Rodney & Hall, Wheatley, Ont., writes, "The Eclectric Oil is creating a great reputation here, and is fully called for. Send us a further supply without delay."

The American Eye-Salve is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflamation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optive nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also, for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant exercise of the eye, the salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have been long threatened with a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe and effectual remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, avoiding the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of caustic minerals and eye-washes. Ringworm and old Chronic Sores, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the American Eye-Salve. IT IS USED SUCCESSFULLY FOR PILES. Its soothing effect is immediate, and a permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. CONFEDERATION LIFE ASSOCIATION.

EXAMPLES OF PROFITS.

No. of Policy.	Kind of Insurance.	Sum Assured.	Annual Premium.	For 1876. Cash	For 1876. Bonus	For 1877. Cash	For 1877. Bonus
1	Life	$10,000	$293.90	$71.85	$217.85	$80.00	$258.00
7	10 Payment Life.	5,000	250.55	125.25	227.00	130.00	235.00

It will be observed that these results are not only very handsome, but are also Equitable. If this Association distributed the Profits on the ordinary PERCENTAGE PLAN, allowing a bonus of 2½ per cent., payable at death, then the profits would have been as follows:—

Policy No. 1. For 1877. Cash.....$37.92. Bonus.....$220.00.
" 7. " " 43.50. " 125.00.

It will at once be seen that such a system as this last cannot commend itself to persons who will take time to consider it, as it not only does injustice to persons paying for a limited number of Premiums, but it gives only the same profits after a person has paid a score of Premiums.

The above profit-results, which place the Confederation Life in the van of Life Companies in Canada ascertained by

CATARRH.

Constitutional Catarrh Remedy Cures Catarrh.

T. J. B. HAMMOND, Esq., SHERBROOKE, ONT.

DEAR SIR.—It is now two years since my wife commenced using Catarrh Remedy and when I have waited on her to see if she was better she would say no, but I can now say she is entirely cured. I was induced to use it myself for Catarrh, and as far as I can judge I am entirely cured. I can recommend it to all who are troubled with Catarrh.

Yours truly,
JOHN MCCLELLAND.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A scientific severance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable remedies, in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unqualified statement that Scott's Emulsion is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine is truly marvellous.

REVIEWING THE REVIEW.

Our daily and weekly contemporary the Review, has devoted most of the limited space at its disposal, in its editorial columns, for some days past to the Examiner, and we can assure it that we are quite sensible of its attention. A few days ago our little friend under the heading "Falsifying Facts," referred again to the subject recently under discussion concerning the schools. Never was an article more appropriately entitled, and we must give its author credit for the ingenuity which enabled him to crowd so many mis-statements within so small a compass. It complains that we had misinterpreted the "plain meaning of its article" (as if an article in its columns ever had a plain meaning) upon the school question, and makes the impudent and false assertion that we misreported the proceedings of the County Council. As to the article in question we characterized it as an unwarrantable attack upon the Council, and not withstanding its reiteration that it made no such attack, we repeat the assertion, and repeat moreover that it was inspired by a malicious desire to create antagonism between the School Board and the teachers. Our contemporary says the Examiner "omitted to report" that Mr. Kidd's motion deprecated the action of the Board because it proposed to reduce certain salaries," actually emphasizing this assertion by italics. We certainly "omitted to report" any such motion by Mr. Kidd, because no such motion was made. The statement is manufactured out of whole cloth, and is a deliberate invention, as the readers of the Review will be aware if it has the courage to reprint the motion Mr. Kidd actually made. Our contemporary knows too that when the resolution was put to the council a majority voted for it including Mr. Pearce, to whom it refers. Discussion was re-opened upon the question somewhat irregularly, and finally Mr. Kidd stated his willingness to withdraw the motion, as Mr. Burgess ended the discussion by a motion to adjourn. We would advise the editor of the Review to consult the clerk of the Sessions of the County, in future, before venturing to criticise the proceedings of the Council.

In another article our sapient contemporary undertakes to bolster up its attitude towards Mr. Blezard, by complaining that we had characterized its reference to the Lt.-Governor's visit west as false and malicious. The Review referred to the trip as one to "Winnipeg, Chicago, etc." a statement which we again repeat to be both false and malicious. The obvious intention of the article was to leave the impression on the minds of its readers that the people had been called upon to pay the expenses of a junketing expedition to Chicago and Winnipeg, whereas if our contemporary had been honest and truthful, which it certainly is not, in this matter at least, it would have stated that the trip was one undertaken in the public interest, to the newly acquired territory out of which its friends at Ottawa are endeavoring to cheat the Province. The party, at the expiration of a tour lasting upwards of thirty days, came home by way of Winnipeg and Chicago, but to say that the trip was undertaken to those places, as the Review puts it, is disingenuous and dishonest. However, our contemporary would be out of its character in any other role, and we must not expect the truth from it in reference to political opponents, where any thing else will answer its turn.

In a third article the Review makes an attempt to justify its attack upon the Ontario Government in reference to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, and a lugubrious effort to get around the commandments which we propounded in last week's Examiner for its delectation. So far as the former enterprise is concerned, we have stated before that the road will, when the proper time arrives, receive aid from the Government, and we have no doubt that had it been in a position to justly claim public assistance, it would have been subsidized long ago. But it was only at the close of the session that the company reached a position to fairly ask a bonus from Mr. Mowat, and it was not possible then to deal with the matter. We fancy the directors of the company will not thank the Review for its attack upon Mr. Blezard and Mr. Mowat, nor for using the favorable of their enterprise as a basis for misrepresenting its political opponents.

As to our local interests, the Review affects unbounded confidence in the intentions of the Dominion Government. Well, we should be sorry to disturb a confidence founded upon such substantial records as move the Review, but we can assure our contemporary that it is certain, at least, that the Government have absolutely refused aid to the Pacific Junction Railway, designed to give the Midland connection with the Canada Pacific, although the month closed Mr. Mowat has granted a subsidy of $6,400 per mile to that enterprise. As for the Trent Valley Canal, we understand that the Dominion Government have refused to commit themselves beyond sending out engineers to amuse those of their supporters who are interested in the scheme. The project is as old as the Review, and the Government have all the information necessary to enable them to proceed with the work to-morrow, if they were disposed to do so. They have no intention whatever of building the canal, but it is necessary to let the Review and other advocates of the scheme down as easily as possible, so they again survey the oft-surveyed route, in order that our contemporary may not be deprived of the "pleasures of hope." They have no difficulty in finding $70,000,000 to be squandered in the fastnesses of British Columbia, where a railway will never earn enough to pay for the lubrication of the car wheels; but they find it impossible to devote $6,000,000 to an important undertaking like this canal. If the Review is satisfied to live on hope, and to remain content with an occasional visit from a canal engineer, we venture to say it will be abundantly accommodated; but beyond that it will find that its patrons at Ottawa will never go.

There is one point, however, upon which we have failed to elicit a reply from the Review. We are still waiting for its expression of opinion upon the conduct of Sir John Macdonald in the conspiracy which he is pursuing to deprive this Province of the territory awarded to it by the solemn decision of an arbitration to whom the matter was committed. Our contemporary is dumb on this subject. No doubt, like ourselves, it feels that duty calls it to condemn Sir John; but then, it would never do to quarrel with its best advertising patron. While our contemporary is ruminating upon this subject, it might also give us its opinion of the proposed inflation of the currency. A few weeks ago it was vigorous in its opposition to the advocacy of inflation—to-day, we make no doubt, it will be either conveniently silent, or will boldly face the music and declare inflation to be the right thing after all. Sir John makes his organs play strange tunes sometimes, and the Review is as docile an instrument as there is amongst them.

THE TARIFF.

Now that the Finance Minister has made his Budget Speech and given us a statement of the affairs of the country, it would be fitting to enter upon a consideration of the subject, whether the changes made last year in our fiscal policy were of such a nature as to benefit the great bulk of the community or not. It must be borne in mind that the changes made in the tariff last year were of such a nature as to reverse the policy of taxation which, had up to that time, been pursued by both political parties in Canada. Briefly stated, the old policy of a revenue tariff, was founded on the principle that no tax should be levied on the people, except for the purpose of procuring sufficient revenue to carry on the ordinary business of the country, and provide interest to pay the public creditors; assuming that all taxation was burdensome and that as small a sum as possible should be abstracted yearly from the general wealth. In 1879 this well defined and understood principle of taxation was changed to what is popularly termed a system of protection, which levies taxation primarily, not to obtain revenue but to protect manufacturers and others in the country from foreign competition. Duties of such a nature are placed on goods as to compel consumers to use what is made in the country, unless at the option of being heavily fined for using foreign goods This bald statement of the case would at once lead any one to see that protection creates a favored class, viz., the manufacturers, and to offset this injustice, protectionists are compelled to depart from their own strict theory and give an apparent protection to what cannot be protected, making a complete jumble of the whole tariff, and placing them in a most illogical and humiliating position. For example, no one can well deny that the cotton spinners may be protected from foreign competition. A duty on cottons may be high enough to exclude a quantity of the foreign cottons that would otherwise be imported, but the political exigencies compel them to other proceedings. Farmers have votes; farmers must also have protection; and in order to give an apparent fairness to an unfair tariff, a duty is put on wheat. We desire to state the case fairly and dispassionately, but can only characterize the placing of duty on wheat, barley, and other agricultural products, as a barefaced attempt to hoodwink and cheat the most numerous and influential class in Canada. So long as we have a surplus of agricultural products, so long will a protection tariff be not only valueless, but remain a laughing stock to all sensible men. It has this effect from a political point of view, that so long as it obtains farmers are restrained from exacting justice and they will remain in the position of serfs to the manufacturers by being compelled to buy their goods. They are not free to buy and sell where they choose. The price of wheat in Canada is, or should be, relative to the price obtainable in the markets of the world. This was the case before the N. P. interference, but now the price of wheat, since last summer, has been relatively lower. Take the market price in Chicago and Toronto as a criterion, and it will be found that before the N. P. wheat was higher in Toronto, but under the N. P. it is higher in Chicago, so that the direct effect of the change in the tariff on the farmer, has been indirectly to lower the price of all he has to sell, and positively to raise all he has to buy. Having thus shown that it has been a direct injury to our farmers, let us now turn to the town. Here there ought to be something to show for it? But we are nevertheless obliged to state that never before, within the last two decades at all events, has the town of Peterborough passed through such a dreadful winter; the suffering amongst the poorer classes has been very great; no work of any kind; the few who went to the shanties earned from ten to twelve dollars per month, and the few dollars they could spare out of this pittance was quite insufficient for their families, and many have been kept from starvation by the unostentatious kindness of neighbors. We have lived here thirteen years, but never anything like this. It would have been borne more patiently had not Mr. Blezard and his friends gone from door to door, and preaching, if they elected him, that plenty of work and higher wages would be the order of the day. The people who are now suffering, simply say they were cheated—that Mr. Blezard obtained many of their votes on false pretences, and now they are left to their fate while he is enjoying the good things of life at Ottawa. Take the case of the storekeepers in town—one has only to walk from day to day up and down our main street to see that they are doing nothing. It is no wonder that the list of bankrupts has swollen to such unprecedented dimensions. But surely if all the others have suffered, the manufacturers in Peterborough must be doing well? Our record is, instead of any increase, two manufacturing establishments closed, one an agricultural foundry, immediately before the N. P., and the large brick and tile works immediately afterwards. Other manufacturers such as carriage makers, cabinet makers, etc., are all complaining of duller times than they ever experienced before. We have one favored industry in Peterborough. Cotton and woollen manufacturers seem to be the favorites of the Government, but we have not heard that the Auburn Woollen Mills are doing any better than they were before, nor that they have increased their employees' wages. The proprietors have our best wishes for success—they kept the mill running through the dark years of 1877 and 1878 and they are doing the same yet. Whether they realize better profits or not it is impossible for us to say; but we can say this, that if they are, and taxing the present price of wool into consideration, the public will require to pay a considerable advance on cloth. We have confined ourselves more to the local aspects of the tariff question, in another article we will consider its general applicability.

REPEAL OF THE INSOLVENT ACT.

The Senate this session have reversed their decision of last year on the question of the repeal of the Insolvent Act, and by a vote of 47 to 17 have endorsed the action of the House of Commons. All that now remains is for the Governor-General to give his formal sanction to the Act. It is too late now to discuss the wisdom of this step, but there can be no doubt that the result is looked forward to by the mercantile community with fear and anxiety. The commercial public will now have to conduct their affairs with reference to the Sheriff rather than the Official Assignee. The Hon. Mr. Mowat, during the late session of the Ontario Legislature, carried a measure through that House, which is designed, now that the Insolvent Act will be repealed, to secure an equitable distribution of assets, and for the abolition of priority among execution creditors. In the Act it is announced that the measure "is not intended to interfere with the Insolvency Laws which may from time to time be in force in this Province, but this Act is intended to be subject to such laws, and subject as aforesaid to apply to all debtors, whether solvent or not." There are several respects in which the local Act cannot fail to prove inefficient as compared with the machinery of the Insolvent Act.

LAKEFIELD NEWS.

From our own Correspondent.

Thomas Secrest, the assessor, is hard at work on the village assessment, and is taking great pains that everything is correct and no errors occur as in times past, entailing extra trouble.

On Monday while some little children were playing, they got a small axe or hatchet into their possession and one of them almost amputated the fingers of a child of Jacob Ibister. The fingers will be saved but may be stiff.

The edge of one of Vennor's delayed snow storms has just reached Lakefield, and we trust will continue so as to give us a couple of weeks sleighing so as to enable us to get wood and logs still in the country to be brought into market.

The Royal Scarlet Chapter meets in the Orange Hall, Lakefield, on Thursday night for the installation of officers and the conferring of degrees.

The report of the Registrar-General for 1879 has been received, and a condensed report of the births, marriages and deaths of the county of Peterborough may be of interest to some of your readers:—There were 855 births, of that number 439 were males and 416 females; 500 parties were joined together for "better or worse," there being 250 marriages; death took off 292 of our population, the rate of male and female being equal, viz., 146. The most births were in March, 105; the most marriages were in November, 32; and the most deaths were in August.

On Sunday evening a little child of F. Waldron got hold of a bottle containing strong liquor ammonia and drank a portion, burning his mouth and throat very badly.

An inquest was held last Wednesday evening by Dr. Bell, coroner, in the Council Chamber, on the body of a woman named Mrs. Fredenburgh, whose husband was found dead a little over a year ago and on whose body an inquest was also held. The following jury were impanelled, R. Graham, foreman:—M. Urquhart, J. Griffin, J. Olarin, J. H. Mc. Williams, W. H. Cameron, Young, St. Baldon, James Morrison, Orlando Rodgers, Wm. Cox, John Todd, John Ibister, W. McDonald, Thomas Heglin, and David Mcmerief. After viewing the body at her late residence, the jury adjourned to the Council Chamber, where a number of witnesses were examined. The evidence was to the effect that on the previous Sunday evening she had taken a dose of medicine and a short time after was seized with convulsions, followed by insensibility from which she never rallied, and death took place on Tuesday morning. Up to the time of her death she had been in good health. The mixture was said to consist of Tinct. Aloes, Podophyllin, Leptandein, Tinct. Myrrh and Sulph. of Iron, and was given in an unlabled bottle by a druggist on his own responsibility. There was no positive proof however that the bottle was the same as that in possession of the coroner, and no other mixture could be found in the house. After the evidence offered was taken the the room was cleared and the jury left to their deliberations, but it was three a. m. before they came to a decision to request the coroner to adjourn and order a post mortem examination to be made by Drs. Armour and Caldwell. On Thursday the inquiry was resumed in the same place, and the evidence of the medical men and others was taken. The medical men reported that they had found a large clot of blood in the brain from the rupture of the middle central artery; the stomach and small intestines were much congested from some irritant substance; and the uterus contained a three month's foetus; otherwise the body was healthy, and that in their opinion death was caused by apoplexy. The coroner summed up the evidence, and at a late, or rather early hour, the jury returned the following verdict which may be considered an open one:—"That Matilda Fredenburgh on the 9th day of March came to her death by apoplexy, caused by some irritant drug unknown to the jury."

Great Fire at Bancroft.

Bancroft, March 13.—A fire broke out about four o'clock this morning, destroying H. G. Bleasdell's hotel, the Hungerford Hotel, Meehan office, I. B. Weaver's Saddler shop, W. C. Foster's tailor shop, John Wood's dray stand, Quill, Cash's, Donaldson Telegraph and Express office. With the exception of Bleasdell's hotel—estimated at $20,000—with insurance to not more than $5,000—the loss is supposed to have amounted to Foster's, but from what cause is unknown.

The Waterworks Question.

The Public Meeting on Friday last and what came of it—Mr. Stevenson's Proposition—The Council advised to proceed.

On Friday evening last, in pursuance of a notice by the Mayor, a public meeting was held in the town hall to consider the question of waterworks. His Worship Mayor Lundy was called to the chair and explained briefly the object of the meeting. He said the proposition of those who advocated waterworks was that the property benefitted should pay the taxes. He called upon

Mr. James Stevenson to make explanations concerning the proposed scheme. Mr. Stevenson said he was not more interested in the subject of waterworks than any other property-holder, not so much so as some who ought to be present at the meeting but whom he did not see. At a late meeting of the Council he had been asked his opinion in regard to the best means of protection from fire, whether to put a new steam-engine or upon some other plan. At the late fire on George street if there had been a high wind, there would not have been a store left on the west side of that street to pay taxes, and the whole town would have been compelled to bear the extra burden. He complained that if a store paying $100 of taxes was burned, that $100 had then to be made up by the whole of the rest of the town. Had the weather been bob tercan on the night of the fire referred to, they might have had a repetition of the Lindsay fire here, by which the whole town was reduced to ashes. He thought no one wanted to see the town in that condition. A few years ago a scheme for waterworks had been submitted on which it was proposed to expend $100,000. He had opposed that scheme because he thought it was too much for the town to pay, and he still thought he was right in doing so. Now there were other systems in use of a cheaper character, such as were in Lindsay, Port Hope, Brantford, Sherbrooke, etc. The Port Hope system was a cheap one, and any one who saw it work would say that we ought to have a system here of the same kind. If they did not take advantage of the opportunity now afforded he would clear his skirts of the responsibility. He explained the operation of the Port Hope works. The water was ready as soon as the hose could be laid, and a fire was extinguished before it had any time to gain headway. He had asked Mr. Ranney to make an estimate of the cost of works here of the same character as those at Port Hope, and he had taken a great deal of pains to get up a reliable estimate. The cost had been placed at $45,000. The works at Port Hope had cost $35,000. In Port Hope they had to pay Mr. Helm $250 a year for water whether they used it or not. Here Mr. Hazlitt had offered them the water for nothing. All he asked was that a hydrant should be located near his mill. He thought that the most liberal offer that had ever been made to any town. At Port Hope they could throw sixteen streams at once, and they could put out a fire, as they did at O'Neils, before it had time to start. If they could see for themselves the case with which fires were extinguished there they would not be a moment longer without the same protection. The next question was, who should pay for them? In Port Hope the whole town paid, but here many said they had no right to pay for what they did not get, and he shared their view. He had consulted with most of the owners of property on George street and he believed those within a block extending 500 feet on either side of George street were willing to pay a tax to build the works. Debentures must be voted on by the town, but the By-law would specify on what property the special rate to meet them would be levied. The block he referred to would extend from the Methodist church to Hamilton's foundry, and would not go across the creek on the west or Water street on the east. The amount of property paying insurance in those limits now was, personal property, $397,000; real estate, $429,900. The insurance actually paid on this amounted to $6,000 a year. He had been told the insurance companies could reduce rates by 1 per cent. if waterworks were built, which would be a saving of $800 The whole interest and sinking fund on $16,000 is only $1,050. Another means in which saving could be effected would be that with the greater security they would not require to have such heavy risks on their property. He would also advise that the tax proposed should be made a charge against the property. If the landlords would not agree to that he would say let them go without waterworks. The works should be put up for public competition and given to the lowest tender. Port Hope, he said, had to come to Peterborough to get their pumps built. We could get this work done at home, and as Mr. Hamilton still had the patterns, no doubt they would be of some advantage. He pointed out the condition of the town not long since, for a day and a half without fire-protection, the engine being under repairs. If we do not get these waterworks on the principle now proposed, there would have to be another engine procured, and then the whole town would have to pay for it.

Mr. E. Burnham said he was always opposed to a waterworks system costing $100,000 or $200,000, but would go in for a cheap scheme like this. He thought the cost ought to be confined to $10,000. He did not believe in Romaine's scheme, for supplying water for domestic purposes, and thought it was a good thing that gentleman had left town. If any one wanted water all he had to do was to dig a well. He would move that no greater sum than $10,000 be expended in the construction of waterworks, and that no further expenditure be incurred without the previous sanction of the ratepayers, and that tenders for the construction of the said works be publicly advertised for in the Toronto Globe and Mail newspapers, besides local and other papers, for one month before excepting any tenders, and that the lowest tender be accepted.

Mr. Stevenson had no objection to the motion, but thought it not advisable to press it at this stage of proceedings. He called upon Mr. Saulter to make a statement as to the effect of waterworks on insurance.

Mr. Saulter said the rates of insurance here were as low now as in towns where they had waterworks, and it would be impossible to make any material reduction in them. It was a mistake to suppose that insurance companies would object to waterworks because the amount of risks would be lessened. What they lost this way would be more than made up by the increased number of risks which they would be enabled to take.

Mr. Stevenson moved, seconded by Mr. Bradburn,—That in the opinion of this meeting the Councillors should take steps to establish a modern system of waterworks, based on local taxation.—Carried.

Mr. Mills had a list of names to form a committee to whom he wished to refer the matter. He thought if the property-owners were anxious to tax themselves for waterworks they might be allowed to do so; for his part he would rather leave the matter over till the Toronto & Ottawa By-law was thrown over. He moved a resolution but failed to secure a seconder.

Mr. Stevenson moved, seconded by Mr. P. Hamilton,—That Messrs. T. Bradburn, W. Clarkson, Jas. Stevenson, T. G. Hazlitt, Wm. Mills, E. Burnham, Thos. Menzies and the Mayor, be a special committee to consider the best system of waterworks for the town, and to report to a meeting to be called by the Mayor.

The motion was carried and the meeting adjourned.

A Question.—Why will people keep four or five ill-looking sickly horses to do the work that one good horse might perform? If the horse has the heaves, is broken-winded, has a cough or cold, or his wind in any way affected; if his appetite is bad, or his digestive organs, deranged, has a rough skin or is hide bound, you would in all cases recommend the use of "Dunlop's Condition Powders and Arabian Horse Remedy"—it never fails to benefit and almost always removes the disease; it is free from anything that can injure, and may be used at all times with safety. Try it and you will be satisfied. Sold by druggists and general dealers. Manufactured by Dunlop & Co., Toronto. Sold by all druggists in Peterborough.

The Bellevue Tragedy.

ALL THE PRISONERS COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

London, March 18.—An immense crowd assembled at the Court House this afternoon to hear the decision of the Magistrates in the case against the men accused of the murder of the Donnellys. The audience was largely composed of friends and relations of the prisoners. The latter were brought up from the cells at 2 15. They were dressed in their best clothes, and looked round the Court-room with smiling countenances and nodded familiarly to members of the spectators. Squires Peters and Fisher took their places on the bench a few minutes afterwards, when the Court was called to order. Squire Peters, addressing the prisoners, asking them if they wished to make any statement. From each and every one the reply uniformly came: I have nothing to say.

Squire Peters then said—The examination of witnesses by the able counsel both for the prosecution and defence being now concluded, it is our judgment that we find sufficient evidences against the prisoners now before us to send them for trial before a higher tribunal. We therefore commit James Carroll, John Kennedy, Martin McLaughlin, Thomas Ryder, James Ryder, and John Purtell to the common gaol to await their trial at the Assizes, and there to be convicted or discharged by the judge and jury.

Mr. MacMahon immediately rose, and applied for bail for Kennedy, McLaughlin, and James Ryder. The evidence against them, he said, was very light.

Squire Peters—We've no objections if the Crown will consent.

The Crown Attorney objected. He said his learned friends could apply for bail in the proper Court at Toronto if he chose to do so.

The Bench accordingly refused the application. An immediate application will be made for a change of venue. It is altogether probable that the case will be tried elsewhere, as it is understood that strong representation is to be made to the Government and the Courts that a fair, unprejudiced trial in Middlesex cannot be relied upon, the feelings being altogether in favour of the accused. Toronto, Hamilton, and Sarnia are among the places mentioned where the trial will likely take place in the event of a change of venue being ordered. The prisoners do not like the idea of being arraigned elsewhere than in London, and the application will be strenuously opposed by their counsel.

Peterborough Dairymen's Association.

The Peterborough Dairymen's Association meet on Saturday 6th inst, at the Stewart House, when the following resolutions were passed.

That we continue to carry on our cheese market this year, as in 1879, semi-monthly, commencing about the 20th May next.

That notice of the market be duly published in each of the following weekly newspapers; Peterborough Examiner, Peterborough Review, Montreal Witness, and Toronto Globe.

That the expenses of the Association be met by the President-elect, that a correct account of the same be kept, and that as the close of the season each factory taking part in the market pay an equal share of the expenses incurred by the Association.

That the President-elect ask for tenders for such dairy supplies as may be required, and also that he ascertain from each factory in the vicinity the approximate estimate of such material as bandage cloth, bleached and unbleached, annato seed, extract of reanst, eureka factory filled salt, cheese boxes etc, required for the season's product, after which he may order from each tender the most reliable and satisfactory as we may see fit.

That the manager of each factory pay at the point of delivery for the goods he may have given his order for, as they are delivered; boxes to be delivered at each factory as required during the season; other goods to be delivered freight free at Peterborough.

That James Elliott be elected President for the ensuing year.

The meeting then adjourned.

The Parish Magazine.

This is the title of a neat little monthly published in the interest of church work in the parish of St. Luke's, Ashburnham, the first number of which, indicates that it will not only be useful, but interesting, and establishes its claim to the support of the members of St. Luke's. We take from its local parish news the following items:

Sewing Society.—This useful society to which the church owes a debt of gratitude for time gone by, has again commenced work, this time in aid of the Organ Fund. The ladies meet once a week, at two o'clock p.m., on Tuesdays, at the residence of Mrs. R. H. Smith, and at the house of the Incumbent alternately. They will be glad if additional members will join them in their labors.

Sunday School News for February.—Average attendance 118. Collections for March $3.36. A new system of awarding prizes to the Scholars commenced with Advent, and will be continued regularly through the year. At the end of each Month the children who have gained perfect or nearly perfect marks will receive a copy of some of the following Sunday School papers free:—The Geographer, My Sunday Friend, Dawn of Day, British Workman, etc., and their names will be published in our Magazine. Below we give the names of successful scholars for last month. The maximum marks for the month was 24, the number following each child's name indicates the total they received. It will be seen that a large number obtained full marks:—Class ii.—John Menzies, 24; John Murray, 24. Class iii.—Jas. Sell, 19; David Curtis, 24. Class iv.—Albert Millikan, 24; Adam McWilliams, 24. Entertainment at Cairo.

From our Correspondent.

An entertainment was given in connection with the Cairo school on the evening of Friday the 5th inst. The programme consisted of recitations, dialogues, etc, and singing by the children of the School. The recitations and dialogues were both excellent, and gave the audience the greatest satisfaction as was evinced by the applause evoked. The singing by the pupils was especially good, in fact much better than we are accustomed to expect even from a well trained class. Mr. J. McColl's comic speech was the event of the evening and elicited unbounded merriment. The people of the neighborhood are in hopes that Mr. A. J. E. Burgis, the teacher, will get up another entertainment of the same kind before long.

A Tragedian's Sore Throat.—Edwin Booth, like most of his professional brethren, suffers frequently from severe inflammation of the throat, which prevents him occasionally from appearing on the stage. This theatrical sore throat is common to natures that is mainly drawn on using into private life. Booth, however, says the first symptom of the coming attack is a peculiar feeling of dryness in the throat, which he knows by experience will be followed by [illegible]

Meeting Cards.—A meeting of the Bunting Club was held last evening to consider the advisability of holding a concert shortly, and for the transaction of other general business.

All those in want of a first-class article in the best and shoe line will do well to give W. J. Larmour a call before purchasing elsewhere, as he is offering extra inducements to cash purchasers. 11-tf

School Trustee.—As Mr. D. Carlisle intends to remain in Peterborough, he has reconsidered his determination of resigning his position as Trustee on the School Board.

Fine Boots & Shoes.—The Golden Boot is the place for neat, comfortable and well-fitting boots and shoes. Those wanting a good fitting, and comfortable pair of boots, should call on Mr. S. White.

Presbytery Meeting.—The Treasurer of the Presbytery Home acknowledges with thanks the receipt of an order for a barrel of flour from Mr. Wm. Ferguson, the result of a curling match.

The Helmet.—The Chief of the Fire Brigade showed us a sample of the new helmets proposed to be procured for the Peterborough Fire Brigade on Monday. The helmet is a handsome one, and is much liked by the men.

Fire at Nassau Mills.—About 10 o'clock on Sunday morning a fire broke out near Nassau Mills, by which the barn of Mrs. A. Reid, and contents belonging to the tenant, Mr. Wright, were totally consumed. Loss on building $300; insured in Canada Fire and Marine for $200. Contents, value about $200, covered by insurance in the Royal.

Harmony.—A concert will be given here about the beginning of next month by the greatest of living violinists, Edward Remenyi. His tour through the United States during the past year has been a continued ovation, and at his last concert in Toronto (3rd January), his reception was an overwhelming success. We hope he will meet with a grand reception on our town, and that our citizens will turn out in large numbers to welcome so great an artist. 12

Arrested.—On Saturday afternoon two Frenchmen living in the lower end of the town, named Joseph Lavasseur and Peter Degnant, were arrested by Constable McGhee, and Constable McFadden, of Lindsay, on warrants, charging them with having committed a murderous assault on Mr. Brunker, Hotel-keeper, Kinmount, one day last week. They were conveyed to Lindsay on the evening train. They took their arrest kindly and went off quietly, with the officers.

Death of Mr. James Anderson.—We regret to record the demise of Mr. James Anderson, of Port Hope. He was one of the most intelligent and well-read gentlemen in our sister town, and his integrity, honesty, and singleness of purpose endeared him to a large number of the inhabitants of that place. Mr. Anderson occupied the position of Station Agent for the Midland Railway at Peterborough during the year 187 . His loss will be mourned by a large circle of friends.

Mass Contract.—The Fire, Water and Gas Committee of the Town Council, to which was referred the question of purchasing hose, have bought from T. F. Blackwood, of Toronto, 600 feet of 3 ply Seamless Cotton Hose, Eureka brand, with Work's patent couplings to attach to the hose now in use in our department. Delivered here, freight and duty paid, for $1.35 per foot.

[illegible] arrived at after a long discussion as to the relative merits of the different brands of hose offered.

Intermediate Examinations.—The Minister of Education has revised the regulations affecting intermediate examinations. If a candidate in future obtains only 30 per cent. of the marks on each subject, and 40 per cent. on the group, he or she will be entitled to a non-professional third class teacher's certificate; if 50 per cent. of the whole number be obtained a second class B will be granted; while 60 per cent. on each subject, 40 per cent. on each group, and 60 per cent. of the whole will entitle the candidate to a second class grade certificate. The standard will not be raised.

The New National Hymn.—The following is the first verse of the new Canadian National Hymn, by Arthur Sullivan, the composer :—

God bless our wide Dominion,
Our fathers' chosen land,
And bind in lasting union
Each ocean's distant strand—
From where Atlantic tosses
Our hardy seamen train,
To where the salt sea pitches
The vast Pacific main.
O bless our wide Dominion,
True freedom's throne make;
Defend our people's union,
God save our Empire's Queen.

A Disappointment.—An event looked forward to with a good deal of interest for some time past, was the concert which was announced to take place on Tuesday evening, at which Mr. Speers, the eminent elocutionist, was to take part in the programme. The old Music Hall was crowded to its fullest capacity, on the evening referred to, but they were all doomed to disappointment. From some unexplained reason, the principal feature of the programme, Mr. Speers, didn't turn up, and whatever delay Rev. Mr. Starr had to smile the disappointing announcement that they would not be able to carry out the programme, and that the money would be refunded. We have been requested by Rev. Mr. Starr, on behalf of the Ladies' Aid Society of the George-street Church, to extend their thanks to the public, not only for the patronage evinced in the entertainment to have been held on Tuesday evening, but for the sympathy manifested upon the announcement of Mr. Speers' non-arrival. While deeply regretting the unavoidable inconvenience to which the public were put, they appreciate the manner of the non-receipt of any word from Mr. Speers, intimating his absence—put their hope in the near future as refunds themselves, and so retain the public [illegible] [illegible] any person, whether they may not have been regularly will confer a favor by leaving them at Mr. J. 17th of Ireland.—Yesterday was the anniversary of the patron saint of the Emerald Isle. There was no celebration here during the day, but in the evening the Emerald Dramatic Club gave a very enjoyable entertainment at the Music Hall.

Deputized.—Mr. G. A. Stewart and party, who have been absent on a survey in the North-west Territory for some time past, are expected to arrive home shortly. The party were all well when last heard from, and on their way home.

Personal.—Mr. Alfred Johnston, formerly of this town, but now of Winnipeg, is here on a visit to his friends.....Mr. S. Birney left on Tuesday evening for Manitoba.....Mr. Hotzel and family left on Wednesday morning for Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Dominion Day Visitors.—On Sunday morning next, the pulpit of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church will be occupied by Rev. E. H. Dewart, editor of the Christian Guardian and in the evening by Rev. D. Nellis, President of the Victoria College.

Bound to do Business.—Last Saturday Lazzy's confectionery shop was crowded all day with customers needing cakes, candies, caramels, and all the new cakes and candies he has been making lately. Mr. Lazzy informs us that in order to meet the demand of his customers they have to work day and night. 12-1s

New Publications.—We have received from Wm. Warwick & Sons, Publishers of Toronto, the March numbers of the Leisure Hour, Sunday at Home and the Boy's Own Paper. These publications are re-issued by Messrs. Warwick, by permission from the English publications, and are sold at the astonishing low rate of 15 cents per number.

A Hum in Groceries.—There is a genuine sign of the hum at the store of Lake Fisher, George street, where stock of new groceries is going off like hot cakes. The low prices is what brings the trade that way. People quickly find out where they can get the best return for their money, which explains the unprecedented increase in Mr. Fisher's trade lately. 12-15s

The Canadian Comic Calling episodic ball, "Lifted Chief," written by Mr. Webber, was delivered [illegible] Town on Thursday, and on being put on the [illegible] registered 2,220 pounds. "Dr. Mara," [illegible] fine animal, a prize-taker at the Lindsay [illegible], purchased by Mr. Webber from Mr. James McKibbon, was found to weigh 2,000 pounds. Four cents per pound live weight was the price paid for the animals.

Serious Accident.—On Monday evening Mr. Robert Gouldsbow, of South Monaghan, went to a farm some two miles from his residence for the purpose of feeding some cattle he was wintering there. While thus engaged he had the misfortune to fall from the hay-stack, dislocating his knee and receiving other injuries. With difficulty he managed to drag himself to an empty shanty some distance away, where he lighted a fire, and this protected him from the cold till help should come, which did not occur for some three hours afterwards. Under care of Dr. Burritt, he is recovering from his injuries.

Going West.—The depopulation of this county of its best citizens, which has been instituted by the M. P., continues at an alarming rate. On Monday Messrs. Wilmot and Frank Haultain, Walter Rackham, and Richard Clinton left for the North-West. As Toronto they will be joined by four sons of Prof. Selwyn, the geologist, and will proceed to Turtle Mountain district, west of Crystal City, where the party have taken up a location, with the exception of Mr. Clinton, who will remain in Winnipeg. He having secured the agencies of the agency for a Toronto firm. The departure of these gentlemen is viewed with regret here, where they were held in deservedly high esteem, and we can only hope all their expectations at success in the West will be more than realized.

BRADBURN'S HALL.

Examination by Building Experts—Their Report—The Building to be placed in a Satisfactory Condition.

As stated last week, the Council had decided to procure an examination of Bradburn's Hall by Messrs. Langley and Wagner, of Toronto, in order to ascertain all doubts as to its condition. These gentlemen reported on Tuesday, and at a special meeting of the Council held last Thursday evening, the report was read as follows :—

THE REPORT.

TORONTO, March 10, 1880.

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough :—

GENTLEMEN,—We, the undersigned, having at your requests, on 8th instant, examined the Opera House block in your town, beg leave to report as follows :—

THE WALLS AND PARTITIONS.—The North, South, and West external walls from the foundation to the roof we found to be in good condition, with the exception of a slight settlement at the north haunch of the north arch, heading into the arcade. This we found to be caused by the iron pillar carrying that side of the arch not having a full bearing on the foundation. This, however, is a very insignificant settlement. A bulge on the upper part of the south wall is also apparent, but it evidently has not occurred since the wall was finished, and it in no way affects the strength of the structure. The rear or party wall, which is carried on brick piers and iron columns, we found to be cracked right up of the columns. These cracks we consider to be caused by the weight being concentrated on the narrow bases afforded by the iron columns. We also found one of the brick piers split vertically. We do not consider the cracks over the iron columns as serious, but in our opinion the brick pier should receive early attention. All the internal walls remain from east to west, as well as the vaults, we found to be sprung in their whole height, evidently caused by the subsidence of the piers. Since the last flood, caused by water lying about the foundation, the joints of the masonry in the basement is showing signs of both. The construction of the floors and of the partition walls, the tie between these and the external walls is entirely broken, which in our opinion ought at once to be remedied as far as possible by means of anchors and iron straps.

THE FLOORS.—We found the floors on the various flats to be strong and in good condition.

THE ROOF.—The roof we examined with especial care, and in our opinion it is in a decidedly unsafe condition, the whole of the principal bearing of very faulty and weak construction, especially when they have to carry the concentrated weight of the snow lying upon the flat roof, and weights. The original principals have sagged most inches, showing some of the timber to be sprung, while [illegible] which are made up of several thicknesses in the solid, placed in the height, have drawn apart at the joints. The tendency of this is to push out the front wall. Apparently a recent attempt has been made to strengthen the roof by means of extra trusses placed alongside the old ones, but in the way they are constructed we do not consider they are of any great help. In our judgement the whole of the roof over the hall requires [illegible] re-trussing of the very strongest description.

THE MEANS OF EXIT.—Although not coming, strictly speaking, within the scope of this examination and report, we feel it but just to express to your Council, as the guardians of the public safety, our opinion as to the adequacy of the means of exit from so large a hall. We consider the arrangement of steps to the arcade extremely [illegible] capacity insufficient, the effect of which would be in case of a serious panic, that the crowd would be forced together on the small landing, and in all probability lives would be lost. There is another danger in case of fire occurring in the offices on either side of the corridors on the first floor, which fronts the town, the [illegible] of the egress from the upper to the lower floors. This is a point which we consider also dangerous in [illegible] attention.

We are, gentlemen, yours truly,

HENRY LANGLEY, Architect.
J. P. WAGNER, Builder.

There was also enclosed an account for the construction and report :—

H. Langley's fee	$20 00
J. P. Wagner's fee	10 00
Travelling expenses	10 00

Messrs. Langley and Wagner were then called in, and on motion of Coun. McNaughton,—"That the report of Messrs. Langley and Wagner be referred to a special committee with instructions to consider and determine what course should be adopted, and with power to take legal advice. Carried. The committee of Messrs. Cahill, Beresford, Dumphe, Toole, Deane, Smith and the Mayor—they to have power to take such action as they may consider advisable.

The Council then adjourned.

The Committee held a consultation with Mr. Bradburn on Friday morning, the effect of which they subsequently introduced to the following report :—

The Committee to whom the report of Messrs. Langley and Wagner was referred met at the Council Chamber on Friday morning with Mr. Bradburn present, and Mr. W. Lee, the builder, the former agreed to the necessary alterations in the staircase leading to the second flat of the building, and to the erection of a fire wall, as recommended by the engineers, to divide the building into two parts, and to have the same carried up through the roof, and that they never had any intention to [illegible] the building in any way, but were willing to [illegible] on the contrary they have [illegible] with the intention of the Council in [illegible] the requirements required by the engineers, and safety of the building, they [illegible] and [illegible] to the Council that the [illegible] of these [illegible]

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Fourth Parliament—Second Session.

Last Week's Proceedings—The Budget Speech—Vigorous Reply by Mr. R. J. Cartwright—The Hog Ruby Made a Footer Forest—Sir S. L. Tilley's Scheme for Making Money.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

OTTAWA, Monday, March 8.

On the Speaker taking the chair, Mr. De Cosmos introduced a petition praying for restriction on Mongolian immigration.

The Act to incorporate the Baptist Church of Canada, by Mr. Mackenzie, was read a third time and passed.

Sir John Macdonald said the Government had no intention of establishing Government life insurance this session.

Discussion arose on a question by Mr. Blake in reference to removal appointments to the Bench in the Counties of Leeds and Glengarry. The Government denied that such appointments were contemplated.

A motion by Mr. Mills for a statement of the cost of the Senate was carried.

On motion of Mr. Haggart the Credit Valley Railway petition was referred to the Committee on Railways.

A lively breeze sprung up upon Mr. Trow's motion for statement in detail of all immigration pamphlets, which placed Mr. Pope, Minister of Agriculture, in a very ridiculous position.

Mr. Blake said he had seen a pamphlet, 5,000 copies of which he believed had been issued by the Government. It was designed to increase immigration to the North-West. It contained a flaming advertisement of lands for sale in Minnesota and Nebraska. It did not strike him as being a judicious thing to to send out 5,000 of these pamphlets to increase immigration to the North-West. But perhaps it was.

Mr. Pope—Suppose I had gone through every line of the pamphlet, and then the man who wrote it went and got this advertisement himself—what ground of complaint is there in that?

Mr. Blake—Should not buy them for distribution in that case. (Laughter.)

Mr. Pope—Perhaps I should not have bought them for distribution either.

Mr. Blake—If you had known enough, perhaps not. (Renewed laughter.)

Mr. Pope said there was a pamphlet circulated by the thousand a short time ago, written by the hon. member for South Perth (Mr. Trow), and for which he had received money.

Mr. Trow—Did I understand the hon. gentleman to say that I pocketed money for that pamphlet? I say here I spent $2,000 travelling in the North-West, and I defy any person to show that I received a cent for it.

Mr. Pope—Amend your motion and we will show whether you did or not.

Mr. Trow—The hon. gentleman may amend the motion in any way he chooses, and if it is shown that I am wrong I will pay $2,000 to the poor of this city. (Cheers.) I did not ask a cent, and would not have taken it had it been offered. (Renewed Cheering.)

Mr Pope—The hon. gentleman could not put up his money. I will take his word for it. (Laughter.)

Mr. Oliver moved for correspondence relative to the carrying of the mails between Evelyn post-office and the city of London. He stated that Mr. Burns tendered for this contract, and received an answer that the contract had been awarded to him, but was afterwards advised that the Postmaster-General had been pleased to cancel his tender. Mr. Burns had been employed for seven years as postmaster and carrier of mails, and had performed his duties well, but he was an out-and-out Reformer (Cheers), and he (Mr. Oliver) was confident it was for this reason that Mr. Burns' tender had not been confirmed. If this plan was to be carried out by the Government the sooner the country knew of it the better, as Reformers might save themselves the trouble of tendering for any such work, knowing that no contract would ever be awarded them. He would be glad if the Postmaster-General would tell him the reason of this case in his Department.

Mr. O'Connor replied that the matter was now being investigated by the Post Office Inspector of the district. The report of that officer not being received yet, he (Mr. O'Connor) would oppose the motion. (Oh! Oh!)

Mr. Mackenzie—Does the hon. gentleman mean to say he refuses to produce these papers?

Mr. O'Connor—The papers are not all in yet, and we cannot produce them until they are received.

Mr. Mackenzie—The Inspector's report is not yet in, but that cannot change the papers. He may offer his opinion upon them, but I will not change them in the least. If the Government does refuse to produce these documents, it will be the first case of the kind in the history of this House. (Hear, hear.)

After passing some miscellaneous returns the House adjourned.

TUESDAY, March 9.

After routine,

Sir L. Tilley said last year he had to point to a deficit, and to draw an unpleasing comparison between the years 1878-79 so far as trade was concerned. The Ministry had to provide for an increased expenditure subsequently, partly on account of the engagements of their predecessors, and partly on account of their own, of some $300,000 on account of public debt. Large railway expenditure had also been made a necessity, and so, if all things in connection with the Government was considered, it would be found that the deficiency of last year would have been less, had it not been for charges which were unavoidable. The Government had to face a deficit of more than $3,000,000. The revenue and expenditure for the present year was estimated, from customs, at $14,000,000. The General receipts up to March, 1880, were $450,000 more than during the same period of 1878, thus shewing that the goods in the country were becoming exhausted. The excise receipts were estimated at $4,200,000, to which should be added $300,000 collected last year. Other receipts brought up the total to $24,420,000, and it had been estimated at $23,267,263. The supplementary estimates were overrun by $300,000. Having referred to certain points in connection with last year's outlay, Sir Leonard Tilley said he estimated next year's custom receipts at $25,517,000. The Government would propose to increase the issue of Dominion notes from $13,000,000 to $20,000,000, with guaranteed security of 15 per cent. in gold and 10 per cent. on other securities. This would to some extent prevent the necessity of borrowing. The hon. gentleman then proceeded to expose the errors of them who had addressed arguments against the National Policy generally. He argued that notwithstanding sentiments, the policy had produced benefits to the country at large which were growing in an unprecedented degree. The changes proposed in the tariff were not very important, and were rather to remove difficulties in working. There had been necessarily a good deal of friction. Dutiables fell, the same on empty, bagatelle boards as furniture, 30 per cent.; billiard tables and pianos, 15 per cent.; bird cages, all kinds, 30 per cent.; shoemaker's ink, 25 per cent.; books 15 per cent, including British copyright books; blacks boots, 30 per cent.; cheroots, 25 per cent., hones, carpenters, 25 per cent., cans containing fish under Washington Treaty, 1½ cents per quart, same as American duty, China and porcelain, 25 per cent, combs, all kinds, 25 per cent., corpus, 30 per cent., fishing rods 30 per cent., fine proof paint, 4 cents per pound, flag cloths, $1.50 per ton, mattresses, 25 p. c., bottles and decanters, 30 p. c., silver plate plush, 30 p. c., gloves and mitts, 25 p. c., wrought iron, 15 p. c., chain, blocks, etc., 10 p. c., Russian for manufacturing, 25 p. c., cotton of unit, 25 p. c., salt food, 30 p. c., table oil cloths, 30 p. c., cabinet organs, 25 p. c., paper, raised, 30 p. c., cottons and prints, all kinds, 30 p. c., quilts-cloth, 30 p. c., and spun silk, 15 p. c., steel, free till 1882, stones, 15 p. c., grind stones, $2 per ton, export duty to be included in value for duty of sugar, fine hyloom, except for fishery, 30 p. c., cigars and cigarettes, 60 p. c., watch movements, 20 p. c., coins and watches, 30 p. c., coal, 60 cents per chaldron, 20 p. c., wool, 3 cents per pound, increase to manufactured rubbers, $30, of foreign tobacco, $30, to manufacture coins in bond, $300. On manufactured tobacco and snuff of all kinds per pound, 20c., on cigars, 40c., same made from Canadian tobacco, 20 p. c.

Free list—Ammonia, bismuth, machinery for cotton and worsted mills free till 1st Oct. 1880, water color painting, newspapers by mail, woollen goods not elsewhere specified.

Sir Richard Cartwright criticised at considerable length the Finance Minister's statement. He agreed with him that time was necessary for the full development of the tendencies of the tariff, but maintained that those tendencies would prove hideously mischievous instead of beneficial. He repudiated the charge that the late Government was accountable for the alleged deficit of 1878-79, and pointed out the dangerous ground taken by Sir Leonard Tilley in his arguments from favouring deficits such as he might himself have to encounter for years to come. The "heavy engagements" the Finance Minister complained of, his own Government was entirely responsible for, and they were now reaping the fruit of their own sowing. He proceeded to analyze the Estimates for 1880-81, comparing them with those of 1878-79, and pointing out the increase in the various items. After a treatment comparison of the various English loans he ridiculed Mr. Tilley on the confusion into which he fell with respect to the calculation of interest and his explanation about other wrong estimates. He cited what he regarded as the true causes of returning prosperity, ridiculed the absurd doctrine that a diminution of imports was a sign of prosperity, and quoted from a former Budget speech of Mr. Tilley's to show that he once held sounder views on this point. He discussed at some length the incidence of the tariff and its injustice to the poorer classes, and commented with caustic raillery on the Finance Minister's late "progress" from place to place in search of the "hon."

Sir Chas. Tupper followed with a great personal attack on Hon. Mr. Cartwright.

Mr. Mackenzie rose to address the House shortly after midnight. He rebuked the Minister of Railways for his abusive attack upon the ex-Minister of Finance, saying it was more creditable for Sir Richard Cartwright to have left the Conservatives in favor of the Liberal party than Sir Charles Tupper, who was formerly leader of the Liberal party in Nova Scotia, to have gone from light into darkness. After replying to several features of Sir Chas. Tupper's speech, he dwelt on the proposition to increase by several million dollars the issue of Dominion notes, and he commented on the meagre information respecting the scheme which had been revealed to Parliament. In his opinion the natural result of protection was to injure the country generally. A striking proof of its already baneful effects was the gloomy financial statement of the Finance Minister that there was a deficit of about two million dollars. Notwithstanding the series of accidents which had occurred during the past eighteen months, he believed the people as a whole would pronounce in favor of the Opposition if the opportunity were afforded them. The Minister of Railways in his speech claimed that the price of sugar in Canada was lower than in the United States, but he challenged him to make a comparison of the quotations in the New York and Canadian journals.

WEDNESDAY, March 10.

A motion passed empowering the Joint Printing Committee to take evidence on oath in the "Printing Scandal" investigation.

Petitions from several railway corporations were received protesting against the establishment of a Railway Commission.

An important announcement by Sir Leonard Tilley, in a reply to a question by Mr. Farrow, was that arrangements were being made for the issue of $100,000 in silver coinage of five and 10 cent denominations. The proportion of twenty-five cents in fractional currency now in circulation amounts to $116,940 in the hands of the Receiver, General $43,091, and in the vaults $172,500.

After recess, several private Bills were advanced a stage.

Mr. Haggart moved the second reading of the Bill relating to the Credit Valley Railway Company. Messrs. Hector Cameron and Caron addressed the House against the spirit of the Bill, while Messrs. Oliver, Macdougall, and Holton spoke in favor of referring the Bill to the Committee on Railways and Canals. Mr. Boulton, the member for East York, somewhat astonished the House by throwing cold water on his constituents, especially those of Don Mount, to whose votes he particularly owes his election. Sir John Macdonald claimed that in the Committee on Railways all objection to the measure should be taken, and not on the second reading. The Bill was read.

The House went into Committee on the Bill to legalize marriage with a deceased wife's sister, and on motion of Mr. Mills the proviso was expunged, and the words "that such marriage shall be legal," retained. A further amendment was offered by Mr. Girouard (Jacques Cartier) making the operation of the Bill retrocective in certain cases under specified conditions, but providing the injection shall not be done to the children who may have previously acquired property by virtue of their being the issue of the first marriage. The amendments were adopted in Committee, but the consideration by the House postponed for a week to enable the Bill to be printed, and those opposed to the change in the law an opportunity of expressing that opposition.

The House adjourned at 10.25 p.m.

THURSDAY, March 11th.

Mr. Kirkpatrick moved the adoption of the report of the committee on Public Accounts with reference to the auditing of the accounts of the House of Commons and the Senate, also that the Senate should be asked to allow their accountant to appear before the committee with a statement of salaries, contingencies, etc., of that body.

Sir John Macdonald asked that the latter part of the report should be allowed to stand. The Senate appeared disposed to object to the appearance of their officer before a committee of the House, because such action seemed to question their honesty.

The first part of the report was adopted, and the Senate accounts' clause reserved.

Mr. Caron asked whether it was the intention of the Government to allow a larger number of the active militia to drill this year, and whether they will increase the number of days for the annual drill.

Hon. Mr Masson said that 20,000 troops would be drilled for 12 days, as last year.

Mr. Caron asked whether it is the intention of the Government to hold a review of all the troops that can be assembled at Quebec to celebrate the Queen's Birthday on the 24th May next, and allow all that can attend pay and transport, as in 1878 and 1879.

Hon. Mr. Masson said that it was the intention to hold a review. It was not known how many troops would be present, and the allowance for pay and transport would be the same as at Toronto and Montreal.

The House went into committee on Mr. McCarthy's Bill to amend the Act to provide that persons charged with common assault shall be competent as witnesses.

The Bill was amended by making it apply to cases of assault and battery, and was then reported.

Mr. Girouard's Bill to regulate stock-brokers and suppress gambling in stock, received its second reading.

Mr. White (Hastings) moved the second reading of his Bill to amend the Act respecting Joint Stock Companies to construct works to facilitate the transmission of timber down rivers and streams.

The Bill passed through committee, and

HOUSE OF COMMONS, March 12.

After the introduction of a number of Private Bills, Mr. Bplton resumed the debate on the Budget, after which Mr. G. W. Ross, of Middlesex, took the floor, and continued the debate till the House adjourned at 11.10.

The Most Valuable Gift—Restoration of Lost Health.

During the past ten years the Great Shoshonee Remedy has faithfully redeemed every promise and guarantee made to the public. Alarming and apparently hopeless cases of Lung disease, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Affection of the Kidneys and Chronic Complaints of every description, including Scrofula and Skin Diseases of life-long duration, have been permanently removed and eradicated. Those who volunteered their testimony to the efficacy of the Remedy are not beggar people in search of Notoriety in foreign localities, but responsible citizens of this country, easy of access and open to questions upon whose verbal representations we are willing to rest the reputation of the Great Shoshonee Remedy. If you are afflicted, do not delay until medicine may be powerless to aid you. No injurious effects can possibly follow the use of these Indian Remedies, as they contain no minerals, by which the fate of the invalid is so often sealed under the form of some temporary sedative or stimulant. These Indian Remedies are widely known and still possess the public confidence, after the lapse of sufficient time to test their efficacy.

The Shoshonee Vegetable Sugar Coated Pills have won for themselves the most favorable reputation of any pill before the public. Their efficacy has been fully proved as a remedy for biliousness, Sick Headache and inactivation of the stomach. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles, $1; Pills, 25 cents a box. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Mitchell's Hollandsea Improved Pubic Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Oilbanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricty, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one of the greatest healing medicines ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plaster they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are more of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TIC DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS, PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST; and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long-seated Consumption.
